POISONED

Ball Creek Spring in Kentucky Poisoned With Terribly Fatal Results.

Five People Already Dead and Five Others Expected to Die.

Omaha Is Likely to Have Trouble at the Mayoralty Inauguration.

Louisville, Ky., May 8.—A special to the Post from Pikeville, Ky., says: Some fiend put poison of some kind in Ball Creek spring, several miles above here, and as a result five persons died and five more are dying from drinking water from the spring. There is no clue to the scoundrel.

Ambrose Free's son, a boy farm hand, and a peddler named Moss; Annie Low, a mere child, and an old colored man, are the victims who are dead. They suffered terribly, vomiting and being seized with most violent convulsions.

OMAHA'S TROUBLES.

New Mayor Will Meet Decided Opposition.

Omaha, Neb., May 8.—Trouble is looked for Monday over the office of mayor in Omaha. On April 20 an election was had under the new charter passed by the late legislature, and Col. Moores, Republican, was elected. W. J. Broatch, Republican and present incumbent, has made up his mind that he will not relinquish the office. Monday is the time fixed by law for the new mayor to take his office, but Broatch has declared that he will prevent this. In his official capacity Broatch is head of the police force, and he will secure the police to aid him in his plans. Col. Moores' plans are not made public.

SOLEMN SERVICE.

Requiem Mass For the Paris Fire Victims.

Paris, May 8.—A requiem mass for the repose of the souls of the victims of the recent fire at the charity bazar was celebrated at noon today in the Cathedral of Notre Dame. The interior of the building was heavily draped with black relieved by silver embroideries and the main doorway was draped with a huge pall spangled with silver, edged with ermine and raised on either side by silver loops. Above the door were escutcheons with the initials "R. F." (Republique Francaise.) At an early hour the square in front of the cathedral was densely packed with people. An imposing catafalque, covered with flowers and erected in front of the choir, contained the remains of the Comtesse De Jallin and Madame Jallan.

Conspicuous among the floral tributes were magnificent wreaths sent by the emperor and empress of Germany and the Russian colony of Paris. President Faure occupied a raised platform at the left of the chair and behind him were ranged the families of the victims, the members of the government, diplomatic corps and other notabilities. Monsignor De Lescaille officiated at the mass and Father Ollivier preached the sermon, taking for his text the words: "Blessed are they who have passed from life doing good." A majority of the large stores of Paris were closed during the religious service at Notre Dame.

WHERE IS HOOVER?.

Supposed to Have Been Killed By the Indians.

Miles City, Mont., May 8.—Upper Tongue river settlers are greatly excited over the disappearance of a young man named Hoover, who has been working on Barringer's sheep ranch. Large parties have been hunting him for a week. They found dead sheep with bullet holes through the carcasses and Indian tracks. The supposition is that he was killed by Indians, who have been dancing all winter and threatening what they would do when the grass was green. If this proves true trouble is expected, as the settlers will suffer loss of stock in silence, but will not countenance murder, and this may at last bring a solution of the Cheyenne question.

BANK PRESIDENT SUICIDES.

Richmond, Va., May 8.—N. W. Nelson, president of the Metropolitan bank of Richmond, was found dead in his bath room this morning with the gas turned on. He had been a great sufferer for some time, and it is believed ended his life to get rid of his pain. Mr. Nelson was 77 years old.

W. C. T. U. Convention.

The district county convention of the W. C. T. U. will be held next Wednesday in the First Presbyterian church parlors. At 9:30 there will be district reports; at 10:15 county reports; at 10:45 the district election, and at 11 o'clock the county election. In the afternoon, at 2 o'clock, the unions will report. Mrs. H. M. Backus will sing a solo. "Scientific Motherhood" will be discussed under the following heads: "In the Home," Mrs. Swan; "In the Church," Mrs. Bragg; "In the State," Dr. Mary McCoy.

SOCIAL SCIENCE KANSASITES.

Hutchinson, Kan., May 8.—The Kansas Social Science Federation has selected the following named delegates to the national biennial federation convention: Mrs. W. L. Moore, Hutchinson; Mrs. Toler, Wichita; Mrs. Byington, Leavenworth; Mrs. Waterman Stone, Lawrence.

MORE PLUMS EXPECTED.

Minnesota Members' Eyes Fixed on the President.

Washington, May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota appointments made by President McKinley last Wednesday lead the members of the delegation to believe that something better will be forthcoming next week. It is expected that several good consulships will be given to Minnesota patriots, and John Goodnow is said to be slated for the best one.

Representative Morris had intended to spend next week at his old home in Lynchburg, but will now remain in Washington to do all he can to secure consideration of the bankruptcy bill in the house.

ST. LOUIS TURNFEST.

Rain Interferes With the Program of Sports.

St. Louis, May 8.—Owing to the delay experienced yesterday in the program of the national turnfest the fest judges met last night and decided on several changes in today's exercises. Plans were further disarranged this morning by a rain which began falling about 7 o'clock and continued for some time. This, however, did not interfere materially with the individual contests, which were held in the various booths and buildings with which the fair grounds abound, but the field exercises, left unfinished from yesterday could not be continued until the grounds had dried up somewhat. There were still fifty-nine societies, whose members had not taken part in the 100-yard foot races. If these cannot be run off the whole affair will be called off. Six societies were yet to go through the high jumping contests.

The rehearsal of mass exercises with wands, which was curtailed by the committee of judges, had to be done away with entirely on account of the wet grounds. In one of the largest buildings on the grounds the fencing with foils and sabres was carried out according to program. There were thirty contestants with the foils and eight with sabres. The other individual contests, for the all-around prizes, the exercises on the horse, horizontal and parallel bars, were held within doors. At 9 o'clock the rain had let up and the individual competitions in bar jumping, pole vaulting and hand climbing were pulled off between the showers.

The computation committee is making slow headway in working out the results of the contests. The fact that the awards will not be officially announced until Sunday night is giving rise to considerable gossip as to the probable winners.

MORRIS PARK RACES.

Good List of Starters in All the Events.

New York, May 8.—This is a perfect day for the opening of the racing season at Morris Park. All the handicap candidates were out at exercise this morning and barring a few colds they are in fit shape, a great contrast to the catarrhal goldmine which crippled so many last season. The distance this year is only 1 mile, a wise move, as the weather is still too cold to start the handicap cracks on a longer journey.

Fourteen probable starters were announced by the secretary last night, but of these three are likely to be scratched, leaving eleven starters for the $5000 prize. Hastings is overweight and favorite, with Tarai up. Judgment is based on his last year form, as he has not been to the post this year. Some of the other starters are Belmar, with Sloane up, for Fleishmann; Pedro, Hable; M. Caffrey, riding Gotham; First Mate or Semper Ego, piloted by Scheerer for Brantley and company; and Simon Ben Edar for Mike Dwyer.

The other races have filled well and the juvenile stakes of $5000 has a good list of entries of blueblooded youngsters.

MORE PARIS VICTIMS.

London, May 8.—A special dispatch from Paris says that Mesdames Suz and Vlastoc, who were among the persons injured in the fire on Tuesday last at the charity bazar, in the Rue Jean Goujon, expired this morning.

The Volksfreund's Debts.

In the matter of the assignment of the Volksfreund Publishing company, the assignee this morning filed a statement showing that the company has debts amounting to $2250.

Judge Ensign has filed an order allowing Mr. and Mrs. Theodore H. Williams to adopt Ethel Louise Helms, an orphan.

WINDING HAWK'S MONEY.

A searching party will leave Deadwood some time this month to look for the grave of Winding Hawk, a Sioux chief who died in 1854 and was buried with $50,000 in gold by his side. Repeated attempts have been made by prospectors during the last few years to locate the old warrior's resting place, but thus far without success, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The plans of the party now forming, the exact date on which it will leave Deadwood, and the information on which its hope is based are being kept secret. That the explorers have better reason than any who have preceded them for thinking they will succeed in their enterprise is, however, confidently asserted.

According to the story as told in the Black Hills, Winding Hawk's stamping ground for several years prior to his death was in the country surrounding the present site of Fort Laramie. Some time before he died he and a number of comrades are said to have "held up" a government annuity ambulance in which was $50,000 in currency and a like amount in gold. The Indians were all familiar with the value of the currency, and divided it equally between them. Winding Hawk, so the story goes, convinced them that the coin was practically worthless. Still he admitted that the gold pieces were pretty trinkets, and offered to take the lot in lieu of his share of the currency. The other members of the party granted his request, and the old chief carried the treasure away to his tepee. He died soon afterward, and, in accordance with the usual custom, was buried with his favorite pony, his finest bow and arrows, and his new trinkets.

The old warriors who accompanied him in the raid on the ambulance subsequently came to know the value of their friend's share of the plunder, but the Indian superstition that to violate the grave of a fellow member of the tribe brings ill-fortune prevented any attempt being made to recover the treasure. Several times members of the party have been prevailed on to agree to guide prospecting parties to the chief's grave, on the supposition that by permitting the white men to disinter the money the latter would themselves assume the responsibility of violating the grave. At the last moment, however, their courage has invariably given out, and the searchers have been compelled to give up the undertaking.

OCCUPIED

Volo Is Now In Possession of Edhem Pasha's Victorious Troops.

Foreign Consuls Are There For a Conference With Edhem Pasha.

Greece's Shattered Army Is Making a Last Stand Near Domokos.

Velestino, May 8.—Detachments of marines have landed at Volo from the British, Russian, French, Austrian and German warships off that place to guard the town.

The foreign consuls have arrived to confer with Edhem Pasha, the Turkish commander.

As this dispatch is being sent the Turkish troops are entering Volo.

The Greeks who fled to Almyros will rejoin the main body of the Greek forces at Domokos.

NO DIFFERENCES.

Greece's Cabinet Members Declared to Be in Harmony.

Athens, May 8.—The minister for foreign affairs, M. Skouloudis, in an interview, is given as saying that the powers have not yet taken steps to communicate with the Greek ministry on the subject of intervention, although he understood the powers were discussing some form of intervention. Whether it would be direct intervention or simply mediation M. Skouloudis could not say.

The foreign minister also said that he knew nothing concerning the report that Volo was to be declared a neutral port, but, he added, if the Turks commit excesses in that town Greece will take the measures demanded by the situation. In conclusion, M. Skouloudis remarked: "The report that dissensions exist among the ministers is absolutely false. We are ready to accomplish the heavy task we have undertaken, and we cannot quit our posts without falling in our duty."

The foreign legion took part in the fighting at Pharsala. An Englishman and two Italian officers were killed.

A dispatch from Arta says that Fuad Bey, the Turkish commander, through the Greek priest at Arta, has issued a proclamation to the Christian population ordering them to lay down their arms, as otherwise their villages will be burned. The environs of Kanja, in Turkish territory, are burning.

BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY.

Senator Keller Discourses Upon His Present Hobby.

Senator Henry Keller of Sauk Center, was in Duluth today on his way to Swan River to purchase a lot of timber, and incidentally to interest the people of Duluth and vicinity in beet sugar industry. On this latter subject the senator is always ready to talk, and he has so far talked to good purpose for he has succeeded in organizing a company that will build a beet sugar mill at Minneapolis and have it ready to grind up 150 tons of beets a day by Sept. 1 next.

Now that the mill is an established fact Senator Keller and his associates are turning their attention to the farmers who must be relied upon to keep the mill supplied with beets. Through his efforts the legislature authorized the purchase of $5000 worth of sugar beet seed in Germany of the most approved variety. This seed will arrive in St. Paul for distribution among those who will see that it is planted next Wednesday. It will be sold at 12½ cents a pound and it will require about eight pounds to the acre. The mill will use the product of about 3000 acres this year if it can be procured, which with an average crop will amount to 60,000 tons or twenty tons to the acre. The cost of raising an acre of beets is about $25 and the product of the required quality is worth $5 a ton, which gives a net profit, less the cost of transporting it to the mill of $75 to the acre. Senator Keller says that the railroads are offering every inducement to farmers to plant beets, agreeing to haul them to the mill at not to exceed 75 cents a ton and possibly as low as 50 cents. They will carry the seed free.

The soil about Duluth Senator Keller says is specially adapted to sugar beet culture and he says it will prove very successful here. He advises that an organization of business men and others interested be effected here immediately, a fund raised to purchase the necessary seed and place it in the hands of intelligent farmers who should be educated as to the best method of using it. As an auxiliary to the beet sugar business Senator Keller proposes that potato whisky distilleries be built to take care of potatoes that can be raised on light sandy soil that is not suitable for beets. With these two industries once fairly established in Minnesota the senator thinks that the fortunes of farmers will be made. He says that as soon as capitalists can be assured that beets and potatoes will be raised in sufficient quantities by the farmers capital in unlimited quantities can be readily obtained to build the factories.

HOOSIER SCHOOLMASTER DYING.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 8—James Phillips, has been stricken with paralysis at his home in Vevay. As he is 76 years of age, it is not expected that he will recover. He was the "Jeemes Phillips" in Edward Eggleston's famous work, called the "Hoosier Schoolmaster." It has been said that his was the only character in the book drawn from life.

NOT SO SENSATIONAL.

A Greatly Overdrawn Newspaper Dispatch From Fargo.

The Minneapolis Journal of last evening contained a sensational dispatch from Fargo in reference to C. C. Ames, of this city, of the firm of Ames & Lockman, grain commission dealers. The dispatch stated that Mr. Ames was reported in Fargo to have disappeared and his office accounts did not balance by $10,000 with liabilities of several thousands more.

The dispatch created great surprise here and no one credited it. An investigation proved its incorrectness. In the first place Mr. Ames has not disappeared. He went to Minneapolis about two weeks ago in reference to his business affairs, which are admitted to be in an embarrassed condition and is now ill at the home of his cousin.

The embarrassment of the firm rose form a cause over which Mr. Ames really had no control. It will be remembered that a man named Knowlson forged several bills of lading for cars of wheat in North Dakota and victimized several Duluth grain firms. Ames & Lockman were caught for $2500, the heaviest loss sustained by any Duluth firm. The firm although not a strong one was doing a good business, but this loss crippled it. Lawyers have given the opinion that the firm has an excellent case against the Dakota banks, but the losses have had to be carried in the meantime. Mr. Ames at once endeavored to interest new capital and strengthen the firm. H. E. Sax of Edgely, N. D., agreed to put in $4500 on Jan. 1, but failed to do so. This caused a still further embarrassment, for he was counted upon to do this.

Mr. Ames has been greatly worried for several months over the matter, being naturally rather nervous, was made much more so by his business troubles. About two weeks ago he went to Minneapolis to raise money for the firm, and while there collapsed. He is confined to his cousin's home, but is not seriously ill. His family have heard from him.

A lawyer, named Davis, of Edgely, N. D., was here several days this week, looking into the business for some parties who are thinking of going into it. Whether they will or not remains to be determined.

In any event it can be nothing more than an ordinary business failure. The pressing liability is the $2500, which was raised to cover the loss through the forgery. The total liabilities of the firm, according to Albert S. Ames, son of C. C. Ames, are about $5000.

On the board of trade today nothing but words of the most kindly good will and sympathy for Mr. Ames could be heard. He is very popular, a remarkably pleasant and generous man, and not one of his business associates can be made to believe that his conduct has been anything but the most upright. The hope was generally expressed that he would be able to extricate his business affairs from their embarrassed condition and continue.

The dispatch also stated that Lockman, the Dakota partner, will be ruined if Mr. Ames does not turn up. This, too, is said to be exaggerated. If the firm were to close up, his share of the loss would not be over $2500 and mercantile agencies have quoted him as having property valued at about $20,000, so that he would hardly be ruined.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Prices Moved Upward a Trifle at the Opening.

New York, May 8.—Lower prices from London were ignored in the initial trading on the stock exchange, and prices moved up a fraction generally on purchases for both accounts. Consolidated Gas fell off ¾ on realizing sales. Omaha was notably firm and gained an extreme of ⅝ per cent. The bears made a determined attempt to check the improving tendency of the market, and by concentrating their efforts against the specialties succeeded in effecting declines of about a point in Sugar, Chicago Gas, New Jersey Central and Western Union. The general railway list was well supported and receded only a mere fraction. Business was more brisk than usual for a half holiday, but no trace of outside interest was evident, the dealings being confined to the board room traders.

Supporting orders were executed in various stocks which were effective in checking the selling movement and establishing in the closing hour a higher range of values on covering by the shorts over Sunday. The recoveries were only partial, aside from the grangers, which sold at the top prices. The market was rather unsettled at the rally, but closed fairly steady with the net variations in most cases narrow. Total sales of stock, 72,000 shares.

ORDERED TO APPEAR.

M. O. Hall is Required to Make a Disclosure.

The case of the Commercial Bank of St. Paul and its $2000 judgment against M. O. Hall came up again in district court this morning. Some time ago Hall was ordered to appear before a referee and disclose as to his property. He did so, but on the advice of his attorney, J. H. Norton, he refused to answer the questions put to him. The matter came up before Judge Ensign this morning for the purpose of determining what should be the next step. G. L. Spangler, attorney for the bank, wanted to have Mr. Hall arrested for contempt, but the court refused to do that.

Judge Ensign roasted the defendant and his attorney mildly for their disrespect to the court's representative, and he blamed the plaintiff's attorney for not immediately reporting the facts to him. Finally M. O. Hall was ordered to appear before W. C. McAdam, court commissioner, two weeks from today, and make a disclosure as to his property.

CHICAGO CAPITALIST SUICIDES.

Chicago, May 8.—E. Kellogg Beach, a retired capitalist, committed suicide today in the bath room at his home, 510 North State street, by shooting himself in the mouth. Despondency over ill health is supposed to have been the cause. Mr. Beach was a graduate of West Point. His fortune is estimated at about $1,500,000.

DOWNED

Knock-out Blow Given to the Millworkers' Strike at Cleveland.

Judge Sage Allowed the Temporary Injunction Against Strikers to Stand.

Held That Strikers Were Ruling Spirits in Acts of Violence.

Cleveland, May 8.—A knock-out blow to the strikers of the Consolidated Steel company was delivered by Judge Sage of the United States circuit court this morning. He allowed the temporary injunction against them to stand at the conclusion of an exhaustive opinion. Judge Sage maintained that the proof was conclusive that violence had been done the men in the employ of the company. He held that if the strikers were not actually engaged in violent acts, they were at least the ruling spirits of them.

Furthermore he held that the Rod Mill Workers' union was the fountain-head of the trouble, and that it was clear that the strikers had interfered with the lawful [illegible] and [illegible] to call attention to the fact that since the temporary injunction was granted, the company had not been molested. During the reading of the opinion the court room was crowded with attorneys, manufacturers and strikers.

MARINE MATTERS.

Prospect of Ore Cargoes Still Continues Poor.

Cleveland, May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The volume of ore sales is not what was expected. The Carnegie company has again put off buying old range ores that it will need, and it is said the purchases of the Illinois Steel company thus far have been confined to Mesaba ores and the amount it usually moves through Escanaba.

TO REPAIR THE MOWATT.

Houghton, Mich., May 8.—When the steamer Arnold burned near the entrance of Portage Lake canal last fall she had in tow the schooner James Mowatt. The Mowatt was laid up in the canal for the winter with her load of lumber. In starting for Buffalo Wednesday in tow of the tug Valere she struck a pier in the canal and the bow was badly damaged. Repairs are now being made at Cross' shipyard and she will probably get away Monday.

STEEL SCHOONER LAUNCHED.

Cleveland, May 8.—The steel schooner Antrim, now building at the yard of the Globe Iron Works company, was launched today in the presence of a large crowd. The new boat, which will trade between Lake Erie and Lake Superior ports, will be completed and ready for business in about three weeks. She will be operated by the American Transportation company.

LONDON

Big City's Social Swim Agitated by Five Approaching Balls.

London Liberality Evidenced By Contributions to Relief Funds.

Transvaal Matters and Gossip of Stage and other Prominent Matters.

London, May 8.—(Copyright, 1897, by the Associated Press.)—Although the town is full and summer clubs, like the Hurlingham and Ranelagh, are open, outdoor gaieties hang fire. The ladies are still wearing their furs, and overcoats are quite comfortable. Society is already on the qui vive in anticipation of the five fancy dress balls to be given by prominent hostesses. They promise a commotion approaching the Bradley-Martin ball. A feature of the duchess of Devonshire's ball will be an Oriental quadrille, with Lady De Gray as Cleopatra, and Lady Dudley in a Bryzantine costume. Mrs. Arthur Paget, Lady Colbrooke and Mrs. Muriel Wilson will give the second ball at Holland house. The guests will appear in the costumes of their ancestors as painted by Gainesborough and Reynolds. At Mrs. Cavendish Benedict's ball, the costumes worn will be similar to those which were the fashion at the beginning of the reign of Queen Victoria. Lady Naylor-Leyland, formerly Miss Jane Chamberlain, of Cleveland, Ohio, will also give a costume ball.

The queen did a graceful thing on Thursday and delighted Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone by summoning their granddaughter, Dorothy Drew, to Windsor castle. Her majesty was anxious to see the child who has figured so prominently in Mr. Gladstone's domestic life. Dorothy left Hawarden on Wednesday, accompanied by her mother, and from London to Windsor traveled with Princess Louise. On arriving at Windsor they were met by Hon. William H. F. Carrington, one of the equerries in ordinary with a royal carriage to take them to the castle. After a luncheon with the queen Miss Drew returned to town.

The prince and princess of Wales and Princess Maude of Wales are spending Sunday with the duke of Westminster at Eaton hall, Chester, where a large party has been gathered to meet them. Monday the prince and princess of Wales will drive to Hawarden and lunch with Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone. Each member of the royal family will plant a tree at Hawarden as a memorial of the occasion.

The appeals to the charity of the Londoners are endless and are generally answered generously. The Mansion house Indian famine fund has now reached nearly the sum of £720,000 ($2,000,000) or £5000 ($25,000) more than was raised during the whole course of the last famine. The Daily Chronicle within a week has raised nearly £9000 for the Greek wounded. The Prince of Wales' hospital fund alone hangs fire. The yearly deficit of the London hospitals is over £100,000 ($500,000) and the prince hoped to raise £2,000,000 ($10,000,000.) It is doubtful if even £500,000 ($2,500,000) will be obtained, but the prince of Wales will personally address a meeting of bankers, merchants and other prominent people in the city and will appeal for more money for the hospital fund.

Great importance is attached to the decision of the Transvaal volksraad, at a secret session, held at Pretoria, the capital, on Wednesday last, to repeal the Transvaal immigration law. The meeting was held to discuss the answer to be made to the dispatches of the British secretary of state of the colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, who demanded a repeal of the law. The law was repealed, but it is explained this step was taken not because the measure was a breach of the London convention, but because it was distasteful to neighboring states. The Transvaal state attorney tendered his resignation in disapproval of the repeal. This action of the Transvaal government, it is said here, clearly indicates a back-down upon the part of President Kruger and the volksraad, and renders the chances of war remote. It is the most important concession yet made by the Transvaal, and removes the chief cause of friction, not only between the Transvaal and Great Britain, but between Cape Colony and the Transvaal. It was on this point that Mr. Chamberlain's dispatch took almost the form of an ultimatum.

The past week has been uneventful for the theatrical world. Ibsen's "John Gabriel Bjorkman," which was produced at a matinee on Monday at the Strand theater, attracted but little attention aside from the devotees of Ibsen. The revival of the "Yeoman of the Guard," at the Savoy theater on Wednesday, was successful, and will probably run the season, though the cast compares unfavorably with that of the original production. Gilbert and Sullivan received an ovation. The royal opera season opens on next Monday night at Covent Garden, when "Faust" will be performed.

Wilson Barrett brought out his revival of "Virginius" at the Lyric theater last Monday. He has made several changes in the original work of Sheridan Knowles, thereby causing some comment in the press. Fresh illustrative music and scenery was provided, and the principal characters were assumed by Franklin McLeay, as Icilius; Alfred Brydone as Appius Claudius; T. W. Percival as Caius Claudius; Ambrose Manning as Dentatus; Horace Hodges as Numitorius; Maud Jefferies as Virginia, and Frances Ivor as Servia.

Mlle. Landi, the singer, who is in London for the season, has been engaged for a tour of forty concerts in Germany and Austria, extending from November next to March, 1898.

During her London engagement in June, Madame Rejane will produce, in addition to "Madame Sans Gene," "La Douloureuse" and "Francillon," in which latter comedy she has not appeared in Paris, its rights being owned by the Comedie Francaise.

George Giddens will, during the afternoon of Tuesday, produce at the Vaudeville theater, a new farce comedy in three acts, entitled "Solomon's Twins." The author is Kinsey Pelle. Mr. Giddens will, in the play, appear incidentally as a lady in yellow. The company supporting him is composed of Messrs. Blakely, Collette and Wyse, Mrs. E. Peeples and Phyllis Brighton.

John Hare's first appearance at the Court theater will occur next Saturday night in a revival of Pinero's comedy, "The Hobby Horse," in which he will play his original part of Spencer Jermin.

Lottie Venne, Louise Beaudet, E. J. Lonnan and William Elton have been cancelled for Dr. Osmund Carr's new opera, shortly to be produced at the Opera Comique.

ANTI-SALOON WAR.

Temperance Topekaites Will Try to Crush Them.

Topeka, Kans., May 8.—The people of Topeka have declared war upon the unlawful saloon. A week ago a handsomely appointed saloon was opened in the principal street of the city after an absence of twelve years and it has been claimed that liquor was being sold there openly. This state of affairs sufficed to provoke a mass meeting at Hamilton hall, the largest auditorium in the city, last night, which was attended by 3000 people. H. A. Vance, president of the State Temperance union, called the meeting to order. Early in the proceedings a sensation was caused when ex-Senator William A. Peffer and A. L. Williams, general attorney for the Union Pacific, made speeches in which they advised that the people take the law into their own hands and destroy the open saloons by force, if necessary.

When the assemblage had been worked up to a state of more or less excitement a notorious negro joint keeper endeavored to reply to one of the speakers. The secretary of the meeting took the negro by the coat collar and thrust him from the stage, when other men grabbed him and threw him out of the hall. The meeting after listening to several fiery speches adopted resolutions calling upon Governor Leedy to remove the Topeka police commissioners and demanding that the city and county officers prosecute violators of the law. The chairman was also authorized to appoint a committee of fifteen "to see that these demands be complied with."

MURDERER'S TRAIL.

Wisconsin Officials Hunting for William Pouch.

Milwaukee, May 8.—A special from Waukesha, Wis., says: A telephone message received by Sheriff Snyder from Beulah Lake says that a man answering the description of William Pouch, the murderer of Alexander Harris, and who also murderously assaulted Mrs. Harris and their hired man and woman servants yesterday, was found hiding there. A stage loaded with an armed posse has started for Muskego to intercept a possible flight in that direction. Every road for miles in the direction taken by the murderer is being patrolled by armed men and there is little doubt should the villain be captured the infuriated farmers will lynch him.

JAPAN'S HAWAIIAN TROUBLES.

Tacoma, Wash., May 8.—The Northern Pacific steamer Pekan, from the Orient, brings advices that Count Toru Hoshi, Japanese minister of foreign affairs, has instructed the Japanese minister at Washington to dispatch the American adviser of the Japanese legation in the United States, D. W. Stevens, to Hawaii at once to aid in settling the Hawaiian trouble. It is said that Mr. Stevens and Counsellor Akyami, sent from the foreign office at Tokio, will assist Mr. Shimaru, Japanese representative at Honolulu, in conducting negotiations with the Hawaiian government.

DID NOT DETAIN HIM.

Milwaukee, May 8.—The report that the murderer of Farmer Harris, near Mukwanago, had been captured at Lake Beulah, proves to be unfounded. A stranger struck the vicinity last night, but disappeared about 11 o'clock without an attempt having been made to arrest him.

EVENING HERALD "WANTS"
Bring customers.
Bring business.
Bring results.
Bring work.

The weakest place in a house or fort, or any place of defense, usually turns out to be that which was thought strongest. The weakest place in a man's body is that in which he esteems himself strongest. Achilles never thought he would turn his heel to an enemy, but it was in that unarmored place the fatal arrow was planted. It is usually the organ in his body that a man thinks strongest, that disease assaults and batters down. Caution a man about neglecting his health and mention consumption, and he will pound his chest and laugh you to scorn. He does not realize that consumption beats down this defense imperceptibly, inch by inch. The lungs once attacked the only weapon of defense is the right remedy.

98 per cent. of all cases of consumption are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It corrects disordered digestion, invigorates the liver, makes the appetite hearty and assimilation perfect, fills the blood with the elements that build healthy flesh and muscle, and drives all impurities and disease-germs from the blood. All druggists sell it.

"I have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' in my family," writes Mrs. G. A. Conner, of Alleghany Springs, Montgomery Co., Va., "and have found it to be the best medicine that I ever used. I have also used his 'Compound Extract of Smart-Weed,' and 'Pleasant Pellets.' They will do just what they are recommended to do."

The newly-wedded wife, above all other women, needs a good medical book. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser fills this want. It contains over 1000 pages and 300 illustrations. Several chapters are devoted to the physiology of the organs distinctly feminine. Send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. EATEN

Horrible Fate of a Young Englishman on a South Sea Island.

He and an Ex-Missionary Were Captured on Santa Cruz Island.

Held Prisoners For Some Time and Then Killed and Eaten.

Astoria, Ore., May 8.—According to private advices received here yesterday, F. M. B. Lichtenberg, a young Englishman who arrived in this city about two years ago and left a year later, has met a horrible fate at the hands of cannibals in the South Sea Islands. He, with another man, was taken prisoner, killed and eaten by the tribes of the Islands. Lichtenberg went directly from Astoria, together with an ex-missionary, whose name is not known, to trade with the natives of the Santa Cruz Islands, which have a population of about 20,000.

The ex-missionary had traded with them before and had been among them in his religious capacity and entertained no fears for the safety of himself and companion. The men, says the letter, procured traders' outfits and set sail from Australia for the islands. The natives, who are reputed to be more ferocious than any of the African tribes, captured them and held them for some time. Later they were killed and eaten.

The story gained circulation through a half-civilized native, who witnessed the awful feast. Lichtenberg belonged to a prominent London family. His father is said to be very wealthy.

STUCK TO HIS ENGINE.

But Set His Air Brake and Saved the Train.

Pueblo, Colo., May 8.—A passenger train on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway, which left Denver for Chicago at 5:30 last night, was wrecked about 2 o'clock this morning at Mile Creek, just east of Lamar, Colo. The train was proceeding at its usual speed when, without any warning, the engine, tender and baggage car plunged into the treacherous stream that had become swollen, evidently from a cloudburst. Fortunately for the passengers, the air brakes closed down and held the remainder of the train on th crack, which no doubt saved a terrable slaughter, as almost every seat in the cars was occupied.

Engineer Thomas Madigan stuck to his engine and went down in the wreck, as did also a number of tramps who were stealing a ride on the baggage car. Two of them were probably crushed. Engineer Madigan was buried under his engine. A special train with physicians was immediately despatched from La Junta and is now at the wreck doing everything possible for the unfortunate victims. So far as known no passengers were injured.

DRY DOCK O. K.

Commander Whiting Scouts the Sinking Story.

San Francisco, May 8.—Commander W. H. Whiting, United States navy, who is in command of the Port Orchard dock, arrived from the north yesterday with his wife and children. When seen last night, Commander Whiting denied the story recently published concerning the rumored sinking of the drydock under the weight of the battleship Oregon. "If the dock has sustained any damage," he said, "it is too trivial to cause even the slightest comment. After the Oregon was docked we tested the floor of the dock with levels and found that the dock had sunk about half an inch. I believe myself that the depression is due entirely to the compression of the timbers that rest upon the pile foundations of the dock. There are three layers of eighteen-inch wooden girders resting on the piles and on top of this comes the three-inch planking that forms the floor of the dock. The keel posts, which are made of Oregon pine, were compressed fully an inch under the weight of the battleship, and I think that the other half is due to the spring and elasticity of the timbers of which the dock is built.

"After the Oregon is taken out of the dock and another level is taken, I believe the dock will be found to be in precisely the condition it was before the ship was docked. People saw us taking levels in the dock after the Oregon had been taken out of the water and that is how the rumor started."

STATE SUPREME COURT.

St. Paul, May 8.—Justice Canty of the supreme court has reversed one decision in five that he handed down yesterday. The reversal is in the case of Knud E. Mo, respondent, versus George Bettner, appellant, and the supreme court holds that for an action by the vendor to have an executory contract for the sale of real estate declared forfeited, even though time is made the essence of the contract, the vendor cannot, after he has waived strict performance, enforce a forfeiture without giving such notice of his intention to do so as will give the vendor reasonable opportunity to perform.

In the case of the Pioneer Saving and Loan company, respondent, versus the St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance company, appellant, the decision of the lower court is affirmed.

W. L. Elwood appellant, versus S. G. Saterlie et al., respondents. Order affirmed.

David Chambers et al., appellants, versus William G. Gilbert et al., respondents. Order affirmed.

John Ely, appellant, versus Andrew J. Randall, respondent. Judgment affirmed.

THE TRADE OUTLOOK.

Dun Recounts a Satisfactory Business State.

New York, May 8.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade today will say: Nearly all will be astonished to learn that actual sales in April by leading houses in each line of business in the principal cities east of the Rocky mountains average only about 10 per cent less than in April, 1892, the year of the largest business hitherto, and were 6 per cent more than in the same month last year. Yet this is the summary of 257 reports, each covering actual sales of leading merchants in a line of business in one of fourteen cities. They are especially encouraging in view of the great fall of prices within the five years, and with exceptional floods and other retarding influences this year.

While speculative business in nearly all lines is small and does not swell clearing house returns as in previous years, the trade volume of legitimate trade shows no corresponding decrease, and the fact is one of the highest importance in all business calculations. Moreover, returns of failures for April by branches of business given only by the mercantile agency show a decrease in number, amounts and average of liabilities in almost every branch of trade and in nearly all branches of manufacture except cotton, although failures of five New Bedford mills for $7,000,000 make the total defaulted liabilities for the month 40 per cent larger than last year, 90 per cent larger than in 1895, and 32 per cent larger than in 1894. The value of reports tracing failures to particular lines of business is impressively illustrated.

Crop prospects are a little better for cotton because of the passing of floods and the increase of acreage elsewhere, and for spring wheat because the customary accounts of injury to winter wheat began to appear and stimulate larger sowing of spring wheat, as usual. Western receipts certainly larger than last year. Liverpool speculation lifts cotton to 4.75 cents, but it has lost a sixteenth, and the consumption in manufacture does not appear to be increasing. The demand for cotton goods has not met expectations, and neither prolonged curtailing of production by many mills, the large distribution of goods since November nor the great auction sale has yet sufficed to reduce the surplus goods.

The same is true of wool manufacture, and in many branches orders and sales thus far do not call for a large production, but the increasing demand has been encouraging. Sales of wool at prices firm, but no longer rising, fall much below recent records, indicating that speculators are growing less sure of early profits in view of enormous supplies on hand.

The anticipation of better prices and great increase in demand pushed production so far in iron and steel manufacture that four furnaces in Eastern Pennsylvania and others in the Pittsburg region and Ohio have stopped. Bessemer pig at Pittsburg had declined to $9.40, and gray forge to $8.90; pressure to sell billets lowers them to $14; tank steel plates have sold below 1 cent, and common bars at 90 cents per 100 pounds, with black sheets in light demand at $1.80 for No. 2. Yet the structural works are well employed on old orders, with others coming, one of 20,000 tons for the Montreal bridge, and others at the East and at Chicago. The rail works are all busy on orders taken months ago, though there are efforts to revive the pool. One contract for 10,000 tons of steel plates is reported, and some of the tin plate works are sold ahead for the year.

The visible supply of the has increased 2000 tons in April, and the price is a shade lower at $13.25. The heavy sales of lake copper are believed to cover some large consumers for most of the year.

Failures for the week have been 221 in the United States, against 238 last year, and thirty-six in Canada, against twenty-four last year.

WHAT BRADSTREET SEES.

New York, May 8.—Bradstreet's today says: Favorable business features this week include the continued decline of water in flooded districts of the Mississippi River valley, in a portion of which planting has begun; better demand for staples at Baltimore, St. Louis, Omaha, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Sioux Falls; larger sales of iron ore to Western furnaces, and a revival of activity among country merchants in some Central Western states.

Unfavorable trade features include the further decline of prices for Bessemer pig iron and steel billets, with production of pig iron in excess of consumption, and the prospect favorable for blowing out a number of stacks. Cool weather West has checked the spring demand, and complaints are received from wholesale dealers in shoes, clothing and dry goods. Low temperature has retarded the growth of cotton and corn in Texas, and in Kentucky the leaf tobacco crop will be short. The lake trade outlook is not satisfactory. The movement of business is slow; mercantile collections show no improvement, and the spring trade in general continues disappointing.

Exports of wheat from both coasts of the United States and Canada this week—flour included as wheat—amount to 1,799,322 bushels, as removed with 1,155,000 last week, 1,882,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 2,905,000 bushels two years ago, 2,816,000 bushels three years ago and as contrasted with 2,712,000 bushels in the like week of 1893. Exports of Indian corn amount to 3,127,781 bushels this week, as compared with 3,057,000 bushels last week, 1,891,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 833,000 bushels two years ago, 720,000 bushels three years ago, and as contrasted with 1,016,000 bushels for the like week of 1893.

The total number of business failures throughout the United States this week does not vary materially from what may be regarded as the average in recent years for a corresponding period, amounting to 228, against 241 last week, 267 in the week one year ago, 221 in the week in 1895, 198 in 1894, and 279 in 1893.

There are thirty-nine business failures reported from the Dominion of Canada this week, compared with thirty-one last week, thirty-eight in the week one year ago, twenty-seven two years ago, and thirty in the like week of 1894.

ONLY A BURGLARY.

Denver, Col., May 8.—Wild rumors were in circulation here last night of the looting of the little town of Elbert, about fifty miles south of here, by desperadoes. The rumors were based upon a request from the officials of that town for a couple of bloodhounds. A burglary had been committed and it was hoped to use the dogs in trailing the robbers.

THE BICYCLISTS WAR.

San Francisco, May 8.—The California Associated Cycling clubs have issued a bulletin terminating all existing suspensions and restrictions imposed by the League of American Wheelmen on tracks and racing men in California on account of Sunday racing.

BAD CLERGY.

Ecuador Prelates Charged With a Number of Crimes.

New York, May 8.—A dispatch to the Herald from Panama says: Information received from a correspondent in Guayaquil, Ecuador, is to the effect that Bishop Andrade, of Riobamba, has been arrested charged with treason. Since the rebel attack on Riobamba a few days ago in which several priests took part, the government has had cause to suspect Bishop Andrade. Now it is asserted by the authorities that they have seized several documents implicating Bishop Andrade in the revolutionary movement.

Following the arrest of Bishop Andrade came that of Father Rivadeneeia, of Guaranda, who is charged with conspiring to assassinate Capt. Saltos, commander-in-chief of the government battalion in Guaranda. An alleged conspiracy to assassinate Jose Luis Alfaro, brother of President Alfaro, of Ecuador, and governor of the province of Los Rios, has been discovered. Five of the principal plantation owners and merchants of the province are now under arrest, charged with complicity in the plot to murder Governor Alfaro. Among the men is Amador R. Escandon.

Information has reached Guayaquil that Col. Morales Alfares' troops met and defeated a large band of rebels near Cruz Agnatea, in the province of Chimborazo. The insurgents fled before the well-disciplined government forces. It is asserted persistently, on what seems to be good authority, that the rebel leaders have sent a communication to the government offering to surrender if protection to life and property is extended.

There have been no outbreaks outside of the provinces of Canar and Chimborazo, though steps have been taken in other provinces by government supports to form volunteer corps to defend themselves in case of an uprising.

WHEATON RETIRES.

Commander of the Department of Colorado Exits.

Denver, Col., May 8.—At noon today Brigadier and Brevet Maj. Gen. Wheaton retired from service in the United States army, having reached the age of 64 years, of which time forty-seven have been spent in the service. At 11 o'clock the officers and employes of the department of Colorado assembled in Gen. Wheaton's office and bade the general farewell. He responded with a few appropriate remarks. Gen. Wheaton will leave Denver tonight, going East, and in August will sail for Europe, where he will spend the next two years.

Col. Merriam will assume command of the department until Gen. Otis, the successor of Gen. Wheaton, arrives. Lieut. Langhorne, who has been an aide to Gen. Wheaton for the past two years, will enjoy four months' leave of absence, which will be spent in traveling in Europe.

ROBBED THE MAILS.

Newly Married Postal Clerk Fleming's Crime.

Kansas City, Mo., May 8.—Ferdinand Fleming, a railway post clerk, who runs between Kansas City and Council Bluffs, over the Kansas City, St. Joe & Council Bluffs railroad, has been arrested here by Postoffice Inspectors Frank A. Bebee, of St. Louis, and George M. Sutton, of this city, on the charge of breaking open packages and abstracting their contents. The postal officials had suspected Fleming for several months.

A search of Fleming's house disclosed several of the stolen articles, and he afterwards broke down and confessed. Fleming is 30 years old. He was but recently married.

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

The trial of the murderers of the Spicer family will occur at Williamsport, Emmons county, June 1. Judge Winchester has issued a call for a jury of forty-eight persons. Notwithstanding the confession of Hely Track and Standing Bear exonerating the other men in the case, it is the opinion of the authorities that all four men are implicated.

Nothing has yet been heard of Murderer Normand Larimore. The total of all rewards now reaches $800, of which the state offers $500, the county $300 and the sheriff $100. There seems little clue of the murderer's ultimate escape and the pursuing parties are thought to be close to him now.

While Ed Smith and John Larsen were fishing in Red river, two miles north of Grand Forks their boat capsized and Smith was drowned. Larsen was rescued by a farmer.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

The interesting fight between the two contesting boards of regents of education came before the supreme court at Pierre upon the motion of the first board to have the last board restrained from acting until the quo warranto case shall be decided. This motion is merely incidental to the main case, and, although the attorneys on both sides argued the main question concerning the constitutionality of the law under which the last board was appointed, yet the attorneys for the new board declined to submit the main question to the court at this time, as to which of the two boards is the legal board.

SOUTH AMERICAN RAILWAYS.

New York, May 7.—A special to the Herald from Rio Janeiro says that the government engineers have demanded that the president adhere to the project of a railway union of Brazil, Chili, Peru and Bolivia. The syndicate, which has offered to perfect the system, has asked for three months further time in which to present their proposals or a lease of the railways.

ARGENTINE'S EXPORTS.

New York, May 7.—A special to the Herald from Buenos Ayres, Argentina, says: The committee of the National party, Dr. Pellegrini, chairman, appointed to investigate the extent of the decreased exportation of cereals reports that the exportation decreased $25,000,000.

WHERE FISHING IS GOOD.

Those looking for the best fishing grounds are reminded of Lake Tetonka, at Waterville, and Madison lake, on the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad.

Wall-eyed pike, bass and crappies are found in great abundance at both of these lakes, which have not been fished out to the extent of some of the older and better known localities.

Excellent hotel accommodations, boats, bait, etc., on hand, and all charges are very reasonable.

BEDRIDDEN.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF SUFFERING.

The Doctors Wanted Seven Hundred Dollars to Attempt the Case.

The following is a letter we received a short time ago from Mrs. M. C. Hinkley, 602 North Mississippi street, Indianapolis, Ind.

Gentlemen: While suffering intensely from piles, I became interested in your advertisement in one of our daily papers and procured a package of your Pyramid Pile Cure from our druggist. Contrary to any expectations, the relief was instantaneous. I used two boxes of the Pile Cure and one of the Pills and am convinced that they are the only sure cure for piles on the market. I have been a sufferer from piles for fifteen years and have been confined to my bed about one-half of the time, expecting and wishing for death for the pain was so great. I went to the college here and the doctors said my case was a new one to them, the great pain having brought on a large rupture, which they wanted seven hundred dollars to cut out. I was very much afraid that death would result from the blood-poisoning which they said would result from the operation. I feel as though I can't praise the Pyramid Pile Cure and the Pyramid Pills too highly, as I am convinced that they saved my life. Before using your cure I weighed only ninety pounds and now I weigh one hundred and fifty and feel as well as I ever did in my life. You are at liberty to use this testimonial in any manner you may see fit, as I want all sufferers from this terrible disease to know that there has at last been compounded a remedy that will cure piles.

MRS. M. C. HINKLEY.

There is no need of the danger, pain and expense of a surgical operation for any form of piles. The Pyramid Pile Cure does the work without pain and is the safest and best. Remember also that the Pyramid Pills are a certain cure for constipation, acting without griping and restoring natural action to the bowels.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists at 50 cents and $1, and the Pyramid Pills at 25 cents, or by mail from Pyramid company, Albion, Mich.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Mankato, Minn., had another incendiary fire last night, and twenty-eight horses were burned in one barn, and eight or ten horses in other barns. The loss will foot up about $16,000.

The farewell banquet given last evening by the American society in London to Mr. Bayard, former ambassador of the United States, was attended by 250 guests. The company included Ambassador Hay, Mrs. Hay and the members of the American embassy, the lord bishop of London, Dr. Creighton, Baron Russell of Killowen, the lord chief justice; Sir Francis and Lady Jeune, Sir Edwin Arnold, Sir Henry Thompson, Lady Randolph Churchill, Lady Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Vivian and Miss Genevieve Ward, the actress.

Mrs. Elizabeth O'Sheridan, aged 70 and the mother of Mary Grant O'Sheridan, a talented poetess, was instantly killed at Madison, Wis., yesterday by the cars at a railway crossing near her home. Her body was carried a thousand feet on the locomotive pilot.

As a tribute to the memory of Gen. Grant, Yang Yiu former minister from China to the United States, yesterday planted a tree in the ground under which the casket of Gen. Grant lay at New York for twelve years. The tree is called Ghinkgobilo by Chinese botanists, and is said to grow to a height of about 100 feet.

By the unanimous official opinion of the judges, Princeton won the annual debate held with Yale in New Haven, Conn., last night.

The report that Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) is dead is false. He is in London and in excellent health.

Robert H. Martin, formerly treasurer of the Columbian university of Washington, was arrested yesterday and taken to the police court on charges of embezzling $20,850 of the funds of the institution.

THE COCOANUT PALM.

The cocoanut palm is indigenous to the tropical countries, says the Philadelphia Times. Its branchless trunk grows to a height of from sixty to ninety feet, and bears at its summit a crown of pinnate leaves that are from twelve to twenty feet in length. It is essentially littoral, and "loves to bend over the rolling surf, and to drop its fruit into the tidal-wave."

The thick husk and the hard shell of the cocoanut are well adapted to preserve its germinating power while it is being carried by the winds and the waves to some distant shore; hence, the cocoanut palm "waves its graceful fronds over the emerald islands of the Pacific, fringes the West Indian shores, and from the Philippines to Madagascar, crowns the atolls or girds the seaboard of the Indian ocean."

It is a beautiful tree and "a joy forever," because it yields a large variety of useful products. To the inhabitants of tropical countries, the cocoanut is an important article of food; it is eaten both ripe and unripe, the young, unripe nut containing a milky fluid that is very palatable. When fully matured the nut yields a fixed oil, which is used for culinary purposes, in lamps, and for manufacturing stearine candles and marine soap. By compression in the cold, the oil is separated into a liquid called "cleine," and a more solid part called "cocosine." The hard shell of the nut is fashioned into cups, ladles, spoons, beads, bottles, knife-handles, etc., and is often beautifully polished and elaborately carved.

The terminal bud, or "palm-cabbage," is an excellent vegetable when cooked; indeed, it is considered a delicacy, but it is seldom used because its removal necessarily causes the death of the tree. From the trunk of this wonderful palm is obtained a saccharine sap called "toddy," which is esteemed a pleasant, refreshing drink. The dried palm leaves serve for thatching houses, for making mats and baskets, and for cattle-fodder.

Coir is the most important fibrous product of the tree; it is the fiber or husk of the immature nut. It is prepared for use by being soaked several months in water, and then beaten until the fibers have entirely separated. Coir is a valuable material for ropes, brushes, carpets, mats, beds, cushions and nets; it is excellent for cables because it combines elasticity, lightness and strength. The long footstalks of the fronds are used for fences, yokes and fishing rods.

After the tree ceases to bear fruit, it is cut down and its wood is used for many purposes. It is a reddish wood, is beautifully veined, admits of a high polish, and is imported for ornamental joinery under the name of "porcupine-wood." It is said that no other tree, and no other plant, contributes in so many ways to the wants and the comforts of man as does this "tree of 100 uses"—the cocoanut palm.

ROMANCE OF ARCHAEOLOGY.

The discovery of the Rosetta stone is one of the romances of archaeology, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The students of Egyptian literature had long been aware that a literature lay locked up in the hieroglyphics which abounded in every part of Egypt, but were unable to find a key to open the mystery. Many shrewd attempts had been made, and the conjectures of scholars as to the probable meaning of certain characters proved to be very near the truth, but the fact that the conjectures were only probabilities rendered all attempts at translation vague and unreliable. The first definite clew that was given to the significance of the Egyptian hieroglyphics was by the discovery of the Rosetta stone, so called because it was found at the Rosetta mouth of the Nile. After Napoleon occupied Egypt a strong English fleet was sent to the East for the purpose of cutting off the French army, and when the approach of the English force was known active preparations were made by the French for defense, earthworks being thrown up at the mouths of the Nile in order to defend that stream against the English, while the French fleet at Aboukir made vigorous preparations to repel the English ships. It was during the construction of one of these forts that the Rosetta stone was uncovered by a French officer and laid to one side until it could be examined, the French savants who had gone with Napoleon instantly perceiving its value. A few days later the French fleet was defeated and almost annihilated at Aboukir, the mouths of the Nile were occupied by the English and the stone fell into the possession of William Hamilton, who later turned it over to the British museum. Its value as an archaeological treasure consists in the fact that it has three inscriptions containing the same matter—one in hieroglyphics, one in demotic, or middle Egyptian characters, and the third in Greek. The matter is unimportant, being an inscription in honor of Ptolemy Epiphanes, B. C. 196. The trilingual inscription has rendered it a priceless treasure.

HIGHER

Wheat Was Stronger and a Good Advance in Prices Occurred.

Change For the Worse in the Wheat Crop in California.

This and Other Bullish News the Cause of the Advance.

Wheat opened strong at an advance of ½c over yesterday's close, influenced mainly by the fact that Liverpool showed no change notwithstanding yesterday's decline in American markets. Bulls had other sources of encouragement, an unfavorable Michigan crop report and high Northwest receipts, 285 cars against 436 last week and 391 last year. Shorts attempted to cover, but there was a remarkable scarcity of offerings, and July was sawed up. Then offerings became more liberal and a reaction ensued.

Later in the session when the people who had received dispatches from San Francisco began to show them around, the real substantial and justifiable cause of the eager buying was made plain. The previously promising appearance of California's growing crop had given place to a most telling change for the worse. Argentine shipments were only 24,000 bus, compared with 872,000 bus on the like week of the previous year. Chicago receipts were 1cars. The exports of flour and wheat from both coasts were 1,769,000.

July wheat opened here 1c higher at 69¾c and within a short time sold up to 70¼c. During the next half hour it eased off to 70c but soon recovered and advanced sharply to 71¼c before 11 o'clock. During the last hour it sold off 1@1¼c and closed with buyers at that figure, being an advance of 2¼c for the day. The shippers bought 25,000 bus of cash stuff at 2½c over July, and 50,000 bus were sold for June shipment. Following were the closing prices:

CATTLE AND HOGS.

Chicago, May 8.—Hogs, official receipts yesterday, 22,000; shipments, 441. Cattle, official receipts yesterday, 2429; shipments, 200. Sheep, official receipts yesterday, 1,000; shipments, 200. Estimated receipts for Monday, 28,000. Estimated receipts today, 15,000. Left over, 2,000. Market active, light steady; others shade lower. Prices—Top, 3 90; mixed, $3.80@3.85; heavy, $3.80@3.85; rough, $3.60@3.65. Cattle, receipts, 200. Market quiet and unchanged. Sheep, receipts, 300. Market steady.

CLEANING BEDS.

Washington Star: "My experience has been," said an experienced housekeeper to a Star reporter, "that the best time to clean beds is during the week that St. Patrick's day falls, or the week following. With the same amount of work or a great deal less, greater results are secured. At this season of the year, though, I am inclined to think that any time up to the last week in March will do equally well, the eggs or bad vermin are in an unhatched condition, and killing the eggs removes all further trouble. But once let April come before your beds are looked after and you have lots of trouble, for the reason that the small bugs crawl into places where they cannot be reached. Coal oil, gasoline, benzine, turpentine mixed with ammonia, or separately, will do the work as well as any of the proprietary preparations. The great thing is to do the work thoroughly and early enough. Then fill up all the holes found about the bedstead with yellow soap and you are pretty safe from annoyance from that direction at least. I do not recommend any special destroyer, for any of them, if freely and properly applied early enough, will do the work. Unless it is done early —and by no means should it run into April —great risks are run, and risks that careful housekeepers should never run. Another thing, it is much better that housekeepers supervise such matters themselves, even if they do not actually do the work. Servants are good enough in many ways, but not good enough for me in this matter."

Danger From Brush Fires at Proctorknott Believed to Have Passed.

Dr. Robert Forbes Returns From a Trip Into Southern Minnesota.

At the Next Conference He Will Be Transferred to Another Pastorate.

All danger from the brush fires that have been raging about Proctorknott for the past few days now appears to have passed. The wind that prevailed yesterday and last night drove the fires away from the town and they no longer have anything to fear. There are still a few smoldering patches, but it will be impossible for it to spread in any direction where damage can be done.

DR. FORBES AT HOME.

Dr. Robert Forbes returned home yesterday and will preach in Asbury M. E. church tomorrow at the usual hours. Dr. Forbes dedicated a church at Sleepy Eye last Sunday and on Monday he delivered a lecture at the same place. He had expected his father to meet him at Sleepy Eye, but on his arrival there he received a letter from his brother announcing his father's illness. Just as he concluded his lecture Monday night he was handed a telegram announcing his death. He went at once to his home at Marshall, where the funeral took place Wednesday. Dr. Forbes will remain at home for two weeks, when he will go to North Dakota to dedicate a new church.

When the Methodist conference meets next fall Dr. Forbes will have completed his five years' residence in West Duluth which is the limit given Methodist ministers with a single charge and he will be transferred to some other pastorate in Minnesota. He has no idea where he will be placed and will make no effort to secure any particular pulpit.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

A. O. U. W. hall was crowded last night on the occasion of the dance and ice cream social given by the Degree of Honor lodge. The attendance was much larger than had been anticipated and a most enjoyable time was had. Dancing was continued until a late hour.

Rev. Mr. Longridge will preach at Baptist hall on Central avenue tomorrow at 11 o'clock. Sunday school will meet at the usual hour, 3 p. m.

At Plymouth Congregational church, corner of Fifty-fourth avenue west and Bristol street, Rev. W. W. Newell will preach tomorrow at 7:45 p. m. on "Deep Sea Christians." Singing by Miss Ensign, solo. P. A. Mitchell, superintendent of the Dapremo, and Miss Mars, alto.

Duluth Transfer Railway company has moved to Duluth.

Guy Pake has returned from his New York trip.

F. Skinner, of Proctorknott, will soon move to Hibbing with his family.

The Proctorknott and West Duluth ball teams will play the second game of the season at the ball park on Thirty-second avenue west tomorrow afternoon. In the game last Sunday the West Duluth club was victorious.

Miss Bessie Lovelace, who has been seriously ill with typhoid fever, is on the road to recovery.

Louis C. Neuman has gone to Chicago on a short business trip.

NOTICE OF CONFIRMATION

OF COMMISSIONERS' REPORT, IN THE MATTER OF THE CONDEMNATION OF A RIGHT-OF-WAY FOR A PUBLIC THOROUGHFARE FROM THE STATE ROAD IN THE SOUTHEAST QUARTER (SE¼) OF SECTION 4-48-15 TO SHORT LINE PARK.

Office of City Clerk,
Duluth, Minn., May 5th, 1897.

Notice is hereby given that an assessment of damages made by the board of commissioners in condemnation proceedings for obtaining a right-of-way for a public thoroughfare from the state road in the southeast quarter (se¼) of section four (4), township forty-eight (48) north, range fifteen (15) west, to Short Line Park, as shown by the plat of the same on file in the office of the city clerk, has been returned;

That as to that piece and parcel of land situated in the east half (e½) of the northeast quarter (ne¼) of section five (5), township forty-eight (48) north, of range fifteen (15) west, viz: 2.228 acres, proposed to be taken, and for which damages were awarded to Charles E. Dickerman and E. C. Gridley in the total sum of $1.00 as to which no legal confirmation was had on account of misdescription of said premises in former notice.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, to all persons interested in the said east half (e½) of the northeast quarter (ne¼) of section five (5), township forty-eight (48) north, of range fifteen (15) west, that the said award as to said land will be confirmed by the common council of the city of Duluth at a meeting of said council to be held at the council chamber on Monday, May 17th, 1897, at 7:30 o'clock p. m., unless objections are made in writing by persons interested in the said land required to be taken.

THE WEATHER.

United States Agricultural Department, Weather Bureau, Duluth. Synopsis of weather conditions for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m., (Central time), May 8, 1897.—An area of low pressure, moving eastward across the Canadian provinces, is central north of Winnipeg and extends thence southward to Kansas. It has been accompanied by light showers in the Canadian Northwest, Montana, the Dakotas, Colorado, Kansas and Missouri, and by numerous gales in the most northerly districts. Thunderstorms have been reported in Manitoba, North Dakota, Montana and Colorado. Rain continues at Winnipeg, Bathford and Kansas City.

The weather has become somewhat cooler from Wyoming northward, including the western sections of the Dakotas. Freezing temperature was registered last night at Lander, Wyo. In the Mississippi valley and the lake region the temperature has risen slightly with continued fair weather.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 42 degrees; maximum yesterday, 48 degrees; minimum yesterday, 37 degrees.

Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity for twenty-four hours ending 8 p. m. Light showers tonight and Sunday, probably with thunderstorms; light easterly winds shifting to brisk westerly.

Local Forecast Official.

PERSONAL TAXES.

The assessors have begun the annual work of seeking personal property that is liable to levy for the purposes of taxation, and once more the question as to the justice of personal property taxation is presented to the people. A bill was introduced at the late session of the legislature giving counties the right to declare personal property exempt from taxation. It was introduced at the instance of the single tax advocates, but failed to pass. At the close of the session a large number of the senators and representatives signed a paper affirming their belief in the single tax idea that all taxes should be levied upon land, and it was decided by those interested in the movement to work for the election of members of the next legislature who will be in sympathy with this plan. The single tax idea has made great progress in recent years, and it is significant that many prominent men and not a few of the leading newspapers are discussing and advocating its adoption.

One of the strongest arguments against the tax upon personal property is that its collection is inequitable. The visible personal property, such as household furniture, horses, cattle, stocks of goods and similar possessions which cannot be concealed from the assessor, is always taxed. The greater portion of personal property, however, belongs to the invisible class, and consequently the most of it escapes taxation. This invisible property includes notes, stocks and bonds and other representatives of wealth, and the result is that the personal property of the rich people practically escapes taxation, while the poor man's personal property has to bear more than its fair share of the taxation. This is certainly an unjust state of things.

The question of taxation of personal property as affecting farms is dealt with in a circular bulletin just issued by the bureau of statistics of the department of agriculture. The statistics contained in this report, which have the merit of being fresh and officially endorsed as to reliability, show that in the states considered the proportion of personal to real property assessed was greater in the country districts than in the cities. In Boston 21.6 per cent of the total assessed value of all property represented personality; in the rest of the state the percentage was 26. In Ohio the counties including the four largest cities returned 26 per cent of personal property, against 32 per cent in the remaining counties. Four counties of Missouri, including within their limits large cities, reported personal property assessed at 20 per cent of the real estate assessment as compared with 46 per cent in the rural counties. The tax commissioner of Ohio is quoted as declaring that "the taxation of personal property in cities was a mere farce, and that it was the rural districts which bore by far the heaviest proportionate share of taxes upon personal property."

It is a curious fact, however, that the legislation upon the question has been framed generally with regard to the opinions of farmers. "It would be difficult," says the report referred to, "to name a single state in the Union in which the general methods of local taxation were not originally dictated by farmers; and although there are a few states in which farmers have earnestly desired great changes which they have been unable to obtain, it is none the less true that the statutes as they now exist in those very states were originally drawn up in just such form as the farmers of that day desired. In fully three-fourths of all of the states the laws governing local taxation have been dictated by farmers in their present form and include everything which any considerable number of farmers have ever demanded." Thus it will be seen that while the farmers have obtained nearly all the legislation they wanted, they have been unable to make the laws work successfully. And yet it cannot be said that the complaints arising from the inequality would be lessened by the more strict enforcement of the law. The department's report says: "One remarkable peculiarity of the whole system of local taxation as it exists today is that, generally speaking, though of course with many exceptions, the system works badly and most unjustly toward farmers in those districts where the law is most faithfully, intelligently and efficiently enforced. As a rule, all over the country the better the law is from the farmer's theoretical standpoint the worse it is for him in practice; and the more faithfully it is administered the more does the average farmer suffer from its effect."

Commenting on this point, the New York Journal says: "The farmers are slow to comprehend that the taxation of personal property falls in fact more heavily upon them than upon the city capitalist, when the proportions of their relative means are considered. Their cattle, horses, sheep, mowing machines, wagons, garnered grain and hay cannot be hidden from the eye of the assessor as can the mortgage or the bond. For years systematic work has been done by the Reform club of this city to impress this fact upon the farmers of the state, with but slender success. The bureau of labor statistics of the state of Illinois two years ago compiled a monumental comparison of the results of personal property taxation in the city of Chicago and the rural counties, yet the general response of the farming communities was a demand for more inquisitorial methods on the part of the city assessor, rather than the logical remedy of abolishing altogether a form of taxation which was a demonstrated failure and a proved injustice."

When the farmers study this question more thoroughly and educate themselves to understand that bonds and mortgages are but the evidences of actual wealth, which has already borne its share of taxation, and that it is impossible to frame a law which will bring such documents out of their hiding place or reform the laxity of conscience which exists in regard to taxation, they will assuredly become advocates of the idea that all personal property should be exempt from assessment, and that all the taxes should be levied upon the land.

MORE TOPICS SUGGESTED.

A long list of subjects has been selected by the Universal Postal congress, now in session in Washington, for discussion with a view to promote the efficiency of the international postal service. The Omaha Bee suggests that there are several pertinent topics, however, which seem to have been overlooked by the men who made the program for the postal congress, of which this partial enumeration will suffice:

The idiot who writes with white ink upon a scarlet envelope.

The freak who insists upon experimenting with new fangled stationery of all sizes and shapes and with bewildering forms of writing addresses.

The forgetful friend who always carries important letters in his pocket for a week before mailing them.

The economical correspondent who manages to make his missive just overweight so that postage due is demanded before its delivery.

The absent-minded man who writes that he encloses check, but fails to insert the enclosure.

The postal card fiend who is too miserly to buy a 2-cent stamp and advertises to the world family secrets by putting them on the backs of 1-cent postals.

The love sick maiden who thinks she can flirt by setting the postage stamp awry.

The postage stamp manufacturer who tries to economize on mucilage by furnishing stamps that won't stick.

The smart postal clerk who knows everybody's business better than his own.

After the postal congress shall have dealt with these notorious characters, the Bee promises there will still be several other matters of equal importance to the relief of the postoffice patronizing public.

GREATER NEW YORK.

The Greater New York charter has been signed by Governor Black, and the result is the second greatest city in the world. It covers a territory of 358½ square miles, thirty-two miles long and sixteen miles broad, with an estimated population of about 3,400,000, second in both respects only to London. Brooklyn and Long Island City lose their individuality by being merged into the new municipality, but the name of Brooklyn will still be retained by that division of the enlarged city.

The municipality is divided into five boroughs, Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond, which are in turn subdivided into ten council districts. The mayor will be elected for four years, at a salary of $15,000 a year, instead of for two years at $10,000, as at present. With the exception of the comptroller, who will be elected by popular vote, all municipal officers will be appointed by the mayor, whom he may remove at will during the first six months of his tenure. There will be only one police force, under a bi-partisan board of four, as at present. The department of public works is abolished, and water supply, sewer, bridge and street bureaus will replace it, their heads to be appointed by the mayor. There will be a municipal legislature of two houses, the council of twenty-eight members elected from designated districts, and the assembly of five members from each of the twenty-one senatorial districts in the Greater New York. The first election will occur Nov. 2 next and it is very generally believed that, owing to Republican legislation affecting the city, the Raines hotel law particularly, Tammany will gain control of the municipal legislature and elect the mayor.

FOR WEST POINT.

A reader of The Herald writes: "Will you kindly publish in Saturday's Herald information as to time and place of holding the examination for cadet at West Point, which is to be held soon in this district?"

The examination will be held on Wednesday next, May 12, between 9:30 a. m. and 5:30 p. m., at the High School building in St. Cloud. The candidate who passes the best mental and physical examination will be recommended for admission to West Point academy. The second best candidate will be designated as alternate, and in case the successful candidate fails to pass the entrance examination at West Point or does not report there he will be given a chance. The age of admission to the academy is between 17 and 22 years, but as the candidate will not be required to report there for nearly a year the examination will be open to all between 16 and 21 years, who are actual and permanent residents of the Sixth district. Candidates must be unmarried, at least 5 feet in height and free from any deformity, disease or infirmity.

Within the last year six out of ten Spanish generals in Cuba have died of wounds or disease; sixty-five colonels, lieutenant colonels and majors and near to 600 subaltern officers have gone the same way in that brief time. These figures are from official reports of the war department, wherein it is also stated that 2000 soldiers have died in battle or by wounds, 16,000 by various maladies, 13,400 by yellow fever and 22,000 have been sent home to Spain for disabilities.

Denver, Col., counters on a gas company that charges $1.75 for illuminating and $1 for heating gas by granting a franchise to a new corporation which guarantees to cut these rates in two. The city will also get 2 per cent of the gross earnings of the new company, and reserves the right to buy the entire plant at any time after it has been in operation five years, the valuation to be fixed by three disinterested appraisers.

Senator Fuller of the Little Falls Transcript sarcastically asks how the Republicans of Minnesota will carry the next campaign? Bixby is going to negotiate with the Indians, and E. M. Johnson, secretary of the committee, has been appointed a judge of the district court in Hennepin county. Perhaps Senator Fuller might be induced to take hold of the Republican campaign.

Three Michigan state senators are making trouble because it has been shown that the boards of the various state institutions often draw their appropriations from the state treasury months in advance of the time when the money is needed, and because such funds are often deposited in banks controlled by men who are friends of members of these boards.

Cleveland's ponderous criticism of a national administration less than two months old recalls to the Omaha Bee the story of a man who was anxious to learn public sentiment concerning a speech he had delivered. "What do folks say?" he inquired of a friend. "They don't say anything," was the response, "they just laugh."

The bright paragrapher of the New York Sun is taking undue liberties with the whiskers of the Hon. Stanford Newel when he describes them as red. If they are red, what would the Sun's young man call the hirsute appendage of the Hon. Elijah C. Gribley, of Duluth?

The house of representatives will meet only twice a week hereafter, and this lessens the opportunities for Jerry Simpson to rail at Speaker Reed for not naming the standing committees.

The Florida legislature is having as hard a time as the Kentuckians had to elect a senator. Another argument in favor of electing United States senators by a direct popular vote.

Under a bill passed by the late legislature, bicycles owned in this state are not exempt from execution. Sewing machines and typewriting machines are exempt.

The Herald is grateful for the many expressions of sympathy expressed by the country papers this week on account of the loss it recently experienced by fire.

The editor of the American Grocer must have an awful thirst as he says in the last issue of that paper: "We paid last year $1,004,12&360 for drinks."

Again the superstitious are endorsed. The terrible fire at the charity bazar in Paris broke out in stall No. 13.

The Crookston Tribune evidently thinks that Mike Doran, the former Democratic boss, is mayor of St. Paul.

The advance agent of prosperity seems to have encountered some trouble in delivering his goods.

If Greece is not prepared to take more punishment, she had better quit.

BRAHMA.

I am a dweller with the one high God,
And all, himself, dwells here, unseen, with me:
He is embodied in the meanest clod,
And he exists in every stone and tree.

Man thinks he slays me, saying, "God is naught.
For chance first formed and still creation sways."
I am the Chance he worships in his thought,
And I am all to which he homage pays.

"As milk to curd, as water into ice"
So do I change my ever-changing form;
I am fair Virtue, I am hideous Vice,
I am the sunshine and the raging storm.

All things to me, how far soe'er they seem,
Are near, for I am earth, air, water, fire;
The life of man is but a "fitful dream,"
And all created things to me aspire.

Many may doubt, 'tis I who give them thought
With which they vainly think from me to flee.
Dispel illusions! Seek me as you ought,
Say, I am Brahm, and in thyself find me.

Wouldst thou this riddle read? I am the Soul.
Whence both the known and unknown have the start.
And I am God, for God is but the whole
Of which all souls form each an equal part.

—W. H. KENT.

LITTLE WOMAN OF MINE.

She ain't any bit of an angel—
This sweet little woman o' mine;
She's jest a plain woman,
An' purty much human—
This sweet little woman o' mine.

For what would I do with an angel
When I looked for the firelight's shine?
When six little sinners
Are wantin' their dinners?
No! Give me this woman o' mine!

I've hearn lots o' women called "angels,"
An' lots o' 'em thought it wuz fine;
But give 'em the feathers,
An' me, in all weathers,
This sweet little woman o' mine.

I jest ain't got nuthin' agin 'em—
These angels—they're good in their line;
But they're sorter above me!
Think God that she'll love me—
This dear little woman o' mine.
—F. L. STANTON in Chicago Times-Herald.

DOES NOT KNOW CHOCTAW.

Winona Republican: Of what political offense has the Hon. Tams Bixby been guilty that he should be sent in banishment to the Choctaws? Why, he can't even speak the language of the tribe—though, it is to be admitted, he can write it like an aborigine.

A REPUBLICAN PRESIDENT.

New York Journal: President McKinley is an old-fashioned politician who is fond of his party and will be faithful to it. Also he will discharge the debts due to those who were mainly instrumental in securing his nomination and election.

A WRONG IDEA.

Sherburne County Star-News: Nobody at all familiar with Minnesota politics ought to begrudge Stanford Newel, of St. Paul, an honorary position of some kind under the government. Mr. Newel has always lent his aid to the Republican cause without asking for anything for himself, and if there happens to be anything for Minnesota in way of a foreign consulship, why, let Mr. Newel have it. The idea that nobody but a man who has held office all his life is eligible to an appointment now, ought not to prevail forever.

THE WAR IN THE ORIENT.

Washington Star: With all respect to the bravery of the Greek soldiers it may be suggested that Spain tried a change of generals in the Cuban campaign and with a conspicuous lack of success.

Minneapolis Journal: King George has "spasms of the heart" and the doctors have advised him to seek the seclusion of some neighboring island. Here is one of the mysteries of Providence that George has spasms while the sultan is eating four meals a day.

New York Tribune: The testimony of the present campaign is that the unspeakable Turk has become quite a respectable combatant, and no longer conducts himself like the savage which the history of his conquests in general makes him out to be. It is a principle of ethics as well as piety to give the devil his due, and a like tribute may not be withheld from his cousin, the Turk, who is really taking on military traits of considerable decency.

Philadelphia Ledger: It is not improbable that some of the Greek commanders have proved to be incompetent, for few of them have had any real war experience, but it is not necessary to conclude that the king, or his advisers, were to blame for the mistakes of judgment made. M. Ruiil will be very fortunate if, with the information gained in the last few weeks, he can make a better disposition of available officers and put the Grecian army on a footing to resist a superior force of Turks.

Chicago Times-Herald: If the Greeks of today are the descendants of the heroes of Thermopylae and Marathon they are most assuredly degenerate sons. Leonidas and Themistocles would not own them. But it is not likely that the blood of the ancient Hellenes runs in their veins. They are not Hellenes at all, but a mixed race, formed from the various conquering nations that at one time or another overran the country. The sunny isles of Greece since the days of Demosthenes have been under the dominion of the Macedonians, the Romans, the Goths, the Venetians and the Moslems, and if the ancient blood has at all survived it is so diluted as to be beyond recognition.

TOM AND JERRY.

St. Paul Pioneer Press: Now that Mr. Simpson of Kansas has taken to enlivening the gloom of congress by reading extracts about himself from the newspapers, there seems to be no reason why it should ever adjourn.

Kansas City Journal: Speaker Reed may limit Jerry Simpson's opportunities for exhibiting his ears on the floor of congress, but there is no czarish restriction on Jerry's liberty to show off his golf stockings while walking down Pennsylvania avenue.

Minneapolis Tribune: The house of representatives, under Speaker Reed's leadership, is still pursuing the do-nothing policy of adjourning for three days at a time. This is getting to be a farce. The ostensible reason for such adjournment is to give the senate time to act upon the tariff bill—but everybody knows that the senate will not consider its action on that bill in less than six weeks. In the meantime the house might be passing a bankruptcy bill, or shaping up a currency bill—if Speaker Reed would let it.

Kansas City Star: Jerry Simpson, the spontaneous statesman from Medicine Lodge, appears to have prosecuted his war on Speaker Reed until he waked up the enemy and received a blow in the neighborhood of Gaudy designated at the neck. Speaker Reed invited Mr. Simpson to appeal to the house in the shape of a resolution disapproving of the speaker's course, and the house took a vote indicating that as between the speaker and Simpson it indistinctly preferred the former. When it come to this issue Democrats cheerfully joined in large numbers with the Republicans, and the Kansas buffoon was sent tumbling over the ropes.

SHOTS AT THE PULPIT.

Minneapolis Journal: Very Rev. C. O. Brown, who made a decided record in San Francisco, has been called to an Englewood, Ill., Congregational church which pays $12,00 for the luxury.

Philadelphia Times: A New Jersey minister is said to pronounce the benediction by phonograph. It's right perhaps to call this invention a novelty, but it should hardly be confounded with a blessing.

Cincinnati Tribune: A Chicago preacher who went out on a midnight expedition around the streets a few nights ago to see if it was true that the police do not do their duty was arrested as a suspicious character and locked up all night. He is convinced that the report was correct.

St. Louis Republic: A Kansas City preacher is attacking the sins of modern society last Sunday, said: "You talk about 'keeping pace with the crowd,' and being 'in the swim.' There are times I would rather be with the minority. The minority had a good deal the best of it during the flood." The minority was "in the swim" during the flood, just the same.

Philadelphia Record: A prize fighter received a severe drubbing at the hands of Rev. Charles I. Stengle, the athletic pastor of the Methodist church at Leipsic Del., yesterday afternoon. John Stout, of Dover, came here and asked the preacher if he could rent the old Methodist church building for a sparring exhibition. The preacher, who recently came from Dover, knew Stout and gave him a lecture for thinking of such a thing. Stout resented the sermon's talk and started to attack him. Rev. Mr. Stengle was alert, and, seizing the prize fighter by the throat, choked him until he was black in the face. When the preacher released his hold the fighter slunk away. Mr. Stengle's congregation is congratulating him.

A lie is the devil's sign that he is still doing business in that neighborhood.

Our old clothes have lost us some friends, but not so many as our opinions about our neighbors.

The man who is praying in earnest for a revival by his church, will make his longest prayers at home.

It is a clever man that can change another's political opinion, but a $5-bill will often change his vote.

A man may be more careful about the foundation that is under his house, than about the foundation that is under his life.

ONE HEART.

I sometimes linger o'er my list
Of friends I lost in other days,
And still the question with me stays—
"When I am gone shall I be missed?"

I doubt if others think the same,
Or even wish to share my thought—
That men were foolish who have sought
To leave a never-dying name.

When thou hast run thine earthly race,
Thou will not "leave a world in tears,"
Nor will men come in after years
To view thine earthly resting place.

Thy poor remains will rest as well,
Thy spirit will be no less free,
Although it is not thine to be
A Milton or a Raphael.

Fret not thyself, but heaven thank
If all the good that thou canst do
May be so done that only few
Need ever know thy place is blank.

Be thankful if but one true heart
Shall feel for thee the moment's pain—
Ere it can say "we meet again"—
Of knowing what it is to part.

One loving heart thou mayest crave.
Let all thou earnest for on earth
Should seem to have no lasting worth
And end forever in the grave.

One faithful heart beneath the sky,
In which to leave a seed of love,
To blossom in a world above
And bear a fruit which shall not die.

THE BICKELS' DOWNFALL.

St. Cloud Times: The Santa Cruz, Cal., Record says that William Bickel, of St. Paul, is there, and is about to open a pawnbroker's shop. William Bickel was formerly collector of internal revenue of this state, and later president of the Germania bank of St. Paul. He has a wide acquaintance in this state, and was reputed to be quite rich at one time. His son, William Bickel, Jr., late president of the Minnesota Savings bank, was recently arrested upon complaint of a depositor, who alleged embezzlement.

HOT STUFF.

Cincinnati Tribune: The complete name of the king of Siam, who is soon coming to visit us, bears a strong resemblance to a short dialect story.

Indianapolis Journal: "There is nothing," said the gentleman eminent in politics, "that I enjoy more than fighting for a principle."

"Did you ever get one?" asked the impudent person.

Washington Star: "Nebber min' 'bout dem all Greek gemmen's clothes," said Uncle Eben. "Ef de powder magazine's all right, dey kin manage ter git along wifout er fashion paper."

Harper's Bazar: Mrs. Commonstalk (soberly)—Are you sure your fiance will make a good home body, Ella? Do you think she knows anything about mending, for instance?

Philly Commonstalk—About mending, mother? Why that is her very strongest point. I saw her mend a busted tire once in just fourteen minutes by the watch.

Cincinnati Enquirer: "They didn't have all this slang and idleness in my day," said grandma. "When a girl meant 'no' she said 'no,' and she put in her time knitting."

"And now," said Gladys Edyth, "instead of knitting and saying 'no,' the girls are knowing and saying 'nit.'"

Puck: Grimshaw—Well, I beat Borrow-by out of $4 just now.

Askins—How in the world did you do it?

Grimshaw—Oh, he struck me for $5, and I lent him $1.

Philadelphia North American: "Here's a case that bothers me," said the assistant physician in the insane asylum.

"What is it?" asked the chief.

"The patient sees things, yet I am informed he has never taken a drop of liquor in his life."

"That's all right. Put him in the airship ward."

LIFE'S EPITOME.

There was a man in our town
Invested all his health,
With madly avaricious aim,
To win the goal of wealth;
And when the same he had attained,
With all his might and main,
He vainly lavished all his wealth
To get his health again.

Chicago Record: "Isabel didn't marry a handsome man."

"How do you know?"

"She had such a quiet wedding."

Puck: Brownell—Do you think the Cuhens will eventually gain their liberty?

Harkness—No; you remember "The pen is mightier than the sword."

Judge: "They say Shrewsbury is going to marry Miss Quikstep."

"It's true. And, let me tell you, Miss Quikstep is a girl of the period."

"Is she? What's the amount of her dot?"

Indianapolis Journal: Watts—Notice how bald-headed the pictures of King George show him to be?

Potts—Yes. And I can't understand why he isn't at the front of those ballet-skirted troops.

Chicago Tribune: "I raise you one," said the Mississippi, registering an inch higher on the gauge.

"We see you and go you one better," replied the levee builders, reaching for their well filled bags.

This shows the advantage of having plenty of sand.

Boston Traveler: "The most curious thing in the world—" began Bixley.

"Hush!" hoarsely whispered the horrified Junkins, with a gesture toward the door: "she's in the next room."

Cincinnati Enquirer: "What's your husband's politics?" asked the new neighbor.

"Sir?" said the lady addressed. "Jim? He's a saint."

"Anti-what?"

"No; not anti-what; just a anti. He's agin anything that happens to be."

A TIP FOR GREECE.

O Greece!
Whose Ulysses
Pasted Polyphemus in the eye,
Closing the same;
Who flew the coop of Poseidon,
And became Calypso's star boarder;
O Greece!
'Smatter anyway?
Have you no old
Shop-worn Agememnons lying around
Loose?
Or an occasional Hector
Or two?
Now here's a tip:
May the first is Moving Day.
And what to Hellas
Is the matter with moving the Moslems
On that occasion?
While the Turk lies dreaming
In his guarded tent of Greece her Kenesis
In supercilance bent,
Then's the time to trot out
A bunch of Nymph
Or an Aphrodite.
Grease her knees
All you like, only
Turn the Sorceress loose
With power to act,
While Zeus
Plays second hand low
From his rez-de-chaussee
On Olympus, and Neptune
Rolls a wave over 'em
From Alpha to Upsilon
Or theresbouts.
And the frogs of Aristophanes
Sound a funereal dirge!
O Greece!
Only take this tip,
And they won't do a thing
On the banks of the Styx
For months to come
But entertain the Turks.
—New York Sun.

JUDGE NEWEL'S WHISKERS.

New York Sun: Stanford Newel, nominated for minister to the Netherlands, counts among his other possessions, which are many, the champion set of whiskers of Minnesota, if not of the entire Northwest. They are finer than those possessed by Hon. Wash Hesing, of Chicago, when Hesing's whiskers were in their prime and were the pride of all Chicago. Newel's whiskers are red. They grow out from either side of his face, his chin being bare. It is commonly said in Minnesota that these whiskers have been the sure barometer of the political drift of the state. Newel has been prominent in Republican politics out there a great many years, and he has been chairman of the state committee. Whenever things are running smoothly Newel's whiskers stood straight up to his hat rim, and whenever things looked bad they drooped clear down and brushed his shoulders. So noticeable was this barometer-like quality of whiskers that it was customary in campaign times for the newspapers to picture the whiskers of the Democratic papers invariably showing them drooping and the Republican papers showing them on end.

TOWER'S SACRIFICE.

Cleveland Press: Diplomacy sometimes requires most heroic sacrifices. Charlemagne Tower, of Philadelphia, has been compelled to give up the third vice presidency of the Germantown Cricket club in order to accept the Austrian mission.

BROKER CHAPMAN'S PLEA.

Chicago Dispatch: Broker Chapman, guilty of contempt of court because he knows the names of senators who speculated in sugar and refuses to impart these names to the senate committee, is in a very despondent mood concerning the future of the United States. "I am afraid," sadly says Chapman, "that serious times are coming for this country, for the spirit of communism is steadily growing."

Broker Chapman is right. Serious times are not only coming for this country, but have already arrived, not, however, through the growth of a spirit of communism, but through the growth of a spirit of plutocracy; through a disregard for the rights of the people; through the dishonest grasping after wealth by men elected to curb and control the trusts; through the protection of these scoundrels by Chapman and kindred spirits. It is not at all necessary to allege that Chapman is as guilty as the senators who speculated through him in sugar trust certificates, the market value of which their votes would affect. In fact, it is not a question of what he did, but of what he refuses to do. By refusing to speak he protects men whose conduct is deserving of deepest condemnation and severest punishment. This is the charge preferred against him, and for this he has been sentenced to imprisonment and fine.

Should Chapman's offense be condoned the indictments against Havemeyer and Searles, the magnates of the sugar trust, and his employers, would be quashed. There can be no doubt of the moral obliquity of these men. They had important legislation in the interests of their monopoly before the senate, and by giving dishonest senators an opportunity to make dishonest dollars they made sure of getting the legislation they wanted.

It is this sort of thing which will encourage the growth of communism which Chapman deplores. It is this sort of thing which must be stopped or a more serious thing that a "question of privilege" will spring into existence. Men with money, when checked in the unlawful use of their riches, are prompt in raising the cry of "communism," but this cry will not save them much longer from the wrath of the outraged people, who will insist that riches shall no longer defy the law and corrupt men elected to make and enforce the law.

BLINDFOLDED THE HORSE.

Philadelphia Ledger: Col. Peyton, whose death was chronicled yesterday, wrote a book, "Reminiscences of the Past." In this he refers to his first meeting with Grant as follows:

"In the year 1838 I was working as a boy in a country store at Flat Rock, Bourbon county, Ky. Ulysses S. Grant was then a boy, living at Georgetown, Ohio, but many miles distant. One day Grant drove over to Flat Rock with the niece of my employer. Grant was then 16 years of age, awkward, ungainly, determined, industrious and very poorly dressed. He drove a vicious horse. The night after his arrival at Flat Rock he slept with me in the store. It was a cold night, and we boys kept close to the ice of the counter. In the morning Grant asked me if he could assist me. I said yes. He helped me take down the shutters and sweep out the store and put the stock in place. After breakfast he drove off. I heard from him after his drive home. Before he had gone far from Flat Rock his horse ran away and finally brought up with a crash in a fence corner. Nothing broke. Grant jumped out, seized the trembling horse by the bridle and tied his handkerchief over the beast's eyes. He drove the horse blindfolded all the way to Georgetown, Ohio."

SPRING FLOWERS.

I begged a flower of an old, old man,
Who sat by the wayside to mourn,
Whose life had ebb'd to its final span.
As he rested him all forlorn.
"A flower," quoth he, as he sadly smiled,
And held out the bloom to my gaze;
"I gathered these for a poor dead child,
In the thicket, close by the maze."

"What, to the dead, can a flower impart,"
I asked, as he looked on the rose;
"Surely, the clay with its lifeless heart
Seeks naught save the tranquil repose?"
But the old man looked with moistened eye,
And the teardrop played on his cheek,
As with sorrow's voice he made reply,
"Neither flower nor dead may speak.

"These are the emblems of purity,
The lily, the rose and the leaf,
They're symbols of love and constancy,
And remind us that life is brief.
They fade when their nurture forsakes them,
To our lives they're closely akin,
They richly adorn him, that takes them,
They toil not, nor yet do they spin.

"The bride in her blushes and beauty
For adornment posies entwines,
But casts them aside ere her duty
Leads whither her pleasure inclines,
They're besprinkled with dew from heaven,
They rear themselves proudly and brave,
To us for our lives they are given,
At our death they enshroud one grave."
—London Lady.

MAY SAW WOOD.

St. Paul Dispatch: Judge Ensign, of Duluth, has decided that making one's wife split wood is not considered cruel and inhuman treatment. It only remains then for wives to say nothing and saw wood.

WHEN MARIA STARTS THE FIRE.

Some poet has written a few stanzas on "When Mary Winds the Clock." This style of household poetry seeming to meet a popular demand, we have gone this gentleman one better, and here give a few classic lines on "When Maria Starts the Fire."

At the unholy hour of four, the time when all the world should snore, I'm wakened by a slamming door—
By my Maria.

She rises Phoenix-like from bed, puts on a rig to knock you dead, then in a moment she has fled—
To build the fire.

I hear a rumble and a roar, like wreckage on a rock-bound shore, then bang—down falls a ton or more
Of coal for that blamed fire.

I hear a rattle, roar and slam, a muttered word that sounds like clam—she's wrestling with that fiendish pan
Of ashes from the fire.

Then into the cold world she goes, and bumps against a wind that blows about her from those misfit clothes.
Oh, my, that blasted fire.

The pan of ashes veers about, I hear a wild, blood-curdling shout; the contents have been emptied out On my Maria.

Her golden locks and dreamy eyes are filled, poor girl, not with surprise—but filled with ashes, I surmise,
From kitchen fire.

She rises in her fearful wrath and kicks the ashpan up the path—then comes the rest, the aftermath.
She sails in on the fire.

She works an hour and maybe more—I hear the contest through the door—I hear her struggling o'er the floor,
But Maria builds the fire.

Then when it blazes cheerfully, my dear Maria steeps the tea, and cooks the buckwheats hot for me,
On that old kitchen fire.

No sign of conflict in her air—how calm, how sweet beyond compare, is my Maria, so dear, so fair,
Who builds the kitchen fire!
—New Haven Evening Register.

ACHIEVEMENT EXPLAINED.

Washington Star: He was a little curly-haired, rosy-cheeked member of a boy choir. He had been having some trouble with a high note, but on this occasion sang it out with a clearness and vigor which surprised and delighted all his family.

"That was splendid," said the leader of the choir. "You have been taking my advice and practising."

"No, I haven't practised it."

"I don't understand how else you accomplished it."

"Well, I'll tell you. Just before I came to that note I shut my eyes and made believe I was at a ball game and saw Cartwright steal a base."

NO FRICTION.

Minneapolis Tribune: It may be noticed that the senators from the Northwest fared well in the distribution of committee places. And Senator Davis deserves great credit for yielding his place on the committee on territories that Senator Nelson might be given membership on the committee on public lands, not only for the courtesy implied, but because he thereby gives the lie to the rumors that there is any friction between Minnesota's senators.

POPULAR IN EUROPE.

A significant fact in the industrial world of Europe is the steadily increasing demand for hard woods that are indigenous to the soil of America, says the Chicago Chronicle. As may be supposed, oak leads the foreign shipments, although tulip, poplar, ash, gum and black walnut, whenever a good quality can be secured, are in some demand. European consumers like the quality of American oak, and, since it is known to be plentiful here, it will probably be in increasing demand. Cottonwood has been shipped to Germany in considerable quantities, where cheap wood is required for furniture and other uses. Much of this lumber is forwarded from New Orleans, and since a great part of the oak, ash, poplar, cottonwood and other timbers demanded by the foreign market is in the Southern states, it is not improbable that lumber for foreign markets will be largely shipped in future from the gulf ports. In speaking of this matter the Northwestern Lumberman says that the European market requires lumber cut of exact thickness, and of accurate length, trimmed so as to have the butts square and true. Space for piling in the yards of the Old World is an object, so that random, uneven lengths are objectionable, and, since the foreign buyer insists that he shall have just what he bargains for, quality should be strictly attended to.

In Duluth's Social Circles.

Duluth social circles were scarcely duller in Lent than now. There is little or nothing doing, but there is some consolation in the fact that the summer season is almost at hand. Company G's party the last of the month will be a relief from the monotony. The Assembly will not give a May party on account of the military ball. It will probably give this month's party in midsummer. The minstrel performance last Monday brought all society out, and, of course, delighted everyone. A number of the society people who are interested in music are arranging to go to the May musical festival in Minneapolis week after next.

* * *

The elaborate ball which Company G has been planning for some time will be given May 28 at the Armory. It will be given on a very large scale. The Armory will be profusely decorated. The Duluth City band and Hoare's orchestra will play. A large number of National Guardsmen from outside the city are expected to attend.

* * *

The Lakeside Cinch club was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Hollister, of Fifty-first avenue east and London road last evening. A pleasant evening was passed and delightful refeshments were served.

* * *

The Young Ladies' Luncheon club was entertained by Miss Bradley, of 1125 East Superior street, last Wednesday. It was a green luncheon. A beautiful bunch of narcissus was the center piece and strands of smilax radiated from this. Prettily decorated cards were the souvenirs. Those present were: Miss Strayer, Miss Sellwood, Miss Frazer, Miss Spencer and Miss Fitzgerald.

* * *

The Young Ladies' Card club will be entertained Monday afternoon by Miss Minnie MacLean, of 3 East Fourth street.

* * *

The Ladies' Relief society gave one of its charity card parties at the Spalding Wednesday afternoon and it proved to be very successful.

* * *

Next Monday evening there will be an indoor baseball game at the Armory between members of Companies G and H. The game will be followed by an informal dance and Hoare's orchestra will play. The young people take a great interest in the game, and as this will be to determine the result of a tie there is great excitement over it.

* * *

The Current Events club met Thursday morning with Miss Comstock.

* * *

The Nineteenth Century club will meet next Saturday with Miss Strayer. The Hawaiian question will be discussed.

* * *

The senior class of the high school had its annual picnic last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were the chaperones.

* * *

Mrs. W. P. Heimbach, of 1123 East First street, entertained a number of her lady friends at cards last Saturday. Grande was played and Mrs. Sterling Smith was the prize winner. The rooms were handsomely decorated with red roses and foliage plants. Those present were: Mrs. Ed Hazen, Mrs. Bousfield, Mrs. John Stephenson, Mrs. William H. Smallwood, Mrs. William J. Olcott, Mrs. Tagart, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. W. W. Routh, Mrs. Page Morris, Mrs. Whistler, of Houghton, Mich.; Mrs. S. F. Payne, Mrs. O. Park Smith, Mrs. Sterling Smith, Mrs. William H. Blades, Mrs. Charles Britts, Mrs. Mooney and Mrs. Mulliken.

* * *

The members of the Cecilian Choral society who will take part in the Northwestern May musical festival at Minneapolis will go down on May 16.

* * *

The members of the Cecilian society are greatly interested in the Heinrich Meyn concert to be given Thursday evening, May 20. His numbers will include the following: "Thy Glorious Deed," from "Samson," by Handel; "Widmung," by Schumann; "Am Rhein und bein Weib," by Ress; "Dio Possenta," aria of Valentine from "Faust," by Gounod; "A Madrigal," by Victor Harris;" "An die Lyre," by Schubert, and "Ouvre Les Yeux Bleus," by Messenet. The Cecilian choral will sing numbers, and a mixed chorus, "Hail, Bright Abode," by Wagner, will close the concert.

* * *

The musical for the benefit of the Catholic organ fund which was to have been given at Mrs. F. N. Phelan's this week was postponed to next Monday evening. Those who will take part are: Miss Lewitzky, of St. Louis; Mrs. Henry, Arthur Lahey, R. H. Cox, Professor Tonling, Hoelscher and Mr. Geisg.

* * *

Professor and Mrs. Francis E. Woodward have arrived here and will be a welcome addition to Duluth musical circles. Mrs. Woodward has a fine soprano voice and Mr. Woodward a rich and powerful baritone.

* * *

The piano recital by Mrs. H. D. Pearson at the Duluth Music company's rooms on Thursday was well attended and was very pleasing to everyone. Mrs. Pearson's numbers were excellently rendered. They were from Jensen, Ketten, Beethoven, Moszkowski, Rubinstein, Chaminade, Nevin and Klein. Mrs. James McAuliffe sang "As the Dawn" and Sawyer's "Spanish Romance," and Mrs. C. H. Thornton sang "The Brown Thrush," by Buck.

* * *

A concert will be given Tuesday evening at the First Baptist church by the Duluth Union band, assisted by local musicians. Miss Elizabeth Spencer will sing and also Miss Ellen Schilsted. Miss Eva Willeuts will give a piano solo. Ray Prytz and H. G. Gearhart will sing. R. R. Cox will recite and the High School Girls' quartet will sing.

* * *

At a recent concert given at Des Moines by the Carl Riedelsberger quartet, a composition by Gerard Tonning, of Duluth, was played, and the Des Moines had the following to say of it:

"The program last night was the most interesting of all that Mr. Reidelsberger has arranged. It included a quartet by Mozart, two movements of a Dvorak trio, two movements from a quartet by Raff, and an intermezzo for quartet by Gerard Tonning, of Duluth, written for and dedicated to the Riedelsberger quartet. It proved to be exceedingly interesting. It bears the mark of real talent. It is written in the wild, fantastic spirit which characterizes the composers of the North. There is virility in the principal theme, and delightful melody in the second theme taken by the 'cello.

This composition will be played at the Riedelsberger-Tonning concert on June 7.

* * *

A social was given Tuesday evening at the First Baptist church. A fine program was given by the young people of the church.

* * *

The violin pupils at Two Harbors of Miss Cara Palmer, of this city, will give a recital on May 22. They will be assisted by Miss Minnie Vial, of Duluth, pianist.

* * *

A pleasant birthday party was tendered Mrs. H. Milnes last Saturday. There was vocal and instrumental music and dancing. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. R. Smollett, Mr. and Mrs. H. Older, Mr. and Mrs. R. Hoad, Mr. and Mrs. F. Whittaker, Mr. and Mrs. F. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. J. Watts, Mr. and Mrs. J. Drewett, Mr. and Mrs. E. Parrott, Mr. and Mrs. Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Berridge, Mr. and Mrs. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. J. McMillan, Mrs. Jellott, Misses Plumb, Whittaker, Tellech, McLean, Wendland, Barnes, Swanson, Hollander, Kelly, Magill, Brandes, Schweger, V. Shaw, Watts, M. Shaw, Smollet, Messrs. T. Magill, T. SOMETHING TO KNOW.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centers in the stomach, gently stimulates the liver and kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at Duluth Drug company's drug store.

SLOW TO SPEAK.

But It Finally Leaked Out.

There is an amount of pleasure in winning commendation as a recognition of merit. The same satisfaction one has in finally winning a customer who has been prejudiced in the start. In New York a certain wholesale grocer and manufacturer has gained a national reputation as a connoisseur of foods and drinks. We might as well give his name, then you will all know whether we have rightly spoken of Mr. Hazard, he of Shrewsbury katsup fame, and the maker of a list of the choicest specialties in the food line in the world. Mr. Hazard was requested to make a test of Postum Cereal Food Coffee at his private table, but demurred on the grounds he had tried three kinds of coffee "substitutes" and he had all of that kind of experience he wanted. Learning that Postum was not offered as a "substitute" but stood on its own basis as a pure health food drink, claiming to have the color of Mocha, and a delicious pungent piquant taste, all its own but very much like the milder grades of Java, and that it was made of the gluten and phosphates of cereals he concluded to make trial of it. The following morning he reported that "Mrs. Hazard had taken a great fancy to Postum," but would give no opinion one way or the other of how Mr. Hazard regarded it. The fourth or fifth morning after, he was moving around from desk to desk in their great office on Hudson street, when one of the oldest travelers of the house said: "Mr. Hazard, I hear you have tried Postum Cereal Food Coffee, what is there in it?" Well, I'll tell you, George, this is the fifth morning I've had it for my breakfast, and it is on my table for good. It's the finest thing on earth for a breakfast beverage. Coffee meets the taste of many people and Postum will meet the taste of as many more and keep them for friends; it don't abuse them as coffee does some people. Postum is all right, you can depend on it."

It would be difficult to find higher authority in the world. Postum is made largely of the gluten of the cereals and contains no other ingredient than the products of the pure grains. It appeals to the need of the brain workers, who are frequently troubled to digest coffee. It truly "makes red blood," and builds in the parts needed to replace the lost gray matter in the nerve cells. Postum comes in 15 and 25-cent packages, and is, nowadays, a part of the stock of every well-conducted grocery in the North. It is widely and steadily advertised which, together with its unbounded merit has built up a great business. The works of the Postum Cereal company, limited, are at Battle Creek, Mich., and all prominent jobbers carry it.

There is but one original Postum Cereal Food Coffee; see the red seals on packages. "It Makes Red Blood." There are many imitations offered as "Just as good."

MUST BE APPROVED.

Commissioners Will Require That of C. O. Baldwin's Bill.

Yesterday afternoon the board of county commissioners concluded to allow C. O. Baldwin's bill for services as acting county attorney on condition that it is approved by the attorney general and the judges of the district court. The members of the board said that they made this proviso that they might be protected against the bill being questioned. A resolution was passed to the effect that the county will not be responsible for patients sent to private hospitals. It was ordered that the superintendent of poor and the county physician be notified of this action.

The committee on court house and jail recommended that Sheriff Sargent's petition to have his office enlarged and the interior of the jail painted he denied and the board took the advice on the ground that the work was unnecessary at this time.

TO EXAMINE THE WALLS.

Board Appoints Engineer Patton and Architect Palmer.

At a conference held yesterday afternoon at the city hall in regard to the plans and material for the walls of the pumphouse at Lakewood, City Engineer Patton and Architect E. S. Palmer were appointed a committee to examine the walls and report to the board of public work what changes may be necessary to correct such errors as exist in the work. The idea of utilizing to the utmost possible extent the material on the ground will be kept in view.

There were present at the conference the waterworks committee, the members of the board of public works, Messrs. Palmer, Watterworth and McLeod of the committee of experts that examined the walls, City Engineer Patton and Building Inspector Robinson. Messrs. Patton and Palmer visited Lakewood this morning to investigate the walls.

Kindergarten Training Class Graduates Received Certificates Last Evening.

Address to the Class By Baroness von Bulow a Distinguished Kindergartner.

Miss Hofer, of Chicago, Also Briefly Addressed the Graduates.

Seldom has the Assembly hall of the High School building held so large and so representative an audience as it did last evening. The occasion was the graduating exercises of the kindergarten training classes, and an interesting occasion it was for more than one reason. In the first place the event was graced by the presence of Baroness von Bulow and Miss Amalie Hofer, the editor of the Kindergarten Magazine, of Chicago, two eminent disciples of Froebel. In the next place, the cadet classes were the largest ever graduated in this city.

The stage was a pretty sight. Near the front sat the visitors of the evening, together with Miss Clark, the superintendent of the Duluth kindergarten system, and Superintendent R. E. Denfeld. Just back of them sat the kindergartners of the city and the classes of cadets, a pleasing group of young women who have adopted as their life's work the moulding of character; from their first steps up to the time when the public schools receive them, with the foundations of character and discipline firmly laid for the reception of knowledge and life's checkered experiences. On each side of the platform there were handsome potted palms and plants, and in the center was a great bunch of roses resting in a jardiniere. On the wall back of the platform hung a likeness of Froebel, draped with the national colors.

The exercises opened with a chorus, led by Miss Anna Farrell, following which Miss Clark gave a short but pertinent address of welcome, speaking of the satisfaction it afforded her to see such a large gathering, inasmuch as it manifested the interest of the public in the kindergarten work. She gracefully welcomed the guests of the evening, after which she introduced Baroness von Bulow as one who was better fitted to speak of Froebel and his system than any other living being.

Mme. von Bulow's address was a pleasing effort. She plainly had her subject well in hand, and it was equally plain that it was one that was near to her heart. Her command of English is excellent, and she never lacked pleasing and appropriate words to express her ideas. In opening, she expressed her pleasure at being in Duluth at such a time, and at having the privilege of addressing such an audience on a subject so dear to her, and which was exciting such a universal interest. Her address proper was not only entertaining, but it was instructive, and it was listened to with lively interest by all, especially by those whose time is to be given up to perpetuating the principles of which she spoke.

She spoke at length on the life of Froebel, of his system, its origin and growth, and she dwelt lovingly on the work of her aunt, Baroness von Marenholtz-Bulow, who was one of the earliest disciples of Froebel, and who was intimately associated with himself and his ideas during many years. Her aunt, during the later years of her useful life, had often cast her mind's eye toward this country, in the rapid progress of which she was much interested. She wanted to visit this country, but her health forbade, and one of her last requests to her niece was that she should visit this country and bring her greetings and wishes for the welfare of the cause here. She wanted to help along in this country the movement which cares for the child, from the cradle to the grade schools.

Returning to Frobelism she spoke of its humble beginning and followed it from its birth during its rapid growth, saying its spread was now so great that the outcome was past all comprehension. She explained the connection of kindergarten with the general school, showing how the gentle and systematic training prepared the child for the higher schools. The idea should not be left behind in the kindergarten, however, but should be carried on through the school work. In Germany the schools immediately above the kindergarten are known as school gartens. She said that a child's intellect should not be developed in advance of its physical being, but both should be worked out together. She said that she was an advocate of outdoor exercise in connection with the early school work, and that the children could not get too much of it. In Germany much of the school work is carried on in a garden adjoining the school.

At the conclusion of Baroness von Bulow's address Miss Clark made a pleasing little speech in which she presented the thirteen graduates to Superintendent Denfeld and President Huge of the school board. These gentlemen made a few appropriate remarks, after which Mr. Hugo presented the certificates and diplomas.

Miss Clark then presented Miss Hofer as one well known to all connected with the kindergartner's work. Miss Hofer said that she had witnessed all sorts of graduating exercises in her short time, but this was the first time she ever saw a public school kindergarten commencement, though, perhaps, such an event had occurred before. She spoke of the great growth of the movement in this country, after which she made a very neat and helpful address to the cadets. She told them that they had spent the last one or two years in finding out what the kindergarten system is, and they had the rest of their lives to tell others what it is.

The program closed by the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by Miss Farrell and the chorus, after which a reception was held in the hall, during which many of the audience were presented to the guests of the evening by Miss Clark and Mrs. William S. Bishop, who is entertaining the baroness during her stay.

After the reception the young people danced for a time.

Those who received diplomas last night were as follows: Edith Scovell, Florence Williams, Gertrude Seaton, Lillian Ingalls, Susan Lyman Barnard, Janet Lenore Smith and Mary Berenice Burns. Those who received certificates were: Clara Ames, Annie Milne, Isabelle Veronique Brackinreed, Rebecca Elizabeth Barnard, Letitia Frances Nesbitt and Gdendoline Agnes Miles.

FIGHTING STORKS.

Peaceful Looking Birds Can Savagely Dispute.

The keepers in the Cincinnati Zoo have found out that storks, the bringers, according to tradition, of all the blessed babies that are born into the world, and which in far-off sleepy Holland perch on the roof trees of houses and are looked up to by the Dutchman, drunk or sober, are the toughest tempered and bloodiest birds in the catalogue when their dander is up, says the New York Journal.

There are two of these pacific-looking creatures in the Cincinnati garden, and the manager of the show who put them together, thinking that he would have a happy family performance, has decided that he did not miss much in not seeing the Corbett-Fitz affair.

An eye witness of the set-to between the Cincinnati baby-bringers described the mix-up thus: "It all began friendly, like a boxing bout. One stork marched to the rear of the cage, stretched his yard of a neck straight stood steady and then turned 'about face' with all the tactical precision of a ranksman, and stood as straight as one of Uncle Sam's shooter boys. Suddenly the other raised one of his yardsticks straight forward and upward, as though it were a musket. Then he lowered his neck and sighted along the long stretch of slender leg pointed as if at the heart of his stolidly standing companion, all in perfect imitation of one of a military detail ordered to shoot a spy. At the time the aim at the brother stork's heart seemed to be precise, the aiming stork suddenly uttered a cry, and the other stork fell forward as though shot.

"Then, taking position in the center of their cage, the mammoth stilt-legged birds circled their right and left feet in the air alternately, then sent them spinning at each other's heads, which darted back, forward, sideways, up, down and every other way.

"Three times consecutively did they knock the yardstick legs completely from under one another. When it was evident that both storks were getting groggy each drew one leg up until it was completely hidden under the body; then, each standing on one leg, went at each other with their heads, making a balance-hunting match out of it that was fast and furious. They finally went down with their heads and necks tangled like a sleepy boy's shoe string, in the worst kind of a knot.

"For an hour or two peace was preserved, but they broke the silence of the night later on with another fight, which was fiercer than the first. They were resting from their labors when the keeper went to bed, and though somewhat ruffled still resembled birds. When the doors were opened in the morning they looked like two large, raw Hamburg steaks, and each in his corner, with eyes closed by the conflict, waited the return of strength to enable to go at it again."

Investigation, instituted after three days of that sort of thing, developed the fact that several years ago these birds performed by Hagenback's show, that at a matinee they had quarreled over which should have the center of the stage, and that they had kept the old grudge bottled until now.

PALMER HOUSE MANAGER

Mr. Willis Howe Warmly Endorses Paine's Celery Compound.

The Palmer house, Chicago, needs no introduction to readers in America or Europe. It is one of the largest hotels in the world, and is one of the great institutions of Chicago.

Willis Howe, the well-known superintendent of the Palmer house, writes the following letter:

Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt.—Gentlemen: It is with a feeling of sincere gratitude that I write you this letter. I was seriously sick with fever, and after passing the dangerous stage, began taking Paine's celery compound. At this writing I am in excellent health, and in fact never felt better. I attribute this to the use of Paine's celery compound. Hoping that others will find that Paine's celery compound will make them as well as it did me, I am most gratefully yours, WILLIS HOWE.

Chicago, Jan. 14, 1897.

Repeated and astonishing success in making people well has lifted Paine's celery compound to the admiration of the world as the surest and wisest means of invigorating a "rundown," nervous condition of the body.

Since the discovery of this great remedy men and women who keep themselves reasonably well informed in the world's progress refuse to be martyrs to such well understood troubles as sleeplessness, rheumatism, neuralgia or kidney disease. Paine's celery compound is used with perfect assurance in those households where only an intelligent, authentic remedy can get any consideration. As a spring remedy nothing compares with it.

As physicians are all the time saying: The pain over the kidneys, headaches and the misery of nervous debility should be met by Paine's celery compound. Its invigorating action is at once felt by the irritated, worn-out nerves and brain. It makes new blood. It brings fresh strength and vigor to tired, worn-out men, weary women and to sickly children. For those diseases which are the result of weakened nerves, such as dyspepsia, headaches, neuralgia and heart disease, Paine's celery compound is the only logical, permanent cure. It feeds the wasted nerve tissues and regulates their action. It tones up the entire digestive tract and encourages the body to take on flesh and to increase the volume of pure blood in the arteries and veins.

A REMARKABLE CONTEST.

A remarkable case developed at Morristown, Ind., says the St. Louis Republic. Morgan Chandler, a banker and a resident of Greenfield, several weeks ago executed his will, dividing his large estate among his nearest relatives. Among them was Eliza Burton, to whom he had bequeathed $10,000, which she was to receive providing she was not living with her husband, Charles, at the time of the testator's death, she having married Burton against his wishes. It was also stated in the will that, should the testator survive the niece, the bequest was to go to the other legatees named in the will, not to Burton nor his heirs.

Soon after the will was drawn Burton died, leaving Mrs. Burton to support the children, which she did by taking in washing, sewing, etc. Several weeks ago the niece was taken ill and at about the same time the wealthy uncle was also stricken. Both grew constantly worse. The neighbors and friends of the widow took great interest, wishing her to survive the uncle, having learned the provisions of the will.

Greenfield and Morristown have telephone connections, and the friends of the widow were kept constantly informed as to the condition of the uncle. Both patients grew weaker. At times the mother would seem to be breathing her last, but stimulants would be administered and she would revive, or long enough to inquire as to the condition of her relative, when she would return to a comatose state.

This was continued thirty-six hours, and all hopes of prolonging her life longer were virtually abandoned. Finally a message came that Morgan Chandler was dead. Mrs. Burton had endured the tortures of death long enough to secure a fortune for her children. They were summoned to her bedside, and with a blessing upon them she closed her eyes and passed away. Cashier McDonald of the Union bank has been appointed their guardian.

BILLY MCLATCHEY'S ARREST.

In all possibility the village of Harvey has no more funny stories than any man within the confines of the limits of Chicago, says the Chicago Chronicle.

East Harvey is known as "Michigan." It was so called because most of its residents emigrated from the Badger state. Just beyond the corporate limits of the village, but constructively in "Michigan," thrives "Billy" McLatchey, a saloonkeeper. "Billy" makes his livelihood by selling beer to Harveyites, who don't like to be seen entering a more conspicuous place. However, "Bills" is a good fellow, as the world goes, contributes liberally to charity, is a good neighbor, and has a reputation for keeping his word. A short time ago a prohibitory association in Harvey, headed by Miss Lucy Page Gaston, sometime editor of the Harvey Citizen, caused the arrest of "Bills" McLatchey for selling liquor within two miles of the corporate limits. The warrant was placed in the hands of Frank Harrington, a Harvey constable, with instructions to serve it immediately. Harrington knew Mr. McLatchey. He knew his reputation as a "man of his word." Accordingly the constituted constable sent by message the following notice to McLatchey:

Dear Billy: I have a warrant for you on the old charge. Come down this afternoon.

FRANK HARRINGTON.

"Billy" folded up the note carefully and told the boy, "All right."

True to his word, McLatchey was on hand in the afternoon, and to all appearances the mandate of the great state of Illinois had been satisfied. Meantime, however, Miss Lucy Page Gaston had heard of the message, and hastened over to Harrington's office to ascertain why he had not served the warrant in the usual way.

"I have complied with the law. Certainly I have," replied the beleaguered constable, taking an extra puff at his cigar.

The reform editress touched her glasses deferentially, and then replied: "Sir, you have no conception of the purpose of the law. That warrant 'commanded' you to bring his body into court. The warrant said nothing about sending a messenger boy after him."

"Well, he came in, didn't he?" groaned the constable. "What is the purpose of a warrant if it isn't to secure a man's attendance in court to answer the charge preferred against him? Billy was all right, and I knew he would come."

"Yes, but you should have 'arrested' him," protested the editress. "You should have taken hold of him and brought him in. The law commands you to bring him in. Don't you understand?"

The constable didn't understand, but the justice of the peace allowed that he would let the matter drop. Meantime, Miss Gaston is of the opinion that the majesty of the law has been grievously offended.

RORAIMA

Tableland In the Sky Only to Be Reached By Balloons.

Strange Plants and Mysterious Animals of This Strange Country.

One of the Wonders in the Disputed Territory of Venezuela.

Evidence which has been unearthed during the past year as a result of the Venezuelan dispute, and much of which is now laid before the public, reveals the existence on the borders of British Guiana of a new wonderland. In addition to a marvelous mountain, there have been found relics of a former civilization that existed in America ages before the time of its discovery by Columbus. The Spaniards, as we know, found races that were white, or nearly so, says the New York Journal.

But these later discoveries go to show that long anterior, at a time, in fact, probably coeval with what we call the Egyptian civilization, America was peopled with a white race as fully cultured, as advanced in the sciences, and as powerful on these own ground as the ancient Egyptians, and as handsome in personal appearance—if some of the heads and faces on the specimens of pottery may be accepted as fair examples—as the ancient Greeks. It has long been known that America possessed extraordinary relics of a former civilization in what are known as the great "earthworks," which are still to be seen scattered about in many parts of the continent, and which, as vast engineering works, challenge comparison with the pyramids themselves. But new discovery has gone much further; basreliefs and pottery have been found that set forth with marvelous fidelity many minute details concerning this prehistoric people—their personal appearance and life, ornaments and habiliments; the style of wearing the hair and the beard, and other particulars that can be appreciated only by inspection and study of the reduced facsimiles lately published and issued by the government of the United States.

Many of them relate to the custom of human sacrifice, which, as most people are probably aware, prevailed largely in America when the Spaniards first landed; though few, perhaps, know the terrible extent to which it was carried. Prescott tells us that few writers have ventured to estimate the yearly number of victims at less than 20,000, while many put it as high as 50,000 in Mexico alone.

It is to consider that the types of these relations are so numerous as to fill more than a week or nearly sixty a day, such figures are appalling. And now we learn beyond the possibility of a doubt that the same practices obtained in America in ancient times that must have been ages before the Spanish conquest, and, judging by the frequency of the representations of such things in these old bas-reliefs, as extensively.

In these sculptures we can see the very shape of the knives used; the form of the plates or platters on which the severed heads of victims were placed, and other such details; and in a certain series we are enabled to note the curious point that, while the officiating priest always wears a full beards, the victims appear to have usually been clean shaven, or to have trimmed their beards to a fashionable adornment, or to have "shaved clean," as we say it. It may be added that these ancient white people seem to have been a totally different race from those whom the Spaniards found on the continent, as I shall hereafter show, and who, as is believed to have been a long resident in this country, during which the country was overrun by Huns or other barbaric hordes; though how or why this came about is one of those mysteries that will probably never be solved.

All these curious and interesting facts are given in the introduction to a new book which, appearing with much timeliness in view of the Venezuelan dispute, is now attracting universal attention in England, and has just been published in this country by the Knox Amsterdam Book company. It is entitled "The Devil Tree of El Dorado," and is written by Frank Aubrey and based upon the mystery of the mountain of Roraima.

The author has given his fancy the fullest range. One of his conceptions is the mysterious devil tree, which devours human beings, and which takes the place of a public executioner, being in itself a hideous device worthy of the Spanish Inquisition. The story itself is full of terrible fascination, but to the judicial mind the facts which preface the fiction are far more interesting and romantic than the tale woven from them. The author claims that one of the objects of his work has been to direct England's attention to Roraima's mountain in connection with the Venezuelan question.

"Shall Roraima be handed over to Venezuela?" he asks. "Shall the mysterious mountain long known to us as the most foremost among the wonders of our earth —regarded by many as the greatest marvel of the world—now definitely Venezuelan territory? This is the question that hangs in the balance at the time these words are written—that is inexorably speculated upon more or less by the public. Experts many of the public know it not, with the dispute that has arisen about the boundaries of British Guiana.

"It has been suggested that if it is not safe to retain the wonderful Roraima as exclusively British—and to effect this it would be well worth our while to barter away some other portion of the disputed territory—then an arrangement might be come to to make it neutral ground. Sandwiched in the corner where the three countries—Brazil, Venezuela and British Guiana meet, it is of importance to all three, and, no doubt, in such an endeavor, we should have the support of Brazil as against Venezuela.

"Will no one explore Roraima and bring us back the riddles which it has been waiting for these thousand years to give us? One of the marvels and mysteries of the earth lies on the outskirts of our colonies, and we leave the mystery unsolved, the marvel unstared for."

It is perhaps, not generally known that Roraima mountain, one of the most stupendous wonders of the world, is situated within the disputed Venezuelan territory. On the map drawn by Sir Robert Schomburgk for the British government, Roraima stands within the British domains; but on the map drawn by Barrington Brown, the government explorer who succeeded Schomburgk, and whose work was based upon that of his predecessor, Roraima is placed inside the Venezuelan boundary, and an explanation is given for the apparent contradiction. Again, another authority, Im Thurn, curator of the museum of Georgetown, the capital of the colony, says in his book "Among the Indians of British Guiana" that Roraima lies on the extreme edge of the colony, or, perhaps, on the other side of the Brazilian boundary. So that the exact location of this marvel among mountains seems invested in much obscurity.

As, however, Sir Robert Schomburgk and Barrington Brown actually visited the Roraima region and reached the foot of the mountain, and their successor did not, what they have to say of it would seem to have the greater weight. It was about sixty years ago that Sir Robert, the famous explorer and scientist, made the report of Roraima—pronounced Roeema by the Indians of British Guiana—to the Royal Geographical society, and that marvelous report was as full of romantic interest and fascination to the average reader as the most ingenious fiction. Only one other traveler Mr. Brown has reached the foot of the mountain since Schomburgk's time; but anyone has added anything to the wonders revealed by the latter and has confirmed the statements of Brown and Sir Robert Schomburgk as to its absolute inaccessibility.

One of the reasons why the mountain is so difficult of approach that only two explorers have ever reached its base is the surrounding screen which nature has prepared by the Indians, who cannot be induced to aid in cutting away the impenetrable forests which surround it, and which render the traveler's progress impossible. As to the unusual character of the vegetation and undergrowth of this forest, there is the valuable testimony of Richard Schomburgk, Sir Robert's brother, a botanist of wide reputation, who had traveled in Asia and Africa, in search of orchids and other rare plants, and who says that the country around Roraima is, from a botanical point of view one of the most wonderful in the world.

"Not only the orchids," he says, "but the shrubs and low trees were unknown to me. Every shrub, herb and tree was new to me, if not as to family, yet as to species. I stood on the border of an unknown plant zone, full of wondrous forms that lay as if by magic before me."

Out of this dark, mysterious tropical forest abruptly rises the mountain itself. Its inaccessible summit is a great table land which, it is believed, has been isolated from the rest of the world for untold ages. There is no wilderness of ice and snow, but a fertile country of wood and stream and probably a lake. As described by Barrington Brown, it is "a great table of pink and white and red sandstone, interspersed with red shale," and it rises from a height of 5,000 feet from the level of the sea, 2,000 feet sheer into the sapphire tropical sky. A forest crowns it.

The highest waterfall in the world—only one, it would seem, out of several—tumbles from its summit, 2,000 feet at one leap, 3,000 more on a slope of 45 degrees to the bottom of the valley, broad enough to be seen thirty miles away. Even the length of the mass has not been determined, Mr. Brown says it is from eight to twelve miles.

And he cannot help speculating whether the remains of a former creation may not be found at its top. At any rate, there is the forest on its summit; of what trees is it composed? They cannot well be the same as those at its base. At a distance of 1,500 feet above sea level, the mango tree of the West Indies, which produces fruit in abundance below, ceases to bear. The change in vegetation must be far more decided where the difference is between 5,000 and 7,000 feet.

Thus for millenniums this island of sandstone in the South American continent must have had its own distinct flora. What may be its fauna? Very few birds probably ascend to a height of 2,000 feet in the air, the vulture of the Andes excepted. Nearly the whole of its animated inhabitants are likely to be as distinct as its plants.

"Is it peopled with human beings?" asks Mr. Brown. Who can tell? Why not? The climate must be temperate, delicious. There is abundance of water, very probably issuing from some lake on the summit. Have we here a troop of unknown brothers cut off from all the rest of their kind?

One more wonder remains to be told. The traveler speaks of two other mountains in the same district which are of the same description as Roraima—tables of sandstone rising up straight into the blue, one larger than though not as high as Roraima itself. It is only because of their existence, and because, for aught that appears, they may be equally inaccessible with Roraima, that one does not venture to call Roraima the greatest marvel and mystery of the earth.

The appeal to the imagination seems to have stirred even the sober, cautious scientist, Schomburgk. Speaking of the geographical structure of the region which leaves little doubt that it was once the bed of an inland lake, he says:

"May we not connect with the former existence of this inland sea the fable of the Lake Parima and the El Dorado? Thousands of years may have elapsed; generations may have been buried and returned to dust; nations, who once wandered on its banks, may be extinct and gone no more in name; still, tradition of Parima and the El Dorado survived these changes of time; transmitted from father to son, it was carried across the Atlantic and kindled the romantic fire of the chivalric Raleigh."

Most authorities—Humboldt, as well as Schomburgk—agree in giving British Guiana as the probable site of this traditional city.

GREATEST GAS STOVE.

The greatest gas stove in the world is probably that used at the celebration of the Hessian Agriculturists' society at Giessen, where a whole ox was recently roasted in a gas stove, says the Philadelphia Record. This was quite a novel barbecue and was got up by the promoters of the celebration as a "take off" on the ubiquitous advertisement, "Koche mit Gas" (Cook with Gas), which appears in almost every German paper and periodical. The colossal apparatus was arranged so as to admit the whole carcass of an ox weighing 1100 pounds, which had for two days previous been pickled. This roast was done inside of seven hours as well as it possibly could have been over burning logs or coal. During the entire time crowds admired the huge gas stove and the perfection and neatness with which the operation was performed. After remaining, all told, ten hours in the gas stove, the roast was cut up into 800 portions, which brought in about 600 marks. The estimated cost of roasting an ox at a barbecue with log fires or coal fires was previously ascertained, and after the operation was completed it was found that gas was the cheapest fuel for such a barbecue. The total amount of gas used was 3500 cubic feet, which at the present cost of gas would cost in the neighborhood of $2.50. The experiment is to be repeated at Berlin next month upon a similar occasion.

AYER'S

The difference between Ayer's and other's sarsaparilla, is the difference between a pharmaceutical preparation and a patent medicine. That this is not a distinction without a difference is self evident. That it is an important distinction is proved by the exclusion of every sarsaparilla but Ayer's from the World's Fair of 1893, and by the World's Fair medal and diploma awarded Ayer's Sarsaparilla as "a standard and popular pharmaceutical preparation of world-wide reputation." These words are quoted from the diploma. They are words that carry weight. They express the opinion of men who watched the world's interests. They crystallize the record of half a century. To put it forcibly, the difference between Ayer's Sarsaparilla and others is the difference between the preparation of an educated physician and the decoction mixed by a voodoo conjurer. Such a difference ought to show in the effects of the medicine? It does.

There was plenty of men standin' around, an' all McKinley would of had to do ter git me throwed out was to say three words an' expose the swindle. But he understood the situation at a glance. He never give no sign that he'd ever seen me before, but looked me in the eye and grabbed my hand ez of nothin' had happened. From now on, my vote's his'n, for I never saw anythin' done more gentlemanly in my hull life!"

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—

Whereas default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Nels Hall, widower, to Granite Savings Bank & Trust Company, a corporation, organized under the laws of the state of Vermont, bearing date the 5th day of September, 1891, with a power of sale therein contained, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for St. Louis county, Minnesota, on the 6th day of December, 1891, at 9:15 a. m., in Book 101 of mortgages on page 209; and

Whereas, default has been made in the payment of the semi-annual installments of interest due on said mortgage, and the note thereby secured, on the 5th day of June, and the 5th day of December, 1896; and whereas, said mortgage authorizes the mortgagee, at his option to declare the whole sum secured thereby to be due and payable on default in the conditions thereof, the said mortgagee hereby declares the whole of said mortgage debt to be due and there is claimed and declared to be due and there is actually due upon said mortgage debt at the date of this notice the sum of $865.00, principal and interest and $50.00 attorney's fees stipulated for in said mortgage in case of foreclosure thereof, and no action at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage.

Therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and by reason of said default and pursuant thereunder, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, situate in St. Louis County, state of Minnesota, and described as follows, to-wit: Lot two (2), in Myer's rearrangement of block one hundred and six (106), Duluth Proper, Second Division, according to the recorded plat thereof, which said mortgaged premises with the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging will be sold to the highest bidder for cash to pay said mortgage debt and $50.00 attorney's fees stipulated for in said mortgage, and the disbursements allowed by law, which said sale will be made by the sheriff of St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the 21st day of June, 1897, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the date of sale as provided by law.

Dated May 8th, 1897.

Duluth Evening Herald. May-8-15-22-29-June-5-12.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN the payment of the sum of seven hundred thirty-six and 81-100 dollars which is claimed to be due and is actually due at the date of this notice on a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Ludwig Rusch, a widower, mortgagor, to Wilhelm Brown, of Duluth, Minnesota, mortgagee, said mortgage bearing date the 23rd day of April, 1894, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, on the 21st day of April, 1894, at 30 o'clock and 45 minutes in the forenoon of that day, in Book 96 of mortgages, on page 188, which mortgage was executed to secure the payment of one certain promissory note of even date with said mortgage in the sum of six hundred dollars, payable in three years after the date of said note and mortgage with interest on said note at the rate of seven per cent per annum from date until paid, which interest was payable and due semi-annually, said note being signed by said mortgagor as maker and payable to the order of and delivered to said mortgagee; and said mortgage containing the provision that the said mortgagor should keep the property described in said mortgage unceasingly insured in some responsible stock insurance company for at least the sum of one thousand dollars, payable, in case of loss, to the said mortgagee or his assigns, and further providing that in case said mortgagor should not effect such insurance or fail to pay the premium therefor, then and in that case said mortgagee or his assigns, should be empowered to effect such insurance and pay all such unpaid premiums, and all sums of money paid for such purpose should be tacked and impressed as an additional lien upon said premises, and should be secured by and be collectible as a part of said mortgage and bear interest at the same rate as the indebtedness secured by said mortgage.

And, whereas, it was further understood and agreed by the terms of said mortgage that said mortgagor should pay all taxes and assessments that should for any purpose be payable, assessed or imposed upon said premises or any part thereof, before the same should become delinquent. And that upon his failure to do so, the said Wilhelm Brown, said mortgagee, was authorized to pay such taxes or assessments, and any and all sum or sums so paid should be tacked and impressed as an additional lien upon said premises, and should be secured by and collectible as a part of said mortgage and bear interest at the same rate as the indebtedness secured by the said mortgage and the note thereby secured, and,

Whereas, the said mortgagor having failed to effect insurance as required by the terms of said mortgage, and the said Wilhelm Brown, mortgagee, having heretofore been required to effect the same, and having heretofore, on, to-wit, the 1st day of May, 1896, paid and expended as the premium for the insurance so effected the sum of five dollars, and said mortgagor has repaid said mortgagee no part of said sum so expended for insurance, and,

Whereas, the said mortgagor having failed to pay and cancel the taxes on said premises in said mortgage described for the years, 1894, 1895 and 1895, and the same having become delinquent, the said mortgagee thereafter, and on the 1st day of May, 1897, did pay the taxes on said premises for said years 1893, 1894 and 1895, which with penalties and costs attached to said taxes because of such non-payment amounted to the sum of one hundred nine and 6-100 dollars, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, or the said amount of taxes and insurance so paid.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgage will be foreclosed and the premises described in and covered and conveyed by said mortgage, to-wit: Lot number eighty-six Post Seventh street, Duluth Proper First Division, according to the recorded plat thereof, on file and of record in the office of the register of deeds in and for St. Louis County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest and the taxes and insurance heretofore paid by said mortgagee as hereinbefore set forth, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, Minnesota, at the front entrance door to the county court house, in the city of Duluth, in G. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 5th day of June A. D. 1897, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the date of sale as provided by law.

Dated Duluth, Minnesota, May 5th, 1897.

DAY LABOR FIGURES.

Work in Past Two Weeks Was Done Cheaply.

In the figures of the cost of the work on the 12-inch force main by day labor during the last two weeks in April a most excellent showing is made, and the members of the board of public works are congratulating themselves. From the statement prepared by the board at the instance of the council, it appears that the earth excavation west of Lester river, about 90 per cent of which has been in sand pan, has been done for 37½ cents per cubic yard. East of the river, near the pump house, where much of the work has been in wet swamp land and in the woods where much grubbing has been necessary, the earth being besides about 20 per cent gravel pan, the work has been done for 85 cents per cubic yard. The rock excavation has cost $1.86 per cubic yard.

According to the last figures submitted to the council by the board, the earth excavation has previously cost from 92 cents to $1.21 and the rock work $3.08 per yard. The policy pursued by the board during the time covered by the estimate just furnished has been to employ men solely with reference to their ability to do the work, and those who have proven themselves satisfactory in that respect have been retained, there having been no rotation in employment as heretofore.

Several local contractors, said a member of the board, have conceded that the work has been done as expeditiously and economically as it is possible to do it.

Coming in Slowly.

Personal property returns are coming in more slowly than ever before, according to Assessor Hawkes. The deputy assessors report that it is very difficult to get returns made. The indications all point, said Mr. Hawkes, to a big falling off this year in the amount collected.

"For one thing," said he, "there is not quite as much bank stock to be assessed this year as heretofore. Last year the bank stock scheduled was $200,000 less than in 1895. There is no way of estimating, as yet, what the returns for this year will be."

SUICIDE

Nora Bornemann, Thirteen Years Old, Drowns Herself in the Lake.

Body Was Rescued in About an Hour Near the Spot.

Remains Were Not Identified Until This Morning--Motive Not Discovered.

Nora Bornemann, a 13-year-old girl residing at 605 East Third street, was drowned in the lake at the foot of Twenty-first avenue east last evening. She is the daughter of Charles Bornemann, who is employed as a bartender in A. W. Moe's saloon at 517 West Superior street. The theory is that it was suicide during a temporary aberration of mind.

The only witness of the occurrence is an 11-year-old boy, who says that it happened about 7:30 o'clock. The girl walked out to the end of a ledge of rock extending into deep water, where she pitched into the water. She did not appear to jump, according to the boy's story, but it seemed as if she had lost her footing and slipped. The boy first went out into the water toward her to save her, but finding he could not get to her, he ran to a fisherman's shack near by and gave the alarm. Two of the fishermen put out in a boat, but were unable to find the girl. Another boat, manned by others who had collected at the spot, joined in the search. At the end of nearly an hour the body was discovered in the water not far from the shore and about 100 feet from where the girl went into the water.

The authorities, who had been notified by the station agent at Endion, dispatched a wagon for the remains, and they were taken to Blyha & Tibbett's morgue. Here the body was viewed about 10 o'clock by Coroner Eklund. He discovered nothing in the girl's physical condition that would point to a motive for the act.

The body was not identified until this morning, when the father called at the morgue. His daughter had seemed to be in good health and spirits and had attended school as usual yesterday, he said, and he was unable to suggest any reason that would have prompted her to kill herself. It was learned that the girl had been seen sitting on the lake shore near the ice house at Twenty-first avenue at about 6 o'clock last evening, and later was seen walking to and fro near the water.

The father of the dead girl said today that the family had never noticed any indications of mental unsoundness on her part. She had, it was gathered from his remarks, a somewhat violent temper. She had been reprimanded for staying out late on several occasions, which she had resented, and it is supposed that in a fit of brooding over the fact that she was not allowed as much freedom as she desired, she committed the deed. She was a pupil at the Jefferson school.

Coroner Eklund has ordered an inquest for 5 o'clock this afternoon in the case of Nora Bornemann, the girl who was drowned at Twenty-first avenue east last evening, in view of reports that she had been subjected to ill-treatment at home, on account of which she had threatened suicide.

NEW ROAD PLANNED.

Winnipeg People Behind a Line to Duluth.

The report comes from Winnipeg that Premier Greenaway has gone to New York on business connected with a railway enterprise that has for its immediate object the construction of an air line connecting Winnipeg and Duluth. The scheme originated with a party of New York and New England railroad men, who have in the past been connected in various ways with Northwestern railroad enterprises, and have learned by experience and personal observation that the construction of such a line would revolutionize the traffic situation in the entire Northwestern territory now controlled by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific systems, and the reports of the probable practical consolidations of these rival companies has undoubtedly given new life to the movement.

The syndicate that Premier Greenaway represents has submitted a proposition to the province of Manitoba by which it binds itself to greatly reduce rates on wheat, coal and all classes of freight fully 25 per cent if the province in return will guarantee the interest on bonds of the company, which will amount to about $200,000 annually. Ultimately it is proposed that the line between Duluth and Winnipeg will form the connecting link in a trans-continental line through Canadian territory.

The plan contemplates entrance to Duluth over the St. Paul & Duluth, by way of Carlton, which will be the starting point for construction if the scheme matures, as it is now believed it will within the next few weeks. Among other incidental plans of the proposed company, it is intended to construct a number of branches from the main line into the wheat fields of North Dakota, and make a powerful effort to direct the bulk of the grain raised in that region, which now finds a market in Minneapolis to Duluth. The moment that it assumes definite shape, President Hill of the Great Northern will be forced for self protection to build the Passton branch that he may be on something like an equal footing in the competition with this new and powerful rival.

A Bicycle Church.

Bicycle riders of both sexes are henceforth to be welcomed at Pilgrim church, and their wheels cared for during all Sunday services. Under the authorization of the pastor, the young people have taken this matter up and made suitable arrangements. Racks have been provided in one of the lower halls, where wheels can be stored during services under lock and key. Riders are requested to bring their wheels to the basement door on the east side of the church. The committee in waiting do not promise to clean the wheels, but they agree to welcome the rider, and to see that he loses nothing downstairs, and that he gains something upstairs.

Bloom Has Appealed.

Joe Bloom has appealed to the district court from a judgment of J. O. Walker's justice court at Hibbing, declaring him guilty of breaking the peddlers' ordinance of the village by selling goods from samples without securing a peddler's license. Bloom was fined $25, and he appeals to the district court from that judgment. Allen, Baldwin & Baldwin are his attorneys.

Trial of Jury Cases.

The trial of jury cases will be taken up in district court Monday morning, when Judge Moer is expected to be present to take up the calendar. The following call of cases has been made for Monday: 10, 23, 25, 26, 29, 33, 53, 72.

Clan Stewart.

Clan Stewart held its usual meeting Wednesday evening in the Kalamazoo block, Chief W. D. Gordon presiding. A large delegation of Clansmen were present and a committee was appointed to make arrangements to have games on July 4. The delegate to the convention at Montreal was instructed on general points, and it is expected that by next meeting several amendments to the Clan constitution will be discussed. It was arranged that at the next meeting on May 19 the Clan will have a dance after the regular business is over. Under "good of the order" several songs were sung, among which "The Brave Old Oak" was rendered by Tanist R. Ferguson, and Clansman D. M. Morrison sang "'Tis Years Since Last We Met."

They Allege Trespass.

Campbell & Doran have begun suit against Samuel Lieb to determine the ownership of three front feet of property on Superior street between the plaintiff's saloon and the restaurant next door. Both buildings are on the same lot, and the contested strip is occupied by the restaurant. The plaintiffs want the defendant restrained from trespassing on the property, and they ask for $500 damages for past trespasses. Allen, Baldwin & Baldwin are the attorneys.

The Pavilion Concerts.

Two fine concerts will be given at the Pavilion tomorrow, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. Professor Meier has prepared excellent programs of two-steps, waltzes, overtures, schottisches, etc. Suppe's "Poet and Peasant," Balfe's "Bohemian Girl" and other popular numbers are on the program.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mrs. Libbie Gullingsrud desires to express her thanks to the friends who so kindly rendered their assistance during the illness of her son, Harry Gullingsrud, whose death was announced in The Herald. Their kindness is greatly appreciated by her in her bereavement.

County Brings an Action Against Bondsmen of the Security Bank.

Judgment Asked Against Them For Amount of the County's Deposit.

Pioneer Mine Will Ship Two Hundred Thousand Tons This Year.

The board of county commissioners of St. Louis county has begun another suit against the bondsmen of a defunct banking institution in an effort to recover the funds on deposit in the bank at the time of the failure. This time the concern involved is the Security bank. The bank's bond to secure the county's deposit was for $120,000, and the sureties on the bond were Joseph Sellwood, Nels Hall, F. W. Paine, William P. Lardner and Henry Lardner.

The complaint, which was filed this morning, alleges that the county's deposits in the Security bank when it failed amounted to $49,535.30, divided into two separate amounts of $36,178.96 and $13,351.34 respectively. The bondsmen who are sued justified on the bond in the following sums: Joseph Sellwood, $40,000; Henry Lardner, $40,000; Nels Hall, $15,000; F. W. Paine, $20,000; William P. Lardner, $5000. W. B. Phelps, G. E. Arbury and C. A. McPherrin are noted as attorneys for the board.

At noon today Judge Ensign was hearing a demurrer to the complaint in the suit of the board of county commissioners against the bondsmen of the Bell & Eyster bank to recover the county's deposit. The demurrer was on the ground that the complaint fails to definitely state that the bank was designated as a depository, which was one of the conditions which made the bond effective.

WILL SHIP ORE.

Pioneer Has a Large Allotment in the Ore Pool.

The Pioneer mine at Ely, although it has closed operations probably for the season, will nevertheless ship 200,000 tons of ore this year. The Pioneer is a member of the reorganized ore pool and it has been allotted 200,000 tons. Last year the mine did not ship its full allotment, and consequently it can, under the agreement, ship not only all that was allotted to it for this season, but what it failed to ship of last year's allotment. It already has enough ore on its stock piles or that is still in the mine ready for hoisting to fill its allotment, and consequently it was not deemed expedient to take out any more ore, at least until some of the accumulated ore on the stock piles has been forwarded to the lower lake ports. There has as yet been no call for Pioneer ore this season, as the furnaces are cleaning up the stock on the docks at Cleveland before contracting for new ore.

There are but two mines on the Mesaba range shipping ore to the docks in Duluth, the Mountain Iron and Oliver. All of the Consolidated mines have closed down, the Adams being the last to quit. Mining will not be resumed in any of them until the furnaces have used up much of the heavy stock in hand at the opening of navigation this year. The Mountain Iron and Oliver are not shipping very heavily as yet, but it is expected that within a few weeks the demand will be greatly increased.

THE McDONOUGH CASE.

The Defendant is Vigorously Resisting the Divorce.

The contested divorce case of Elizabeth McDonough against John McDonough occupied the attention of Judge Cant's court yesterday afternoon and this morning, and at noon it was nearing the end. The plaintiff sues for divorce on the ground of desertion and non-support, and the defendant denies both charges and asks for the custody of the children. The testimony was mostly devoted to the question of whether the defendant was able to and had been attempting to support his family.

McDonough claimed that he did the best he could in that line, trying to get work and availing himself of every opportunity for work. He admitted that he had contributed nothing to the support of his family for a year, but alleged that he had offered his wife money and that she had refused it.

The plaintiff was on the stand offering her testimony in rebuttal at noon.

Dr. C. W. McFadden, dentist, has removed from Miller building, to rooms 208 and 209 Lonsdale building.

DRIVING PARK OPEN.

Track in Better Shape Than Last Year.

The St. Louis County Driving park is now in good shape and is ready for the reception of horses at any time. It is also open to bicyclists, who will find the track in better shape than last year. The park is in charge of Harvey Kenyon of Minneapolis, a good trackman recommended by Sherwood, Hillis, Shuler and other St. Paul horsemen. Eight horses and colts will be in training there the first of the week. Wilke's Etta will be sent here from St. Paul for training. She has a record of 2:20 and it is expected she will touch 2:15 this year. The high school boys have leased the park for their field day races and the bicyclists have secured it for another date.

PART TWO-

DULUTH EVENING HERALD.

SATURDAY, MAY 8, 1897.

Across the Tea Table.

The housewife who has enjoyed the luxury of house cleaning viewed with dismay the swirling clouds of dust and the smoke which enveloped us this last week. The sun climbing up the Eastern sky each morning seemed to laugh our world to scorn, so ardently have we longed for rain. Rain to quench the fires in the forests, to lay the dust, to enable us to preserve in spotless purity the fresh hangings, the clean furniture, the brightened and cleansed rooms upon which almost every woman has spent her energies lately. I speak advisedly when I say the luxury of house cleaning. It is a task, to be sure, but it is not fully compensated for by the dainty look and freshness of the whole house; by the clean conscience, which is the fine moral effect of such labor! Frivolous Belinda, watching the world go by, cries in dismay over such drudgery, and longs to be over the hills and far away, to don her new bicycle dress and mount her wheel, to accomplish all the things for which she sighs in the spring, to conquer new worlds, and strange sights to see. Ah, yes! but Martha, though burdened with many cares, makes simple the every day things of life, smooths out all the frets and jars, cleans the house, freshens the atmosphere in more senses than one, is, in a word, a good house and homekeeper, and has necessitates the semi-annual cleaning. For every day wearing qualities Martha will far surpass charming, gay, debonnair Belinda. And inasmuch as Belindas are, on the whole, rather easily found, and Marthas are sometimes rarities, you see the force of the assertion in my original remark—a clean house is a luxury, and house cleaning, as the force which brings this about, must be classed under the same general head. For certainly the lower down one goes in the social grade the less is the necessity felt. The paucity of belongings may be the reason why it is not indulged in, but we must consider this one of the luxuries of a high civilization. Each year we make it easier by labor-saving devices. There is, however, but one straight and narrow path which leads to absolute cleanliness, and but one force which really makes some things clean—"elbow-grease," as our grandmothers called it.

* * *

Social life under these circumstances takes on a degree of stagnation. To be sure there are those fortunate ones who have written "C'est fini" over it all; but these are not numerous, just yet, and the woman who has dared to don her new evening gown and hat, to go forth to call, has done so with fear and trembling, and the absolute knowledge that three-fourths of those upon whom she calls are superintending the changes in their households. Never mind, this transition state is soon over, and all the preparation leads to absolute results. The produces of the needle enable one then to burst forth with butterfly glory, and the labors of these weeks of preparation and toil are forgotten in the satisfaction over things achieved. Then, what a comfort it all is to think that one can lay out a plan for summer work or reading, with no spiteful little whisperings coming to one in suggestion of duties left undone; no tardy reminders that the attic is in a state of chaos, and trunks and boxes with treasured belongings may have become breeding places for the wily moth; no painful remembrances that the furnace pipes are clogged with dust, or that ashes have been left unremoved. One must have a case-hardened conscience to be able to contemplate any of these things without a realization that one's character is not well developed in certain lines. There are those, my dear Modern Woman, I grant you, who make life miserable for themselves and others by too much of a conscience on this subject; these are lop-sided characters who see nothing but dirt and the continual suggestion of the dust cloth. They are, I know, rather smallminded and sordid souls and painfully hard to live with, and they lack that fine culture which makes life a pleasure, not a grind of the Mantilini description.

* * *

Speaking of culture some one asked me not long since, what culture was. I recalled Mr. Mallock's interpretation of this much-abused word. He says: 'Culture is best seen in one upon whom none of the finer flavors of life are lost, who can appreciate, sympathize with, criticise all the scenes, situations, sayings or actions around him—a sad or happy love affair, a charm of manner and conversation, a beautiful sunset or a social absurdity. I don't call a woman cultivated who bothers me at dinner first with discussing this book and then that, whose one perpetual question is "Have you read so and so?" But I call a woman cultivated who responds, and who knows what I mean as we pass naturally from subject to subject, who by a flash or a softness in her eyes, by a slight gesture of the hand, by a flush in the cheek makes me feel that she herself has known them; as I speak of ambition, or hope, or remorse, or loss of character, that all these are not mere names to her, but things. It makes us to see our life surrounded with issues viewless to the common eye. The smell of autumn woods, the color of the dying fern may turn by subtle transubstantiation into pleasures and forces which will never come again—a red sunset and a windy sea shore into a last farewell and the regret of a lifetime. In fact, culture is a broad and noble cultivation of the finer mental qualities and sympathies, and comes not by the reading of many books, but by the ability to grasp the meaning of those books and by a wide knowledge of life. The selfish person is never cultured; a broad and generous sympathy is not within the creed of the lover of self, and this is the essential vitality of culture. A sordid watching of the small things of life is lowering, not ennobling. Contact with fine minds and natures is a necessity, and I have a simple, old faith that culture is acquired and developed by fine influences in early life. In associations with refined surroundings, not to speak of hereditary influences, in the impressionable period of childhood and early youth, the ineffaceable stamp of good breeding and gentle rearing, not that self-assertive vulgarity which bears the stamp of money in one generation; not the conversation which leads toward a discussion of the neighbors' concerns and dissertations on and speculations as to whether that neighbor pays his rent promptly, or whether the cook's wages are delayed, or whether the house cleaning is progressing favorably or unfavorably across the way. These all bespeak the undignified familiarity with unrefined associations in early youth and can seldom be eradicated. Who does not recall a cultured old gentlewoman with little knowledge of life and its requirements, and a dignified reticence about personal matters, who was like a breath of fresh air after the close atmosphere surrounding the woman of the eternal ego.

* * *

The old gentlewoman probably had a knowledge of the proprieties, of the amenities, of which the other one could have no conception. She knew which foot to place first in stepping into a carriage; she accepted her place without suggestion; she knew how to enter and leave a drawing room, and how to infuse warmth into a chilly social atmosphere; she had that nameless grace we call "charm of manner," and still a greater gift—tact, there is none greater than this. What does it profit a woman if she speaks Sanskrit and is learned in all the ologies, if she lacks that tact which enables her to keep her knowledge for appropriate times and places, or an ability to use it seasonably for the benefit of others? It is not the acquiring of facts and "book learning," but the broadening influence of such acquisitions to the mind; the opening and developing of knowledge.

* * *

Would not a broad and general culture, then, mean a knowledge for women of the so-called accomplishments of the needle? Most of the foreigners who employ feminine American apprentices speak slightingly of our national characteristic of restlessness. Would not the needle be a weapon for the development of repose? As Americans we are all supposed to lack the plodding steadiness of the older nations and to flit from one thing to another with startling rapidity. However true this may be, we manage to show results, and I suppose always will; but to be truly cultured a woman must have a knowledge of fine needlework. So, my dear Modern Woman, if you wish to be up to date you must adapt your knowledge of this art to purposes bespeaking revolutionary ancestry. The quaint, old town of Deerfield, Mass., has a "Society of Blue and White Needlework," a society with an aim both artistic and practical. In the first place, it promotes industry and that patient plodding which it is said we need. In the second place, it produces and adapts to modern usage the relics of the arts practiced away back in colonial and revolutionary days. The coat of arms of the society is a spinning wheel with the letter D on the hub. It is a very pretty idea on the whole, and has much to commend it. Those who own treasures of that bygone age rightly value them nowadays. The old blue and white homespun quilts have a place along with the blue and white china and delft of colonial times. Numbers of enthusiasts all over the country are making collections of these old wares, and no collector feels that his little hoard of treasures is complete without an accompanying piece of homespun, or line old linen worked in the stitches our great-grandmammas learned to form upon the samplers of their youthful days. Deerfield is historic as a town, and feels the weight of past events upon her. Many relics of old colony times are in her possession, and tell the fearful tale of midnight surprises by savages and Frenchman—a tale so hideous that one hesitates to recall it, but it is part of the history of the town, and romance has woven her charm about it now. She is wise to venerate her traditions and cling to her ancestry. She is wise to teach her children to reproduce that which is of itself artistic, and thus hand down to future generations the forms which were worthy in themselves, and which picture a distinct period in the history of our country. These things are part of our rich heritage.

"They are ours only,
Like our grand rivers,
Like our vast prairies,
Like our dead heroes."

* * *

Those who were fortunate enough to see the collar, worn by a Daughter of Liberty in revolutionary days, and now in the possession of the Daughters of Liberty chapter of the D. A. R., of Duluth, know how daintily fine was the work done by the needle women of that day. As examples of industry and thrift, it carries its own lesson. And yet, these same great grandmammas were patriotic enough to cast aside all furbelows and fine gowns and pledge themselves to a cause; pledge themselves to wear naught but homespun, naught but the product of their own land and homes. Homespun was not beautiful in their eyes excepting as it embodied a sentiment; and so we can picture the fingers which wove the gowns, in which they adorned themselves, fashioning the snowy collars and embroidering them in exquisite patterns as a setting for their patriotic heads and fresh, flower faces. It is a pretty story in our country's annals, the formation of these liberty societies of a hundred years ago and more, when Polly this, and Peggy that, wrote their names down as defenders of their country's rights. The aims of the D. A. R. are most noble, and Duluth, in possession of two chapters, is rich in patriotism. The Greyson Du Lhut chapter suggests at once the man for whom our town is named; the soldier, the explorer, the traveler o'er her untrodden wilds; and the new chapter, recently formed, bears directly upon feminine interests and associations, and tells the story of the influence of woman. So much that is being written nowadays of these old times is due entirely to the influences of these patriotic societies. Dr. Weir Mitchell would probably never have had his thoughts turned that way had he not been interested in tracing out family history. And "Hugh Wynne," his charming story, would never have been written. Alice Morse Earle has presented to the Daughters of Liberty chapter two of her most delightful books. One of them is "The Diary of a Daughter of Liberty," and Anna Wharton's books, "Colonial Days and Dames," and "Through Colonial Doorways," are very pretty little histories, suitable for a summer morning's reading. One wearies sometimes of the "Tales of a Grandfather" one hears, but it is only recently that many people have realized that their grandfathers were worthy of honor. Patriotism, my dear sister, is the true flavor of heroism. Train up your children, therefore, in the way they should go, and you may feel the "spirit of '76" descend upon them as a blessing, some day.

* * *

Patriotism influenced not only the men of '76 but the men of '99, and one feels a sympathetic thrill over the proclamation sent out by the G. A. R. A request that Memorial day shall not be made a day for feasting and racing and bicycle events. The old soldiers are right about it, and all well-meaning people feel with them. Last Memorial day I watched the world in holiday attire throng to see the bicycle races on London road. After they were over I saw a small procession coming down Superior street. Spruce, young cadets, fresh in new uniform, marching with elastic step to the tap of the drum. Behind them walked a little, gray-haired band, out of step, they who so proudly were in step once; the simple blue clothes, the uniform of their order, was not worn by all. One or two were on crutches, or were lame, and a more pathetic sight I have seldom seen; pathetic in the story they told even to the most unimaginative beholder. I felt the quick tears come to my eyes and a sob in my throat. Men these were, this little handful of a once great army, who felt the significance of Memorial day truly; men who knew what the din of battle, the horros of prison and the agonies of sickness in a war hospital meant; men who had lived in stirring times and who had seen the life blood of comrades shed, a sacrifice upon the altar of national unity. There were no road races on the day of the commemoration exercises at the tomb of Gen. Grant; there should be no such thing on any Memorial day. It is a day fraught with tragic memories to many a man and woman, and it should be observed in accordance with the significance of its memorial. It is this frivolousness, the want of national sentiment, this casting off of obligations, this undignified haste with which the younger generation throws aside sympathetic adherence to customs in their original character that brings us the scorn of older nations. Can not woman's influence be used to some patriotic purpose here and save the national character of our holidays to us?

—AGATE.

AMERICA'S WOMAN SOLDIER.

Deborah Sampson, known to fame as the only woman who served in the revolutionary army, always has been an attractive figure in the history of that period, says the Boston Transcript. It is interesting to read of that brave character, but much more so to hear an account of her life from the lips of one of her direct descendants, which was the pleasure given to a company in Memorial Hall, Charlestown, yesterday afternoon. It was the regular meeting of Bunker Hill chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at which the regent, Miss M. H. Brazier, presided.

Mrs. Susie A. Jackson, of Boston, was the speaker, and she related facts compiled from Deborah Sampson's own statements to one of her kin and the records of the United States pension office, all of which are unmistakably authentic. Deborah was the twelfth of a family of thirteen children, and was directly descended from Governor William Bradford. She was born on Dec. 17, 1760. She had no early advantages, but by study was able to teach school in Middleboro. She went to the house of Mr. Leonard there and possessed herself of clothing, and prepared to enlist with a privateer, but abandoned her design on learning of the captain's cruelty. At Bellingham she enlisted as a continental soldier from the town of Uxbridge, under the name of Robert Shirtliffe. Near the end of April, 1781, she was mustered into service in Worcester, and marched with other recruits to West Point.

She was placed in Capt. Webb's company of light infantry, Col. Shepard's regiment and Gen. Patterson's brigade. During the engagements that followed she suffered less from fear than from fatigue. She shared in all the hardships as well as the glories of Yorktown, labored in the trenches, and, in fact, her military career was full of adventures, but she bore herself with firmness, resolution and patient endurance, which are often thought to belong exclusively to the stronger sex. Mrs. Jackson described the several wounds the brave woman received, and spoke of the testimonials given her for faithful duty and exemplary conduct from her leaders. On returning home, her sex having been discovered, she resumed the customary apparel of her sex. She died in Sharon on April 27, 1827, aged 67 years. "It may truly be said that no parallel to Deborah Sampson is to be found in the annals of any nation," said Mrs. Jackson in closing.

STIMULATE THE SLUGGISH KIDNEYS.

In addition to its tonic and cathartic properties, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters exercises a beneficial influence upon the kidneys and bladder, when they are inactive, by stimulating them to renewed exertion, thus reopening, as it were, a sluice for the escape of impurities whose regular channel of exit is the organs of urination. Among these are certain abnormal and inflammatory elements, productive of irreparable injury to the system if not entirely expelled. The kidneys and bladder themselves are also benefited by this stimulus, as their inactivity is usually a preliminary to their disease and disorganization. They also experience, in common with other portions of the system, the potent invigorative effects of the Bitters, which furthermore corrects disordered conditions of the stomach, bowels and liver.

EXCITED

A Deputy Sheriff Who Imagined That His Prisoner Had Escaped.

He Stopped a Train and Brought Great Confusion Upon Himself.

An Ex-City Official's First Experience With a Deceiving Game.

A jolly party was gathered the other day whiling away a rainy afternoon telling stories—stories on each other mostly. No one was spared. The only recourse for the victim was to divert attention from himself by getting the laugh on somebody else as soon as possible, and as most of those present had known each other a long time, there was plenty of material ready at hand. Those whose memories were not as long as those of their companions did not allow themselves to be placed at a disadvantage for lack of the aid that imagination could render.

One of the party was an ex-deputy sheriff who was afterwards chief of police. This individual always has a story at somebody else's expense, and he has a loud laugh which he knows how to set going just right to touch off the story. He had just scored a point, when his victim turned on him with an account of the ex-chief's experience in bringing a prisoner from Brainerd to Duluth when he was a deputy sheriff. The man Harry had been sent after was accounted something of a bad one and slippery as an eel. That's what they told Harry when he started out. It was his first trip on business of that kind, and the other boys in the office took care not to fail to impress him with the magnitude of the task imposed upon him. The man was known to the other officers as a petty sneak thief and an arrant coward, the prospect of his attempting anything requiring nerve being the remotest conceivable. But the wild tales of him told by the boys started Harry to Brainerd with the weight of a great responsibility on his shoulders and the heroic determination to land his man safe in Duluth or die trying.

At Brainerd the prisoner was duly turned over to Harry and the two started for Duluth. Mile after mile on the return trip Harry sat buried in the corner of the seat watching his prisoner, not allowing the smallest move of the latter to escape him. Clickety-lick clattered the train, mile after mile. Harry had been on the road all day, and it was now nearly midnight. A light near the end of the car began to bear down pretty hard on his eyelids after a while, and of a sudden a little louder roar as the train passed over a culvert brought him up all alert and he realized that he had lost himself—for how long he could not tell—it might have been a minute and it might have been an hour. He looked toward the end of the seat. His man was not there. To grab the air brake cord and jerk it was the work of a second. As the train came to a standstill the conductor entered, and to him Harry hurriedly explained that his prisoner had escaped. The two at once began a search, in which they were soon joined by the brakeman. The three thrashed around in the grass along the side of the track and searched the platforms, steps and even the trucks. Harry was walking dejectedly back along the side of the train after a search of the tender, when a familiar figure in the door of the car in which he had been riding caught his eye. Another look, and he was up the steps and had the man by the arm.

"Where in Texas have you been?" said Harry, almost hugging his prisoner in his delight.

"Nowhere," replied the prisoner. "When I woke up the train had stopped and I was looking around to see what the matter was."

"When you woke up," said Harry, and then he gasped. "Hush, don't say a word to the conductor," he continued, as that person approached.

After the train had started the conductor, whose suspicions had been aroused, came around to see how Harry had come to recover his man. Harry was getting off a rather lame story, when a meddlesome old party across the aisle, who, Harry thought, had been asleep through it all, chimed in.

"Ye see, it was this way," said the old party. "That feller there by the winder," pointing to the prisoner, "and this feller here," indicating Harry, "both went tew sleep. Pretty soon the feller by the winder he kind of slipped down like in his seat, and pretty soon this here sheriff he popped open his eyes and looked around scared like and then he gave a jump like a cutamount for the rope and yanked her, an' then run for the door. I thought he was crazy. Pretty soon the feller by the winder sat up, and after inquirin' why the train had stopped and yawning and stretchin' a while he sauntered out to the door. And then the sheriff here took him in tow again."

There was no use trying to head the old party off or trying to browbeat him. He was of the kind that likes to give information and he was bound to tell his story. Harry tried to square himself with the conductor, but the latter thought the story too good to keep and it got out.

"That was about the size of it, wasn't it, Harry?" asked the narrator as he concluded. But Harry had gone.

Another story was told in which another ex-city official present had figured, the hero of the tale recounting it himself. One evening, after having worked in his office until quite a late hour wrestling with a legal question that had arisen in a case in which the city was interested, he strolled down to a hotel, the favorite resort of politicians, bringing up at last in the billiard room. A number of his acquaintances were playing a game that at once attracted his attention. It seemed a foolish, simple game, as childish as "Hop Scotch." It consisted of rolling a ball up an inclined plane, sloping away from which on each side were surfaces indented with holes, with pins set in the intervals between them. As the ball lost its momentum it rolled off from the inclined plane or track down the slanting surafces on either side, either bringing up in one of the holes or rolling back to the table again. In the latter event the player scored nothing, while if the ball rolled into one of the holes it counted the number the hole was marked.

"Well, that is a hefty game for children of your size to be playing," remarked the man of law.

"You think so, do you?" remarked a fat gentleman who was anxiously watching the career of his ball, while the perspiration rolled down his face. "Well, that's what I thought when I got into it a couple of hours ago; but I tell you it's more excitement than a barrel of wild cats."

Just then the fat man's ball rolled into a ten hole and he jumped around and waved his cue. "Whoopee," he yelled. The man of law threw a look of disgust at him.

"Give me a cue," said the former. "I guess I can play the game without going crazy over it."

A little while later there was a lucky shot. "That's the stuff," yelled a player, dancing around like a jumping jack. It was the man of law. His collar was hung on the back of a chair and his vest was unbuttoned. Somebody had marked his book all up with a chalked cue, but he didn't care. He was into that fool game and in it all over. To make a long story short, it was 5:30 o'clock in the morning before the man of law had had enough of the fool game. It cost him several simoleons, but he was an enthusiastic student and did not grudge the expense. All of which simply goes to show, as the man of law afterwards remarked, that you can't tell by the looks of a toad how far it can jump.

BRAKEMEN GOING.

Automatic Devices Driving Him Out of Business.

Science has decreed that the railroad brakeman shall go, and that mechanical contrivances shall take his place on the cars, says the Philadelphia Times. A few years ago there were considerably over a million brakemen employed on our railroad lines, but today the number has been reduced to less than one-half, and it is only a question of time before the last of these old-time employes will entirely disappear from all of our railroad systems. This important change was brought about by the invention of automatic brakes which perform the service much quicker and better than the brakemen could ever hope to do. At first a steam brake was invented and adopted by several of the railroads, but it was not successful enough to proclaim the doom of the hand brakes. Gradually, however, inventors improved upon the contrivance until the modern automatic brakes were perfected. By means of the present invention the engineer can stop a heavy train of cars in half the time that a dozen brakemen, using the old hand brakes, would require for the work.

The passing of the brakeman is not entirely due to the orders of the railroad officials, but as much to the laws of the interstate commerce commission, which make it mandatory for every railroad line to equip its cars with automatic and continuous brakes and couplers, and their locomotives with driving wheel brakes. Before the automatic brakes and couplers were introduced on the railroads the death rate among passengers and employes was much higher than today, and it is largely due to this improvement that the mortality has been steadily reduced. With but few exceptions all of the 28,000 passenger cars and the 8000 mail and baggage cars are equipped with the automatic brakes and couplers, and about one-half the 1,200,000 freight cars. The latter have been slower to comply with the law than the former, as there is less human life involved in accidents with them, but all the new freight cars have to be constructed with the new brakes and couplers. The old-time couplers, where the brakeman had to stand between the two cars thatwere to be joined together, were a constant menace to the life of the employes, and the death rate among them was high from this cause alone. In 1895 the number of employes of the American railroads killed amounted to 2700 and the injured to 32,000, a fair percentage of which met their death while coupling cars. In 1896 the death rate was brought down to 1823 and the number of injured to 23,422, while the present year will probably show even a larger increase.

While this decrease is partly the result of greater efficiency among the railroad employes and to the improvements in the road beds and to the use of perfect signaling systems, the automatic brake is most directly responsible for the gratifying results. A train of cars equipped with the automatic brakes rarely comes into collision with other trains or obstacles on the track. The watchful engineer can see far enough ahead to bring his train to a standstill before colliding with anything that may be accidentally placed on the track. In rounding sharp curves the modern systems of signals reduce danger of collision to a minimum, and on a straight track everything depends upon the alertness and promptness of the engineer.

This is practically the greatest safeguard ever invented for railroad use, and to it we are indebted for many blessings. It is driving the brakeman out of existence, but at the same time it is saving the lives of thousands of passengers and railroad employes every year. It is one of those inventions which gives such adequate compensation for superseding hand labor that no one regrets its general adoption—not even the railroad employes whose work it is rapidly taking from them.

THE GRANDEST REMEDY.

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by the use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at Duluth Drug company's drug store.

AMONG THE PLANTS.

This evening I stood among them, and the bitter northeast wind chilled me clear through. I was out of doors among the hardy phloxes and pansies that I planted out about ten days ago. The leaves were whipping in the wind, and they had a forlorn look, as though they were uncomfortable out there, and would rather be in the house. It did look hard for them, they were so green and nice looking when they were first planted, and now they were frosted and brown; but, digging one up, a slight examination showed a nice bunch of white feeding roots taking hold of the soil, and laying the foundation for a splendid growth when the weather becomes warm enough. So it was with the other hardy things; they were making no top, but how the roots were running, seeking food and getting ready to stand the strain that will soon be demanded of them, and illustrating the advantages of early planting.

No one but old hands will plant out thus early. Most people will prefer to wait. Then they will chose a plant that looks green and fresh for planting. Anything that is wind-battered would be discarded by them, and hardiness is sacrificed to beauty of top, but it is the root the old hand is after, for if the root is there the top will surely follow; but woe to the plant that has a nice top and no root to match it and sustain it. This early planting refers only to hardy things. Tender things will be kept in longer by an old hand than by a new one, and I have seen geraniums planted out at least two weeks too soon for our Duluth climate. They ought never to go out before May 25, unless they can be protected at night and from the bitter cold winds in the day time, for they will not make any roots until the ground gets warm, and they certainly are not ornamental when the foliage is all blown away and they stand as gaunt skeletons in the beds. You have seen such sights right here in Duluth, and didn't you pity the poor things? Hardy seeds, such as sweet peas, mignonette, candytuft, etc., make a strong root growth before the warm weather sets in, sending their roots down where the soil is cool and moist, and do much better if planted early, but most of the small seeds need a heat of 55 to 60 degrees to make them germinate; so it is of no use to sow them until such conditions arrive, which is generally about May 20. But by that time the ground often has become dry, and unless great care is used the dry air penetrates the soil far enough to dry the seeds out so they cannot germinate. This can be remedied to a great extent by covering the newly planted spot with a board, or even a paper, for three or four days, being careful to remove it before the young plants get too far up. My common practice has been to sow on the rough surface of the ground, and then tramp the soil of the foot, shaking a little fine sand over the place to finish the covering, for small seeds must not be covered deeply, as a rule.

Do not forget to sow a good bed of nasturtiums. The dwarf kinds are the best, for they have more range of color than the tall ones, and in the mixed dwarfs, as offered by seedsmen, you can generally find six or eight different shades, and enough can be bought for 10 cents to make a pretty bed.

Some have flower beds in such shady positions that it is hard to get blooming plants, such as geraniums, to do well, but did you ever try the fuchsia or coleus for such places. Farther south the rex begonia is used, but it will not do here. But the fuchsia does splendidly; when it first goes out every leaf and bud generally drops off, but it quickly starts a new growth and blooms beautifully. I saw some in a shady window box on a second story window sill in West Duluth, and they were truly magnificent. There were fuchsia blooms in such numbers that no foliage could be seen. They were not very tall, but they had the beauty, and what could be more pleasing than the bright shades of fuchsia speciosa falling over and blending with the dark blue of lobellas compacta and the light blue of gracillis? Our climate is rather cold for coleus; they ought not to be planted out until after June 1.

In planting make provision for a good bed of asters. A good place for them is in front of the sweet peas, for along in August the peas begin to get brown and unsightly near the ground, and the aster hides these bare stems and gives a mass of bloom just at the right time. If you have never tried the new asters sent out last year, you have missed a great deal. I had a few of them, and they grew two feet high and as much across, and gave flowers of immense size and beauty. They were as large and fine as any chrysanthemum, and one would hardly notice the difference except for the foliage. Do not miss them this year, for there was never anything finer.

The Lakeside Florist.

APT TITLE.

Chicago Tribune: "Briggsdon intends to start a paper devoted to the new journalism."

"What is he going to call it?"

"The Avalanche."

"What is his idea in giving it that name?"

"Everything goes."

CO-OPERATIVE APPLAUSE.

One night Sarah Bernhardt was playing "Fedora" to a crowded house, says the Chicago Tribune. The poison scene, as usual, elicited a tempest of applause from the audience; but ere the clapping of hands and the stamping of feet had completely died away loud peals of laughter burst forth from the upper part of the theater. The sober-minded people in the boxes and stalls gazed reproachfully at the boisterous "gods," but in a moment they, too, began to laugh, for in the front row of the balcony and in full view of all stood two one-armed men, who, unconscious of the amusement which they caused, were energetically co-operating to prolong the applause by clapping their remaining hands together.

News of the Suburbs.

NEW DULUTH DOINGS.

Mr. and Mrs. U. C. Tower were in Duluth Thursday.

Mrs. D. Kerr and Mrs. F. Provinski were among the shoppers to the city Wednesday.

Rev. C. B. Fellows, of Minneapolis, will preach both morning and evening Sunday at the Congregational church here.

B. T. McIver, of the St. Paul & Duluth railroad, was a visitor here Tuesday.

It was a welcome sight to the residents here to see the smoke issuing from the smokestack of the Richards sawmill, which started up with one saw in operation Thursday. The other band saw is expected to be in position so that the mill will be running full force Monday.

Miss Maggie O'Leary left for her home in Canada Monday, after an extended visit with her brother at this place. She made many friends here who regret her departure.

Rev. F. E. Higgins will give the second of his series of sermons on the history and travels of the Jewish people Sunday evening. His subject will be "A Young Man's Choice."

The Hurd Refrigerator company made several large shipments of grocers' refrigerators this week to Eastern cities. Several carloads of family refrigerators were also shipped to Pittsburg, Pa., Boston, Mass., and Rochester, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Gahagan are occupying the rooms made vacant by Mr. O'Leary.

The store occupied by U. C. Tower is being repapered and painted and presents a much better appearance.

The household goods of Rev. F. E. Higgins arrived Thursday and they are busily engaged getting settled.

Miss Statelar, accompanied by her pupils, visited the high hill back of this place Tuesday to study the geographical lay of the country.

U. C. Tower rode his bicycle from Duluth to New Duluth Thursday in thirty-seven minutes. Here is a chance for some of the fast riders to compete. The road is in excellent condition and is said to be one of the nicest rides at the head of the lakes.

W. H. Miller is busily engaged this week making improvements on his farm at Barnum.

A. H. Holmes, a lumberman of West Superior, was here Friday.

Clyde Gildings, a former resident of this place, was calling here Friday.

T. T. Hudson, president of the New Duluth bank, was doing business here Friday.

The Chautauqua circle will meet Monday evening with Miss Cora Reed, and the following is the program for the evening: Lesson in Greek art, led by Miss Smith; "The Story of Hercules," Mrs. Cooke; general discussion; "Periodic Freshets and Methods of Preventing Them," discussion opened by Mr. Keyes.

SPIRIT LAKE AND VICINITY.

On Sunday morning at 9 o'clock the roof of the house owned by C. P. Kindgren, of this place, was discovered to be on fire. The fire was caused by an overheated stove pipe, which projected through the roof, causing the shingles to catch fire. An alarm was immediately sounded, and in a short time a bucket brigade was formed [illegible] and excellent work the fire was extinguished, after an hour's hard work, with but small loss to the building. Mr. Kindgren has had a brick chimney erected to take the place of the stove pipe, and is not afraid of a repetition of last Sunday's work.

For the past few days the officials of the Ironton Steel works have been actively engaged testing the blooming mill connected with their plant, and are greatly pleased with the working of that portion of the mill. On Monday and Tuesday of next week the whole of the beam mill will be tested.

A petition, signed by a number of the residents here, was presented to the city council, asking that a new dock be built at the foot of Clyde avenue. The old dock is at present in such a dilapidated state that it is dangerous for anyone to go on any portion of it. On Wednesday it was necessary to remove the approaches to it, as a young man came near meeting with an accident while fishing from it, by a portion of the dock on which he had been standing falling into the river.

Mrs. McLeod and children and Mrs. Helmer, of West Duluth, spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Edmund French, of Smithville.

Mrs. G. W. Burrell was shopping in Duluth Thursday.

A. G. Renstrom made a business trip to Duluth Friday.

John Boyd, of Smithville, visited friends in West Duluth Sunday.

Mrs. Aaron Lindstrom and daughter Tillie visited Miss Slava Carlson, who is very ill in New Duluth Tuesday.

Rev. Mr. Settle, of the Swedish Mission church of Twentieth avenue, conducted Sunday school and church in Peterson's hall Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. John Robinson, of West Duluth, was a visitor in Smithville Friday.

Messrs. John and Patrick Nacey, of Duluth, and Fitzpatrick, of West Duluth, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Nacey Sunday.

Carl Sheuffler is suffering from an injured hand.

August Nelson has been visiting in the city for the past week.

Mrs. Emma Brink returned home on Friday evening from an enjoyable two months' visit with relatives in Baltimore, and with her daughter, Mrs. Mary Risler, if Washington.

Fred Johnson, of New Duluth called at Smithville Friday.

Rev. Robert Grieve of the First Christian church of Duluth conducted services in the school house Wednesday evening, and will continue to hold services every Wednesday evening during the summer.

Mrs. Patrick Nacey, of Smithville, and Mrs. Margaret Sullivan, of Ironton, spent Thursday evening with friends in West Duluth.

Blady Janes, of Ironton, met with a slight accident Wednesday while attempting to alight from the short line train while in motion.

E. S. Dash and H. C. Dash attended the monthly inspection of Company H, at their armory in West Duluth, Thursday evening.

The Sunday evening song service will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Smith.

Miss Rose Sullivan and Willie Sullivan were very pleasantly surprised Friday evening by a few of their young friends of Ironton and Smithville. The young people took possession and had a merry time until a late hour. Those who were in the party were: Misses Helen Griffin, Lillian Stearns, Dorothy Dash, Grace Segl, Jeanette Amundson and Agnes Nacey, Edward Payne, Irving Stearns, Joe and George Nacey, Walter Dash.

Miss Jean Stewart, of West Duluth, visited the Smithville school Friday afternoon.

Miss Amelia Nelson spent this week with her sister, Mrs. Johnson, of West Superior.

A small pony, owned by Mr. Glass, of Fond du Lac, caused considerable excitement Friday evening by dashing through Smithville driverless.

TOWER.

C. S. Sargent, representing the Minnesota and Ontario Transportation company, which has succeeded the Tower and Rainy River Transportation company in the management of the route to the gold fields via Tower, on Thursday proceeded up the line of route to complete arrangements for the transportation of passengers and freight, says the Iron Journal. Mr. Sargent returned, having been as far as Kettle Falls, and reports that all is now in readiness for the travel which may come this way. It is expected that within the next two weeks over 100 men will be at work upon the Crane Lake road, and the greatest drawback to the Tower route will be removed.

A party of students from Chicago university is in correspondence with E. E. Barnidge regarding a trip through Lake of the Woods, starting from Tower. The party will start about the end of this month and will obtain canoes, supplies, etc., from this city.

At a meeting of those interested in baseball matters held on Tuesday evening a club was organized and the following officers were elected: J. Medley, Jr., manager; E. F. Chalk, assistant manager, secretary and treasurer; Bert Oppel, mascot. A game of ball will be played at the ball park on Sunday afternoon between Tower and Soudan.

Last Monday Nels Gustafson, while loosening ore which had become jammed in a shute at Alaska shaft at Soudan, was struck by a portion of the falling ore and badly bruised on the back and suffered a serious sprain of the ankle. Had the whole of the ore struck him it would have been sure death. He was removed to the hospital, where he now remains.

A fishing party from Soudan, consisting of J. Trevarden, E. Drew, James Nettell, F. Panta and M. Richards, went to Trout lake last Saturday for a couple of days' fishing. They had good luck, one of the trout caught weighing twenty-four pounds.

Joseph Lovrin and Miss Katie Papich, of Soudan, will be married at the Roman Catholic church on Sunday. Both have many friends and the wedding will probably be one of the largest ever celebrated in the location.

The members of the fire department are the recipients of a handsome remembrance in the shape of a check from the Howe Lumber company, in acknowledgment of their services at the fire in the yards last August, when the whole plant and lumber piles were threatened with destruction.

MESABA MATTERS.

Mrs. J. Johnson went to Virginia Wednesday.

Mrs. Mary Klinert left for Duluth on Monday. Mrs. Klinert has been employed to cook at the boarding house since last summer. John Meek, of Saginaw, will take her place.

Joe Marcotte, who came up from Duluth Friday, has accepted a position as fireman in the sawmill.

Mrs. S. Johnson returned Wednesday from a trip to Virginia.

Mrs. Ira Bowles came up from New Duluth to join her husband, who is manager of the planing mill.

Two horses and four wagons belonging to the C. M. Hill Lumber company were shipped to Duluth Thursday.

Mrs. A. Heglund has been ill this week. The sawmill started up Monday with a full crew at work.

Miss Emma Heglund returned from Eveleth Thursday.

At the meeting of the school board Tuesday C. R. Withey resigned his position as treasurer. C. E. Ale was appointed to fill the unexpired term and B. Glines was appointed director. It was decided to have but nine months of school this year instead of ten as previously.

At the town and village meetings held on the same date Charles R. Withey resigned his various offices.

Rev. Ohlund, of Soudan, was in Mesaba this week.

Vera Watson is on the sick list.

M. C. Crothers, Edwin Cunrad, George Purden and A. Fisher came up from Duluth to work in the mill.

Ed Kinney and John Sullivan, of Biwabik, were in town this week.

Vera Watson gave a farewell party in honor of Gracie Withey Sunday. The children spent a delightful afternoon in playing games. Lunch was served and the little people departed for their homes tired but happy.

Miss Sullivan who has been boarding with the family of C. R. Withey since September, will stay with Mrs. J. B. Watson the remainder of the school year.

Wintergreen is very plentiful this spring. The children make daily excursions to the woods to gather the bright red berries.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Withey and little Gracie left for Oshkosh, Wis., Thursday morning. Mr. Withey has resided in Mesaba the past two years. During that time he has held many important town, village and school offices. He was also postmaster and bookkeeper for the C. M. Hill Lumber company. In Mr. Withey we lose and energetic business man. Mrs. Withey will be remembered for her kindness and sociability. We all wish them success in their new venture.

A. T. Stowell, John Cunrad and Allan McDonald are among the late arrivals.

ELY EVENTS.

Ely, Minn., May 8.—(Special to the Herald.)—The Pioneer mine was closed down Tuesday. The direct cause was the lack of stock pile room and as no orders had been received to ship the company had no place to stock its ore and hence the mine had to be closed. The management is daily expecting orders to commence the shipment of ore and as soon as they are received the full force will again be employed. Manager Sturtevant left Wednesday morning for Ashland where he will consult President Bardon of the company. It has been rumored around town that the mine will again resume work Monday.

C. M. Johnson returned Monday from his extended visit to the South.

The city council at its last meeting was seriously considering the advisability of enacting an ordinance for the establishment of a city pound and the appointment of a poundmaster. The horse and cow nuisance has so aroused the citizens that the establishment of a pound is an assured fact.

One of the first fishing and outing parties to visit Burntside lake this summer was composed of the following well-known gentlemen: Dr. C. G. Shipman, W. E. Pike, Charles Lewis, Thomas Polkinghorn and Lewis Eisenach.

Dr. C. G. Shipman and daughter visited in Duluth this week.

Joseph Thomas spent a few days in the city this week to attend the wedding of Miss Mary Smale to Anthony Smale, last Saturday evening.

Manager H. B. Sturtevant of the Pioneer was a south-bound passenger Wednesday morning.

Guy Ireland, of Winton, who has been spending a few days in Duluth, returned to his home Monday.

Miss Tillie Westerin has accepted a position with M. Gleason & Sons in their hardware store.

The "Moonlight quartet" is a new organization for Ely and can be heard any Sunday evening on the lake.

Benny Merrill was in Duluth the first of the week on business before the land office.

George Westcott received a bruised face Monday. While coming down the sidewalk on his bike, he ran over the 2-foot raise and quite severely bruised his face and hands.

Miss May Cosgrove left Tuesday for a few days' visit in Two Harbors with friends.

The Zenith mine has about 18,000 tons of ore in stock and Manager Burt expects to continue work.

Fred Stockbridge and Matt Sanders left Wednesday for the Rainy Lake and Seine River districts. The gentlemen took canoe route direct north from Ely and did not go by the Tower route.

Richard Wallace returned Thursday evening from a business trip to Tower.

An interesting baseball game was played on the grounds last Sunday between the first nine and a picked one. The result was a victory for the first nine on a score of 7 to 5.

Ben Horowitz, manager of the Ely Clothing company, is now settled with his family in the rooms above the drug store.

Mrs. John Pengilly and daughter, Florence, spent Saturday in Duluth.

Mrs. A. Crossman was in Duluth over Sunday on business before the land office.

The city council held a very interesting session last Tuesday evening and considerable business of interest and importance was transacted. The board of health reported the purchasing of a dumping ground three miles south of town, near Mud lake, the purchase price was $250. Bids for the city printing and scavenger work were also opened and awarded. A. Abrahamson receiving the scavenger work at $50 per month and L. M. Schaefer was awarded the city printing for the ensuing year. It seems that the council did not believe having their work done for nothing, as both bids which were accepted were the highest received, but to the responsibility and fitness to perform the duties.

Forest fires have been burning the past week fiercely but no immediate danger to the city was apprehended at any time. Sunday the smoke in this vicinity was terrible and not before Wednesday noon did it clear away.

Wheels and Their Riders.

The week has afforded no new developments to speak of in the local cycling field, but few wheels have had a rest, nevertheless. Several days of the week have been poor for riding because of the chill quality in the breezes which were wafted from the ice-water bosom of Lake Superior, but this condition effected no appreciable difference in the amount of riding that was done. Every street and every outlying thoroughfare has been lined during certain portions of the day with cyclists, male and female. Likewise the alleys and the riding schools are developing an unusually large quantity of timid beginners who are painfully acquiring the mastery of the wheel.

The Duluth Cycle club as a whole has done nothing this week, though individually it has done much in the wheeling line, and its committees are busily preparing for the annual road race to take place Saturday, May 29. Plans for that star event are progressing smoothly, and it is already insured that it will eclipse all previous efforts in almost every respect. The arrangements are practically the same as in previous years so far as rules are concerned.

The Y. M. C. A. Cycle club held its first run as an organized club last night on London road. These weekly runs will be kept up throughout the season, and they will undoubtedly prove an attractive feature. The club has put in at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium a stand for wheels and a bench where repairing may be done.

* * *

The Y. M. C. A. club has outlined a very neat emblem for the front of the members' sweaters. It will consist of a single wheel, complete from tire to spokes. Within the rim is a cleverly constructed monogram formed of the initial letters of the association. The whole makes a very neat effect and it will probably have a place on the sweaters of most of the members.

A number of local cyclists are discussing the formation of a century club, and they have already taken steps leading toward its formation. Those who have interested themselves are engaged in figuring out a century run with Duluth as the starting point and probably as the destination. When this is completed all ambitious cyclists will immediately proceed to collect the bars which indicate that the wearer has pumped ground a distance of 100 miles without a break.

The work of building the saucer track at the Union rink has been commenced, and it will be completed in plenty of time for the female racers who will begin their six days' race May 17. The track is being put in by a local firm and it will be 120 feet long by over 80 feet wide, outside measurement. The track will be 12 feet wide and will be banked two and a half feet on the sides and six feet at the ends.

Under the management of experienced riders the tandem is a means of unending enjoyment. When one of the riders is a green hand the pleasure is very much reduced, the veteran being too often compelled to do much the greater portion of the work. But when both are comparatively inexperienced—then, indeed, is there trouble ahead. Full appreciation of this fact is felt by a certain young couple—not a married couple—though until last Sunday there was an excellent prospect that the twain would speedily become one flesh. At present the chances of such a happy event are materially diminished. And all because of an unfortunate trip on a tandem before either the young man or his lady love was sufficiently experienced to overcome the latent fiendishness which a bicycle built for two seems to possess. This particular tandem, though on former occasions showing only the best grade of behavior, chose on Sunday to adopt rules and methods of its own, and hence the trouble.

The young man, looking forward doubtless to the time when he and the fair one would begin to travel through life as a team, had purchased a handsome tandem. With the aid of his experienced roommate he took half a dozen spins on the machine, and fancied himself its master. Then he took the young lady out for several short trips, and barring the natural nervousness incident to such an experience, the fair one seemed to be at home. This stage having been reached, the two decided upon a Sunday trip of something like forty miles, blissfully unaware that the tandem was not yet thoroughly broken. Before they returned that evening the young woman was convinced that it was as untamable as the wildest of Texas broncbos, and that it was capable of any deviltry up to climbing a tree. For a time they rode against the wind, and they were nothing loath to stop for lunch a little earlier than had been planned. Thoroughly refreshed, they started off again, but no sooner were they on the road than the tandem, which up to this time had ambled along as pleasantly as a minister's nag, suddenly showed symptoms of becoming fractious. It shied at a lumber pile by the side of the road and just missed throwing the rear rider into a large, comfortable pile of splinters. Then a pushcart came along, and the tandem took it into its head to do a pole vault over the curbing. A section of the Salvation Army caused it to make a bolt for a pile of beer kegs, and a trolley car frightened the skittish thing so that it took the bits between its teeth and ran away. After lingering just long enough on the edge of a ditch to throw everybody into convulsions of fear, the machine mounted the street railroad tracks and succeeded in pulling its rear tire out by the roots. The riders managed to land on earth without a tumble, but the young man made use of some exceedingly vigorous language, at which the girl was speedily on the verge of tears. Just at this critical juncture a friend of the young man came along on his wheel, headed for town, and offered to lead the tandem home. The offer was gratefully accepted, and the chagrined tourists, being luckily near a suburban station, took the first train home.

Now, while a girl may feel that she looks fetching in a short skirt when mounted on or walking beside her wheel, she knows very well that such a costume is not correct for ordinary promenade purposes. Therefore when this girl reached the city and faced the necessity of walking a considerable distance in the rig she wore, her reflections were not of the pleasantest. The young man, inwardly cursing his hard luck, was in no mood to lighten the walk with pleasant chat, so the journey to the girl's home was made chiefly in silence. Worse than that, the parting took place outside the door, the girl for some reason failing to invite her admirer in. He imagined that his unparliamentary language when the tire came off was the cause of her coldness, and, of course, this idea did not tend to soothe his already hurt feelings. Since then the two have made some progress toward renewing their former affectionate relations, but up to the present the tandem has been avoided as a tender topic.

Few wheelmen have had their tires punctured by the fangs of blacksnakes. This is the experience endured—to say enjoyed would hardly be correct—by John Hesse, of Crenstadt, N. J. He and Edward Gramlich left Union Hill about dark to ride to their homes, and when crossing what is known as the cedar swamp, Hesse felt the front wheel of his machine suddenly give out and, jumping to the ground, found the tire had been punctured. On further investigation he was nearly frightened out of his wits by the sight of a large blacksnake firmly wound up in the spokes of the wheel. The snake kept darting its forked tongue in and out at him. Hesse called for Gramlich, who was in the lead, to halt and come to his assistance. The snake was wound up in the wheel so tightly that they did not know how to kill it without injuring the wheel. Finally Gramlich plucked up courage enough to cut its head off with a large jackknife he had in his pocket. They were then obliged to carve the snake up into small pieces to get it out of the wheel, and while doing this they met with another surprise in the shape of a frog, which they found in the stomach of the snake. When they had freed the wheel of the snake they hailed the first trolley car that came along on the New Jersey Electric railroad and rode to Cranstadt, having had all the experience in riding wheels through a swamp inhabited by blacksnakes that they wished for one day.

Here is a version from Boston of how Tom Eck's hair, once glossy black, came to have its present silvery look:

"In the month of November, about sixteen years ago, three young boys, one of whom was Thomas Watson Eck, left their home in Aurora, Canada, for a duck hunting expedition on Lake Ontario. They had been out but a short time when a sudden and furious squall came up and the little boat and its occupants were soon drifting out to sea at the mercy of wind and waves. The night settled upon the struggling trio, with death from cold or famine or drowning staring them in the face, while at home, with blanched faces and hearts filled with fear, friends and relatives of the adventurers scoured the beach and scanned the water's surface for signs of the missing boys. The storm raged with fury and before 3 o'clock the next morning two of the three boys lay at the bottom of the great Canadian lake, after a heroic but fruitless effort to save themselves. The boat had become unmanageable early in the night and was overturned by the waves while the three lads, who were expert swimmers, clung for dear life to the bottom of the boat. The two companions of Eck soon became numbed and unconscious by cold and exposure and dropped in the dark night, while Eck clung to the boat with the grip of death. Here his athletic training came into play and he was able to withstand the severity of the storm and cold until it abated. As soon as the storm was over he lost consciousness and was picked up by a tug and taken quickly to land in the far distance. Doctors and relatives worked at the process of rubbing for eight hours, when he recovered his senses. The next day, on walking down the street, he became convinced that something was wrong, and upon returning home looked into the mirror his family had purposely placed in his way, and he found that his hair had turned almost white, the result of fright and exposure."

At a meeting of one of the large religious bodies recently in New York the bicycle question was discussed at great length. To ride a wheel on Sunday was declared by some of the delegates to be a sin against high heaven. There were others who thought a wheel might be ridden on Sunday, provided it was not done for mere pleasure, or that it was used as a means of getting to and from church, or for purposes of health, or to be used on charitable or philanthropic missions. The third element argued with much force and enthusiasm that the bicycle carried people beyond the seductive influences of many of the snares and delusions that are set for the feet of the unwary. They went on to show that riding a bicycle necessarily meant out-of-door exercise; that it brought people in touch with nature and removed them from the debasing influences of sedentary life as found in the cities.

A preacher had this to say in discussing the three views referred to: "The arguments were interesting, but without visible influence, and no general conclusion seems to have been reached. As in many other instances, the advocates of the several theories expressed their opinions without influencing those who differed from them. A bicycle cannot well carry a person anywhere unless the person carried directs the course of the vehicle. It is with the rider, therefore, to say whether the route taken shall lead to vice or virtue. The wheel is merely an innocent means of getting speedily from one place to another with less exertion and with greater pleasure than by walking. The rider must guide, and he is responsible for the course taken. It is probable that anyone able to own a scorcher will not hesitate to take a spin on Sunday evening. The bicycle cannot save or damn if he is otherwise impeccable."

Occasionally a chainless wheel is seen, but the rush of that class of machines which had been predicted shows no sign of arrival. Some leading manufacturers are now at work upon the chainless type, but it is not their intention to put this pattern of wheel upon the market before '98. A dealer, in talking about the chainless wheel, says:

"You may notice what an enormous demand there is for the medium-grade wheels this year, and you will also find that the practice of price-cutting upon the high-grade wheels is wholesome. It is my belief that the manufacturers of the $100 bicycles realize that a reduction in prices is imminent. Accordingly, their purpose is to put the chainless wheels on the market in '98 as their leading mount, and possibly sell their bicycles that now figure at $100 at, say, $75. The manufacture of good chainless bicycles is costly and I am convinced that some five or six of our large houses are now preparing to turn out chainless bicycles for their leaders next year. The perfected chainless is the coming wheel, and the class of riders who want the best will buy chainless bicycles at $100 next year. Such a move will enable the manufacturers to still maintain a $100 figure, while they can, without casting any reflection on the value of the chain gear wheel, sell them at a reduced figure. It will take fully a season to establish the chainless bicycle, but I feel confident that it is the bicycle of the future."

For the first few weeks of the season it behooves everybody to look out for the novice, who is very much in evidence these days. Many persons take to the wheel without the slightest knowledge of the rules of the road, and many others who are aware of the restrictions of custom are entirely negligent in the observance. Following are a few rules which ought always to be kept in mind:

In meeting riders, pedestrians and vehicles keep to the right. In overtaking and passing them keep to the left.

In turning corners to the left always keep to the outside of the street.

In turning corners to the right keep as far out as possible without trespassing on the left side of the road.

Never expect pedestrians to get out of your way; find a way around them.

Never coast down a hill having cross streets along the way.

In meeting other riders ascending a hill where there is but one path, always yield the right-of-way to the up riders.

Bear in mind that a rider meeting an electric car carrying a strong headlight is unable to see beyond the light; keep out of his way.

When riding straight ahead never vary your course suddenly to the right or left without first assuring yourself that no other rider is close in your rear on the side toward which you turn.

Do not ride too close to a novice, and in meeting a novice give plenty of room.

QUEER HOUSES.

Built to Gratify Hobbies of Their Owners.

In an obscure thoroughfare of Paris there is an old, dilapidated building which has curious history. Nearly 300 years ago, in the reign of Louis XIV, its owner, Comte de Boutteville, conceived the extraordinary idea of making it a rendezvous for duelists, and at one period all the aristocratic quarrels of the day were disposed of within its precincts.

An engagement to fight a duel was a sure passport to the comte's favor and hospitality. He spared neither pains nor expense in arranging his household to anticipate the wants of his curious guests, and the table was laid every morning in one of the rooms of the mansion, at which the principals and their supporters breakfasted before proceeding to business with weapons supplied frequently from the comte's armory.

A German doctor living in Japan set himself to construct a perfect sanitary dwelling house at Yokohama in 1891. The walls consist of two layers of rough plate glass about half an inch thick, separated by a space of four inches, filled with a strong solution of salts of soda or alum to moderate and diffuse the sunlight. The foundations are constructed with a special view of minimizing the danger from earthquakes so common in Japan.

The main feature of the house is that there are no openings or cracks of any kind to admit air, moisture, insects, dust or microbes. Fresh air and ventilation are supplied by means of pipes and girds in the floors, and before entering the room the air is filtered by passing through cages filled with cotton wool. It is then made to strike a large pane of glass coated with glycerine, which, in the opinion of the doctor, makes is as pure as an antiseptic dressing. The impure germs introduced by the inmates are, it is claimed, doomed to rapid extinction in rooms bathed in sunlight and without a dark corner.

FORETELL EARTHQUAKES.

It has been noticed on various occasions that different animals have shown signs of uneasiness or fear without apparent cause, and that a few minutes afterward a earthquake shock has been felt, says the Cincinnati Enquirer.

People who have had the opportunity of taking note of this peculiarity in countries where earthquakes are frequent are well aware of its significance, and always prepare for a seismic disturbance. It is advanced, in explanation of this sign of fear, that animals are able to perceive things such as very slight movements—which escape the eye of man; animals see these premonitory signs and know what to expect, whereas man goes about his business quite unconscious of what is about to happen.

In Japan it is usually the pheasants very numerous in the classic land of earthquakes—which give the first danger signal; they cry out and rush about in characteristic fashion, and in a few minutes the shock is felt. Other birds and animals, such as fowls and dogs, also give warning signs.

EVELETH.

At a meeting of the directors of the State bank of Eveleth held May 1 it was deemed advisable to liquidate so that the bank might reorganize as a private institution, says the Star. The fact of it being a state bank prevented it from loaning on real estate, no matter how good the security, and as loaning is the largest part of banking business, it was necessary to reconstruct on the line of private banking. The management will be practically the same. A. P. Goss will be president while A. J. Goss, the father, will be cashier.

The Sparta Iron company will start stripping operations in a few days. A force of some fifty to 100 men will be employed. W. C. Merritt & Co. will do the shipping under the management of H. S. Bell, of Chicago.

Charles Jesmore, who has occupied the McInnis house the past two and a half years, in fact since the earliest conception, has now sold out to William Andrews, of Virginia.

W. D. Ellsworth made an assignment to A. P. Goss May 1. Depressed times and bad collections destroy many good men. W. D. is now a live candidate for postoffice honors.

The married ladies of Eveleth recently organized a Ladies' Maccabee tent here, and a couple of weeks ago were installed into their respective offices. The following are the officers: Past lady commander, Mrs. J. Johns; lady commander, Mrs. E. J. Matheson; lieutenant commander, Mrs. M. Maxwell; K. of R. and F., Mrs. P. McClory; sergeant, Miss Nettie Bidwell; M. at A., Mrs. C. T. Johnson; sentinel, Mrs. William Haehnke; picket, Mrs. T. C. Grierson; chaplain, Mrs. George Clark.

Special Rate Made.

A rate of $18 from Duluth to Rat Portage and return has been made by the Canadian Pacific and the Booth and Beatty lines of steamers, for the gold mining convention that meets at Rat Portage June 2, 3 and 4. This includes berths and meals on the steamers between Duluth and Port Arthur. The tickets are to be issued on the certificate plan and will be good leaving Duluth May 29 and 30. The return limit will be thirty days which will enable those who attend the convention to visit the mines in the vicinity of Rat Portage.

AMONG THE SPORTS.

The National Guard indoor baseball enthusiasts will have another inning next Monday night at the Armory, when the teams from Companies A and G will again meet. Those games have all been interesting and this is likely to be no exception to the rule. Both teams are now familiar with the game, having played half a dozen games each, and there is enough active rivalry to ensure lively action in Monday night's contest. The line-up will be practically the same as it was in the last game.

The tennis courts at Eleventh avenue east have been rolled and are now in prime condition for play. The first games were played during the week, and, as last year, will be games almost daily during the summer. The club contains a number of very clever amateur players, and some of the games are especially exciting and interesting. The annual meeting of the club was to be held this afternoon in the offices of Fryberger & Johanson in the Torrey building, when five directors, a secretary and a treasurer were to be elected. It was expected also that the club would discuss the prospect for having a tournament and perhaps form the basis for plans for such a contest.

The baseball season in Duluth is opened, but it has been inaugurated on vacant lots by the younger members of the rising generation, and so far there is no hope that the game in Duluth will advance much beyond that stage. No signs of a Duluth club have appeared, and it is now getting so late that such an organization will be lacking this year.

There was a game of baseball last Saturday, however. It was played between the Twelfth Avenues and the Endions and the former won. It must have been a very good and a very exciting game, the score was so large. The winners made 38 runs while the losers ran up 32.

Shell, Brook, Warren and Wads, of the Central Gun club, went to Superior Wednesday afternoon to shoot blue rocks with the Superior club. The Duluth men carried off the honors of the 25-bird event, Shell making 22, Brook and Warren 20, and Wads 11. The local men were much pleased at the work of the magazine gun, one of which has been ordered for the Central Gun club.

The decided victory that Lavigne scored over Connelly clinches his title to the lightweight championship. There has never been any doubt in the minds of ring patrons that Lavigne was the best 133-pound man in this country while Connelly was abroad. So soon as he returned a doubt was raised as to the merits of the pair. Connelly fought a number of good battles in this country and then went to England. His best performance was his bout with Dick Burge, to whom he gave away quite a chunk of weight. His showing with a handicap against a man that Lavigne met at about even weights made his chances against the Saginaw "kid" look good, but they were woefully shattered when the men met in New York Friday night. The result stamps Lavigne the undisputed light-weight champion.

Until some new light-weight fistic star shall come to the front Lavigne will have nothing to do in his class. If he would not be idle he will have to take on some of the 145-pound men. Of these there are quite a number in the East, and most of them are anxious to try conclusions with the champion.

There are those who think Lavigne will show to just as good advantage in the 140-pound class as he has done at lighter weights. It is claimed that he has a great deal of trouble reaching the light-weight limit now, and would be stronger and better with a little more weight. Then he is growing heavier all the time and will soon find his best weight to be 140 pounds. If he concludes to box in this class he will find plenty of employment. Otherwise he will be forced into idleness, for there is really no first-class light-weight left for him to tackle.

Peter Maher is looking beyond his contest with Tom Sharkey, which will take place in the East shortly. He believes he can score a decisive victory over the sailor and thus raise himself back into the class out of which Fitzsimmons knocked him. If he can defeat the stocky sailor he will have accomplished a task at which Fitzsimmons failed. Then, his friends reason, the distinction will go far toward wiping out his defeat by Fitzsimmons. On the strength of that victory, if he is successful, he will demand another battle with Fitzsimmons.

There seems to be no doubt in the minds of Peter's friends as to the outcome of his contest with Sharkey. They are certain the hardy sailor will not be able to withstand the Irishman's sledge-hammer blows very long, and they are equally certain that Sharkey will not be able to do Peter serious damage. The talk is that it will be a hurricane battle, with Sharkey rushing into Maher's powerful straight jabs and swings.

"Kid" McCoy manages to keep his name before the public without going further into the match-making business than preliminary discussions. He is not to be blamed for wanting something easier than Dan Creedon and Tommy Ryan. Still, he must meet these men sooner or later if he would hold the place in the boxing world in which he has been placed by good work and good fortune. Creedon and Ryan are both ready and anxious to make a match, and the matter of a purse should not hinder him, for Eastern clubs are ready to offer a good sum to McCoy and either one of these boxers. Creedon is going to England, but he will not stay long if he can get a match with McCoy. Ryan is so anxious to wipe out the stain McCoy put upon his record that he stands ready to make all manner of reasonable concessions for the sake of a match.

John Splan was recently interviewed, and talked entertainingly about the trotters. "People don't realize," answered Splan, leaning his elbows on the table, "what a well-made piece of mechanism a horse is. Any other machine would wear out with half the work that a horse does. Think of the miles and miles a street car horse goes—or a race horse races and trains. Take Newcastle, for instance, who has trained and raced more miles than any horse in America; I have often wondered how far he has gone in his life."

Splan shook his head meditatively and wiped off an overdose of horseradish from an oyster. "chicken, Maryland fashion," he said to the waiter. "and potatoes stewed in cream." "Especially when you think," he resumed his horse talk, "that 75 per cent of the people haven't as much sense as the horses they drive. Men—particularly a few years ago—would put $20,000 into a horse and then give him in charge of a man to whom they paid not 1 per cent interest on the money the horse cost them.

"There was Johnson—who, by the way, was one of the two horses I had anything to do with who was perfect—of whom you would not think, "If he didn't have this or that, what a horse he would be!" "

"Who was the other?" the reporter interrupted.

"Rarus; those two were always just right. Well, as I was going to say, Johnson, who held the record to the high wheel sulky once, was so nervous that if you looked him up in a stall he would have a ring worn around it in twenty minutes. But there was an old groom who used to stay with him, have his meals sent to the stall, and sleep in one corner of it. He wouldn't even go to the pump for a bucket of water, but sent a boy for it. When he was with Johnson the horse was quiet as a lamb, ate well and slept quietly.

"A spirited horse needs companionship and something to interest him, just as a man does. You ought to see Joe Patchen, whom we are going to put up at our sale next month, with a bitch and eight puppies who stay in his stall. He lets them crawl around under his feet, and bite his ankles, without even thinking of kicking or stepping on them. He'll put his muzzle right down close to them and watch them in the most interested way by the hour.

There is no denying the fact that the Yale crew is proving a disappointment this spring. It was thought on the first symptoms of weakness that with the warming spring days they would show marked improvement. But they have failed to fulfill expectations. During the past two weeks they have made absolutely no progress. On the contrary there has been a decrease of speed noticeable in the boat, as well as in the form of the crew, individually and collectively. It would now be harder than ever to forecast just who will compose the championship team. The situation is uncertain and unsatisfactory. The whole bunch of candidates seems demoralized. Men pull together neither mentaly nor physically, and new faults are cropping out daily. There is a growing conviction that the available timber is of a mediocre character only. Of course they have had many obstacles to contend with, including almost uninterrupted bad weather and indisposition among the men. Still the followers of old Eli claim that some advancement should have been made despite all hindrances. It is getting well along in the season now, and unless a change comes, Yale might as well relinquish all hopes of even taking any sort of a place in the race.

It is different with Harvard. It is stated by the Boston papers that Lehman, the English coach, is bringing about the most flattering results. He startled everybody a few days ago by making still another change in the personnel of the 'varsity. He has placed Biddle, who has been rowing three on the freshman crew, in Wrightington's place at bow, moving Wrightington along to three and pushing Moulton out of the boat altogether. Up to this time Moulton seemed to be doing well, as he has cut Holl ster out every day for nearly a week. The new man, Biddle, comes from Philadelphia. He prepared for Harvard at St. Paul's, where he was considered a very fine oar. He is pretty light for the 'varsity, weighing only 162 pounds, and does not look strong enough for a four-mile race. But nobody is worrying about this new departure. Lehman has established a reputation for knowing what he is about, and if he changed the whole freshman crew into the 'varsity it is doubtful if Harvard's confidence in his judgment would be shaken in the least. The fact that he has come across the water simply as a sportsman and a friend, to help our crews, causes him to be respected and treated as no hired coach could be.

It has been settled that the great boat races of the colleges will be rowed at Poughkeepsie. Cornell, Pennsylvania, Yale, Harvard and Columbia have secured quarters, and in a few more weeks their crews will be seen on the waters of the Hudson. The deep, far-reaching shouts of the coaches as they roar instructions through the megaphone will echo and re-echo as they roll and reverberate between the banks of the classic stream. The college and undergraduates and alumni are watching every move of the crew of their own and of those of the rival colleges. From now until the race is rowed college men will talk of nothing else, think of nothing else, dream of nothing else. The first week of July will see the races rowed, won and lost.

Cornell, Yale and Harvard will meet on June 23 and 24. The freshmen will row the first day and the 'varsity crews the second. On June 30 the Cornell-Pennsylvania and Columbia freshmen will meet, and on July 2 the 'varsity crews of the same colleges will strain for victory. These are the great races in which the college world is centered. The latest news from Yale, which dampens the ardor of the followers of the fortunes of the Blue, and almost makes them despair, is the withdrawal of Simpson, who has been stroking the boat. His withdrawal is regretted by the undergraduates. He is considered the most skillful and experienced oarsmen in the boat, and it is feared his absence will lessen the proficiency of the crew. Simpson declares that Bob Cook doesn't know his business, and other members of the crew agree with him. As far as can be learned perfect harmony exists among the members of the other crews. It is lucky for Yale that the change comes so soon, for it can be remedied, and may not weaken the crew.

No ball player ever jumped into popularity as rapidly as has Claude Richey, the Reds' young infielder, says the Omaha Bee. He has not only astonished the crowd by his brilliant playing, but some of his fellow players as well. There is not a short stop in the league today, not barring Jennings, Dahlen, Smith or any of the other stars, who could have played better ball than Richey has during the recent championship games. He has not only fielded and hit well, but his judgment at critical stages has been perfect. He does not handle himself like a youngster who is playing his first season in league company, but like one of the old-timers who has grown gray-headed in the service. If the games thus far can be taken as a criterion, the Reds have secured one of the most promising players in the country in Richey. It matters very little now whether Corcoran reports or not. In fact, if he were to report for duty tomorrow it would not be at all likely that Capt. Ewing would take Richey out of the game while he is playing such fast ball.

POOR MAN'S FRIEND.

A Wife Restored to Health By Dr. Hartman's Free Treatment.

The following letter was recently received from George A. Blanchard, Washington, Ga. This letter speaks for itself and requires no additional words:

"I have used Pe-ru-na in my family ever since you sent me your books. Pe-ru-na has been the treatment of every case of sickness in my family since then. Two years ago my wife was sick for two months. We tried two different doctors, but the case was very stubborn, being a menstrual difficulty. I can find no words to describe her misery. The doctors' treatment only made her worse, and I, being a poor man, was spellbound, not knowing what to do. Finally I came across a Pe-ru-na almanac; looking into it I found a cut representing catarrh of the throat. My throat had been subject to periodical affection for the last twenty years, and if any medicine had done any good it was so little that I did not realize it. Reading the book I found that Pe-ru-na was not only good for catarrh of the throat, but also catarrh of the pelvic organs and nervous prostration. I immediately sent for more of your books, and in one of them I found a description of my wife's case. I quit the doctors and purchased a bottle of Pe-ru-na. Three days later my wife got up and has been well ever since. I have not been bothered with the throat affection since taking Pe-ru-na. Before my wife used Pe-ru-na her trouble caused her a week's sickness every month. But now she does not lose a day and has gained over fifty pounds in weight.

"GEORGE A. BLANCHARD."

Every testimonial published by the Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing company is in the words of the signer. The above was a case of catarrh, for which Pe-ru-na is a specific remedy. Send for free catarrh book. Address the Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing company, Columbus, Ohio.

Sent Free to Men.

INDIANA MAN DISCOVERS A REMARKABLE REMEDY FOR LOST VIGOR.

Samples Will Be Sent Free to All Who Write For It.

James P. Johnston, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., after battling for years against the mental and physical suffering of lost manhood has found the exact remedy that cures the trouble.

He is guarding the secret carefully but is willing to send a sample of the medicine to all men who suffer with any form of sexual weakness resulting from youthful ignorance, premature loss of memory and strength, weak back, varicocele and emaciation. The remedy has a peculiarly grateful effect of warmth and seems to act directly giving needed strength and development wherever needed. The remedy cured Mr. Johnston completely of all the ills and troubles that come from years of misuse of the naturally ordained functions and is said to be absolutely reliable in every case.

A request to Mr. James P. Johnston, Box 1001, Ft. Wayne, Ind., stating that you would like a sample of his remedy for men, will be complied with promptly and no charge whatever will be asked by him. He is very much interested in spreading the news of this great remedy and he is careful to send the sample securely sealed in a perfectly plain package so that its recipient need have no fear of embarrassment or publicity.

Readers are requested to write without delay.

IN THE LABOR FIELD

That an open enemy is better than a lukewarm friend is the sentiment that was expressed by a prominent member of organized labor recently. The observation was anent the lack of true union spirit among Duluth workingmen who are nominally union men. That such a spirit prevails is conceded. As the person quoted above put it, there is a large contingent of those who are enrolled in the unions who ask everything and give nothing. If a grievance arises in their particular trade or occupation, they are clamorous for help from their union brethren, but when it comes to a question of a small sacrifice in return they are not there. The fight to keep up fair wages and conditions is hard and loyal members of unions should stand shoulder to shoulder. Instead, they are too apt, when they themselves are purchasers, to throw themselves into the balance, as it were, on the other side. Union men should insist on union goods said this person, and he wound up with the sentiment expressed above.

Said another member of organized labor: "It would be a good deal better for organized labor if these half-way, blow-hot-blow-cold people were out of it altogether. Union labor should say to them: If you are not for us, you are against us, and those who are unwilling to make sacrifices for unionism when the occasion offers should be deprived of its benefits, which are so welcome in extremity."

The report of the Trades' assembly on the Lakewood pumphouse matter will, it is understood, bear down pretty hard on the contractor. So far as the inspector is concerned, the report will state that he was deceived by the contractor, but there will probably be no expressions of censure.

The first number of the Union Label Advocate is out. As its name indicates, it is in the interest of the "blue label," and it is the official paper of the Union Label league. As stated in the salutatory, timely articles will be presented giving reasons why union labeled articles should be preferred by consumers on both economic and moral gounds.

EMANCIPATION OF WORKERS.

Eugene V. Debs, president of the American Railway union, editor of the Railway Times, philosopher, thinker and dreamer, says the convention of the organization in Chicago in June will consider a plan for the "emancipation of the working masses."

"How will this be done?" writes Mr. Debs in his proclamation. "By uniting the workers of this country in a grand co-operative scheme in which they shall work for harmony in every branch of industry, virtually being their own employes and receiving the whole product of their labor.

"The country is ripe for such a movement, and I believe the coming convention of the American Railway union will launch it. It is to be confined to no particular class of labor, but all who toil are to be admitted without regard to nationality, sex, color or previous condition of servitude. The primary work will be largely educational. Every problem relative to our social, economical, political and industrial life will be examined. Lecturers and organizers will take the field and enter upon a thorough canvass of every state in the Union.

"Some of the foremost men in the reform movement will head the crusade, and it is a foregone conclusion that it will grow more rapidly than any organization that has ever preceded it, and, being founded on the intelligence of its membership, the growth will be healthy and substantial, and it will not be long until this movement will be one of the determining factors in shaping the policy and destiny of the republic.

"Industrial co-operation as the basis of a higher type of civilization will be the principal object. It is impossible to enter into details so far in advance, but these will doubtless adjust themselves at the proper time. Upon fundumental, bed-rock principles a round million of us are agreed. We shall unite all our energies to destroy the present capitalistic system and establish the co-operative commonwealth.

"Under the former, which is now in the last stages of 'consumption,' the country has been brought to the verge of ruin, and humanity has been degraded beyond the power of language to describe. To one whose sensibilities are not wholly dead a mere contemplation of the horror of our social life is sickening and shocking.

"The time has come for social regeneration, and this is only possible through a new and world-wide change of system, and to inaugurate that change will be the purpose of the new movement to be launched soon in the great metropolis of the West.

"Soon after the work is under way it is proposed to begin active operations in some Western state. The state will be colonized by our people, the leaders will converge there, a full ticket will be nominated and we will undoubtedly have votes enough to secure complete possession and control of the state government. We will then establish the co-operative commonwealth, and the state government will be in harmony with it. The laborless thousands of the country will be invited to the state, and lish the co-operative commonwealth, and others to develop its resources and enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

"There are several Western states in any one of which all the unemployed of the country could, under same conditions, not only provide for themselves, but attain a type of civilization compared with which the present would appear like cannibalism."

TOBACCO TAX OPPOSED.

One hundred and fifty thousand persons actually engaged in the cigar industry, and 600,000 or 700,000 dependent upon them for support, who hail from every state and territory of this republic, have unanimously protested against the proposed rates in the Dingley bill, wherein it increases the rate on imported leaf tobacco, while about 15,000, all told, tobacco growers, who are confined to ten counties and five states, request this advance, says George W. Perkins in the Cigarmakers' Journa. If the old adage of "the greatest good to the greatest number" is to prevail we hold our protest should prevail. As a matter of fact, the tobacco that is taxed so heavily cannot be raised in this country, but the smoking public will have it. If our home manufacturer cannot get the raw material at reasonable rates he is placed at a disadvantage and in a position where he cannot compete with the foreign manufacturers. The question narrows down to this: Shall the American cigarmaker be driven out of business in a futile effort to please a handful of leaf growers? Shall a policy prevail that will have a tendency to destroy the occupation of 150,000 loyal citizens, and add them to the already large army of unemployed workingmen? If so, will some gifted statesman point out where these people can find means to maintain life?

PROTEST OF FREE LABOR.

Members of the board of trade of Louisville have written to Governor Bradley of Kentucky asking him to take steps to restrict the output of marketable manufactured articles by the striped-suited artisans who work for the state without salary. In the communication the attention of the governor and the state authorities who have charge of the penitentiaries is called to the hardship and injustice inflicted upon the free labor of the state by the introduction into the penitentiaries of labor-saving machines and contrivances, by means of which and by reason of the labor costing nothing articles manufactured in said penitentiaries are placed upon the markets at prices which defy free labor to compete, and we request said state authorities to stop the further introduction and use of such labor-saving machinery in the prisons of this state."

The board of trade also requests said state authorities to have all goods and articles manufactured in the penitentiaries of that state for sale so marked and labeled as to be easily identified as convict made goods.

COMPETITION FROM JAPAN.

In Japan all classes of employes will work sixty-six hours a week without protest. In textile work the Japanese have long been famous for their skill and amenability to discipline, says a Japan letter to the Paterson Press. The cost of labor runs from a minimum of 3 cents to a maximum of 25 cents per day for eleven hours (United States currency value). The average will not, in my opinion, exceed 17 cents. I might enumerate the large number of products of the Chinese and Japanese mechanical skill and cheap labor which have already found their way into the American market, and which are either at the present competing for trade or will do so in the near future. Among them are matches, brushes, brooms, silks, mattings, rugs and carpets, straw hats, shirts and collars, cutlery, surgical and dental implements, soaps, pottery, bronze ware, trunks, handbags and other leather goods, articles of wooden and bamboo furniture, papers, canned fish, various chemicals, etc. To say that these classes of production are exotic in the United States, because they can be turned out more cheaply in the Orient, and, therefore, sold more cheaply than similar products of American factories is to concede that the future of American industrial life is at least most unpromising.

GERMAN PRINTERS' LABEL.

Through a misunderstanding of certain statements made during the late mayoralty campaign the opinion prevails in some quarters that the label of the German printers was withdrawn and its use no longer authorized in this city, writes Paul Maas in the Eight-Hour Herald. This view of the case is not fully justified by facts as German employers who recognize the eight-hour day have a right now to use the label. This label was withdrawn at one time, during the existence of the first Allied Printing Trades council, as it was thought that this latter organization and its label would answer every purpose so far as the printing business was concerned. When, in the summer of 1895, the old council was dissolved Typographia No. 9 was given permission by the executive council of the International Typographical union to use the German printers' union label until such time as a new Allied Printing Trades council should be formed of the combined local unions of the International Printing Pressmen, International Brotherhood of Bookbinders and International Typographical union. This new council was organized Feb. 1, 1896, adopted the label of the International Typographical union, and has been in a flourishing condition and of much benefit to affiliated unions ever since. The German printers are averse to giving up the use of their label, as they claim, and rightly so, that it has served them in the past ten years in maintaining the eight-hour day in German printing offices and they contend that if the present Allied Trades council is able to cope with the problem of thoroughly organizing and maintaining the scales of wages and working rules of its allied branches the German printers will withdraw their label, but not until then, as the Colorado Springs convention of the International Typographical union legalized the German label.

BUILDING TRADES FEDERATION.

There seems to be an impression abroad that a federation of all building trades will be detrimental to the interests of national trades unions and the American Federation of Labor, says the Seattle Compendium. In fact, it is being hinted in some quarters that the projected National Building Trades council is organized with that very purpose in view. Nothing can be more ridiculous or silly. The National Building Trades council is being agitated not to antagonize, but to aid the American Federation of Labor and various national organizations in establishing the co-operative commonwealth, that is to unionize the country. It will be a powerful help, instead of injury, to all other organizations.

There are but few of the building trades now affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and it is quite possible that the National Building Trades council may affiliate in some manner with the American Federation of Labor as a whole.

The advocates of a national federation of building trades are actuated by a desire of friendship to all labor organizations and not enmity. It is their aim to bring about a condition of harmony and peace between the several factions of trade unions in the building crafts, which can only be done by conciliatory methods of a national building trades council.

ROAD BUILDING BY CONVICTS.

Convict labor in road building is being put to test in Florida and in North Carolina. It is claimed in the latter case the cost per day per head favors the employment of convicts on the public roads. In the Florida case it is suggested, and not without apparently sound reasons, that short-term convicts engaged in road work have a better chance of personal reform than they would have if penned up with hardened criminals in a prison. This in itself is an aspect of the convict question that does more consideration than it has yet had. If the punishment of crime is a stern and unavoidable necessity for the protection of society, the reform of the criminal is equally as essential. One thing is sure, that in many ways the employment of convict labor on work that does not compete with free labor and at work so much needed for public convenience and betterment deserves the closest attention of all interested, not only in the prevention of crime, but the public good.

DECISION IN LABOR CASES.

Two court decisions have been handed down recently which are of interest to organized labor. The appeal case of employes of contractors at the government Chickamauga park, Tennessee, has been decided in favor of the employed. This decision practically overthrows the system whereby employers have compelled employes to rent and live in company houses or to employ and have the pay stopped in the office for the company doctor. The contractors will have to refund about $6000 collected for the purposes named.

Another late decision is that of Judge McClintock at Ludington, Mich., in the case of the striking employes of the Flint & Pere Marquette Railway company. The company sought relief by injunction. The judge says that while the strikers have no right to interfere forcibly to prevent the operation if the road, they have the right to use moral suasion to induce men to join them and quit work.

BRITONS INSPECTING MILLS.

L. Glover and E. Stanhope, owners of the Glover woolen mills at Leeds, England, were in Buffalo last week, says the Enquirer, in company with James Mitchell, of Skaneateles. They are on a tour of inspection of American mills, and may erect some on this side of the Atlantic, but in an interview express themselves as much better pleased with English customs than with those of America. They say wages in English woolen mills are from $3 to $5 a week, while for the same class of work $7 to $9 a week is paid in American factories. They say the workmen go to work at 6 o'clock in the morning, and they like that better.

The Englishmen seemed to think that they could compete with American goods, even after a tariff is established, and they seemed to think that anything with an English stamp on it was immeasurably superior to anything made by workmen who get more money for their labor.

GENERAL LABOR NOTES.

A negro girl is a Georgetown, Ky., notary public.

A Williamsburg, Va., negro merchant employs only white clerks.

Toledo's street railway company yesterday restored the cut of 10 per cent in wages made on Feb. 1.

The sideboards now in use in the sanitary departments of Boston are objected to by the employes.

A big strike is in progress on the London Eng., end of the Northeastern Railway company's lines.

Ben Tillet, the English reformist, received a magnificent welcome from the labor people of New Zealand.

The New York brewers, it is reported, are preparing to make war upon the Brewery Employes' union.

A shoemakers' strike is reported to be in progress in Offenbach, Germany. So far it embraces 1000 men.

Detroit negro longshoremen (unionists) won a strike for $25 a day. It is suggested, and not without apparently sound reasons, that short-term convicts engaged in road work have a better chance of personal reform than they would have if penned up with hardened criminals in a prison. This in itself is an aspect of the convict question that does more consideration than it has yet had. Paralysis From Smoking.

W. H. Griffin, one of the Staff of the Cleveland "Plain Dealer," Minutely Describes the Effects of Tobacco on Him and the Means Used to Counteract it.

A CASE THAT HAS GREATLY INTERESTED THE MEDICAL PROFESSION.

From the Plain Dealer, Cleveland, Ohio.

The following was recently told by Mr. W. H. Griffin, one of the staff of the Plain Dealer, of Cleveland, Ohio. As it is a strange story we publish it in full:

"My case was a strange one from beginning to end. It puzzled the best physicians that could be secured in the vicinity in which I lived. Indeed it was such a remarkable case, such an unusual one that a description of it was published in the best medical journals throughout the country, and many were the letters received by our family physician regarding it from eminent New York doctors, and doctors from the cities.

"I was always of a nervous disposition, and am now. In September, 1892, I entered Buchtel College, Akron, Ohio. The second week after beginning my college career I went home to spend Sunday with my parents. I was not feeling very well at the time. After dinner one Sunday I lay down on the couch to take a nap. About ten minutes after I felt sharp pains shooting across my body in every direction. These pains lasted for an hour, and then I became unconscious. When I came to my senses again I found that I was too weak to move. Soon, however, I felt as well as usual, and although I did not know what the trouble was, still I did not worry about it until the next day, when the same thing occurred again, and at about the same hour as on the preceding day. Our family physician was called in, and after examining me, rendered a verdict of stomach trouble, giving me medicine for the same. The next day the same thing recurred, only the unconscious spell lasted longer than before. Then it was decided that I was not able to go back to college that term.

"These spells came to be a daily occurrence, but without the sharp pains. When I felt them coming on I would go home and lie down on the couch. Soon I would commence to get drowsy. Then I would become unconscious, the spell lasting from a quarter to half an hour. When it passed away I would be left weak and unable to move for a few moments, but I was soon able to be up and about again. I continued to take medicine for stomach trouble, but as the spells continued and instead of one a day grew to the number of two and oftimes three a day, the doctor suggested a slight change in treatment and that when I felt them coming on, instead of lying down I should go and take a walk. So the next day when I felt the drowsiness creeping over me, I started out to walk it off, accompanied by a friend. We walked some distance when all at once and without a moment's warning, over I went, and would have fallen on my face had not my friend caught me and held me. Although fast losing my senses, a good shaking aroused me, and I was able to get back home when I was stricken into unconsciousness, the spell lasting over an hour. The doctor was called in again, and after studying over my case, decided that it was not disease of stomach that ailed me after all, but nervous trouble. He gave me medicine accordingly which I took without the desired result. Another physician, one who had studied for years in both France and Germany, and made nervous troubles a specialty, was called in. He was telephoned for when I was in one of my spells, and arriving, proceeded to handle me most roughly. With a needle he pricked my body in several places sometimes drawing blood, but it had no effect upon me. I lay there as one dead, utterly unconscious of any pain or of what was transpiring about me. This spell lasted over an hour, and when I came to, I was told that some of my nerves were paralyzed. The doctor said that he had seen a few cases like mine in France, and that he thought he could cure me. This information was gratefully received, for I was becoming greatly alarmed over my condition. But the spells continued to come on me regularly every day in spite of the medicine I was given, and soon I was a nervous wreck. Many prominent physicians were called in, and as the new physician had published my case in some of the medical journals, he began to receive letters from many parts of the world and from doctors regarding it. Advice was received from everywhere, and consultations were held, but nothing could be found to better my condition.

"I was able to get about a little with the aid of a cane, and one day while I was in a drug store I saw in the case several boxes of Pink Pills for Pale People. With no purpose whatever I read the label, and seeing that the medicine was for nervousness, I purchased a box. I took the medicine home with me and unknown to anyone began to take the pills. Before half the box was gone I felt stronger, and the unconscious spells began to diminish in number and in length and I stopped taking the medicine left me by the physician. When that box of Pink Pills was gone I purchased another, and before half of that one was gone, I began to feel so much better that I told the attending physician what I was taking. At first he laughed at the idea, but when I told him that I was not taking any of his medicine he began to wonder, and at last told me to continue taking Pink Pills. I did so and inside of six weeks I felt as well as ever. The unconscious spells left me, my appetite returned and it was soon decided to send me back to college when the January term opened. In January I went back to school, but inside of a week I was back home again with the same nervous trouble. I at once began to take Pink Pills again, but this time my condition was so much worse than before, that I had to take seven boxes of them. They cured me though, and inside of two months I was my old self again.

"And now comes the strange part of my case. I was always a heavy smoker, although I knew that an extremely nervous person like myself should not smoke at all. The habit grew on me until I found myself smoking all the time. There was scarcely a moment during the day that I was without a cigar, cigarette or a pipe in my mouth. If I became the least bit nervous about anything I would smoke, and the more I smoked the more nervous I would get, and then I would have to smoke again. I came to be a "smoke fiend," and the habit grew on me day by day. One night in the summer of 1894, I started out to make a call on a friend. I had been feeling badly all day. I stepped into the doctor's office on my way and told him how I felt. He examined me and told me to go home and to bed. But I laughed at his earnestness and saying that I would feel all right again in a little while, I went and made my call. I had felt nervous all day and had smoked unusually hard. I reached my friend's house and was taken into the parlor where I sat down on the couch. I was engaged in telling those present of the peculiar feeling I had experienced all day and of the doctor's anxiety concerning me, when, without a moment's warning I pitched head foremost on the floor. This happened about eight o'clock in the evening. When I regained consciousness it was nearly three o'clock in the morning. I was still lying on the floor and the doctor and a trained nurse who was in the house, were working over me, while all about me stood my friends. I did not know what had happened, could not remember a thing concerning my strange escapade, but as soon as I opened my eyes the doctor told me to get up and walk around and see if I would not feel better. This I tried to do and was astonished and alarmed to find that I could not move even my arms. I could move my head, but that was all. A grave look passed over the doctor's face when I told him this, but he and the nurse succeeded in getting me back on the couch, then they drew the couch into a bedroom where the doctor put me to bed. I slept a little, but in the morning I was no better. I could not even lift a finger, and all of my limbs felt numb. They gave me my breakfast, and later on the doctor and another man came with a closed carriage into which they lifted me, and I was carried home and placed in bed. For almost six weeks I lay on my back unable to move, while one could stick a pin into me without my feeling it. I was utterly powerless to move hand or foot. Some one had to feed me and to turn me over when I wanted to change my position. I remained in this state for about four weeks when I sent for another supply of Pink Pills. These I began to take regularly, and within two weeks I was not only able to use my arms, but to walk around a little with the aid of crutches. For two weeks longer my legs refused to perform their allotted duty, my body in several places sometimes drawing blood, but it had no effect upon me. I lay there as one dead, utterly unconscious of any pain or of what was transpiring about me. This spell lasted over an hour, and when I came to, I was told that some of my nerves were paralyzed. The doctor said that he had seen a few cases like mine in France, and that he thought he could cure me. This information was gratefully received, for I was becoming greatly alarmed over my condition. The habit grew on me until I found myself smoking all the time. There was scarcely a moment during the day that I was without a cigar, cigarette or a pipe in my mouth. If I became the least bit nervous about anything I would smoke, and the more I smoked the more nervous I would get, and then I would have to smoke again. I came to be a "smoke fiend," and the habit grew on me day by day. One night in the summer of 1894, I started out to make a call on a friend. I had been feeling badly all day. I stepped into the doctor's office on my way and told him how I felt. He examined me and told me to go home and to bed. But I laughed at his earnestness and saying that I would feel all right again in a little while, I went and made my call. I had felt nervous all day and had smoked unusually hard. I reached my friend's house and was taken into the parlor where I sat down on the couch. I was engaged in telling those present of the peculiar feeling I had experienced all day and of the doctor's anxiety concerning me, when, without a moment's warning I pitched head foremost on the floor. This happened about eight o'clock in the evening. When I regained consciousness it was nearly three o'clock in the morning. I was still lying on the floor and the doctor and a trained nurse who was in the house, were working over me, while all about me stood my friends. I did not know what had happened, could not remember a thing concerning my strange escapade, but as soon as I opened my eyes the doctor told me to get up and walk around and see if I would not feel better. This I tried to do and was astonished and alarmed to find that I could not move even my arms. I could move my head, but that was all. A grave look passed over the doctor's face when I told him this, but he and the nurse succeeded in getting me back on the couch, then they drew the couch into a bedroom where the doctor put me to bed. I slept a little, but in the morning I was no better. I could not even lift a finger, and all of my limbs felt numb. They gave me my breakfast, and later on the doctor and another man came with a closed carriage into which they lifted me, and I was carried home and placed in bed. For almost six weeks I lay on my back unable to move, while one could stick a pin into me without my feeling it. I was utterly powerless to move hand or foot. Some one had to feed me and to turn me over when I wanted to change my position. I remained in this state for about four weeks when I sent for another supply of Pink Pills. These I began to take regularly, and within two weeks I was not only able to use my arms, but to walk around a little with the aid of crutches. For two weeks longer my legs refused to perform their allotted duty, my body in several places sometimes drawing blood, but it had no effect upon me. I lay there as one dead, utterly unconscious of any pain or of what was transpiring about me. This spell lasted over an hour, and when I came to, I was told that some of my nerves were paralyzed. The doctor said that he had seen a few cases like mine in France, and that he thought he could cure me. This information was gratefully received, for I was becoming greatly alarmed over my condition. But the spells continued to come on me regularly every day in spite of the medicine I was given, and soon I was a nervous wreck. Many prominent physicians were called in, and as the new physician had published my case in some of the medical journals, he began to receive letters from many parts of the world and from doctors regarding it. Advice was received from everywhere, and consultations were held, but nothing could be found to better my condition.

"I was able to get about a little with the aid of a cane, and one day while I was in a drug store I saw in the case several boxes of Pink Pills for Pale People. With no purpose whatever I read the label, and seeing that the medicine was for nervousness, I purchased a box. I took the medicine home with me and unknown to anyone began to take the pills. Before half the box was gone I felt stronger, and the unconscious spells began to di

The World of Fashion.

Although fashion has definitely declared itself in the most surprising color harmonies and elaborate details quite beyond description, the secret of distinction in dress at this mid-season, when summer novelties and fur trimmed winter costumes jostle each other in the street, is found in the tailor-made gown, says the New York Sun. It certainly comprises all the much desired qualities of appropriate attire; and while a certain severity of style is always demanded in this kind of dress, the craze for decoration has wrought a transformation in the tailor gowns this season which does away with any extreme plainness. Braiding, embroidery, silk and satin folds, velvet ribbon, panels of silk and lace, all have an airing at he tailor's, and tucks figure largely in the fashioning of cloth gowns as well as in thin muslin dresses.

ALL SORTS OF MATERIALS.

Cheviots, serges, tweeds, melton, Venetian and smooth-faced cloths are the popular materials for this style of gown, but canvas and other thin wool materials, with a very loose and open weave, are also made up by the tailors. In dark blue, brown, fawn, and black they make very cool, light, traveling dresses, and the Scotch cheviots mixed with three or four colors are especially desirable for this simple gown. Venetian cloth in neutral tints, striped with fine lines of color, and shepherd's plaids, are both on the list of fashionable cloths. Basket woven cloths in checks of two colors are very pretty for the dressy tailor gowns which are so very popular this season. The coat and skirt is still the prevailing mode of cut, but the jackets are very short, in the Eton style, or with a very short basque minus the flutes in the back which were so fashionable last season. They are tight fitting in the back, either loose or close in the front, and the jacket, which is used for an outside garment over the shirt waist, has a loose fly front. For those who prefer the extremely plain and decidedly masculine style of costume there are close, tight-fitting coats and round, tight waists, turned back with a collar and small revers to form a small V at the neck, showing a high standing linen collar and four-in-hand tie. There are great possibilities in the revers, for they can be square, round, or pointed, long or short. The latest of all are the long revers pointing down to the waist line. The revers, too, are the point of decoration on these plain costumes, and they are often covered with some contrasting color, and elaborately braided in scroll patterns or striped across in military style. Moire silk in black, white and colors is employed on tailor gowns for covering the collars, revers, and cuffs, and for a band three inches wide around the bottom of the skirt, with possibly a small pattern of narrow braiding on the upper edge.

THE ETON COAT.

Every possible variation of the Eton-shaped coat is in order this season, but the newest cut points down a little below the belt on either side of the front, which opens enough to display the vest or blouse inside. One cloth costume of this kind can be varied a great deal by having a variety of vests to wear with it. White, colored, and spotted pique, made in the plain masculine style, either single or double breasted, is well liked for morning wear, but in more dressy effects there is no limit to the diversity. Velvet and silk vests, embroidered with jet, jewels, applique lace, and silk braids are not unusual with tailor gowns, but the lighter, daintier kinds are more generally worn. Cream lace net over white satin, with a jabot frill of accordion plaited net down the front is a pretty idea, and tucked linen lawn trimmed with maltese lace is another. Vests of Oriental silks, flowered satins, and linen, covered with Oriental embroidery, are very striking, and a two-inch fold of black satin peeping out on either side of the one of the last material is very effective. Plain cream-white satin, tucked in groups, forms the vest in a black cloth gown, and colored batiste, especially in the violet and mauve shades, makes very pretty vests, with shirred or plain tucks edged with narrow Valenciennes lace. White moire and yellow Liberty satin both make pretty vests, with narrow tucks on either side of a box plait, edged with lace, and a stock collar to match, with a soft bow in front. White chiffon, gathered full and striped across with colored velvet baby ribbon and lace insertion, is always an attractive vest.

MADE BY THE TAILOR.

Piqué and linen suits made by the tailor, with jaunty coats and plain skirts, are to be very much worn later on. Braiding is applied on these dresses very much as it is on cloth gowns, but many of them are made quite plain, with the revers faced with some contrasting color in piqué, dull blue, or red on a white gown being very popular. Wash silk waists are worn with these, and so are any of the pretty false fronts which can be easily attached to a plain corset cover that will keep them always in place. A narrow belt with a fancy buckle is the finish at the waist line.

It is generally conceded, except in midsummer, that the best dressed woman is the one in a plain tailor-made gown; but the productions of this season are not confined to the simple coat and skirt models. The English women are especially addicted to the severe style in tailor-built gowns, but the French woman's tailor dress is a thing of beauty, embracing every opportunity for decoration. One striking example is a green cloth dress with a yellow and green brocaded silk vest, a cloth bolero embroidered all over with narrow silk braid, a high braided collar cut in battlement squares, and a jabot of fine creamy lace falling over the vest. The skirt and sleeves are braided, and frills of lace fall over the hands. Wide collars and revers of white satin, covered with lace, and velvet bows, embroidered with gold, are seen on the cloth gowns. There are several different styles of collars for the tailor coats. One is a set of Medici cut out in squares on the edge and trimmed around with braid. A close-fitting Zouave, cut in squares or slanting points on the front edges, is a very popular style for cloth, and some of these little jackets have wide revers heavily braided.

HELIOTROPE CLOTH.

Among the very dressy tailor gowns is one of heliotrope cloth. The cuirass bodice of white cloth is elaborately braided with black and gold. The frill at one side is of black kilted chiffon, and the vest, collar, and belt are of turquoise blue velvet. The shirt and sleeves are handsomely trimmed with braid. This style of bodice is decidedly new.

Another very new model has the yoke skirt with plaited panels of white silk set in either side of the front. The material is drab Venetian cloth, and the binding matches it in color. The bolero effect is carried out in white silk.

A simple gown in dark blue soft serge shows a cravat and vest of stamped Roman satin. The bodice is tucked on either side of the vest in two groups and again on the sleeves, and the skirt is laid in tucks around the hips. Three bands of braid edged with gold cord and fastened with gold buttons form the belt.

Another gown of covert cloth shows a new skirt trimming of braid pointing down to the center of the front much higher in the back, and either edge of this band is outlined with narrow black velvet ribbon with a trefoil design at the corners. The strice jacket swings out from the figure a little, is trimmed with braid, and a frill of Maltese lace conceals the opening. Turquoise blue velvet forms the belt and collar. The plaited bolero jacket is very becoming to slight figures, and epaulette frills of cloth are a pretty addition with braiding on the edge to match the jacket.

PETUNIA CLOTH.

A dressy coat bodice of petunia cloth worn with a plain skirt has braided petunia velvet revers, and a vest of black satin embroidered with black and gold. The special feature of this waist is the corners of the revers turned back on the puffs of the sleeves. The Eton coat is part of a black cloth gown, lined with cerise silk. Black braid commencing at the center of the back points off on either side of the front, where it is fastened with a steel button, and the rest is of cream white brocade, cut V shape to show the linen chemisette and tie, and is fastened with one handsome button. A coat with an open front, has revers piped around with folds of cloth in contrasting colors, and fastened back with two handsome buttons.

Seaside tailor costumes seem to have a special style all their own, and revers, cuffs, and vest of white, or some light-colored cloth, trimmed across with braid, give the desired effect. White cloth well covered with braid of different colors is very much used as trimming for cloth gowns, and the plain white cloth vest fastened with small gold buttons is very good style with some of the coats. Many of the cloth gowns with the round close-fitting waists are finished with postilion ends at the back.

SHIRT WAISTS NOWADAYS.

The shirt waist of the present day is a striking example of what fashion can do in the way of furnishing variety in even a comparatively small field of operation. All the early rumors to the effect that this serviceable article of dress was to be relegated to the list of unfashionable things certainly had no foundation, if the hundreds of waists of every sort and condition which fill every available space in the shops and appear on every other woman you meet, are conclusive evidences of popularity.

The very latest and simplest shirt waist of cotton Madras, zephyr or percale is made almost like the summer shirt worn by men, with a plait in front, pointed yoke in the back and very little fulness in the sleeve at the cuffs, which is plain and fastens with link buttons. The fashionable stock of black or some light color or the high turn-over linen collars are worn with this, and also with silk, batiste and every other kind of waist which can be classed with the shirt variety.

The genuine tailor-made shirt waist is generally considered the best style, for something in the cut, fit and finish of it promptly stamps it as not of the class of ready-made shirts. Yet the latter have improved wonderfully in all the points which go to make them a success. The fulness in front of the waist made to order is arranged more on the shoulder, and it is fitted more closely under the arm, both of which points help to make it more becoming to the figure. Cotton waists of gingham in stripes and decided plaids of rather varied colors are prominent in the display, with many others of ribbed linen and French batiste striped with various colors and patterned over with rosebuds.

All the varieties of linen batiste are used for shirt waists, some of the prettiest being those with embroidered bodies and plain batiste sleeves. The plain batiste bodice is usually ornamented with crosswise tucks forming a yoke or in groups over the entire waist, with narrow lace frills on the edge of one tuck in each group.

Flowered organdie waists with colored silk or dimity linings are very pretty, and corset covers in pale blue, pink and green can be purchased all ready to wear under any of these thin waists. White dimity shirt waists are to be much worn, and they have a small bishop sleeve and turned-over cuffs. The prettiest white waists are made of wash silk or Liberty satin, with two rows of narrow lace insertion down either side of the box plait and a group of tiny tucks between.

A pretty waist is of Louisine silk with wide crosswise tucks piped with white silk and worn with a stock of white silk. Another shirt blouse is made with wide box plaits and insertions of batiste embroidery showing between. Accordion plaited frills [illegible] and cuffs. A waist of checked glace silk shows a tabbed trimming on the front and collar and cuffs of white silk edged with lace.

GLACE GLOVES NOT WORN.

"Except in white, glace gloves are back numbers," said a well-known importer and manufacturer of gloves when asked about the latest styles. "At last American women seem to be waking up to the fact that suede gloves make the hands look far better. Why? Because glace gloves, no matter how fine the quality, have a tendency to make the hand look larger in length, breadth and thickness.

"Dealers are selling a few white glace gloves to swell women now for street wear, but they demand suede for everything else. In Paris no woman would any more think of wearing a glace glove after 12 o'clock than she would think of going bare-handed, and most Parisians never wear a glace glove. Those women know better than any others in the world how to bring out their good points and how to cover up their bad ones; so fat women, thin women, women with pretty hands and women with awkward, ungainly digits cling almost exclusively to suede gloves.

"French women ought to be authorities on gloves. The raising of kids for the skin is a leading industry among the mountaineers of that country. In fact, many of them make their living in this way. Perhaps if some of the women who won't wear the plumage of birds on their hats and bonnets knew a little about the kid industry they might be inclined to discard kid gloves too. Softness, delicacy of texture and freedom from blemishes are principal factors in determining the value of kidskins. To secure perfect ones great pains have to be taken. So soon as a young animal begins to eat grass its skin immediately begins to grow coarse and hard, and its chief merits, so far as the glovemaker is concerned, vanish. This being the case, the mountaineers keep the kids closely penned to prevent them from getting any grass, and also to preserve them from accidents which might scratch, bruise or otherwise blemish the skin and impair its value. When the kids reach that age when their skins are in the best condition for the glover's use they are killed, and the hides are sold to traveling buyers, who in turn carry them to the great centers of the tanning industry.

"One can readily see why suede gloves should be much finer than the glace. Only perfect skins can be made into suedes, while many blemishes are often concealed in a pair of glace gloves. True suede gloves resist wear less than the glace, but they look much better while they do last, and many women claim that for rough and ready wear black suede proves more satisfactory than anything else.

"No glove except a suede should ever be worn in the evening, no matter whether the wearer is in full dress or not; and as for colored gloves to match an evening gown—well, there aren't adjectives enough in the English language to describe the bad taste of a woman selecting them. White, of course, is more used than any color, but the dainty pearls, delicate tans and soft yellows are also very much used. One parting word. Women should beware of highly colored gloves as they do of a plague."

What do you think of an evening costume of the daintiest shade of blue, with white trimmings? It looks queer, doesn't it? But there is not much difference between it and our present modes. The cut of the skirt is almost identical, while the three ribbons falling from the waist and the sleeves have both been seen lately in a London bazaar, says the New York Journal.

The ribbons are of white, double-faced satin, and are finished off by bow knots. They are sewed only at the waist and fall gracefully nearly to the feet. Around the bottom of the skirt is a ruching, made of the goods, either chiffon or silk mull, lined with white chiffon, while above this is a fulness of the blue, through which, at the lower part, the white is shown rather full. This gives a very soft effect.

The waist is perfectly plain, save for the big round collar, which finishes off the neck. This collar is trimmed with narrow white ribbon, the edge being scalloped and bound with it. The collar is cut quite low. In fact, the shoulders may be almost decollete. A spray of pink roses is fastened at the breast, to which the blue chiffon makes a very pretty background.

She wore a stunning cloth gown of myrtle green worsted made with the popular Eton. The deep sailor collar revers bent a very stylish effect. The costume was lined throughout with green and lie rose taffeta.
Made by the National Cloak Co., West 23d St., New York.

The head-gear, which is of the same soft material as the dress, is abundantly trimmed with white tulle. Altogether this is a very stunning evening costume of 1827 modernized for 1897.

A QUAINT DRESS.

Another quaint dress, which might have been worn by Queen Victoria in her earliest days, is a carriage gown which is prune colored and trimmed with black satin. As with the other gown, the skirt is very nearly like its modern fellow, the only difference being the scalloped side-seams. These are bound with the satin, as well as the lapels on the waist. The sleeves are somewhat different from the sleeve of today. They have a deep ruff, also bound with satin. A deep ruffle of lace finishes the neck, and with the big hat elaborately trimmed the costume makes a charming picture of my lady of '29.

The hat is of black straw, trimmed with prune-colored ribbon and green sprays. Such hats have already found their way into the more fashionable stores.

Another smart little hat is the Shaker. The millinery trade indicates that the modernized Shaker will become quite common at the sea-shore before the season is over. It is one of the white leghorn type, trimmed in pink. A pink ruffle edges the brim, pink bows tie under the chin, while pink rosebuds nod gracefully from the tall crown. A full round face will look very pretty under this little Shaker, but, women with long faces, beware.

GRANDMOTHER'S FASHIONS.

They are coming and coming fast—the fashions of our grandmothers. Our English cousins have already adopted them in honor of the sixty years' reign of Queen Victoria, and there is nothing to do but fall into line. The question is: Will the New York maids of 1897 grace the gowns as well as their grandmothers in 1837? Those who promenaded Fifth avenue Easter morning have an idea of how the modern belles will appear in the old time gowns.

Here is a cape of "ye olden times." It is at once so quaint and old-world, and yet so comfortable to modern construction, the chief Victorian effect being secured by the flat folded shoulder scraps, composed of black satin edged with a kilted frill of chiffon.

A V-shaped piece of cream guipure or edge with a strip of canvas the depth of the lace, which adorns the outside. The material is employed on the cross for the shoulder folds, and as these are fixed permanently, there is no necessity to fold them over more than is absolutely necessary to secure the required effect. At the back the same line is taken as in front, the waist being identified by a bow of the satin, minus the ends. As a whole, it is absolutely simple, and yet so eminently quaint and pleasing in appearance that one feels the only finishing touch possible is the little cottage bonnet of Dunstable straw, trimmed with black ribbon velvet and pink ostrich plumes, beneath the brim, a little quilling of soft creamy lace rests softly on the hair.

THE REDINGOTE AGAIN.

Then there is the redingote, an always delightful spring wrap provided it be fashioned of sufficiently thin and seasonable materials. A striped taffeta would be very charming in old-world shades of brown and yellow, trimmed with black satin. This would be an especially easy arrangement for the home-worker to carry out successfully, as the upper part is modelled separately from the skirt, and the two united beneath a girdle of the satin. By the aid of a long gore, either front shapes out of a single width; while the back takes three more, very slightly shaped, with the fulness at the top set into gathers. The fronts also are all the prettier for being cased into the band, this giving the taffeta, which is not lined, a free and graceful flow. At the back the bodice material is plainly strained over a fitted lining, while in front the usual two darts bring about the necessary shaping, and bishop sleeves complete the foundation.

The pointed cape epaulettes will need to be interlined with a Victorian lawn or canvas, and, although the pattern affords the only true guide for cutting these out, there is some nice fitting required to keep the flatness demanded by Victorian tenets. This can only be done by moulding and straining, eventually stitching the inside edge on the wrong side, so that when turned over on its outside and rightful position there is a certain pretty rolled effect. The latter may be remarked as a characteristic of the period, as witness the high roll collars adopted by the men of the time. Sleeves again had this soft rolled appearance given to their full tops by cushions of eiderdown, an admirable but somewhat costly support, provided for in these days by innumerable inventions of the wireline description.

Women are now buying their summer underwear. The shops are running over with beautiful pieces, and after a winter of heavy flannels the dainty white lingerie is heartily welcomed. Lace is abundantly used, and the summer girl will be literally wrapped up in it. Cambric is the foundation for most everything in the underwear line, as usual. Insertion plays quite an important part and ribbons will be used as decorations, says the Chicago Chronicle.

One of the prettiest pieces of lingerie seen this year is called the princess petticoat. It is made of white mull and Valenciennes lace, a bodice and skirt cut in one. The waistband is cleverly arranged as to adapt itself to the curves of the figure without increasing size. The bodice is lavishly trimmed in lace insertion running across the front. Over each shoulder two small ruffles of the mull are edged with lace about three inches in width. The skirt is made in sections of kilts and plain mull, with a deep flounce around the bottom. This flounce has a row of insertion, two inches wide, and is edged with lace of the same width. Three rows of insertion are run down the front, caught at intervals of six inches with rosettes of white baby ribbon.

A nightgown that is a marvel of loveliness is made of diaphanous crystalline muslin and soft Valenciennes lace. It is made with a square yoke, having four rows of insertion running crosswise. Standing out from all around the yoke is a ruffle of the material edged with a flounce of the lace. Under this a second ruffle is placed, which runs under the arms. The sleeves are made almost tight, and are trimmed down their entire length with ruffles of lace, headed with a narrow band of insertion. These ruffles are set on at intervals of three inches. The last ruffle reaches to over the finger tips. The flounce on this is extremely full, giving a very smart finish. The bottom of the gown is also adorned with insertion and flounces of lace.

COMBINATION NIGHTROBE.

Another beautiful robe de nuit comprises a jacket and nightgown in one. It is made of the finest of white silk. A small yoke of tucks is set in the jacket, which has a full front, trimmed with insertion, running up and down. The sides and back hang loose-[illegible] and [illegible] two and a half inches. The sleeves are made tight to above the elbow, capped off with puffs, over which a ruffle of insertions and lace gives a very fluffy touch. This gown is also trimmed around the bottom with two small ruffles, edged with the lace. A charming combination garment has a waist arranged in diamond form, with tucks and lace insertions. The neck is cut very low and square, and the armholes are edged with lace. The drawers are very wide and trimmed to correspond with the waist. Another combination suit is of ribbed spun silk, trimmed with real torchon lace insertion and edgings.

A DAINTY CHEMISE.

A dainty chemise is made of crystalline material. There are no sleeve or shoulder pieces, two ribbons tying the little affair on the shoulder. The top of the chemise is trimmed elaborately with lace frills running up and down, a band of insertion being run through the center.

One of the prettiest little corset covers seen was made in bolero style, edged with lace. Small tucks were stitched in as darts on each side of the front. The neck of the little garment was in V shape and the armholes were finished with lace. Another pretty cover was shaped to the waist and had a girdle set in made of insertion and strips of the material. The neck was cut round and edged with lace, while four rows of insertion set in at intervals of an inch and a half were run across the bust. Tiny ribbons were run through the lace around the neck and armholes, and around the bottom of the cover was a frill of lace.

Some of the daintiest garters seen this season are of satin. A particularly pretty pair of shirred pink satin was edged with narrow lace finished with large bows to cover the fastenings. Another pair, made on a walstband, were of Nile green satin shirred very full, and finished at top and bottom with bows of pink satin ribbon.

Miss Barrymore's suit was in a mixture of green, black and white, made with an open front jacket and a smart single-breasted waistcoat of fancy vesting was worn.

She was looking her best and was a superb figure in a handsome blue serge coat of broadcloth. The perfect fitting jacket was of a new pattern, cut off slightly from the dart at the bottom in front.

braid lace forms the center back, and front, and into this the circular side pieces of satin are set, shaped so as to lay flat at their upper edge, while flowing out in godet folds at the base. With the assistance of the V-shaped center, it would be quite possible to use satin the width way, and so avoid a seam, facing up the

MRS. CURTIS, NEW YORK,

Tells Her Experience With Ovaritis.

A dull, throbbing pain, accompanied by a sense of tenderness and heat low down in the side, with an occasional shooting pain, indicates inflammation.

On examination it will be found that the region of pain shows some swelling. This is the first stage of ovaritis, inflammation of the ovary. If the roof of your house leaks, my sister, you have it fixed at once; why not pay the same respect to your own body?

Do you live miles away from a doctor? Then that is all the more reason why you should attend to yourself at once, or you will soon be on the flat of your back.

You need not, you ought not to let yourself go, when one of your own sex holds out the helping hand to you, and will advise you without money and without price. Write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and tell her all your symptoms. Her experience in treating female ills is greater than any other living person. Following is proof of what we say:

"For nine years I suffered with female weakness in its worst form. I was in bed nearly a year with congestion of the ovaries. I also suffered with falling of the womb, was very weak, tired all the time, had such headaches as to make me almost wild. Was also troubled with leucorrhœa, and was bloated so badly that some thought I had dropsy. I have taken several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and several of her Blood Purifier, and am completely cured. It is a wonder to all that I got well. I shall always owe Mrs. Pinkham a debt of gratitude for her kindness. I would advise all who suffer to take her medicine."—Mrs. Annie Curtis, Ticonderoga, N. Y.

THE MOTHER'S CORNER.

Conducted by a Kindergartner.

The meeting of the Mothers' club on Tuesday afternoon was an especially pleasant one. The little group of mothers looked so very cosy in a bright corner of the kindergarten as the needles of the busy mothers flew in and out and each one was so much in earnest that it could not help being successful. Miss Elizabeth Harrison's lecture on "Right and Wrong Punishment" was read with many interruptions of lively discussion and personal experiences. So many helpful suggestions were given for the problems that mothers, young and old, are meeting every day that I wish I could give them to all of you who were not so fortunate as to attend.

"Discipline is so broad, so easily misunderstood, and misused, that one hesitates over what may be most helpful to say. Here more than in any other field of opinion people sway from one extreme to the other, each one striving to lead childhood to perfect selfcontrol. When a little child is first placed in a mother's arms all through her being there rushes a wave of possessive feeling. He is her own—completely and wholly and she is filled with one great desire: She will be a good, true mother. But, ah! it is so easy to resolve—to desire, and so hard to do. "He is so little," she says, "soon he will understand, then it will be time enough to commence." Poor little mother! she has taken the first step in a path that is filled with far more difficulties and sorrows than with pleasure or success. "I will give this all he wishes for now and let him do as he pleases; tears and troubles must come soon enough, let him be happy as long as he can, and unless some fortunate accident of association or circumstance counteract this beginning, she lays for the child the foundation of far more unhappiness than he is heir to. He learns only to be waited upon and catered to, only to demand and receive. The most ignorant person possibly would not expect a child who had taken only music lessons to be able to paint a picture and yet here is the same principle. He must grow up capricious, willful, dissonance and lawless unless he learns to respect a law outside of himself—rights, duties and justice to the world and its Maker.

Place tells us that "the best way of training the young is to train yourself at the same time, not to admonish them but to be always carrying out your own principles in practice." Just what you do and are in your every day home life, that you are giving your little one as an ideal of what you want him to be and do. Of course we always believe that he must reach a little higher than we have done but if you dip your goods in blue do not expect to wear a blue gown. Can we appeal to his lower motives, bribing him with pennies, candy, bring his vanity by foolish praise or appeals for emulation, or making him a liar and a coward by fear of punishment; and then expect an honest, upright or brave manhood whose citizenship is an honor and whose character is impregnable?

With the little child there is no past to give a standard of right and wrong, and the will of his father and mother must stand for this at first; and as law should be inflexible. Not the rule that checks all growth or inclination to think or do but that which requires only those things that are necessary for their own or others good and so prepare them to govern themselves, for self control is the object of all discipline. Then as he leaves this awakening period, Mrs. Aldrich says: "Every mother who has studied her child knows that there comes a time when he needs a larger environment; needs something more than the home furnishes, and she is wise if she sees coming events casting their shadows before, so as to enlarge the opportunities before the restless activities have exhausted her patience too many times for the child's good or her own peace of mind—before she calls him 'naughty' for doing with all his might what his hands found to do." "We are never strong, or brave, or just until discipline has made us so. We often believe ourselves all of these because we have not been tried enough to know their want. And happy is that child who has been guided from birth into nature's laws so that his discipline has been an unconscious force until habits of obedience to all things right in his mental, moral and physical world have become his character.

This is why we must live with our children, why we must study them and for them so that we may be able to direct and aid him to form the habits that make his character, that we may be ready to meet his new needs and fill his first moments with right doing and true happiness so that his last days may reflect them.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas default has been made in one of the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed by the Northwestern Land and Loan Company, mortgagor, to Alexander Macrae, mortgagee, dated May 10th, 1894, with a power of sale therein contained and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for St. Louis County, Minnesota, June 26th, 1894, at 4 o'clock p. m., in Book 127 of mortgages, page 229.

Which said mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby, was duly assigned by said Alexander Macrae, mortgagee, to Byron Woodward, by written assignment dated the 26th day of June, 1894, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds on the 6th day of July, 1894, at 4 o'clock p. m., in Book 108 of mortgages on page 49.

And whereas the said Byron Woodward, the assignee of mortgagee and holder of said mortgage, has duly elected and does hereby elect to declare the whole principal sum of said mortgage due and payable at the date of this notice, under the terms and conditions of said mortgage and the power of sale therein contained; and whereas there is actually due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of nineteen hundred thirty-five and 26-100 dollars as principal and interest and sixteen and 80-100 dollars insurance premium paid under the terms of said mortgage and whereas the said power of sale has become operative, and no action or proceeding has been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot numbered six, of block twenty-eight, West Duluth, First Division, according to the recorded plat thereof in St. Louis County and state of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the 7th day of May, 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt and interest and seventy-five dollars attorneys' fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated April 3d, A. D. 1897.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas default has been made in one of the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Mary E. Coffin and Herbert W. Coffin, her husband, mortgagors, to Caroline E. Lyon, executrix, mortgagee, dated May 15th, 1895, with a power of sale therein contained and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for St. Louis County, Minnesota, May 27th, 1895, at 8:30 o'clock a. m., in Book 125 of mortgages, page 172.

And whereas such default consists in the non-payment of the sum of one hundred and twenty dollars interest due in two installments of sixty dollars each, on the first day of June and December, 1896, respectively the holder of said mortgage has exercised the option in said mortgage given to her by declaring, and she does hereby declare the whole principal sum secured by said mortgage, with all accrued interest thereon to be now due and payable.

And whereas there is therefore claimed to be due and there is due upon said mortgage at this date the sum of two thousand one hundred twenty-eight and 45-100 dollars as principal and interest.

And whereas said mortgage contains a power of sale which has become operative by reason of the default above mentioned, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot numbered seven (7), of Block two hundred three (203), West Duluth, Third Division, according to the recorded plat thereof in St. Louis County, and state of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the 17th day of May, 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt, interest and insurance so paid as aforesaid and fifty dollars attorneys' fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated April 3d, A. D. 1897.

The Literary ✳ Arena.

A beautiful cover in none colors, from a design by Garguet, the distinguished French artist, gives promise of the bright and spring-like contents of the May number of Scribner's Magazine. It launches a new kind of college article—not a history of the institution, but a reminiscent and discursive account of "Undergraduate Life," old and new, which is always the college in the minds of its graduates. Edward S. Martin, one of the founders of the Lampoon and a graduate of '77, opens the series with Harvard. He traces the evolution of Harvard social life from the old days of "class feeling" to the present day when the elective system and 500 men in a class have made the old unity of life and interest impossible. His account of the career of a typical Boston boy on his way through the social mazes of Harvard is not only amusing, but of great value as a picture of real student life. The abundant illustrations are made from actual scenes by an artist who was taken into the college life and saw it at first hand. Judge Robert Grant, who as undergraduate, post graduate, and law student, spent a decade in Harvard, gives his reminiscences of "Harvard College in the Seventies." As a student Mr. Grant was in everything, with a full supply of the humor and satire that he has since used with great effect in literature. Consequently his recollections are lively reading—the record of a college boy, who is glad to remember that he was once not a judge. His deliberate contrast of the past with the present is, that "Harvard university today offers young men a chance to train themselves for the work of life such as it never offered me and the men of my time." Princeton will be exploited in the June number by James W. Alexander, and Yale in the July by Judge Henry E. Howland—both articles with the same richness and originality in illustrations that mark the Harvard paper.

Harper's Round Table of May 4 contains an article entitled "Through the African Forest," by Lieut. A. S. Mountenay Jephson; the first of a series of articles on fishing entitled "Fishing for Boys," by Dr. Leroy M. Yale; an account of "A Trip to Nice," by Frances Bacon Paine; short stories by Frederic Remington and J. M. Hilliard, and installments of the serials, "The Painted Desert," by Kirk Munroe, and "A Backwoods Boy Afloat," by John R. Spears.

Special features in Current Literature for May are illustrated articles in addition to the presence of pictures in some of the regular departments. In the editor's symposium Mr. Cable gives his readers more of patriotism than of mere literature. "Crete and Cuba," "The Patriotism of Ideas," and "Cosmopolitan Patriotism" being some of the subjects he discusses. Hamilton W. Mable continues his series of literary essays with an interesting paper on the "Growth of Historical Study," and F. M. Hopkins, in his department of "American Poets of Today," writes this month of Louise Imogen Guiney," and quotes from her works. The fiction in the number, aside from the clever selections in the sketch book, is represented by extracts from the much-talked-of recent publications, Ibsen's play, "John Gabriel Berkman," and Olive Schreiner's "Trooper Peter Halket of Mashonaland." A special article has also been contributed to the magazine on the political and religious questions involved in Miss Schreiner's remarkable book.

The May issue of Godey's Magazine is notable for many special articles of timely interest. The leading contribution is "Washington Favorites," by Carolyn Halsted, and gives a brief sketch of the prominent society ladies of the capital. The photographs which accompany the article are very attractive. Following this is an article on "Power Boats," which discusses the gas engine and electric yacht question in a very interesting manner. This article is illustrated with many pictures and is unique among magazine papers.

"A Eulogy of the Vaudeville," covers the recent developments which have marked the dramatic stage and calls attention to much that is worth considering. The article is illustrated with beautiful pictures of prominent actors and is very timely.

"Does Modern College Education Educate, in the Broadest and Most Liberal Sense of the Term?" is one of the most important inquiries that could be set on foot. This discussion is to be taken part in by President Gilman of the Johns Hopkins, President Dwight of Yale, President Schurman of Cornell, President Morton of the Stevens Institute, Henry Thurston Peck of Columbia; Bishop Potter and others of the most distinguished men of both the United States and Europe, was begun in the April Cosmopolitan by a radical inquiry into the educational problem along the lines of Herbert Spencer. President Gilman will follow in a direction almost equally searching. Altogether there is promised the frankest possible expression of opinion, and it seems probable that it will be the most thorough comparison ever made of educational methods with the needs of everyday life at the close of the nineteenth century.

The illustrations make a distinguished feature of Harper's Weekly of May 8. T. de Thulstrup furnishes a double page representation of the great procession in New York on Grant memorial day. Carlton T. Chapman sketches the marine parade, and typical scenes are reproduced by photographs. There are the first published illustration of the New University club of New York city as it will appear on completion, from a drawing especially made for the weekly by the architects, McKim, Mead & White; it is accompanied by an article describing the origin and growth of the club and giving suggestive details with regard to the new building, which promises to be one of the most elaborately equipped club houses in the world. Another article of particular interest is a plea for a national theater, by J. I. C. Clarke.

The complete novel in the May issue of Lippincott's is "Jason Hildreth's Identity." It is a story of unusual originality and power, turning on an incident which has had precedents in real life, the loss of memory and personal identity; but the plot is so deeply and skillfully laid that the last pages will come as a surprise to almost every reader. "A Star Route Case," by Mary E. Stickney, is a tale of old days in the West, when mail coaches were "held up" by agents of their owners. "Marthy's Dress," by Carrie Blake Morgan, is a pathetic and effective piece of work by one who never, in prose or verse, writes otherwise than well. Joseph A. Altsheler, in "My Pennsylvanian," deals humorously with a supposed incident of the Revolutionary war. William Thomson revives old memories of Indian fighting "On the Santa Fe Trail," in his narratives the savages are always punished, and the whites come off safe.

The May Ladies' Home Journal uniquely reflects the sentiment and spirit of spring. "In An Old-Fashioned Garden" fairly emits the season's fragrant flavor, as do other contributions in prose and verse. Hon. J. Russell Young recalls the notable incidents—fetes, receptions and pageants—of Gen. Grant's memorable tour of the world, and ex-President Harrison gives highly interesting glimpses of the president's home and home life in an article on "The Domestic Side of the White House"—the concluding one of his admirable series. Edward W. Bok editorially presents the really practical side of the crusade against the slaughter of birds for their plumage and forcibly protests against the pernicious habit of spitting in public places. A reminiscent article by Mrs. Raymond Maude, "My Mother as I Recall Her," gives some delightful glimpses of the personal side of Jenny Lind, especially of her homelife. Herbert D. Ward's serial, "The Burglar Who Moved Paradise," reaches its conclusion, maintaining its quaint humor to the end. Also in the lighter vein are a remarkably well-drawn character sketch, "Old Gabe Carter's Company," and the second of "The Colonel and Mc" papers.

Harper's Bazar for May 8 contains an interesting article entitled "Outdoor Plays for Amateurs," by Fanny Aymar Matthews especially timely at the beginning of the summer season. A suggestive paper by Emma J. Gray on "Family Co-operative Housekeeping," will appeal to people of limited incomes who wish to see how, by uniting forces, they may secure luxury at the price of frugality.

Anglers, golfers and devotees of coaching will find features of special interest in Outing for May. We have no higher authority on golf than Price Collier, and players, old and young, may profit by his timely suggestions. A. H. Godfrey gives the latest wrinkles in "Driving Four-in-Hand," while the angling department contains "A Woman's Trout Fishing in Yellowstone Park," by Mary Trowbridge Townsend and "Two Days' Trout Fishing," by H. W. Sandys. Other notable features of an excellent number include: "The Development of the American Foxhound," by A. Chamberlain; "Athletic Training," by Randolph Faries, M.D.; "The Waterways of Holland," by Charles Turner; "Across the Alleghanies Awheel," by J. B. Carrington, and "After Australian Fur and Feather," by Col. J. F. Hobbs. The illustrations are of the usual high standard.

The editor of the Review of Reviews declares that the charter of the Greater New York, as passed by the legislature, is "a practical impossibility." "Its object purports to be a transfer to New York of municipal business which has heretofore been done by the state legislature at Albany. But immediately after passing the charter, the state legislature took up and proceeded to endorse several enormous jobs, erecting special commissions of politicians named in the bills—one to carry out a boulevard system in the upper part of New York, and another to control a great trunk sewer scheme in the new northern district of the city. The charter definitely provides for the carrying out of just such products by the regularly constituted machinery of the city government." The limitation of the mayor's power of removal to six months makes the charter, in Dr. Shaw's opinion, a huge piece of folly. "With that limitation removed, objectionable as the instrument would remain in many respects, it would not be—what it now is for practical purposes—a self-evident absurdity."

The Century for May contains a group of three papers dealing in an authoritative way with a fresh topic—the scientific use of kites. J. B. Millet writes on "Scientific Kite-Flying" with special reference to the experiments at the Blue Hill observatory near Milton, Mass. Lieut. H. D. Wise, U. S. A., makes a record of his own experiments on Governor's Island, including an account of his ascent—the first in America, and the most notable yet made. William A. Eddy writes of "Photographing from Kites," giving an account also of his experiments in telephoning and telegraphing through lines suspended from kites—the first known experiments of the sort. Lieut. Gen. Schofield contributes the first of his records of unwritten history, his article dealing this month with "The Withdrawal of the French from Mexico," and including an important letter from Gen. Grant to Gen. Sheridan showing the attitude of the United States government towards the French invasion. A supplementary article by the present minister of Mexico to the United States, Mr. Romero, sets forth his belief that the fall of the second empire was closely related to the events described by Gen. Schofield.

Harper's for May opens with "Cross-Country Riding in America," by Caspar Whitney illustrated by C. Dana Gibson and others. "A Few Native Orchids and Their Insect Sponsors" is a study of cross-fertilization, written and illustrated by the late William Hamilton Gibson. "White Man's Black Man," the seventh of Poultney Bigelow's series entitled "White Man's Africa," is a study of the African negro as a laborer. The illustrations are by R. Caton Woodville. "Two Undescribed Portraits of Shakespeare," by John Corbin, introduces what is probably the only life portrait of Shakespeare in existence. The engravings are by H. Barnett Woodburn. "Geological Progress of the Century" is the fourth of the series of illustrated articles, by Henry Smith Williams, M.D., treating the contribution of the nineteenth century to science.

The May number of McClure's Magazine is especially abundant and interesting in the matter of portraits of famous people. In illustration of a paper by Miss Tarbell on the remarkable work of G. C. Cox in photographic portraiture, there are truly speaking likenesses of Donald G. Mitchell ("Ik Marvel"), Walt Whitman, Eleanor Duse, Henry Ward Beecher and others, and a series of life portraits of Daniel Webster exhibit that most august and impressive of great men at close intervals from public life to the year of his death. Some of the Webster portraits have never before been published; and all have interesting histories, which are set forth in notes by Charles Henry Hart. An article that everybody will read with eager interest is Ray Stannard Baker's account of the pursuit and capture of Booth, after his assassination of Lincoln, and of his death and burial.

The present industrial tendencies in American education are in no way better illustrated than by the three great popular schools of technology which have come into existence in these very latest years. The Pratt Institute of Brooklyn, the Drexel Institute of Philadelphia, and the Armour Institute of Chicago. The New England Magazine is doing a real service in giving to us a series of thorough and admirable articles upon these three institutes. The article upon the Pratt Institute by Mr. Hopkins, who has now come to Boston to assume the direction of art instruction in the public schools, was a most valuable one. The Drexel institute is to receive similar treatment, and in the May number of the magazine appears the article upon the Armour Institute at Chicago, written by Clifford L. Snowden, who was carefully chosen for the office. Mr. Snowden has done his work well, and his article shows that this youngest of the three institutes is not behind the others in interest for the student of our education. Warren F. Kellogg, 5 Park square, Boston, Mass.

The Eastern war-cloud hangs low over Albania, Montenegro and Servia. People are studying the map of that section of the world. The hero of "The Captain of the Janizaries," hailed on its publication by the Harpers as "one of the strongest and most fascinating novels of the last quarter of a century," performed his exploits in that region. His battles were along the very lines of the Greek endeavor. "Scanderbeg" was the hero and leader of the very sort of men who are today emulating his dash and courage. His story is still the talk about the camp-fires south of the Balkans. The book is full of accurate folk-lore and well-studied topography.

"Table Talk" for May sustains its reputation of being the "Ideal Housekeeping Magazine." Among the many articles that will delight the housewife is the second of a series of articles, the "Garnishing" of dishes, with several illustrations, showing how attractive they may be made. These articles alone are worth more than the price of a year's subscription to this truly helpful magazine, and there are many others of great interest.

In its May number the Atlantic Monthly contains two instructive articles on life in rural New England and the problems presented by the rush of the population to great cities. One of these articles is a study of a remote village which has not been reached by modern methods of life. The native characteristics, which were not very long ago shared by a large part of the rural population of New England, now seem so remote as almost to be regarded as curiosities. This sympathetic sketch shows the life of the village in all its phases. The other study is of a farming town which has indeed kept somewhat apace with modern progress, but still retains the features of the old rural life.

Miss Gwendolen Overton has an entertaining story in the Argonaut of May 31. It is entitled "The Making of a Man," and teaches the moral that a clever woman should be given something to do. The heroine is an army wife who whiles away her idle hours with French novels, and, when a young lieutenant comes to the post, deems it her duty to bring him up in the way he should go. The plan is fraught with danger for herself and results in a dramatic climax to the story.

There are two features of unique and compelling interest in the May number of The American Queen that are sure to attract wide attention. The first one is a liberal offer of the handsome prizes for the best anthropometric charts sent to the Queen within the next few months. This is the beginning of a series of interesting efforts the magazine is making to stimulate feminine enterprise in matters of high importance to the sex. How to see the world and get the benefit of a European vacation for $10 per week, an illustrated article, is the second feature referred to.

Korea, that bone of contention between China and Japan, is a land of strange customs, some of which Professor Edward S. Morse describes in the May number of Appleton's Popular Science Monthly. Professor Morse gained his information by questioning Koreans in official station whom he has met during a residence in Japan and since his return home; hence he calls his material "Korean Interviews." David A. Wells continues his papers on the "Principles of Taxation" with one which traverses the right of government to stimulate special industries by means of bounties, and deals with other limitations of the taxing power. There is another installment of "The Racial Geography of Europe," by Professor William Z. Ripley, in which the stature of the populations of Europe is discussed with reference to race and other factors.

One of the most attractive features of the North American Review for May is the opening article by Ian Maclaren on "Henry Drummond." Simon Greenleaf Croswell thoughtfully discusses the question, "Should Immigration Be Restricted?" and is followed by an interesting paper on "Recent Achievements in Mountaineering," by Sir William Martin Conway. A popular article is furnished on the "Evolution of the Naval Officer," by Admiral P. H. Colomb, R. N., and in "Exercise and Longevity," Professor D. A. Sargent of Harvard university gives much knowledge of a practical nature. As announced last month, the Review begins in the present number the first of a series of articles by Michael G. Mulhall, F. S. S., the famous British statistician, on the "Progress of the United States," treating in this instance of "The New England States."

HE RETALIATED.

On the Restaurant For Its Past Deceptions.

Washington Star: He looked apprehensively up and down the street as he and his wife emerged from the restaurant. His steps were rapid, and it was not until after the corner had been turned that he said:

"Maria, I don't want to go through life with a secret in my bosom. Rather than that I will risk forfeiting your esteem."

"What is the matter? Have you been robbing somebody?"

"Don't talk about it in that way! There were mitigating circumstances. You remember the counterfeit fifty-cent piece that I got last fall?"

"Yes. It's the only money you have ever succeeded in saving."

"It's gone with the rest. I gave it to the cashier in the restaurant."

"By accident?"

"No. I did it in cold blood. I have been thinking about doing it for a long time. Ordinarily I am not vindictive, but I got to brooding over the matter till I yielded to temptation."

"How did your conscience permit you to do such a thing?"

"That's the worst of it. Every time I think about it it seems to make my conscience feel better. We have been patronizing that restaurnat on occasions for a year, at least."

"Yes."

"The proprietor has given us veal in the chicken salad, codfish in the deviled crabs, chicory in the coffee and water in the cream."

"There has been reason for suspicion?"

"We have had evidence that would convince any jury. After I had given him a fifty-cent piece with some lead in it I tried to be ashamed of myself, but I couldn't. It may have been contrary to the statutes of the United States, but it was poetic justice."

MR. GLOVER'S ANXIETY.

Washington Post: "Although we got the finest black bass in the world in the pellucid waters of the San Marcos, and nearly everything else that is good to eat in our streams and forests, I must admit that we are shy on diamond-back terrapin," said Frank D. Glover, a popular young banker of Austin, Tex., at the Raleigh.

"Now, I have, to the detriment of my pocketbook, cultivated a fondness for the diamond back, and since my sojourn here have partaken of it more often than a regard to economy would suggest. Yesterday, in strolling up one of your numbered streets, not far from the avenue, I came across an establishment, the front window of which was filled with this glorious product of Chesapeake bay.

"In I went to interview the proprietor about the cost, mode of capture and everything relating to the life and habits of the terrapin. 'Are these genuine diamond-backs?' I asked him.

"'I think there is one left,' he said, and began feeling around in the grass to uncover it.'

"'But what are all these others?' Aren't they diamond-backs, too?'

"'No, sir, they are sliders.' And then he began telling me that sliders were a sort of base imitation of the peerless original, a kind of counterfeit, as it were, easily told from the genuine from the outward appearance, but often used as a substitute by unscrupulous caterers. They ran in price from $8 to $18 per dozen, whereas sure-enough terrapin were held from $36 to $90, and had lately gone as high as $160 in New York.

"Then it was that a horrible suspicion seized me. Had I been blowing my coin and vainly imagining the while that I was regaling my supposed epicurean taste with the real thing, when in truth I was devouring only the plebeian slider? The very thought made a chill creep down my spinal column. I wanted to put my fears at rest or know the worst. I confided to the agreeable and courteous dealer my situation and asked his wise counsel on promise of absolute secrecy. That vender of choice sea food made me a happy man. He assured me that in all the places I had patronized a guest who ordered diamond-back could stake his life on the fidelity and honor of the management to be served, except for soups. I thanked him with a grateful heart, and when I got back to Texas and hear men invighing against the honesty of the whole human race, I will gladly bring up the conscientious and truth observing resaurant keepers and hotel men of Washington by way of refuting the charge."

ROOSTER

An Oregon Chicken Story of a Hypnotizing One-Eyed Fowl.

Funny Freak From Sawmill Camp and His Tough Ending.

A Marauding Rooster and How He Worked For His Owner.

The Wilsons kept hens. The Eatons did not, although they took a lively interest in poultry just the same. The Wilson hens were known and esteemed in the little Oregon village for their regularity and prodigality as layers. The Wilsons' hens' eggs bore a reputation as enviable as Mrs. Wilson's fried chicken or raised cake, says the New York Sun.

Little red-haired Jimmy Wilson, the 10-year-old, knew not only all the hens, but all their nesting places. He had figured out the extent of the egg crop on the Wilson place, and when his mother or sister Mary called for fresh supplies, it was Jimmy's proud privilege to act as egg purveyor to the household.

No better behaved hens could be found in all Oregon than those of the Wilsons. That is, until the Eaton folks moved into the neighborhood. The Eatons came from somewhere down East, a few years after the Wilsons moved up from California. Old man Eaton, so all hands agreed, was mighty close, and the other Eatons, big and little, trailed right along after him. The Eatons lived a short distance from the Wilsons, on the school house road. As has been said, they kept no hens. Mrs. Wilson had broad Western ideas of neighborliness, and a justifiable pride in her hennery and its crop. One morning, shortly after the arrival of the Eatons, Mrs. Wilson made a neighborly call. She carried with her a basket heaping full of selected Wilson eggs, and tendered this as a gift to the newcomers.

Mrs. Eaton returned the call—but not the basket—some days later. "Them eggs of your'n," she said to Mrs. Wilson, "was so good pa'n allowed he'd never eat nothin' that so raised the spirit of covetousness in him."

Jimmy came home from school one afternoon with this bit of news:

"Mom, Bill Eaton's folks 've got a rooster. Bill told me at recess. His pop got it for nothin', he said, from a man who was quittin' Sawmill Camp. Ain't it funny? Just one rooster, and if they lose him they ain't got none."

Still the Eatons kept no hens. This rooster was a queer bird. Perhaps he was lonesome. He couldn't have been proud of his personal appearance, for, to put it mildly, he was ragged, homely, and had lost one eye. But to this day the Wilsons believe that rooster was a trained capper for a clever game run by old man Eaton, aided and abetted by flinty-faced Mrs. Eaton and the pop-eyed little Eatons from down East.

The one-eyed rooster from Sawmill Camp had not been in town more than a week or two when he began daily visits to the well-kept Wilson place. He would strut up and down in the dooryard, scratch gravel and crow. Gradually he seemed to hypnotize the Wilson hens. As they say among chicken farmers, the Eaton rooster "toiled" those hens to his own barnyard. Singly, in couples, or in groups, the hitherto faithful Wilson hens meekly followed the one-eyed rooster and made visits of varying length to the henless yard of the calculating Eatons.

Day by day and week after week the egg crop on the Wilson place shrank perceptibly. At first Mrs. Wilson blamed little Jimmy and accused him of shirking his duties as nest-hunter. Sister Mary ventured to say:

"Mam, perhaps some of our neighbors are ashamed to borrow any more eggs, and so they just sneak around here and help themselves."

This insinuation against the integrity of her neighbors was not tolerated by good Mrs. Wilson, who contented herself by administering large doses of patent egg food to her hens and admonishing Jimmy to search the barn, the woodshed and the field for the new nesting places, which she was certain her feathered treasures had established.

Meanwhile the Eaton rooster continued to exert his mysterious powers of fascination upon the Wilson hens. Their feet followed in his footprints to the yard of the Eatons, and the Eatons no longer borrowed eggs from the diminishing store of the Wilsons.

Red-headed Jimmy, boy-like, did considerable fretting and some tall thinking about this time. One day he confided to his sister Mary that he didn't like "that scrubby Bill Eaton."

"Mary," said Jimmy, "I'll lick that Bill Eaton first chance I get. He told me in the school yard today that his folks had named their darned rooster after me, because it's got a red top. And what's more, I think those Eaton boys are robbing our hens' nests."

The very next day, as luck would have it, old man Eaton took all his family for a day's outing in the woods beyond Sawmill Camp. That was Jimmy's opportunity. His experience as egg chaser at home stood him in good stead. He got into the Eaton place over the back fence and searched under the house, in the woodshed and barn, along by the fences, and in every nook and corner where the barnyard fowl might make a nest. He found no hens, for the Eatons kept none, but he found eggs in surprising numbers.

That night Jimmy, his brother John, sister Mary, and Jimmy's chum held a whispered conference at the front gate of the Wilson place. In that conference the fate of the one-eyed rooster was settled. Long before daybreak sister Mary stole into her brother's room and awakened Jimmy, Johnny and Jimmy's chum, who had spent the night at the house. In a few moments sister Mary and the three boys were on the outside, legging it to the Eaton place up the road. Jimmy took the lead after they had got in the Eaton yard.

"Sh—sh," he whispered. "Old one-eye roosts on the woodshed roof. I'll climb up on the woodpile. You boost me, and I'll catch him asleep."

Barefooted and with heart thumping, Jimmy climbed after his namesake. One-eyed Jimmy, the hypnotist, was oblivious to danger. An outstretched arm, a quick grasp, a convulsive choking sound, and the Eaton rooster was no more. His strutting was over. The Wilson children and Jimmy's chum made their way home, bearing their booty proudly. At the Wilson gate Mary said:

"It'll never do to let mam know this. You boys pick that rooster and clean him. I'll make a fire and put the big iron pot on the stove and we'll cook him and eat him, too."

"Gee, that's great," ejaculated Jimmy. "He won't toll any more of our hens up to the Eaton yard, will he?"

When Mrs. Wilson descended to the kitchen that morning she found Mary, Jimmy and Johnny's chum, and Wah Lee, the Chinese boy servant, glumly peering into the iron pot. Mary, to divert suspicion, quickly told her mother that being unable to sleep and feeling hungry, she had told the boys to kill a chicken for breakfast.

Just here the boys and Wah Lee sneaked, Johnny alone returned. While his mother was trying the chicken with a basting fork he tacked a piece of paper to the door leading to the dining room. Mrs. Wilson remarked in surprise.

"Why, Mary, my child, how on earth do you expect to eat this chicken? It won't cook through for hours and hours. I can hardly get a fork in it. Whatever is happening to my hens and chickens?"

As Jimmy entered, his face ready to break into a grin, Mrs. Wilson saw the paper which Johnny had tacked on the door. It read just as the Chinese boy had expressed his view of the Eaton rooster:

"Jimmy No Good; Jimmy Hi-Yu Tough."

The Wilson egg crop never failed after that episode, and up to the time the Eatons left the Oregon village they kept no hens.

SERIOUS DANGER

Threatens every man, woman and child living in a region of country where fever and ague is prevalent, since the germs of malarial disease are inhaled from the air and are swallowed from the water of such a region. Medicinal safeguard is absolutely necessary to nullify this danger. As a means of fortifying and acclimating the system so as to be able to resist the malarial poison, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is incomparably the best and the most popular. Irregularities of the stomach, liver and bowels encourage malaria, but these are speedily rectified by the Bitters. The functions of digestion and secretion are assisted by its use, and a vigorous as well as regular condition of the system promoted by it. Constitution and physique are thus defended against the inroads of malaria by this matchless preventive, which is also a certain and thorough remedy in the worst cases of intermittent and remittent fevers.

GOSSIP OF THE STAGE.

[illegible] (A. E. Edge, Eq. Optic [illegible] The theatrical performance which [illegible] last night was one of [illegible] shows seen here since Van [illegible] two years ago. Some of our [illegible] friends suffered some [illegible] in comparison with that sterling [illegible] we do not. It was good all [illegible] Pitcher himself was very good. [illegible] was also colonia and the two grave [illegible] were just simply immense. They [illegible] audience in a trot all the time [illegible] on the stage and although [illegible] material tried to preserve order [illegible] of the solemn nature of the scene [illegible] it. It is seldom that we [illegible] such a good display of facial [illegible] and real fun than was afforded [illegible] grave diggers. Horatio was very [illegible] and so was the Ghost. As the simple [illegible] Ophelia and the latter performance [illegible] on the stage the silence was [illegible] and one woman fainted. The [illegible] music was good, and in fact every [illegible] on the play was good and well [illegible]. We hope this company will put [illegible] to visit us again in the near [illegible] and we can assure them a full [illegible] and a hearty welcome."

William Gillette's "Secret Service" company seems to be establishing a record in the way of secret weddings. Preceded by gossip about matrimonial declarations between himself and Mr. Gillette, Ada Rehan quietly departed for Buffalo one day and was married to a young lawyer named Lewis. The next to go was Campbell Cobian, who played the villain, and now it has just leaked out that Odette Tyler was married on April 1 to R. D. Shepherd. Concealed under the name of R. D. Shepherd was R. D. McLean, who was Marie Dressler's leading man for several years before she died. Shepherd has given up the stage—he is a rich man—and after the London engagement of "Secret Service" his wife will follow his example. It was this marriage which prevented Mr. Sheridan's accepting a proposition from Wagenhals & Kemper to appear with Louis James next season.

Augustus Thomas has written a new play and Digby Bell has produced it—with success, if the reports are to be believed. The title is "A Hoosier Doctor," and it is partly dependent upon the White Cap disturbances in Southern Indiana for its incidents. Of course it is to be anticipated that Mr. Thomas has, in his peculiarly effective manner, preserved the local color.

Some disagreeable person, in referring to the deck of playing cards recently placed on the market in which the cards are decorated with pictures of stage people, expressed wonder that the manufacturers had contrived to get along with only four knaves.

The locality of the London press to Sir Henry Irving has been exhibited anew in the consideration with which his assumption of the role of Napoleon in "Madame Sansgene" was handled. Some of the critics even went so far as to pretend to find the personal resemblance to Napoleon, which is considered necessary, although a few of them could hardly go so far. Ellen Terry is said to have been successful in the title role, and this can easily be believed, but it will take a great effort on the part of his admirers to convince people in this side that his Napoleon is anything but a joke.

Weber and Fields, German comedians of the vaudeville type, offered through Warden Sage, of Sing Sing, to give $100 for the best one-act burlesque written by an inmate of that institution, but the warden has refused to allow his charges to compete for the prize. This is a pity, as drama in literature is in need of some genius, no matter on which side of the bars he happens to be.

Annie Russell's forthcoming suit for divorce has started anecdotes concerning that popular actress, one of which is related with great gusto by Ramsey Morris, who was once manager of a "Hazel Kirke" company in which Miss Russell played. The company was booked for one night in a North Carolina town, and the thermometer was playing around the zero mark. The theater was not heated, and rather than run chances of taking cold, members of the company decided to play in their street costumes. As Hazel, Miss Russell was attired in a sealskin coat and wore heavy gloves and overshoes. It was noticed that nearly every person who came into the theater carried a bulky package which was deposited under the seats. After the performance employes of the house gathered up the bundles and threw them into the street. They consisted of bricks, which were heated just prior to entering the theater.

Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon are going out next season in a new play by Madeline Lucette Ryley, called "A Coat of Many Colors."

The English seem to have accepted "The County Fair" and Emma Pollock is the American member of the company most highly praised.

A gentleman who signs himself "A Country Playgoer" has been using the columns of the London Telegram to relate what some of the stage people now prominent were doing thirty-five years ago, and if his real identity becomes known some of them will probably make him decidedly uncomfortable. It cannot be particularly pleasing for Mrs. Kendal to have the fact recalled that in those remote days she was cast as the second singing fairy in "The Midsummer Night's Dream;" fairies are not domestic, and domesticity is Mrs. Kendal's strong point; nor would Ellen Terry like to be reminded that she was acting thirty-five years ago in a piece called "Peep o' Day." Charles Coghlan was in the same cast and is still playing characters which have the semblance of youth. Some of the other names this writer mentions need resurrection just as little as the three given here. Their owners are attending to that themselves, and "A Country Playgoer" would better "lay low" for a while before exposing any more data as to their long stay on earth.

Madeline Marshall, a soubrette who once toured our way in "The Black Crook," has made a success in "The Isle of Gold" with a song of which the refrain is:

She didn't take much with her—
A little old gripsack.
She hadn't much experience.
But—she took a whole lot back.

This is said to be the only redeeming feature of the work and she is given credit for saving the performance, although the cast included the ponderous J. Aldrich Libbey.

After the performance of "Henry V" at Stratford-on-Avon, on Shakespeare's birthday, April 2, the management revived in honor of the queen's diamond jubilee the quaint prayer for the queen, from the old Elizabethan play of "Bolster Dolster." The prayer is recited by the members of the company, kneeling on the stage in a semi-circle, and runs as follows:

The Lord preserve our most noble Queen
of renown,
And her virtues reward with the Heavenly crown.

The Lord strengthen Her Most Excellent Majesty.
Long to reign over us in all prosperity.

That her godly proceedings, the faith to defend,
He may establish and maintain through to the end.

God grant her, as she doth, the Gospel to protect,
Learning and virtue to advance, and vice correct.

God grant her loving subjects both the mind and grace
Her most godly proceedings worthily to embrace.

Her Highness' most worthy councillors God prosper;
With honor and love all men to minister.

God grant the nobility her to serve and love,
With all the commonty, as doth them behove.

Amen.

Frederic de Belleville is to be Julia Arthur's leading man in next season's production of Mrs. Burnett's "A Lady of Quality." This is the play which the Frohman brothers were to produce but gave up because they could not agree with the author as to who should create the role of Lady Clarinda, its wild and untamed heroine. Miss Arthur was not Mrs. Burnett's original choice for the part and she seems to have been somewhat fickle in thus abandoning the young woman upon whom she was so firmly decided.

Arthur Byron, the son of Oliver Dowd Byron, is leading juvenile with John Drew. He inherits much of the talent of his celebrated father, allied to great ability of his own, as was seen during the past week at Hooley's in his characterization of the unsympathetic part of William Westwood in "Rosemary."

Miss Ethel Barrymore, John Drew's niece, who has made a decided hit as Priscilla in "Rosemary" at Hooley's, will shortly go to London to play in "Secret Service," which Charles Frohman and William Gillette will present at the Adelphi. Miss Barrymore has not only blossomed int a charming actress, but is rapidly taking rank as one of the great beauties of the stage.

A writer in the Chicago Chronicle says: "I was talking with Thomas Q. Seabrooke the other day about his new play, 'What Happened to Jones.' Although the comedian realizes that an unproduced play, and especially a farce, is more uncertain than the proverbial lottery ticket, still he is building high hopes on the success of his new venture.

"'Why should it be a go?' he asked. 'I think I know when a thing is funny, and if "What Happened to Jones" is half as funny as it reads it will be about the most amusing thing ever seen on the boards. My part is a splendid one, and if I can't make a hit in it, I figure that I ought to go back to the bank from which I graduated sixteen years ago. For the first time in twelve years I shall play a comparatively young man; in fact, for about the first time in my life the audience will have a chance to see me in propria persona, for I shall be sans whiskers, sans wig and sans the wrinkles which have adorned my physiognomy in years past.'

"'How about your company?' I asked, and Mr. Seabrooke replied: 'Just wait till we announce it and I think you will find that not only will I have incomparably better support than heretofore, but that the organization will be one of the strongest comedy companies ever got together. We have accepted the model for the scenery and the artist is now working on it. Rehearsals commence next Wednesday and if the piece should not prove a thorough success it will be the biggest disappointment of my career.'"

John Drew, within two weeks after he closes at Chicago in "Rosemary," will sail for Europe, to be gone about two months. He is due on the Pacific coast early in August next to begin his season, when, it is understood, he will put several new plays in rehearsal.

"Under the Red Robe" was dramatized for John Drew, but he did not produce it, owing to the great success of "Rosemary." The first-named play, as is well known, is now an extraordinary success at the Empire theater, New York, where it is being presented by Charles Frohman's stock company.

KEY WEST CITY.

Only One in the South Not Under Confederacy.

A man who recently has returned from Key West, Fla., says the first impression a stranger gets of that place at the present time is that the city has gone on a perpetual holiday spree, says the Buffalo Courier. Bunting flies from almost every housetop, and the colors are about evenly divided between "Old Glory" and the emblem of the Cuban republic. People of all classes and ages wear pins or other symbols bearing the motto "Cuba Libre," and if Uncle Sam would only nod consent or say nothing at all about it, the 15,000 patriotic inhabitants of this seagirt isle would skip across the channel and tackle the queen of the Antilles to the star-spangled banner without any more fuss. "Castillo del Morro," or Morro castle, is only eighty-seven miles from the government dock at this point, and our swift cruisers could cover the distance in a little more than four hours. The defenses of Havana are obsolete and out of date, and a Cuban colonel, now here, a member of Gomez' staff, openly declares that any one of our armored ships could pass the fort and take the city without difficulty, that is, as far as the land defenses are concerned.

This far Southern city, lying almost within the tropics, is the only town of importance below Mason and Dixon's line that was never under the stars and bars of the Confederacy. The population is about evenly divided between white Cubans, colored Cubans and white Bahamians. There are not more than a score of real American families resident on the island, but notwithstanding this fact the great mass of the people are loyal to the Union first and to Cuba next. It is curious, though true, that of all the houses, dwellings, stores, hotels and other buildings that dot the island from one shore to the other, not one of them has a chimney or, anything that will answer the purpose of a chimney. Handsome residences and lowly hovels are alike in this respect, and from an eminence, gazing out over acres of roofs on all sides, one is struck with the want of something to complete the symmetry of the picture. Wood and coal or fuel of any kind are unknown quantities, as the tropical atmosphere furnishes at all times of the year all the heat required, and for cooking purposes sticks of carbon are used, which are sold by peddlers, who hawk their wares about the streets.

There are few stores, as we understand such things, and no markets. Sign boards in Spanish will tell you where the barber shop is located, or where to buy coral ornaments. There are no more than half a dozen stores conducted on the American plan in the island.

Instead of a market there is a daily auction near the government dock, where everything in the way of provisions, furniture and fruit is knocked down to the highest bidder. Bananas, alligator pears and pineapples are the commonest articles of purchase, and here ships from Jamaica, Cuba and Nassau, in the Bahamas, unload their cargoes and dispose of them at ruinous rates rather than risk a voyage at this time of year to more northern ports. Quick sales and small profits seems to be the prevailing idea with them. As a consequence, Key West is, perhaps, the greatest banana and pineapple market in the world. On almost any day one can secure an enormous bunch of bananas, ripe or green, at from 10 to 15 cents, and can cart away all the luscious pineapples he cares to purchase at 1 cent, 2 cents or 3 cents each. Directly opposite the harbor docks, on the further side of the island and facing Cuba, is a large dancing pavilion called La Brisa, where Monday and Friday nights and Saturday afternoons public dances are held. It has large, broad verandas overlooking the sea, which make ideal promenades, and a commodious dancing hall within, where those who desire can trip the light fantastic to their hearts' content upon the payment of a small fee. The very best people attend these dances, and many go simply for the promenade or to smoke and chat with friends; but should anyone step even so much as a toe upon the dancing floor, a dark-skinned Cuban is immediately at hand with a proffered hat into which a coin must be dropped.

There must be at least 5000 refugees in Key West non-combatant and exiles from their homes, who dare not return under the present Spanish rule, and who must await the solution of the war problem one way or the other before they can return to their peaceful occupations.

"SO'NO MONEY."

GERMAN NEEDLES.

The Germans during recent years are said to have made very remarkable progress in the manufacture of needles, says The Manufacturer. Last year the Germans exported 2,800,000 pounds of these small, but indispensable articles, as compared with 1,830,000 pounds in 1895. As showing the rate at which the export side of the German business has grown, it is stated that in the eight years, 1880-87, the shipments were 11,615,000 pounds, and in the following eight years, ending with 1895, 15,425,000 pounds. The factories of Aix-la-Chapelle alone produce 50,000,000 needles a week, and they are said to be for the most part of superior quality. The best outlet for these goods is China, which in 1896 took 60 per cent of the whole export, as compared with no more than 20 per cent in 1894. Other markets of considerable importance are British India, France, Great Britain, the United States, Austria-Hungary, Italy and Turkey.

GOSSIP OF ★ ★ THE STAGE.

The Glen Ellen (Ariz.) Eagle-Eye Optic says: "The theatrical performance which visited Glen Ellen last night was one of the best shows seen here since 'Von Ossip' two years ago. Some of our citizens thought 'Hamlet' suffered somewhat in comparison with that sterling work, but we do not. It was good all through. Hamlet himself was very good, and so was Ophelia, and the two grave diggers were just simply immense. They kept the audience in a roar all the time they were on the stage, and, although the town marshal tried to preserve order in view of the solemn nature of the scene, he couldn't do it. It is seldom that we have ever seen a greater display of facetiousness and real fun than was afforded by the grave diggers. Horatio was very good, and so was the Ghost. As the lamps were turned down and the latter personage came on the stage the silence was intense and one woman fainted. The fight scene was good, and, in fact, everything in the play was good and well acted. We hope this company will find it convenient to visit us again in the near future, and we can pledge them a full house and a hearty welcome."

William Gillette's "Secret Service" company seems to be establishing a record in the way of secret weddings. Preceded by gossip about matrimonial designs between herself and Mr. Gillette, Amy Busby quietly departed to Buffalo one day and was married to a young lawyer named Lewis. The next to go was Campbell Gollan, who played the villain, and now it has just leaked out that Odette Tyler was married on April 1 to R. D. Shepherd, concealed under the name of R. D. Shepherd was R. D. McLean, who was Marie Prescott's leading man for several years before she died. Shepherd has given up the stage—he is a rich man—and after the London engagement of "Secret Service" his wife will follow his example. It was this marriage which prevented Mr. Shepherds accepting a proposition from Wagenhals & Kemper to appear with Louis James next season.

Augustus Thomas has written a new play and Digby Bell has produced it—with success, if the reports are to be believed. The title is "A Hoosier Doctor," and it is partly dependent upon the White Cap disturbances in Southern Indiana for the incidents. Of course it is to be anticipated that Mr. Thomas has, in his peculiarly effective manner, preserved the local color.

Some disagreeable person, in referring to the deck of playing cards recently placed on the market in which the cards are decorated with picutres of stage people, expressed wonder that the manufacturers had contrived to get along with only four knaves.

The loyalty of the London press to Sir Henry Irving has been exhibited anew in the consideration with which his assumption of the role of Napoleon in "Madame Sans-Gene" was handled. Some of the critics even went so far as to pretend to find the personal resemblance to Napoleon, which is considered necessary, although all of them could hardly go so far. Ellen Terry is said to have been successful in the title role, and this can easily be believed, but it will take a great effort on the part of his admirers to convince people on this side that his Napoleon is anything but a joke.

Weber and Fields, German comedians of the vaudeville type, offered through Warden Page, of Sing Sing, to give $100 for the best one-act burlesque written by an inmate of that institution, but the warden has refused to allow his charges to compete for the prize. This is a pity, as dramatic literature is in need of some genius, no matter on which side of the bars he happens to be.

Annie Russell's forthcoming suit for divorce has started anecdotes concerning that popular actress, one of which is related with great gusto by Ramsey Morris, who was once manager of a "Hazel Kirke" company in which Miss Russell played. The company was booked for one night in a North Carolina town, and the thermometer was playing around the zero mark. The theater was not heated, and rather than run chances of taking cold, members of the company decided to play in their street costumes. As Hazel, Miss Russell was attired in a sealskin coat and wore heavy gloves and overshoes. It was noticed that nearly every person who came into the theater carried a bulky package which was deposited under the seats. After the performance employes of the house gathered up the bundles and threw them into the street. They consisted of bricks, which were heated just prior to entering the theater.

Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon are going out next season in a new play by Madeline Lucette Ryley, called "A Coat of Many Colors."

The English seem to have accepted "The County Fair" and Emma Pollock is the American member of the company most highly praised.

A gentleman who signs himself "A Country Playgoer" has been using the columns of the London Telegram to relate what some of the stage people now prominent were doing thirty-five years ago, and if his real identity becomes known some of them will probably make him decidedly uncomfortable. It cannot be particularly pleasing for Mrs. Kendal to have the fact recalled that in those remote days she was cast as the second singing fairy in "The Midsummer Night's Dream;" fairies are not domestic, and domesticity is Mrs. Kendal's strong point; nor would Ellen Terry like to be reminded that she was acting thirty-five years ago in a piece called "Peep o' Day." Charles Coghlan was in the same cast and is still playing characters which have the semblance of youth. Some of the other names this writer mentions need resurrection just as little as the three given here. Their owners are attending to that themselves, and "A Country Playgoer" would better "lay low" for a while before exposing any more data as to their long stay on earth.

Madeline Marshall, a soubrette who once toured our way in "The Black Crook," has made a success in "The Isle of Gold" with a song of which the refrain is:

She didn't take much with her—
A little old gripsack.
She hadn't much experience,
But—she took a whole lot back.

This is said to be the only redeeming feature of the work and she is given credit for saving the performance, although the cast included the ponderous J. Aldrich Libbey.

After the performance of "Henry V" at Stratford-on-Avon, on Shakespeare's birthday, April 2, the management revived in honor of the queen's diamond jubilee the quaint prayer for the queen, from the old Elizabethan play of "Rolster Doister." The prayer is recited by the members of the company, kneeling on the stage in a semi-circle, and runs as follows:

The Lord preserve our most noble Queen
of renown,
And her virtues reward with the Heavenly crown.

The Lord strengthen Her Most Excellent Majesty.
Long to reign over us in all prosperity.

That her godly proceedings, the faith to defend,
He may establish and maintain through to the end.

God grant her, as she doth, the Gospel to protect,
Learning and virtue to advance, and vice correct.

God grant her loving subjects both the mind and grace
Her most godly proceedings worthily to embrace.

Her Highness' most worthy councillors God prosper;
With honor and love all men to minister.

God grant the nobility her to serve and love,
With all the commonty, as doth them behove.

Amen.

Frederic de Belleville is to be Julia Arthur's leading man in next season's production of Mrs. Burnett's "A Lady of Quality." This is the play which the Frohman brothers were to produce but gave up because they could not agree with the author as to who should create the role of Lady Clorinda, its wild and untamed heroine. Miss Arthur was not Mrs. Burnett's original choice for the part and she seems to have been somewhat fickle in thus abandoning the young woman upon whom she was so firmly decided.

Arthur Byron, the son of Oliver Dowd Byron, is leading juvenile with John Drew. He inherits much of the talent of his celebrated father, allied to great ability of his own, as was seen during the past week at Hooley's in his characterization of the unsympathetic part of William Westwood in "Rosemary."

Miss Ethel Barrymore, John Drew's niece, who has made a decided hit as Priscilla in "Rosemary," at Hooley's, will shortly go to London to play in "Secret Service," which Charles Frohman and William Gillette will present at the Adelphi. Miss Barrymore has not only blossomed int a charming actress, but is rapidly taking rank as one of the great beauties of the stage.

A writer in the Chicago Chronicle says: "I was talking with Thomas Q. Seabrooke the other day about his new play, 'What Happened to Jones.' Although the comedian realizes that an unproduced play, and especially a farce, is more uncertain than the proverbial lottery ticket, still he is building high hopes on the success of his new venture.

"'Why should it be a go?' he asked, 'I think I know when a thing is funny, and if 'What Happened to Jones' is half as funny as it reads it will be about the most amusing thing ever seen on the boards. My part is a splendid one, and if I can't make a hit in it, I figure that I ought to go back to the bank from which I graduated sixteen years ago. For the first time in twelve years I shall play a comparatively young man; in fact, for about the first time in my life the audience will have a chance to see me in propria persona, for I shall be sans whiskers, sans wig and sans the wrinkles which have adorned my physiognomy in years past.'

"How about your company?" I asked, and Mr. Seabrooke replied: 'Just wait till we announce it and I think you will find that not only will I have incomparably better support than heretofore, but that the organization will be one of the strongest comedy companies ever got together. We have accepted the model for the scenery and the artist is now working on it. Rehearsals commence next Wednesday and if the piece should not prove a thorough success it will be the biggest disappointment of my career.'"

John Drew, within two weeks after he closes at Chicago in "Rosemary," will sail for Europe, to be gone about two months. He is due on the Pacific coast early in August next to begin his season, when, it is understood, he will put several new plays in rehearsal.

"Under the Red Robe" was dramatized for John Drew, but he did not produce it, owing to the great success of "Rosemary." The first-named play, as is well known, is now an extraordinary success at the Empire theater, New York, where it is being presented by Charles Frohman's stock company.

KEY WEST CITY.

Only One in the South Not Under Confederacy.

A man who recently has returned from Key West, Fla., says the first impression a stranger gets of that place at the present time is that the city has gone on a perpetual holiday spree, says the Buffalo Courier. Bunting flies from almost every housetop, and the colors are about evenly divided between "Old Glory" and the emblem of the Cuban republic. People of all classes and ages wear pins or other symbols bearing the motto "Cuba libre," and if Uncle Sam would only nod consent or say nothing at all about it, the 15,000 patriotic inhabitants of this seagirt isle would skip across the channel and tackle the queen of the Antilles to the star-spangled banner without any more fuss. "Castillo del Morro," or Morro castle, is only eighty-seven miles from the government dock at this point, and our swift cruisers could cover the distance in a little more than four hours. The defenses of Havana are obsolete and out of date, and a Cuban colonel, now here, a member of Gomez' staff, openly declares that any one of our armored ships could pass the fort and take the city without difficulty, that is, so far as the land defenses are concerned.

This far Southern city, lying almost within the tropics, is the only town of importance below Mason and Dixon's line that was never under the stars and bars of the Confederacy. The population is about evenly divided between white Cubans, colored Cubans and white Bahamians. There are not more than a score of real American families resident on the island, but notwithstanding this fact the great mass of the people are loyal to the Union first and to Cuba next. It is curious, though true, that of all the houses, dwellings, stores, hotels and other buildings that dot the island from one shore to the other, not one of them has a chimney or anything that will answer the purpose of a chimney. Handsome residences and lowly hovels are alike in this respect, and from an eminence, gazing out over acres of roofs on all sides, one is struck with the want of something to complete the symmetry of the picture. Wood and coal or fuel of any kind are unknown quantities, as the tropical atmosphere furnishes at all times of the year all the heat required, and for cooking purposes sticks of carbon are used, which are sold by peddlers, who hawk their wares about the streets.

There are few stores, as we understand such things, and no markets. Sign boards in Spanish will tell you where the barber shop is located, or where to buy coral ornaments. There are no more than half a dozen stores conducted on the American plan in the island.

Instead of a market there is a daily auction near the government dock, where everything in the way of provisions, furniture and fruit is knocked down to the highest bidder. Bananas, alligator pears and pineapples are the commonest articles of purchase, and here ships from Jamaica, Cuba and Nassau, in the Bahamas, unload their cargoes and dispose of them at ruinous rates rather than risk a voyage at this time of year to more northern ports. Quick sales and small profits seems to be the prevailing idea with them. As a consequence, Key West is, perhaps, the greatest banana and pineapple market in the world. On almost any day one can secure an enormous bunch of bananas, ripe or green, at from 10 to 15 cents, and can cart away all the luscious pineapples he cares to purchase at 1 cent, 2 cents or 3 cents each. Directly opposite the harbor docks, on the further side of the island and facing Cuba, is a large dancing pavilion called La Brisa, where Monday and Friday nights and Saturday afternoons public dances are held. It has large, broad verandas overlooking the sea, which make ideal promenades, and a commodious dancing hall within, where those who desire can trip the light fantastic to their hearts' content upon the payment of a small fee. The very best people attend these dances, and many go simply for the promenade or to smoke and chat with friends; but should anyone step even so much as a toe upon the dancing floor, a dark-skinned Cuban is immediately at hand with a proffered hat into which a coin must be dropped.

There must be at least 5000 refugees in Key West non-combatant and exiles from their homes, who dare not return under the present Spanish rule, and who must await the solution of the war problem one way or the other before they can return to their peaceful occupations.

MARINE NOTES.

The whaleback steamer John B. Trevor, which arrived off this port Saturday with the barges 105 and 127, which she dropped here and then went to Two Harbors, broke the double tow record from Buffalo to Duluth into very small pieces. In the first place she shattered the fuel consumption record by bringing her big double tow to this port on the lowest fuel rate ever made on Lake Superior. Then she brought the two barges from Buffalo pierhead to Duluth entry in seventy-eight hours, a speed of pretty nearly thirteen miles an hour for the entire distance.

Two large steamers were enrolled at the Duluth customs office today, the Robert Fulton and the James Watts. The Fulton is 424.6 feet long, 45.8 feet beam and 27.8 feet deep. Her gross tonnage is 4219.71, and net 3181.95. The Watts is 405 feet long, 48 feet beam and 23.5 feet deep. Her gross tonnage is 4060.23, and net 3105.48.

NEW ROAD RACE RECORDS.

Baltimore, Md., May 10.—Henry Smith, a member of the Maryland Century Cycling club, finished a 24-hour road race against time this morning, during which he claims to have established a new set of American road records. Smith, who has never tried for a record before, started on a course laid out on the famous shell road, east of Baltimore, at 6:10 yesterday morning. At the end of twelve hours he had covered 170 miles, and when he quit this morning he had reeled off 314 miles. The figures will be submitted to the Century Cycling club of America for verification.

ROBBED THE PRIEST.

South Bend, Ind., May 10.—Two masked robbers at 1 o'clock this morning entered the residence of Rev. Joseph Flache, the Roman Catholic priest at Dyer, Ind., and ransacked the house. The priest and cook were awakened, and seeing probable resistance, the robber used an iron bar, striking the cook on the head, inflicting dangerous wounds. The priest attempted to shoot, but his revolver failed to work, and he was roughly handled. Bloodhounds are on the trail.

ANDREWS INDICTED AGAIN.

Chicago, May 10.—Another indictment against ex-Grain Inspector Dwight W. Andrews was returned by the grand jury today. This indictment, the eight upon which he will be tried, charges him with withholding funds of the grain inspector's office from his successor, E. J. Nohe. The bonds were fixed at $10,000, the sum involved.

DECIDED

End of the Famous Bell-Berliner Telephone Patent Suits.

Uncle Sam Beaten By the Bell Telephone Company at Washington.

Supreme Court Denies That the Defendants Were at Fault.

Washington, May 10.—The Bell Telephone company won the case brought against it by the United States to annul the last Berliner patent. This decision has the effect of continuing the control of the telephone by the Bell company for seventeen years from the date of the last patent, which was granted in 1891. The government asked to have the patent of 1891 set aside on the ground that the delay of thirteen years in the patent office was fraudulent and through the fault of the telephone company, and that the patent issued in 1880 covered the same ground on which the new patent was applied for in 1891. The court in its opinion, delivered by Justice Brewer, held that there was no evidence of corruption or undue influence exercised over the patent office by the telephone company, and that there was no evidence that the delay in granting the patent had been brought about by the telephone company. It held that whatever delay there had been was through the fault of the patent office, and by no fault of the company.

Justice Harland dissented from theo pinion. Justices Gray and Brown, it was announced, took no part in the case, presumably because they were interested. The court held that in order to set aside a patent the government must establish grounds of relief as clear and satisfactory as it would to set aside a land patent. All other allegations of the government, besides that of delay, were overruled. This decision by the supreme court sustains the lower courts.

The case has attracted wide attention because of the extensive interests involved in its settlement, and the opinion of the court has been anxiously awaited. The suit, it was claimed, involved the practical control of the art of telephoning. It originated in a charge of collusion in the patent office, and was brought to obtain the repeal and cancellation of letters patent of the United States, No. 463,569, dated Nov. 17, 1891, granted to the American Bell Telephone company, as assignee of Emile Berliner, the alleged inventor. The repeal and cancellation of the patent were sought upon the ground that the application for it, which was filed in 1877, was not issued until 1891. This delay was charged to be unnecessary and improper on the part of the patent office, and the Bell Telephone company which, as Berliner's assignee, controlled the application. It was asserted that the company had acquiesced in and promoted the delay, and for their own interest, thus defrauding the public of its rights.

It was claimed that the Berliner patent practically controls telephony, as it has to do with both the transmission and receipt of sound, and that the delay thus secured until 1891, operated to place the control of this art for fifteen years beyond the time of the expiration of the Bell patent. It was also asserted that the patent was granted by the commissioner of patents without the authority of law, and that it was for the same invention for which a patent had been granted in 1880, and that the principle was, therefore, not new.

The suit originated in the United States circuit court for the district of Massachusetts, where it was decided in favor of the United States. Upon appeal to their circuit court of appeals for the first circuit this decision was reversed, and the contentions of the Berliner claimants upheld. From this opinion the United States appealed to the supreme court.

INSURANCE SWINDLERS.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 10.—The trial of Lieut. E. S. Farrow, of New York, and C. Linford Woods, of this city, for conspiracy to defraud under the insurance laws, will not come up until Thursday, court having adjourned until that time on account of the death of Presiding Judge Thomas Ewing. President F. A. Burnheim and other officers of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life association, of New York, are in the city to look after the interests of the company during the trial.

FIXING A WAGE SCALE.

Knoxville, May 10.—The operators of the Jellico mining district are in conference with a committee of miners as to a wage scale at Jellico today. The operators, at the expiration of the year's contract with the men on May 1, cut the scale 10c a ton, and closed the mines until the men agreed to it. Two thousand miners have been idle since then. The differences are expected to be adjusted at today's conference.

THE FOWLERS ARRESTED.

West Superior, Wis., May 10.—Homer and Walter Fowler, ex-president and vice-president of the Northwestern National bank, were this afternoon arrested by United States Marshall Main on a bench warrant, the result of the federal grand jury investigation. The warrant does not specify the charge, but orders them taken into custody. The charge against the Fowlers is misapplication of funds by overbooning to the Russell and Miller Milling company.

NOMINATED BY McKINLEY.

Washington, May 10.—The president today sent the following nominations to the senate:

Treasury—George A. Barr, collector of customs district of Michigan; James A. Coye to be surveyor of customs for the port of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Interior—Frank D. Healy, register of the land office at Woodward, Oklahoma territory.

THE BARTON CASE.

Third Trial Was Begun Today Before Judge Moer.

The May term of the district court opened this morning at the court house with all the judges in attendance, and with Judge Moer in charge of the calendar. A setting of nearly a dozen cases had been made for today, but for various reasons it slid away until at noon there were but three cases on the call besides the one Judge Moer took up in Room 1. This case, however, will fill the place of several ordinary jury cases, as past experience has shown. It is the case of John Barton against the Virginia Light and Water company, to recover $5000 for the loss of the plaintiff's son, who is alleged to have been killed by a current from the defendant's electric light wires.

The case is now upon its third trial, each of the preceding trials having resulted in disagreements of the jury. Its actual trial will take about a week in all probability, and Judge Moer's court is therefore spoken for for some little time. The attorneys began to select a jury at 10:40 and they had not completed their task at noon. Carey, Agatin & Davidson and John Jenswold, Jr., are attorneys for the plaintiff, and John Williams, George F. Chester and Theodore Hollister represent the defendant. Mr. Jenswold and Mr. Hollister, who oppose each other oftener than any other two attorneys in the county, are additions to the case since the last trial.

Judge Cant had two cases before him this morning, but neither of them came to trial. In the case of Charles McNamara against E. L. Linton, et al., judgment was entered by default for $2828 on a note. In the case of the Cedar Falls National bank against L. D. Forrest, et al., the attorneys came to an agreement after the jury had been drawn, and by consent judgment was ordered against the defendant, Forrest, for $1000 on a note, a stay of sixty days was entered. The cases of C. L. Wentz against Robert F. Dacre et al., and of the Ironton Land company and the St. Louis Bay Land company against the Ironton Structural Steel company was dismissed. The following cases for jury trial were waived and they were made court cases: C. E. Peaslee against the Duluth Heights Land company, Totunden Etsia No. 91 against Taplo, and Garrett T. Johns against Francis Omeis et al.

The following call of cases has been made for the rest of the week, including all the jury cases:

Tuesday—77, 80, 83, 85, 87, 89, 90, 91, 94, 95, 102, 105.

Wednesday—106, 110, 111, 113, 140, 141, 157.

Thursday—9, 20, 31, 36, 84, 86, 137, 114.

THE GRAND JURY.

Its Committees Are Examining the County Institutions.

The grand jury was not in session at the court house this morning, its committees having taken the day for the customary investigation of the city and county jails, the poorhouse and other public institutions. No indictments have been returned since Friday, but some are expected when the jury again convenes tomorrow. The jury had expected to conclude its labors tomorow afternoon, but the county attorney stated in the court this morning that matters had arisen which would keep it in session until Thursday or Friday. After that time the trial of criminal cases will be set, probably, for one day next wek.

This morning Victor Johnson and C. P. Robbins, accused of grand larceny in the second degree, were arraigned and given until tomorrow to plead. John Roleau, accused of stealing a number of souvenir spoons from J. M. Geist's window, announced to the court that he wanted to plead guilty to the charge, and he was allowed to do so. William Mattson, accused of grand larceny in the second degree, and Mike Mantufla, acused of assault in the second degree, were also arraigned, but both were Finlanders who professed to know nothing about the English language, and as there was no interpreter handy they were sent back to jail to wait for one.

TAKEN WITH TREMENS.

A Drunkard Grows Wild While in Jail.

Robert Willis, a drunk, who was arrested by Officer Smollett on Lake avenue last evening, developed a bad case of delirium tremens after his incarceration in jail. This morning he was found entirely naked in his cell, his clothes lying about in shreds. A pair of overalls and shirt were borrowed to present him in court and Judge Edson sent him up for ten days.

Among the other drunks registered were J. Fulerton, of St. Paul, and D. E. Nelson, of Hermantown. They went up for ten days, as did John Isaacson and W. Morrisey. Peter Boyer, who pleaded guilty of the same offense, was let off with a suspended sentence.

Thomas York, of West Duluth, who was arrested on the charge of vagrancy, denied the allegation and was to have a hearing this afternoon.

Judgment Against Stockholders

Judge Ensign filed findings this morning in the case of H. Rosenbaum against the insolvent Duluth Provision and Dry Goods company and its stockholders. He finds that the stockholders are liable to the amount of their stock, and orders judgment against hem and in favor of the creditors who came into the proceedings for the amounts rightfully due them.

Will Prosecute Butchers.

The health department has entered complaint against certain butchers, charging them with slaughtering without a permit. Complaint has also been entered against one meat dealer charging him with exposing for sale veal under five weeks old. It was expected that the arrests would be made this afternoon.

AGAINST IMMIGRATION.

Washington, May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Nelson today presented a petition of citizens of Duluth urging the passage of an anti-immigration bill.

AT BAY

Larimore's Fiendish Ravisher and Murderer Located By Indian Police.

He Will Be Starved Into Surrender, as He is Armed.

Is In a Grove Closely Watched and Escape Deemed Impossible.

Minneapolis, May 10.—A special to the Journal from Devils Lake, N. D., says: August Normand, the Larimore double murderer and ravisher, was located by Indian police Saturday in a grove of poplars on Holstein ranch, about 12 miles south of Fort Totten, near Cheyenne river. The grove contains about forty acres of brush and timber and is admirably adapted for purposes of concealment. He is armed with a shot gun for which he traded his pony.

No attempt has been made to drive him out of the grove, as it is sure that one or more would be killed if such an attempt was made and it has been thought best to try and starve him out. Maj. Hall, Indian agent at Fort Totten, left for the scene yesterday with his Indian police force and will assist in the capture. Deputy sheriffs and deputy United States marshals are also on the ground and the place will be watched so closely that escape is practically impossible.

EXPLORERS DEMUR.

They Want Mineral Laws Extended to Minnesota.

A meeting of a number of gentlemen interested in the northern part of Minnesota, in the mineral belt, was held Saturday afternoon in the office of J. D. Washburn, in the Lonsdale building, to discuss the proposed action of congress making the federal mining laws applicable to that portion of the state which is supposed to contain deposits of precious metals. As a result of the meeting, Secretary Buchanan of the jobbers' union was instructed to write to Congressman Morris and inform him that there is no necessity for legislation of that character at this time.

Frank Hibbing was opposed to the proposed measure, and declared that prospectors had as good an opportunity to profit by the discoveries that they might make by means of the homestead or stone and timber acts as they would under the mining laws, and suggested that it was an easy matter to acquire title to government land with soldiers' scrip.

It is not probable that the decision reached at the meeting will meet with the approval of the majority of the people who are contemplating explorations in the gold country on the American side of the boundary. Many who have looked into the subject assert that under existing laws it is impossible to honestly acquire title to land known to have gold deposits, as it is necessary, in filing on a homestead, to swear that it is wanted for a home, when, as a matter of fact, no one ever intends to make his permanent residence on a mining claim. A similar subterfuge must be resorted to to gain title under the stone and timber act. By scripping land, speculators can buy up an unlimited quantity of it to traffic on and force inspectors, who happen to make discoveries on it, to buy from them, or give to the proprietors all of the fruits of their labor. Those who advocate the passage of the bill say that it will in no way interfere with the honest homesteader, who desires to acquire a farm in that region, and at the same time it will encourage the search for mineral and the development of the mining resources of the country. Congressman Morris will undoubtedly receive many communications taking issue with the position assumed by the small meeting held on Saturday.

PROCTOR KNOTT TESTIFIES

His Deposition in the Coal Lands Case.

A deposition of ex-Governor J. Proctor Knott of Kentucky was filed today in the case of F. A. Stratton vs. R. H. Palmer. Alfred, A. R. and E. T. Merritt, which is on this term's calendar for trial. Stratton sues on a note and the Merritts make a counter claim of $300,000 out of which they claim to have been swindled. At the last trial the Merritts secured a verdict of $325,000. In his deposition Proctor Knott denies ever having represented that the Monarch company ever owned any coal lands.

Indoor Ball Game.

Tonight Companies G and A will play off the tie game of indoor baseball played at the Armory a few weeks ago. It will be the last game of the season and interest runs high. The young ladies are taking great interest in it and any number of boxes of candy are wagered on the result. The line up will be as follows:

Following the game Hoare's orchestra will play and there will be dancing.

VISITING THE CAPITAL.

Washington, May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—O. W. Baldwin, of Duluth, is in Washington as the guest of ex-Representative Towne. He has business before the interior department which will keep him here for several days.

The Department Stores of Today are the best friends of the people.

The reason of their success has been the concentration of many lines of goods under one roof and the reduction of expenses to a minimum from the large volume of business.

This combined with the advantages they possess in the markets of the world as large buyers and cash buyers enables them to offer their wares at lower prices than small dealers can buy them for at wholesale. Our motto is and always has been the greatest good to the greatest number.

The People== must think our methods are correct for their patronage has made the Big Store what it is today.

PANTON & WHITE.

PECULIAR

The Situation in the Lake Superior Ore Trade Not Pleasing.

Probability That the Market Will Improve in a Few Days.

Only Important Sale Last Week to the Illinois Steel Company.

Ishpeming, Mich., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The present situation in the Lake Superior iron ore trade is a peculiar and by no means pleasing one. The ore producers, after prolonged attempts, accompanied by much wrangling, have succeeded in preparing a schedule of prices on this year's ore, which would excite the heartiest commendation of the most exacting mathematician, so correct is it in every detail. Season of navigation has opened at about the usual date, and everything is ready for a heavy business, except the business itself. Sales have dragged, and mining men and vessel owners are feeling blue over the unexpected slowness in business. The prices asked for ore are certainly low enough, averaging as they do one-third less than the figures obtained last season, but for some reason, or combination of reasons, the purchasers are slow in coming forward to buy their supplies. It is probable that a start of some little importance will be made within the next few days, and that from now on the ore market will grow more brisk. It certainly has been more stagnant during the first ten days of navigation than ever before in twenty years.

The only sale of importance made during last week was by the Minnesota Iron company to the Illinois Steel company, and as that was a sort of family affair it had no effect on business in general. The Minnesota Iron company and the Illinois Steel company are impelled by mutual interests to an alliance, much as the Carnegie and Rockefeller interests have allied themselves together, but there is no other basis for the rumor that the Illinois and Minnesota companies were to consolidate. It will be difficult this season, and perhaps for some time to come, to hit one without striking the other of these corporations, but although they can be relied on to keep pretty close to each other it is not especially desired by either that a consolidation should be effected.

The Metropolitan Land and Iron company laid off its night shift at the Norrie, East Norrie and Pulsot mines last week. It is probable that this will prove but a temporary reduction, and with a view to keeping its men available the management arranged to keep all its employes at work on half time, the two shifts working alternate weeks. On the Vermillion range the Pioneer mine has closed down entirely, so far as mining is concerned, throwing 165 men out of work. The pumps will be kept going and the Pioneer will be in shape to resume work full-handed in twenty-four hours after notice that sales of its ore has been effected. Unless some sales of importance are made this week there are a number of mines which will curtail forces or close down entirely. It is probable that the market of the next seven days will develop sufficient business so that there will be few further suspensions.

Officers of the Mineral union express indignation at the published reports to the effect that the union is moribund, but if the union has any great amount of vitality left the fact is being very successfully concealed. The annual convention, held recently at Ironwood, was attended by only a handful of delegates from the subsidiary unions, and the attempt to organize a local union at Ironwood was a flat failure. The strike at the Arragon mine, Norway, which was backed by the union, has proved a complete failure, the strikers now petitioning for employment on any terms. If the union is really prospering, strange means are taken for exhibiting its success.

Stripping has been begun at the Ohio, the Mesaba property recently secured by the Consolidated company. The big outcry regarding high royalties and high freights, which was predicted some weeks ago in this correspondence, is now coming from the independent mines of the Mesaba range. The owners of Mesaba mines, who have no connection with the railroads that handle ore from that district, are in a really desperate situation, and it seems impossible for many of them to continue in business under present conditions. It means an actual loss on every ton of ore mined this season, to many of them, if their properties are worked, and if allowed to remain idle the royalties must be paid, even though not a pound of ore is mined, and there are other fixed charges which cannot be evaded. One independent operator on the Mesaba recently stated in conversation that it appeared as though the time was rapidly coming when a man or company that proposed to mine on the Mesaba must have its own railroad, fleets and docks before it begun work at the mine. The remark, which was probably meant half as a joke, is literally true, barring its local application to the Mesaba and the placing of this condition in the immediate future instead of in the actual present. The tendency of the past few years in the iron ore trade, as in many other lines of industry, has been toward lower prices, smaller profits and the concentration of the business in the hands of the few. This tendency is intensified with every year that passes. The prospect ahead of the independent mine operator of the Mesaba is not a pleasant one; every indication points to his elimination as a factor in the business within the next few years.

This condition is not peculiar to the Mesaba, and responsibility for it cannot be laid entirely upon the shoulders of J. D. Rockefeller, for the same tendencies are observable on the three ranges where he has no mining interests. With every year that passes the number of shippers is growing less, though the number of mines may increase. There will undoubtedly continue to be small mining companies operating on at least three of the ranges—the Michigan ranges—for a long time to come, but these concerns will be such as have unusual advantages in the way of desirable ores, cheap mining and cheap transportation rates, and which furthermore possess adequate capital and are skillfully managed. Sermons and newspaper editorials against the trusts and combines do not check and cannot check this tendency toward the centralization of business in the hands of a few gigantic corporations. The Rockefeller interests comprise mines, railroads, docks and steel steamers for carrying ore. The Minnesota Iron company has a like equipment; so have the Cleveland-Cliffs and Pittsburg and Lake Angeline companies of this city, while several other large corporations have large fleets of ore carriers as well as mines.

This concentration of the ore trade in a few hands grows more marked with every year that passes, and has by no means reached an end. It means cheaper iron and steel for all who use them. It means the building up of an export business in iron, steel, hardware and machinery of a magnitude at present scarcely dreamed of and the centering of the industrial interests of the world in the United States, and incidentally it means the ruin of scores of the smaller mining companies and losses of millions to their stockholders. The industrial revolutions are akin in their nature and progress to smaller evolutions which are in progress incessantly in almost every manufacturing center where the introduction of labor-saving machinery turns the industrious mechanic out of a job, but gives the product of the factory to the consumer for less money. Business finds its way along the line of least resistance, and the great combination of capital, technical skill and financial ability which is represented by one of the great corporations that is crowding its weaker neighbors to the wall, is bound to gain strength from the weakness of its competitors. The company with the most money and skill—and money buys the skill—can mine its ore the cheapest, can make a profit where its neighbor is working at a loss, and in the struggle now in progress there can be but one result and that the result tersely told by the natural law—the survival of the fittest.

HORACE J. STEVENS.

PERU'S COINAGE.

Silver is Shelved After This Morning.

Chicago, May 10.—The Times-Herald Washington Special says: The Peruvian government, after May 10, will cease the coinage of silver, and will not permit the importation of any silver coin. Director Preston of the United States mint was officially advised to this effect today. The decree provides that silver coinage shall be suspended, and that the mint shall cease to receive silver bullion. Silver soles (the Peruvian dollar, worth about 93 cents American money,) converted into bullion for export shall not be brought back except as bullion.

All importations of any silver coin after May 10 shall be made exclusively at the port of Callao, and shall be delivered to the mint by the customs officer to be melted into bars and then returned to their owners. Each traveler entering Peru shall not be allowed to bring more than 50 soles in Peruvian money. Silver coin sent from place to place in Peru shall be accompanied by invoice, showing that it has not been imported and that the customs house has authorized the transportation. It is said that these new regulations are made to check, if possible, the rapid depreciation of Peruvian silver currency.

BULGARIA'S DESIRE.

Good Chance For American Machinery Manufacturers.

Washington, May 10.—United States Consul Stephen, at Annaberg, reports to the state department that the Bulgarian government is now considering the advisability of introducing agricultural machinery into Bulgaria. While no definite conclusion has yet been announced, it is probable that offers will be invited for supplying a certain number of steam threshing machines and portable engines to be delivered this summer in various selected districts. The consul says this is a most tempting opportunity for American manufacturers, and for their benefit, he quotes from an authority as to the best means to compete for this trade.

MR. CARR ASPHYXIATED.

San Francisco, May 10.—William Bramwell Carr, capitalist, mine and land owner, and at one time a political leader of California, was found dead in his bed at his residence, Broadway and Fillmore street, by his wife. His death was evidently due to accidental asphyxiation.

Thousands of women go down to death every year through their own ignorance and neglect. Every woman should know something of the physiology of her womanly self. Every woman should appreciate the importance of the health and strength of the delicate organs that constitute her womanhood. The woman who neglects her health in this respect is sure to be a continual sufferer and is in constant danger of an early grave. To such a woman wifehood is a torture and motherhood a menace.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription acts directly and only on the organs that make wifehood and motherhood possible. It invigorates them and makes them healthy. It prepares a woman for an almost painless maternity. It does away with the dangers of motherhood. It insures the health of the newcomer in the family. Over 90,000 women have testified to its wonderful virtures. All good druggists sell it. There is nothing "just as good."

"If it had not been for your medicine and your advice," writes Mrs. I. F. Thomas, of Antoine, Pike Co., Arks., "I would no doubt be in my grave or in an insane asylum. Fourteen years ago, when my second child was born, I came very near losing my mind. My head would hurt so bad I could hardly live. I could not lie down and raise up without great pain. My life was a misery to me. God alone knows what I suffered. I had lost all hope of being cured, but I took your 'Favorite Prescription' according to directions, I used one bottle of the 'Pleasant Pellets,' two of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and six of 'Favorite Prescription.' In a little over one year after I began your medicine I gave birth to twins. Since then I have a boy baby ten months old. He weighed eleven pounds at his birth. I have been better in health since the birth of these children than I had been for years before. Before using your medicine my weight was about one hundred and thirty-five pounds, and now I weigh one hundred and sixty-five."

Dr Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a safe, sure swift and permanent cure for constipation. They never gripe. One is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them.

A SAD BARONESS.

She Knows She Was Swindled By Von Turkheim.

San Francisco, May 10.—Jeannine Young, the "Baroness von Turkheim," is now reaping the whirlwind. A cablegram from her received yesterday, in this city, states that she has at last awakened to the fact that she is the victim of a conspiracy, and she is anxious to return to this city. She states that she is at the Place Cecil in London, and that von Arnold, alias Turkheim, intends to desert her early this morning. She asks her friends to send her sufficient money to return here, as she is without funds.

That she now appreciates fully the villainy of Turkheim is shown by the suggestion that steps be taken to effect his extradition and compel his return to this city, where he committed the crimes of bigamy and perjury, to say nothing of the conspiracy in which he was the leading actor.

The deceived and deserted woman sent three cablegrams to San Francisco, all of which were of the same tenor. One was addressed to the chief of police, and reads as follows: "London, May 9.—Discovered proof of Delmar's villainy at Hotel Cecil, London. Turkheim intends leaving early tomorrow. Tell friends. Wish for immediate return. No money. Can you have Arnold, alias von Turkheim, extradited to San Francisco? Has valuable papers of Fair case in his possession. Cable me care American embassy."

Chief Lees turned the cablegram over to the woman's attorney, who will probably demand Arnold's extradition today.

BISHOP WHIPPLE'S TRIP.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 10.—Bishop Whipple, of Minnesota, is a visitor in Cleveland. He is on his way to attend the conference of Lambeth, which begins in London on July 3. This conference, which is attended by all the Episcopal bishops of the world, is held every ten years at the palace of the archbishops of Canterbury, was called a year earlier this time, in order that the thirteen hundredth anniversary of Ethelbert, the first Saxon king, might be celebrated at the same time. Many important subjects are to be considered by the conference, and a pastoral will be issued to the Episcopal churches of the world.

A CENTENARIAN DIES.

Troy, N. Y., May 10.—Capt. J. King, who claimed that he was 105 years old last Wednesday, died at his home in Lansingburgh this morning. He claimed to be of Indian descent. Capt. King was the father of Stephen and Mart King, who were among the pioneers of baseball in this country.

ILLEGAL FISHERS CHASED.

St. Thomas, Ont., May 10.—Capt. Dunn of the cruiser Petrel on Saturday, between Rondeau and Port Stanley, gave chase to three United States vessels found fishing in Canadian waters. The vessels succeeded in escaping, but the captain of the Petrel seized seventy-seven nets and about two tons of fish the Americans were compelled to abandon.

Catarrh

Mrs. Josephine Polhill, of Due West, S. C., had a severe case of catarrh, which finally became so deep-seated that she was entirely deaf in one ear, and part of the bone in her nose sloughed off. The best physicians treated her in vain, and she used various applications of sprays and washes to no avail. Fourteen bottles of S. S. S. promptly reached the seat of the disease, and cured her sound and well.

Fight Between Him and Choynski at San Francisco Being Arranged.

If Corbett Beats Choynski Champion Fitzsimmons Will Fight Him.

Slavin and Joe Butler Will Try Conclusions in a Short While.

San Francisco, May 10.—Information reached the city last night that points to the probability of a match between Corbett and Choynski. The reason for Parson Davies' mysterious visit to the East is thus made apparent. He went to arrange a match between Corbett and Choynski to be fought in this city in the fall. The parson took the trip in the interest of the National Sporting club, and the officers of that organization have received information that leads them to confidently expect that the match will be made.

Davies has urged Fitzsimmons to bring about this result, knowing that if Fitzsimmons announced to Corbett that he would fight him after the ex-champion had beaten Choynski, Jim would probably go in for the battle. Fitzsimmons, it is believed, is lending himself to this project. Choynski is perfectly willing to fight Corbett for any amount. The only trouble in bringing about the match has been with the latter. If the bout comes off, it will be a 20-round go for a purse of $10,000. All the National people are jubilant over the outlook.

The California Athletic club announces a program for the 31st inst., at Woodward's pavilion, the principal attraction being a 15-round go between Slavin and Joe Butler, of Philadelphia. It was at first intended to put Slavin up against "Thunderbolt" Smith, but Smith did not seem anxious for the match.

A SAD BARONESS.

She Knows She Was Swindled By Von Turkheim.

San Francisco, May 10.—Jeannine Young, the "Baroness von Turkheim," is now reaping the whirlwind. A cablegram from her received yesterday, in this city, states that she has at last awakened to the fact that she is the victim of a conspiracy, and she is anxious to return to this city. She states that she is at the Place Cecil in London, and that von Arnold, alias Turkheim, intends to desert her early this morning. She asks her friends to send her sufficient money to return here, as she is without funds.

That she now appreciates fully the villainy of Turkheim is shown by the suggestion that steps be taken to effect his extradition and compel his return to this city, where he committed the crimes of bigamy and perjury, to say nothing of the conspiracy in which he was the leading actor.

The deceived and deserted woman sent three cablegrams to San Francisco, all of which were of the same tenor. One was addressed to the chief of police, and reads as follows: "London, May 9.—Discovered proof of Delmar's villainy at Hotel Cecil, London. Turkheim intends leaving early tomorrow. Tell friends. Wish for immediate return. No money. Can you have Arnold, alias von Turkheim, extradited to San Francisco? Has valuable papers of Fair case in his possession. Cable me care American embassy."

Chief Lees turned the cablegram over to the woman's attorney, who will probably demand Arnold's extradition today.

BISHOP WHIPPLE'S TRIP.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 10.—Bishop Whipple, of Minnesota, is a visitor in Cleveland. He is on his way to attend the conference of Lambeth, which begins in London on July 3. This conference, which is attended by all the Episcopal bishops of the world, is held every ten years at the palace of the archbishops of Canterbury, was called a year earlier this time, in order that the thirteen hundredth anniversary of Ethelbert, the first Saxon king, might be celebrated at the same time. Many important subjects are to be considered by the conference, and a pastoral will be issued to the Episcopal churches of the world.

A CENTENARIAN DIES.

Troy, N. Y., May 10.—Capt. J. King, who claimed that he was 105 years old last Wednesday, died at his home in Lansingburgh this morning. He claimed to be of Indian descent. Capt. King was the father of Stephen and Mart King, who were among the pioneers of baseball in this country.

EVACUATE CRETE.

Gradual Withdrawal of the Grecian Troops.

New York, May 10.—A dispatch to the Journal from Athens says: Prime Minister Ralli says that the Greek troops will be withdrawn from Crete. "The government having need of all troops possible," he said, "has decided on gradually withdrawing our army from Crete. This would also facilitate arrangements with the great powers, which have been unofficially intimated. Greece has officially notified the foreign ministers of her intention to withdraw from Crete, and has demanded admission of Greek ships within the blockade for this purpose.

"Greece now awaits the official offer of the great powers to make proposals of peace between her and Turkey. If they please, but will not ask for it. An official note from the powers will probably be presented at once, and all depends on its terms. The report in the papers of an armistice is not true, but an armistice will probably be agreed upon if peace negotiations are opened."

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

About 1:30 yesterday morning fire broke out in the Frolling grocery store at Sheldon. Sheldon has no fire department, and the buildings were nearly all wooden structures, and the flames soon licked everything clean from the State bank building to the wheat market. Thirteen buildings were burned, including the grocery store, where the fire started, the State Bank building, billiard hall, Enterprise office, A. E. Rudd's general store, Charles Temm's hardware store, Goodman & Grange's meat market. The fire only lasted about two hours, and it was impossible, under the circumstances, to do anything to stay the progress of the flames. It is not known how the fire started. Some of those who were burned out are already talking of rebuilding, but some of the buildings will not be replaced. Insurance was very high and the amount of protection carried was small. The total loss is put at between $20,000 and $25,000, with only $8000 insurance. Only a small proportion of the contents of the buildings was saved.

Judge Morgan is in Grand Forks to try some cases for Judge Fisk, and the first one called has been that of the famous stone man, which has taken up so much court time in months past. The case is entitled Mrs. Holmes against George H. McPherrin et al. Mrs. Holmes claims that the stone man is her property, as the other two men failed to keep a contract that was entered into. The two Le Count brothers came in as intervenors, claiming that the body was that of their father, but Judge Fisk, who heard that much of the case decided against them. A Crookston man, however, who put up bonds when the stone man was being bandied from one claimant to another, was allowed to come in as an intervenor. The stone man has been in the county jail for several months, and the bill for storage will probably amount to over $100. The result of the action will be watched with much interest.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Bishop O'Gorman has completed arrangements for transforming the girls' seminary building at Yankton into a state hospital. He proposes to provide a medical staff for the hospital and a full corps of trained nurses from the Sisters of Mercy. The hospital will be equipped with all modern appliances and conveniences, including an X-ray apparatus, and it will be one of the best institutions of the kind in the Northwest, as the location is the finest in the city, and the building, which cost $50,000, was originally designed for a hospital. Patients for this hospital will be received from all that portion of the state lying south of Huron. Bishop O'Gorman contemplates the establishment of a hospital at Pierre and one at Hot Springs within a year.

A carload of Russian Slavs passed through Aberdeen Saturday night, bound for the bad lands, west of Bismarck, where they will locate. They are unable to speak English. There were twenty-one men in the party, besides women and children. They came from Eastern Russia, and were adverse to talking about their native country, and seemed to think they were still under the power of the czar. Michael Lodovitch claims to have spent forty years in the Siberian salt mines. Tessh Stoistock was twice arrested for nihilism. Once he was pardoned; a second time he escaped. Ivan Molosky spent six years in the dungeons of Moscow, filthy, under the river, and always two inches under water. He never had a trial and was only released upon a promise to leave Russia.

Within the last few days several thousand head of young cattle have passed through Huron for Western ranges. Most of them go to points along the Missouri river and on the Sioux reservation. The greater proportion of these shipments are from Minnesota. Buyers say young stock is not only scarce but very high in that state. There is a disposition among farmers to retain stock that will grow into good dairy cows. Those who have been in Iowa buying young cattle say similar conditions prevail there. Because of this it is believed shipments of young cattle to Western ranges the present season will be smaller than heretofore.

Thirteen Lives Lost in the Fire on the Mallory Steamer Leona.

Survivor Doyle Tells a Thrilling Story of the Fire's Progress.

Crew Did Not Make Great Efforts to Save the Passengers.

New York, May 10.—It was a gruesome sight on board the Mallory steamer Leona early today. Thirteen dead bodies blackened by fire and smoke, were lying in the steamer's steerage and men and women were on the deck looking as though they had passed through an awful ordeal. Nobody was allowed either to leave or board the vessel until after the coroner had arrived to view the bodies and give permission for their removal. Coroner Hoeber arrived about 2:30 this morning at the pier and found Charles H. Mallory, one of the owners of the vessel in conversation with Capt. Wilder in the latter's cabin. Accompanied by Mr. Mallory and the captain, Coroner Hoeber went to the steerage and viewed the charred bodies. Then he gave permission for their removal.

The coroner told Capt. Wilder that as a matter of form, he would be compelled to have him placed under arrest. He was immediately paroled in the custody of Mr. Mallory, who was instructed to produce the captain when the inquest is held. The witnesses were told to be at the coroner's office at noon today. A watchman guarded the vessel and refused to allow any person aboard without the consent of the captain or owner of the vessel.

Coroner Hoeber found a man who had been one of the steerage passengers, whom he ordered detained until after the inquest. This man's name is Thomas Doyle. He is 47 years old and lives at Paterson, N. J. He was on his way to Vallejo, Cal., to see his uncle and aunt. Doyle is a veteran of the late war. He will be detained until the inquest is held. Doyle said that he was among the steerage passengers who occupied bunks on the starboard side of the vessel. He said that among the passengers who could speak English, were two men whose names he did not know and a young Irish girl named Lizzie Sullivan, on her way to Los Angeles, Cal. She was about 17 years old.

Doyle stated that he was lying asleep in his bunk early on Sunday morning, when he was awakened by a suffocating feeling. His first thought was that someone was smoking a bad cheroot, but when he opened his eyes and saw the apartment filled with smoke he jumped from his bunk and made for the companionway leading to the upper deck. This was only a short distance from where he slept. At the entrance to the companionway he met the steward who was shouting. He started up the companionway and found that two men had preceded him. When he started up, he felt back, having lost his balance, and that when he started up again he was assisted by someone behind him, who pushed him up.

On reaching the deck his first thought was for the safety of Lizzie Sullivan, and he started down into the women's side of the steerage to rescue her. But he was pulled back by members of the crew. The crew worked like beavers to put out the flames. The hatches, burlaps, etc., which caught fire were stored only a short distance away from the steerage apartments.

At 5:30 o'clock this morning two dead wagons drove on the pier and passed aboard the steamer twelve pine boxes in which the bodies of the victims were to be removed. The members of the crew refused to touch the bodies and the work had to be performed by the wagon attendants. The thirteen bodies were placed in nine of the pine boxes, some of the bodies being those of children and others charred and burnt to about half their natural size. The bodies were taken to the morgue, where they will remain to await identification. The bodies which cannot be identified will be buried in the potters' field.

Samuel D. Schillschraut was one of the passengers in the steerage of the Leona. He came here from Hungary about a month ago, and was on his way to Columbus, Tex. He has a wife and six children in his native country whom he expected to bring over in a short time. He had $450 with him, with which he was going to start in a small business in Columbus. He lost everything he had, both money and clothing. He does not speak English, but through an interpreter he said: "The crew made no effort to help the passengers and none of us were awakened by them. They simply took care of themselves and left us to our fate. A great many lives might have been saved if the crew had done anything to help the smothering passengers."

Mr. Schillschraut said the general impression was that the fire was caused by a lighted match dropped by one of the crew into the cargo. He declared that he saw a number of the crew smoking and that they were very careless in throwing away their matches. The officers, he said, made no attempt to stop the smoking among the crew, which is very strange considering the inflammable nature of the cargo in the forward hold. Along shore today it was thought strange that the fire was not discovered earlier. It must have been smouldering several days and yet neither the captain nor any of the officers knew anything about it until the vessel was filled with smoke.

A DOUBLE HORROR.

Strange Grouping of Accidents in Lincoln Park, Chicago.

Chicago, May 10.—A peculiar double fatality occurred last evening before hundreds of spectators in Lincoln Park. While boating on Lake Michigan, Matthew Roche and his 10-year-old nephew Harry Flinn attempted to exchange seats. The boat was overturned and the boy drowned, although Roche twice succeeded in putting the little fellow on top of the capsized craft.

While this was going on Albert Mattare, who was in the crowd at the water's edge, suddenly pitched forward on his face dead. His death is ascribed to excitement caused by watching the struggles of the drowning boy.

BARONESS HIRSCH THE DONOR.

Paris, May 10.—It is announced today that Baroness Hirsch is the annonymous donor of the 937,500 francs ($187,500) received by the committee of the charity bazar, the scene of the terrible fire of Tuesday last. This sum, together with the proceeds of the first day's sale, 45,000 francs ($9000) exactly equals the receipts of the bazar in 1896, thus enabling the committee to distribute its funds to charitable purposes as before.

The baroness, it is added, made this gift in order to commemorate the anniversary of the death of her husband, which occurred April 21, 1896.

Do you know what an "emulsion is?" It is when each drop of the oil is broken up into minute drops, so small you can hardly see them with the microscope: so minute that they pass at once through the tissues into the circulation. Scott's Emulsion does not disturb digestion, is not unpleasant to take, and does not fail to do its work because digestion can deal with it at once. You may be able to disguise the taste of raw oil and get it past the palate. You can't cheat your stomach with it.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of nineteen hundred sixty-three and 92-100 ($1963.92) dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Helene Pearson and Charles A. Pearson, her husband, mortgagors, to Charles H. Graves and Walter Van Brunt mortgagees, bearing date the 24th day of September, 1891, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota on the 28th day of April, 1892, at 3:20 o'clock p. m. in Book 98 of mortgages, on page 201.

Which said mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby, was duly assigned by said Charles H. Graves and Walter Van Brunt, mortgagees, to Julia C. Schenck by written assignment dated the 21st day of May, 1892, and recorded in the office of said register of deeds on the 24th day of May, 1892, at 3 o'clock p. m., in Book 32 of mortgages on page 524, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: All that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: Lot No. thirteen (13), in block No. forty-two (42), in the Endion Division of Duluth, according to the recorded plat thereof, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the 18th day of May, 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of nineteen hundred sixty-three 92-100 (1963.92) dollars, and interest and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and seventy-five dollars attorneys' fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Wheat Prices Were Higher Today But the Market Was Quiet.

The Chief Bullish Influence Was the Government Crop Report.

Absence of Rain in California Also a Cause of Strength.

Wheat opened quiet toda with some disappointment over the rather sluggish Liverpool cables. The weather in the West was ideal, and Northwest receipts were heavy, 419 cars against 379 last year. Trading at first was very light, there being a disposition to await the government crop report expected today, but as the conviction grew that the report would be a bullish one, the market broadened out and grew decidedly strong. Another feature was the non-appearance of rain in California and the steady deterioration of the crop there. It was reported that high winds in Eastern Minnesota had blown some wheat out of the ground. Indiana crop officials reported the promise for the state at not to exceed from 45 to 50 per cent of a normal season. From the neighborhood of Topeka, Kans., it was said wheat was looking well ,and from present appearances cutting would begin about June 1. The visible supply decreased 2,550,000 bus, leaving the total at 31,962,000 bus, compared with a decrease of 1,519,000 bus last year and a total then of 34,000,000 bus. The crop report of the agricultural department showed: General average, 105.4 per cent; already planted, first day of May, 81.8 per cent, against 87.9 per cent last year.

Trading was very dull on the Duluth board. July wheat opened unchanged but easy at 74¾c but soon grew strong and advanced during the first hour to 75¾c. Then it eased off ¼c. After noon there was another reaction to 75¾c, but it declined to 75c before the close which was with buyers at that figure, an advance of ¾c for the day. Shippers bought 48,000 bus of cash stuff at 1½c over July. The mills were bidding the same price but got none. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 76¾c; May, 76¾c. No. 1 northern, cash, 76¾c; May, 76¼c; July, 75c bid; September, 69¼c bid. No. 2 northern, 74¾c. No. 3, 70¾@71¼c. Rejected, 52½@58¾c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 76¼c. No. 1 northern, 76¼c. Rye, 34c. No. 2 oats, 20¾c; No. 3 oats, 20c. Flax, 77¾c.

Car inspection—Wheat, 131; oats, 15; rye, 26; barley, 10; flax, 27. Receipts—Wheat, 59,428 bus; oats, 49,077 bus; rye, 779 bus; barley, 421 bus; flax, 10,167 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 357,747 bus; oats, 151,181 bus; flax, 201,823 bus.

FINGERS OF CRIMINALS.

Dr. P. Penta has studied the fingers and toes of 4500 criminals, and finds a deficiency in the size or number of toes quite frequent among them, says Modern Medicine. He has also observed that prehensile toes, marked by a wide space between the great toe and the second toe, is a condition quite common among criminals, also a webbed condition of the toes, an approximation to the toeless feet of some savages. The little toes are also rudimentary in many cases, showing a tendency toward the four-toed animal foot; but the most common of all the abnormalities was the webbed condition of the toes.

Suing the Husband.

Otto G. Korb, as administrator of the estate of Elizabeth Bateman, deceased, this morning begun a somewhat peculiar suit against William Bateman. The deceased was the wife of the defendant, and it is alleged that C. H. Oppel & Sons and M. Vail were indebted to them jointly on notes, the former for $3628.69 and the latter for $500. It is alleged in the complaint that Bateman represented that he was authorized to collect the notes and received $1628.69 from the Oppels and $500 from M. Vail. The balance of the Oppels' note $2000, was paid by a new note payable to Bateman alone. It is alleged that he could easily do this, as his wife was unable to read and write and interested him with their business dealings. It is asserted that Bateman converted his collections to his own use, and the suit is to recover $1864.69, the half of the amounts collected. George Wescott, of Ely, is the attorney.

DEATH MASK OF NAPOLEON.

Frank Marsh, a merchant of San Antonio, Texas, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, has in his possession the original death mask of Napoleon Bonaparte, made by Dr. F. N. Antomarchi on May 5, 1821, six hours after the great monarch's death. Dr. Antomarchi, after Napoleon's death, returned to France, and afterward, becoming dissatisfied with his surroundings, left that country and went to New Orleans in 1836. He remained in New Orleans but a short time, going from there to Santa Fe for a few months and then removed to the remote mining town of Guanacevi, in the state of Durango, Mexico, making his home with Jose Calleros, a wealthy Mexican. In 1838 Dr. Antomarchi went to Cuba, leaving a trunk and box in Mr. Calleros' care. The doctor died in Cuba a short time after his arrival in that country. Mr. Calleros kept the trunk and box for a long time, expecting to restore the property to the heirs of the doctor. No claimant appeared and the trunk and box were finally opened. They were filled with books and papers and among them was Napoleon's death mask. Dr. McManus, of Matamoras, Mexico, married the daughter of Mr. Calleros and the property passed into his hands. Dr. McManus has kept the death mask in his home at Matamoras for forty years and only recently was it brought to this city and placed in Mr. Marsh's custody.

Mrs. Ann Hunt Charges Her Son-in-Law With Having Two Wives.

Joseph Kennedy Is the Man and He Came From Saginaw.

Lieutenant Briggs Is Working on the Case---A Wedding Today.

A case of alleged bigamy was reported to Lieut. Briggs this morning and he is now in search of evidence on which to base a prosecution. About three years ago Joseph Kennedy, a longshoreman came to West Duluth from Saginaw, Mich., representing himself as a single man. Over a year ago he met the daughter of Mrs. Ann Hunt, living at 514 Fifty-eighth avenue west, courted and married her. Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy lived with Mrs. Hunt, and in the course of time twins were born to them. The children died a short time ago.

Two weeks ago Mrs. Hunt learned that Kennedy had been married before, and that he had a wife living in Saginaw. She confronted him with the report and he admitted that he had been married, but claimed that he had been divorced. He said that he had the papers to prove it, but he was unable to produce them. He was ordered out of the house and since then he has been living with his sister on Twentieth avenue west. Last Friday night he was successful in getting a meeting with his wife and induced her to leave her mother's home and go with him to his sister's house.

This morning Mrs. Hunt told her story to Lieut. Briggs. There are several persons in West Duluth who knew Kennedy in Saginaw and Lieut. Briggs is interviewing them today to ascertain whether there is any foundation for the claim made by him that he procured a divorce before leaving Michigan.

DECKER-MERRITT WEDDING.

Fred H. Merritt and Maud R. Decker were united in marriage this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents at the corner of Fortieth avenue west and Fourth street. Dr. Robert Forbes officiating. Mr. Merritt is cashier at the Hugo iron works and has lived in Oneota all his life. The newly married couple will begin housekeeping at once.

A TYPICAL SPECIMEN.

A typical tramp, a regular hobo, who gave his name as Thomas York, was arrested Saturday afternoon by the police in the woods near Eightieth avenue west. He had been amusing himself by chasing and frightening little girls near Seventy-second avenue west, until their parents sent for the police. The fellow is direct from New York and is attired in the least possible amount of clothing.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

A reception was given Charles Petruschke at his home on Sixtieth avenue west Saturday by a number of friends. Mr. Petruschke was recently married at Antigo, Wis.

The infant daughter of R. O. Wicklund was buried from the family residence at 514 Sixty-first avenue west, yesterday. The child died of cholera infantum last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Little will leave in a few days for an extended Eastern trip.

The fellowship meeting to be held in the Plymouth Congregational church, by the Congregational churches at the head of the lakes Wednesday, has been postponed for one month.

Mrs. Larimer and Mrs. Mary Young, of Chicago, mother and sister of J. J. Larimer, are guests at the home of Mr. Larimer in West Duluth.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

A Lively Start Out Marked the Dealings.

New York, May 10.—Trading was quite lively at the outset and lower prices were prevalent. Tennessee coal and Sugar yielded ⅜c each. Railways were neglected and their prices practically unchanged. The railway shares assumed the leadership of the market and on good buying for both accounts values appreciated a sharp fraction with the grangers and Northern Pacific preferred leading. The improvements in the foreign markets tended to encourage the bulls who have been hampered for a long time by the persistent liquidation in some of the specialties. The industrials generally rallied a fraction, but were unsettled at the advance.

The market became dull after 11 o'clock, but the course of prices upward was not impeded and further gains were noted in the standard shares. Some weak spots developed, but without influence on the general list. The industrials were conspicuous, and especially Chicago Gas, which gained about a point and leather preferred which rose 1⅝c. Consolidated Gas declined 1¾c on what was called realizing sales. Railway bonds were firmly held on moderate dealings. Sales of stocks to noon, 75,200 shares.

HE WAS MUSICAL TOO.

Edinburgh Scotsman: At one of our large North country churches recently a fashionably dressed lady happened to go into one of the private pews.

The verger, who is known to be a very stern old chap, immediately bustled up to her and said:

"I'm afraid, miss, you'll hae to cum out o' that; this is a paid pew."

"Sir, said the young lady, turning sharply around, "do you know who I am? I'm one of the Fifes."

"I dinna care," said the old man, "if you are the big drum, you'll hae to cum out."

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage which was duly executed and delivered by William S. Woodbridge and Frances A. Woodbridge, his wife, mortgagers, to Caroline V. Cram, mortgagee, bearing date March first (1st), 1891, and which was duly executed and delivered March fifteenth (15th), 1891, and was duly recorded in the register of deeds' office for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on May sixteenth (16th), 1891, and one (1) o'clock p. m., in Book thirty-six (36) of mortgages, on page three hundred eight (308) thereof; such default consisting in the non-payment of the principal sum thereby secured, with interest thereon from September 1st, 1896, at the rate of eight per cent per annum and exchange.

And whereas there is therefore claimed to be due, and there is actually due, upon said mortgage debt, at the date of this notice, the sum of one thousand fifty-six and 68-100 ($1056.68) dollars, principal, interest and exchange.

And whereas said mortgage contains a power of sale in due form, which has become operative by reason of the default above mentioned, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described therein, situate in St. Louis County, Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: All of lot numbered two hundred twenty-seven (227), in block numbered sixty (B. 60), Duluth Proper, Second Division, according to the recorded plat thereof on file of record in the office of the register of deeds in and for said St. Louis County; which premises will be sold by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the twenty-third (23d) day of June, A. D. 1897, at ten (10) o'clock a. m., at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and seventy-five dollars attorney's fees, stipulated for in said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated May 7, 1897.

CAROLINE V. CRAM, Mortgagee.

FRANCIS W. SULLIVAN, Attorney for Mortgagee.

THE WEATHER.

United States Agricultural Department, Weather Bureau, Duluth. Synopsis of weather conditions for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m. (Central time), May 10.—Moderate to heavy showers in the Lower Mississippi valley, and thence northeastward to Lakes Erie and Huron, have been followed by fair weather, which is now general in the various reporting districts, except the Canadian Northwest and the Upper Missouri valley, where numerous light showers have occurred, and cloudy weather continues. The heaviest rainfalls on the past twenty-four hours are as follows: St. Louis, .78 inch; Memphis, .50 inch; Detroit, .48 inch.

Frosts are reported at Sault Ste. Marie, La Crosse and Havre. The lowest minimum temperature registered this morning was 34 in the Canadian Northwest, and the highest was 64 at Memphis.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 56; maximum yesterday, 66; minimum yesterday, 45.

Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity: Generally fair tonight and Tuesday, but possibly light showers tonight; slightly cooler tonight; variable winds becoming fresh westerly tonight.

JAMES KENEALY,
Local Forecast Official.

Chicago, May 10.—For Wisconsin: Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; winds mostly southerly. For Minnesota: Fair tonight and Tuesday; cooler tonight with probably light frost in central and north portions; winds shifting to northwest.

CRITICIZING THE TARIFF BILL.

Gen. Hancock made a serious political blunder when he said that "the tariff is a dead issue," but he stated a truth, of which the country has since had several demonstrations. The McKinley bill was framed with a view of satisfying differing views of protectionists, who regarded the schedules from the standpoint of the interests of their particular sections. The authors of the Wilson bill encountered similar difficulties in congress. They had to yield their opinions on certain points to meet the wishes of members whose votes were needed to secure the bill's adoption. And now the old story is being repeated in the case of the Dingley bill, so called. Already the provisions of the amended bill reported to the senate are being subjected to severe criticism by both Republican and Democratic newspapers. There are leading Republican papers that express dissatisfaction with the measure, and certain manufacturing interests are manifesting active opposition to it.

There is nothing surprising about this condition of things. It is impossible to favor a tariff bill that will satisfy everybody, or even all believers in protection. They will differ on details, and always will. They will look at the tariff from their local standpoint, and if they find that the interests of their town or district would be benefited by some article being put on the free list, they will swallow their protection ideas and demand that it be not subjected to a duty, regardless of the fact that such a duty would be beneficial to another section of the country. And so it goes all along the line—the effect of the tariff on local interests being the chief consideration.

At present, as an example of this state of sentiment, there is a strong opposition to the proposed duty on hides on the part of New England senators. Hides have been on the free list for a quarter of a century, and it is urged that a departure from that policy now would be a serious blow to the shoe and leather industry. When it was proposed in 1890 to take hides from the free list, Mr. Blaine declared it would be a great mistake to do so, and it is held by those who oppose a duty that that the conditions are practically the same now as then. The shoe and leather interest of the country appears to be solid against a duty on hides, and will undoubtedly make a vigorous manifestation of their opposition.

The proposed high duty on carpet wools, which are above the rates of the McKinley law will be actively opposed by the carpet manufacturers, many of whom, it is asserted, would be driven out of business if the proposed rates on third-class wool should go into effect. Philadelphia is the center of the carpet industry, and the Press of that city says: "The rate on carpet wools, which are not grown in this country, is fully doubled. This is a heavy blow at the carpet industry, and it is difficult to see upon what principle it can be justified. Notwithstanding the claims of Western representatives, it does not help the American wool grower, while it cripples great manufacturing interests. A provision so repugnant to reason and fair play can only have been yielded to demands as truculent as they are unjust, and on another field it will be incumbent to resist them." This very plain language undoubtedly reflects the sentiment in the carpet industry, and it may cause the senate to remodel the wool schedule once more.

The story of how a bank was boomed in Kansas is thus related by the Kansas City Star: "A year ago a half dozen young men went to Hutchinson and opened a bank. They put up a big talk and a beerfest was given in their honor at the home of a prominent citizen. It was a great night, and afterward one of the financiers took everybody into his confidence and told of his financial accomplishments. He boomed his associates also, and the man who gave the beerfest said on the side that it was good to be solid with such Napoleons. Well, in three months the young man who talked so big was out of the game—crowded out and gone. The other day the bank closed its doors. Talk is not success, promises are wind. And Kansas has not had a monopoly of this style of booming.

THE POWERS TO MEDIATE.

Greece has made formal application to the European powers, through their representatives at Athens, with a view of obtaining mediation and bringing to an end the conflict with Turkey, which has resulted in a series of successes on the part of the Turkish forces. All the representatives of the powers have promised to use their best offices, with one exception, the German minister merely acknowledging receipt of the note. The German emperor has aided the sultan in many ways during the war and has plainly manifested his desire to see the Greeks crushed, and therefore his influence in the negotiations for a settlement of the trouble will be used in favor of Turkey. An armistice of two weeks was requested by Greece, but the sultan refused to grant this, although it is not expected that the Turkish troops will be very active while the terms of peace are being arranged.

It is reported that Turkey will demand a war indemnity of $30,000,000 and a rearrangement of the Thessalian frontier. It is hardly likely that the indemnity will be so heavy. Such a large burden would crush the Greek kingdom, now oppressed by heavy debts, but it is certain that some indemnity will be allowed. Crete, which was the cause of the war being instituted, will probably be granted autonomy. The desire of the Cretans for annexation to Greece will hardly be granted.

The war was declared by King George and his cabinet in response to the public clamor and against their best judgment. They realized that the Greek kingdom was too weak in resources to enter upon a war with Turkey, a country possessing an army four times greater and with the sympathy and aid of several of the great powers. Had they not yielded to the demand of the Greek people, a revolution would have occurred in Athens and King George would probably have been deposed, so far as the Greek people could depose him. The fact is that the kingdom of Greece really exists by the grace of England, Russia and France, and any change in sovereignty that the people might desire would have to be first approved by these three powers. When the independence of Greece was declared they selected Prince Leopold, now king of Belgium as the ruler of the new state. He at first accepted and then declined, and when the president of Greece was assassinated in 1831, Otho, son of the king of Bavaria, was placed upon the throne. He ruled until 1862, and in that year a revolution broke out in Athens and he was deposed. A provisional committee then ordered the election of another king by universal suffrage, and Prince Alfred of England, who is now duke of Saxe-Coburg Gotha, was elected. An agreement had, however, been made by France, England and Russia that no prince of either of these countries should be placed upon the throne, and his name was therefore withdrawn. On March 30, 1863, the national assembly of Greece elected Prince Christian of Denmark king. The election was confirmed by the powers on July 13, and he ascended the throne and was crowned as King George I. The question now is what these same powers would do if the people of Greece should attempt the deposition of their king. At present they seem to be heedless as to what becomes of the Hellenic kingdom, but to let the people go so far as to bring about turmoil and anarchy, and give the Turk an opportunity of continuing the work of humiliation that he has begun would be contrary to their purposes. There is, therefore, not much likelihood that King George will be deposed, at least until the powers have met in conclave and proclaimed what they wish shall be done. The terms of peace agreed upon by the powers will be accepted by both Greece and Turkey.

WHERE FOREIGNERS SETTLE.

Last year 343,000 foreigners entered this country. The question where this large addition to the country's natural population disposes itself is interesting. There is a general impression that the great bulk of immigrants to this country find homes in the West, notably those from England, Wales, Germany and the Scandinavian countries. The contrary, however, is shown to be the case. Statistics covering the subject are given by C. Henri Ware, in the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette, in which he seeks to show that the bulk of immigration goes to the states of the Atlantic coast.

Of the 343,000 persons who landed in this country during the last fiscal year, 127,000 meant to remain in New York state. Some 61,000 had Pennsylvania for their destination, and 36,000 Massachusetts. Thus it will be seen that these states absorbed about two-thirds of the whole immigration to the United States. Minnesota, which has long been a favorite state with Scandinavians and German farmers coming to this country, got less than half as many immigrants as went to Connecticut. For North Dakota the number of immigrants was only 1080; for South Dakota, 613; for Kansas, 690; for Nebraska, 1043; for Montana, 920; for Wyoming, 226; for Utah, 206, and for Idaho, 118.

Maryland attracted 2500 immigrants, which is a new direction for the tide of immigration. Indiana got 1948 immigrants, and Missouri 2485. Kentucky attracted only 330, and North Carolina only 87. West Virginia absorbed 437, but the number that found homes in Florida was surprisingly large, being 7159. Many of the latter, however, came from Cuba. Among the states in the West into which there was a considerable movement of foreigners last year was Illinois, which got 22,000. Nearly 5000 immigrants, many of them Italians, settled in California, and the population of Colorado increased 1500 by immigration. In only one state of the Union did the number of female immigrants arriving exceed the number of male immigrants. That was New Hampshire.

William Schenck, of Pine Grove, Wis., has just escaped the monotony of never making a mistake. He has been town treasurer for nineteen years, and his only error during that time was returning a lot on which taxes had been paid. He is 82 years old, and the townsmen intend to keep him in office for life. He was born in New Jersey.

The wonderful increase in the productive power of laborers in factories is illustrated by some recent German statistics which show that the textile industries used 8,230,20 double hundred weights of raw material in 1896, as compared with 4,378,320 double hundred weights in 1892, the number of working people in these industries being 1,017,312 in 1896 and 932,592 in 1882. With an increase of only 9 per cent in the laboring forces the factories more than doubled the production in fourteen years.

Boston capitalists are building a cotton mill at Indian Head, Ala., which will cost $500,000 and have a capacity of 35,000 spindles. There is a coal mine within fifty feet of the engine room. Cotton is grown in sight. Labor is cheap and contented. Six hundred acres of valuable mineral land were presented to the backers of the enterprise as a further inducement to the undertaking. If a cotton mill so favorably situated cannot make money, the cotton industry must be in a hopeless state.

It is said that a young woman once asked Chief Joseph if he had ever scalped any one. When the question was translated to him, Joseph looked at the fair questioner intently, then walked around behind her and viewed the knot of hair only half hidden by her bonnet. "Tell her," he said to the interpreter, "that I have nothing in my collection as fine as that."

The official statement of the March exports of manufactures from this country shows that they aggregated $25,871,169 as compared with $19,125,795 same month in 1896, and $15,576,786 in March, 1895. Upon the basis of present returns, all exports will aggregate this fiscal year $1,076,000,000, and manufactures will aggregate $267,000,000, or about 25 per cent of the total.

The Des Moines Leader says a fuller, or rather, more satisfactory, explanation of the headlong Greek flight from Matl has been given. Stephen Crane, in a recent dispatch, says: "I was with the Greek army."

June 7 is almost certain to be a cold, rainy, disagreeable day. The Minnesota Iron directors will be in Duluth on that date on their annual trip of inspection, and their coming has always been attended by bad weather in the past.

The Herald trusts that when making quotations from its columns hereafter the St. Cloud-Journal Press will not credit it with party affiliations. The Herald is strictly independent.

Two persons died the other day in Indiana from drinking wood alcohol. No one dies in Kansas or Maine from such a cause. The people of those states have better constitutions.

Gen. Miles will find when he reaches Europe that the Greco-Turkish war has ended. But, of course, he will make the little tour that he planned at this country's expense.

Perhaps Senator Hanna is figuring on the question how the increase of the beer tax will affect the large German vote in Ohio in relation to his desire to return to the senate.

There are reports from Wall street of more senatorial speculation in sugar. Will there be another investigation?

A GRECIAN LYRIC.

"The Turks are coming!" through the crowded streets
Of old Larissa ran the fearful word—
And far upon the mountains to the north
The booming of the cannon could be heard.
"The Turks are coming!" horse and foot, pell-mell,
Soldiers and citizens, a motley throng,
Made tracks for cover, while approaching near
Piped shrill the fierce Albanians' battle song.
"The Turks are coming!" and the valiant Greeks
Put up their goods and skipped out through the night,
While wrapt in happy dreams, the Moslem host
Slept, waiting for the dawn of morning light.
The sun rose. Old Larissa's thoroughfares
Were all deserted when the sultan's troops
Came sauntering down the hillsides to the town,
With many a gleeful burst of joyous whoops.
"Fling forth the crescent," Edhem Pasha said—
"And let it be proclaimed from every hill:
The Turks are kind and merciful—because—
There's not one person left here we can kill.
We'll rest and praise the prophet—then we'll march
Upon the pass of famed Thermopylae—
And I will bet nine paras not one Greek
Will be on hand to try to hinder me!"

BLOOMERS AT FRAZER.

The Park Region: A reporter for this great and only fireside companion has been informed that some of the ladies who possess bicycles are going to wear bloomers whenever they take a spin on the boulevard. We vote for the bloomer hard and strong, early, late and often. Bloomers will give tone to the town, and on nice days hundreds will line the streets to see the circus ride by. The bloomers! Lor' bless them! Let 'em come. May they be all colors, all sizes—even to the narrow limits of firemen's hose.

A man can always tell by the way a girl kisses whether she has ever kissed a man with a full beard.

PREPARED FOR IT.

Somerville Journal: He (ecstatically)—Miss De Peyster promised last night to marry me.

She (calmly)—I congratulate you.

He—You don't seem to be surprised.

She—No. I can't say that I am. I heard her say yesterday that she had made up her mind to have a husband before the year was out, and that almost any old thing would do.

LEFT OUT

Illinois Steel Companys Buys No Ore From Norrie Mine This Season.

Will Use Ore Only From Mesaba, Marquette and Menominee Ranges.

Has Closed All Contracts and is Now Out of the Market.

The Illinois Steel company, it is reported, has closed contracts for the season's supply of iron ore, and is now out of the market. Its purchases amount to 1,000,000 tons in addition to 300,000 tons which were not delivered in last year's contracts, making 1,300,000 ton to be delivered this season, which is all that will be required.

There are some strange facts in connection with the contracts made by the Illinois Steel company that will prove puzzling to ore men. All of the supply will come from the Mesaba, Marquette and Menominee ranges, no Gogebic or Vermilion ore being included. Of the 1,000,000 tons purchased last week 600,000 tons will be supplied by the Minnesota Iron company from the Mesaba range, the remaining 400,000 tons coming from the Menominee and Marquette ranges.

The Norrie mine which held out at the meeting of mine owners in Cleveland with the Minnesota Iron company for the ruinously low prices now prevailing, and which was responsible for the dissolution of the old pool, had expected the Illinois Steel company to be one of its best customers, and now since that company is out of the market, and has purchased its entire supply for the season without taking a ton of Norrie ore that mine has put its entire force on half time and is curtailing its output. With its prospective best customer out of the way, with 3,500,000 tons of unsold ore on the Lake Erie docks, and the Carnegie mills getting their entire supply from the Mesaba and the Consolidated properties on the old ranges the market for Norrie ore is indeed very limited.

There is on the ore docks in Duluth over 900 tons of ore from the Hull mine, which was brought down early this spring and it will be shipped to Lake Erie tomorrow. This is the first and only shipment in sight from Consolidated mines on the Mesaba range and no ore is being shipped to the docks.

The owners of the Sellers mine, Shallabarger & Spear, furnace men of Pittsburg, are buying ore cheaper than they can produce it, and for that reason the Sellers is not being operated. They have 51,000 tons of ore on the stock piles at the mine which may be shipped later in the season, as under the terms of the lease they are required to pay a royalty of 25 cents a ton on a minimum output of 50,000 tons.

DISGRACEFUL CONDITION.

Slaughtering Animals on Private Premises Allowed.

The health department has discovered that a number of butchers have been slaughtering animals on their premises without a permit, and a relentless war will be waged by the department to stop the practice. It is found that these private slaughter houses are, in many instances, in filthy stables and outhouses. The meat of the animals killed therein is not only exposed to the exhalations of stable sweepings and offal, but the latter is not properly taken care of, being left to poison the air with the smell arising from its decomposition.

Meat Inspector's Report.

By the report of Meat Inspector Osterhout, of the health department, for April, it is shown that inspections were made as follows: Meat markets, 221; grocery stores, 272; commission houses, 92; cellars, 32. There were condemned by the inspector, 225 pounds of meat, 40 pounds of fish, 20 pounds of butter, and 2795 pounds of fruit and vegetables.

The health department during the month served 230 notices to clean premises, attended to 163 complaints, abated 96 nuisances, inspected 89 stables and 753 cellars, ordered 135 cellars cleaned, placarded 3 houses for infectious diseases, fumigated 7 houses and removed 18 dead animals.

GUARD THE BABY

Many a Little Life Has Been Sacrificed That Might Have Been Saved With Care.

Why The Indian Babies Thrived.

The Indian Woman's Knowledge of Sickness and Her Power to Interpret Disease.

There is probably nothing that gives so much trouble to mothers as far as their children's health is concerned, as their liability to be afflicted with worms. Many and many a time these troublesome pests become so bad that the baby is thrown into convulsions, appears sickly, its little face becomes like wax. Nothing seems to do it any good, its nerves become weakened, and the little one suffers the most intense pain, and all this time the Doctor is trying to find out the cause of the child's illness, and the cause is that the poor little one is being literally eaten up by the worms. Not only do they absorb all that should go to make bone and flesh for the body, but these parasites actually sap up the child's life, often burrowing in and living on the flesh tissue itself.

If your baby is ailing, if he does not grow as he should, and is nervous and peevish, try Kickapoo Indian Worm Killer. It is prompt in its action, safe to take, it never fails, and it requires no physic.

One instance of gratitude for a baby saved by these lozenges comes to us and reads as follows:—

"We have a granddaughter, who was sick from the time she was six months old. We tried three different physicians and none of them seemed to do her any good. At last we gave her Kickapoo Indian Worm Killer. It cured her, and it proved to us that the sickness from which she had been suffering and the whole trouble was due to worms. J. W. Fox. Fiuma, Ia."

We believe that this advice, if taken in time, will save many a child's life, and as Kickapoo Indian Remedies are so well known as being effective and harmless, composed as they are of purely vegetable ingredients, we hope that parents will never fail to keep this Kickapoo Indian Worm Killer constantly on hand. Remember that all Kickapoo Indian Remedies can be had at any druggists.

AT GRAND RAPIDS.

Sudden Death of a Wisconsin Saloonkeeper.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The remains of A. F. Russell, saloonkeeper of Glen Flora, Wis., who died here Friday morning, are to be shipped tomorrow to his native home in Orono, Maine. He claimed that he left Wisconsin to overcome the effects of a cancer and on his way via Leech Lake from Walker to Deer River, Minn., he was attacked with delirium tremens so that it became necessary to tie him to the bottom of the boat.

A string of thirty-two handsome lake trout was caught yesterday afternoon at Trout lake by T. S. Powers, the hardware merchant, and Leroy Wheaton. The fish averaged four pounds apiece and attracted considerable attention from the townspeople on account of their beauty and general excellence.

Tom Rowley, whose examination on the charge of stealing beef had been continued, is held to the grand jury in default of bonds in the sum of $250.

Fine strings of pike and perch were brought in last night from Pokegama Falls. The government dam was a busy place for fishermen during the afternoon.

W. P. Nisbett, of Big Rapids, Mich., was here over Sunday visiting his son, W. P. Nisbett, Jr.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

At Charleston, S. C., the United States practice ship Chase came into port yesterday and the story of her collision with a schooner believed to be the Richard F. C. Hartly, of Boston, was told by Capt. Himlet. About 1:30 a. m. Thursday, May 6, a schooner was sighted bearing down on the Chase, about fifty miles north of this port. No attention was paid to signals and in spite of all efforts by the Chase to avoid it, the vessels came together. The Chase lost her entire head gear, bowsprit, flying jibboom and foretopmast.

At St. Johns, N. F., the overdue steamer Benedick arrived last night, after a fifteen days' voyage from Liverpool. For nearly a week she was in an ice floe and unable to make any progress, though she escaped serious damage.

William Hiiett Phillips, a well-known attorney and prominent club man of Washington, was drowned yesterday while sailing on the Potomac river. He was knocked overboard by the shifting of the boom. The body has not been recovered.

The full rigged ship Frances, of New Bedford, 112 days from San Francisco for New York with a general cargo caught fire in her hold while off the New Jersey coast Saturday afternoon. She was headed for the beach where she struck at 9 o'clock last night, five miles from Beach Haven. Her captain and crew were safely landed by the Little Egg Harbor life saving crew. The ship will probably prove a total loss.

At Prescott, Ariz., Jim Parker, the notorious train robber and two other desperadoes escaped from jail last night, wounding the jailer and district attorney.

At Wilmington, Del., in the Roman Catholic pro cathedral of St. Peter yesterday the Rt. Rev. James J. Monaghan was consecrated bishop of the diocese of Wilmington. His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore officiated.

At Mt. Vernon, Ohio, Rosse hall, at Kenyon college, burned yesterday morning. The loss on the building, which was totally destroyed, was only $10,000, but the hall had a historic interest. It was built fifty years ago with money raised in England by Bishop Mellvaine, Lords Gambier and Kenyon and Lady Rosse contributed most of the money and the hall was named in honor of Lady Rosse.

At Princeton, N. J., Rowley Shepardson, the Princeton student, who was accidentally shot while rowing on Raritan canal Saturday, died from the effects of his wounds yesterday. The remains will be removed to Richmond, Va., where Eugene Shepardson, father of the dead youth resides.

The large malt house of Henry W. Pieket & Co., at Detroit, was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. It is estimated that $50,000 worth of malt was destroyed. The loss on building is $30,000; fully insured. It is not known whether the insurance on the contents will cover the loss.

TALK OF HEALTH.

Dr. Humason Gives His Hearers Some Pointers.

Dr. Humason is evidently taking great interest in the health of his congregation. A week ago he gave some excellent advice on the subject of sanitary precautions, and last night he spoke a good word for physicians in general, and advised their employment. He said he had no desire to interfere with the religious convictions of anybody, but he had no patience with that class of people who relied entirely upon prayer to restore them to health. He did not think that praying would do any harm, but suggested that the Lord be petitioned to give skill and good judgment to the doctor.

The faith cure, the minister said, was a good thing, perhaps, for that class of alleged invalids whose disorders were purely imaginary, but it had never been known to grow a new lung or set a fractured leg. He told an amusing story of a man who had been induced to experiment with the faith healer. He was taken to a room where the faith operator, a woman, was, and seated in a chair, with his back to hers. After sitting in that position for half an hour, the faith physician asked him how he felt. He replied, "I feel like a fool; how do you feel?"

Dr. Humason admitted that he knew of a good many people who, he thought, had been killed by physicians, but he did not think it was intentional. Physicians had made mistakes in the past, and would undoubtedly continue to make them, but as a rule, they were intelligent, conscientious men, and the sick would have better chances of recovery with their aid than without it. He read an extract from a paper in which the announcement was made that vaccination for typhoid had been discovered, and that it would prove as efficacious with this terrible disease as it had with smallpox.

NO ACTION TAKEN.

The Farmers' Road Meeting Was Not Important.

R. S. Munger, president of the Duluth & North Dakota Railroad company, has returned from Drayton, N. D., where he attended a meeting of the board of directors of the company last Wednesday. No business of special importance was transacted, as negotiations that have been pending between President Munger and Eastern capitalists have not yet reached a point that requires the foral action of the directors. However, the indications for a speedy consummation of the financial plans of the company are excellent, and it is believed that important developments will be made in a short time.

Mr. Munger first learned of the proposed air line between Duluth and Winnipeg that is being promoted by Premier Greenway, of Manitoba, on his return to Duluth. He says that he knew that such an enterprise had been considered in the East, but had not been informed concerning the movement for assistance from the provincial government. From his understanding of the railroad situation, however, he is convinced that the scheme has a substantial foundation, and that it is very probable that it will be carried through.

MILWAUKEE TURNERS.

They Get the Apparatus Prizes at St. Louis Turnfest.

In addition to the awards made by the twenty-seventh national turnfest, and given out last night, are the following: For apparatus work alone: First, Robert Herman, Milwaukee; second, George Erlich, Milwaukee; third, George Vervalin, Denver. First group of athletic sports, comprising pole vaulting, climbing, rope and broad jumping, 100 contestants: First, Albert Graeber, Denver Forwards; second, George Vervalin, Denver; third, Henry W. Hess, New York Turnverein.

Now that he festival is over, the turners will be given an opportunity to visit scenes of interest around St. Louis. Today they went to Jefferson barracks, where there were drills by the United States troops given for their entertainment. Tomorrow a trip to Meremac Highlands is contemplated, the time to be spent in dancing, rowing and swimming.

Refused the Divorce.

The McDonough divorce case, before Judge Cant, lasted nearly all day Saturday, and at its conclusion Judge Cant refused to grant the divorce. This is the second time Mrs. McDonough has made an ineffectual plea for a divorce. In denying the divorce, Judge Cant said that there was nothing in the testimony to warrant his granting one, and that if one was not able to support the family, the other should do so. Mrs. McDonough repulsed her husband's proposal for a reconciliation and left the court room.

Demurrers Sustained.

Saturday afternoon in special term of district court demurrers were argued to three suits of the county against the Marine, Security and Bell banks. Judge Ensign hearing the arguments. The demurrer was sustained in the Bell bank case, and the county was allowed twenty days in which to answer. The other two cases were taken under advisement. The suits are to recover the amout of the county's deposits from the bondsmen of the banks.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

BLAME THE STEPMOTHER.

Witnesses Accuse Mrs. Bornemann of Ill Treatment.

The inquest on the body of Nora Bornemann, who was drowned at the foot of Twenty-first avenue east Friday evening, which was begun Saturday afternoon, brought out testimony to the effect that the dead girl had not been well treated at home. The inquest was adjourned Saturday until 1 o'clock this afternoon, when further testimony was to be taken. The witnesses examined were Mrs. Charles Banks, Mrs. Henry Schumann, Lily Schumann and Mr. and Mrs. William Franke.

Mrs. Banks had at one time rented apartments in her house to the Bornemanns. The Schumanns now live in the same house as the Barnemanns and the Frankes live in one half of the double house which is the Bornemanns' abode. Their testimony was all to the effect that Nora, the dead girl, had to get up early and work late at household drudgery and that it seemed to them that she was ill treated. Mrs. Banks had often heard Nora scream and the blows when she was whipped. She had called the attention of the Humane society to the case, but, so far as she knew, nothing was done by the society. It finally became unendurable on account of their treatment of the child to have the family with her and she had requested them to move away.

Mrs. Schumann testified that Nora was overworked, was not allowed to play with other children and was frequently whipped. Lily Schumann testified that Nora had seemed depressed Friday morning and she had told witness that she was broken hearted, that she had been wrongfully accused of stealing a thimble belonging to Mrs. Bornemann and that she had been promised a whipping for it. When Nora left her she bade the witness good bye. Nora had not returned to school in the afternoon.

Mrs. Franke testified that Mrs. Bornemann had told her that Nora had been told to do some work Friday noon before dinner; that Nora had said that she could not, that she was hungry, and on Mrs. Bornemann insisting that the work be done had gone away. Mr. and Mrs. Franke had testified to hearing the child scream frequently as if she were being punished. Mr. Franke said that the girl had been treated in such a way as to make her sad and bitter toward her stepmother. Nora's standing in school, according to Lily Schumann and Mrs. Schumann, was good.

The witnesses all displayed considerable feeling aginst the Bornemanns and especially Mrs. Bornemann.

At the inquest this afternoon, the testimony was much the same as that given Saturday. Miss Belle Elder, who had lived in the house with the Bournemann's, had seen Nora scrub the entry stairs with cold water in the winter. Mrs. Bournemann's own children had been allowed to impose on Nora. The witness had seen the father strike her with a rawhide, and the mother with a scrub brush. Had heard her scream on another occasion. Nora was so poorly dressed that she would not go home from school with the other children. Miss Avery, Norah's teacher, testified that she was a bright girl in school. Oscar Fleer testified that he found Nora sitting on the steps one cold night waiting for her father, and took her in.

William Schumann said he had seen her carrying wood and ashes. Had heard her scream once.

FINE LIST OF ARTISTS.

Singers at the May Musical Festival.

A glance at the list of artists engaged for the May musical festival at Minneapolis next Monday and Tuesday, will reveal the gratifying fact hat an overwhelming majority of them are Americans by birth and education. Lillian Blauvelt, the soprano; Katherine Bloodgood, contralto; J. H. McKinley, tenor; Rose Stewart, soprano; Jennie May Spencer, contralto; Minnie Little, pianist, and Emil Mollenhauer, conductor—all of them are Americans; while Barron Berthald, the tenor, has lived in this country since he was a child. This is a feature which ought not to be overlooked in these days when the cry for American art and American artists has been raised with such strength and also, it must be admitted, with so much appearance of justness.

The names of the artists that are to assist—and it must be remembered that the list furthermore includes the names of Emma Calve, soprano; Guiseppe Campanari, baritone; Heinrich Meyn, basso, and Charles Moernhout, violinist—are enough to prove the high quality of the event. But corroborating proofs may be gathered from the renown of the Boston Festival orchestra, one of the finest in the world, and the arrangements that have been made to secure a truly magnificent chorus. The chorus will include 400 picked voices, of which about 200 come from Minneapolis, 120 from St. Paul and about seventy from Duluth.

Smalley Concert Company.

Next Friday evening the Smalley Grand Concert company, having the finest ladies' quartet in the world, will appear at the First Methodist church. An exchange says:

"Miss Gertrude Sprague, second contralto, has a remarable voice for a woman, so swet and yet so low. While the clear tones of her voice were appreciated in the quartet, it was not until as a solo she sang 'Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep,' that its true sympathetic quality was noted. As an encore she sang 'I'm a Pilgrim,' the chorus coming from behind the scenes, which was one of the most effective numbers of the program. Miss Perrine, the first soprano, has a voice which is the complement of Miss Sprague's, and while reaching the high notes, it is sweet, mellow and clear. Inded each lady of the four seems in her own individual part complete, and in their work together the individual power is blended into one harmonious whole."

For packing and moving household goods go to Duluth Van Co., who are headquarters for that business, at reasonable prices. 212 W. Superior st.

MR. PATTON'S REPORT.

Some Interesting Figures as to Improvements.

The annual report of City Engineer Patton will show that the expenditures on work carried on under the supervision of the department during the past year amounted to $144,483.10, an increase of 2% per cent over those of last year. This excess is accounted for almost entirely by waterworks construction. The cost of running the department for the year was $13,679.81, a decrease of 2 per cent from the figures for the year previous. For street improvements, including bridge work, the contracts for the year amount to $23,637.08. Of these two are not completed, that for the Duluth-Superior bridge approach and paving Pine and Arthur avenues. On contracts carried over from the previous years, $8322.95 was expended. On sanitary sewers, there was expended $576 for work begun during the year, and $1214.85 on contracts carried over from the year previous. For construction and improvement of sidewalks, $7228.77 was spent. There were no expenditures on storm sewers.

The figures on waterworks construction given in the report, have been published before.

A Crazy Finlander.

Thomas Culma, a Finlander, living about 20 miles west of Moose Lake in Aitkin county, was brought to Carlton Wednesday by Marshal McGilvery, says the Carlton Vidette. About two years ago a brother of Culma was murdered on his homestead where Thomas has since been making his home, and ever since the murder Thomas has shown signs of insanity, and at times grew violently insane, and the entire neighborhood in which he lived had become terror stricken by Culma's repeated threats that he intended to kill several of his neighbors. Signs of his insanity have been more noticeable of late, and a few days ago he dug up the remains of his brother, which had been buried on the homestead, burned the coffin and placed the remains, or skeleton, in a pool of water near by. The murdered man was relieved of $2000 and it is thought by some that Thomas was a party to the crime and that this is the principal cause of his insanity. Sheriff Mauston, of Aitkin county took Culma to Aitkin in the afternoon.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.

A Pleasant, Simple, but Safe and Effectual Cure for It.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs, and difficult breathing; headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue, and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlandson, the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet composed of diastase, aseptic pepsin, a little nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and not being a patent medicine can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. N. J. Booher, of 2740 Dearborn street, Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition, resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passes backward into the throat, reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of the stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of the stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

Send for little book, mailed free, on stomach troubles, by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores.

Artist Connor Removing.

The well known artist, Herbert Connor, who has been living in Duluth for two years past, has been in Minneapolis for two weeks past, and has been so much encouraged by the prospects there that he has decided to remove to that city within about two weeks. The Minneapolis Tribune, noticing Mr. Connor's proposed removal, says: "Mr. Connor is well known in the Twin Cities, having held the position of artist on the Tribune and St. Paul Globe, which paper he left to go to Duluth. Mr. Connor has completed a portrait for Max Stern, of this city, of his father, Louis Stern, now deceased. This portrait was made from a photograph. He also finished a heroic portrait of Meade Dotweiler, grand exalted ruler of the B. P. O. E., for the St. Paul lodge, No. 59, of which Mr. Conner is a member. This portrait is 28 by 46 inches in size, and has met with approval from all sides. Mr. Connor has received numerous other commissions in the Twin Cities."

Dr. C. W. McFadden, dentist, has removed from Miller building, to rooms 208 and 209 Lonsdale building.

Supremacy in Stylish Clothing

Is what we have for years striven to attain. To be first in everything that is essential about ready-to-put-on clothes, first in quality, first in styles, first in workmanship, trimmings, and FIRST IN LOW PRICES—is our platform, our never varying principle, the lever that has lifted this business away above all the other clothing stores in Duluth. People really have to—and ought to—see other stocks—to fully appreciate what a grand clothing store this is, with its three magnificent floors, covering an immense space, filled to the brim with an array of

At this Store

Prices are flattened out on the anvil of Reduction in a way that will startle the keen buyers and good judges into the greatest activity.

Correct Attire For Men and Boys....

So superior to any and all the others in town, that even a comparison seems all out of question. All the "representative" lines of fine ready-to-wear Clothes have their home at "The Great Eastern." The newest styles, the newest patterns, are shown here first—and then copied by others. Every garment without regard to price is absolutely warranted to be made on honor and to give excellent wear, and above all

Our Prices are invariably The Lowest

After we had selected our regular Spring and Summer stocks, the most perfect and extensive we have ever shown in our existence, strong in every department, not a weak point shown in the great buying organization of this Great Clothing Store.

Yes, it was after all these stocks were in that we joined Mr. Griesheimer in the purchase of the

STOCK

Because we had unbounded confidence in Duluth, because we had the necessary cash to handle the deal, and we well knew that the advantage we could offer our patrons in underselling all other stores, and the low prices we could make on them on this reliable stock, would build us up such a tremendous trade, and further aid us in maintaining that clothing supremacy which is so rightfully ours. How successful our efforts have been in this enterprise is fully attested to by the tremendous crowd we handled since this sale began.

We propose to make this week's business the biggest yet.

IN DOUBT

Reconsideration of D. A. Reed's Turning Down Will Be Asked Tonight.

His Friends Claim it Will Be Secured But Others Deny It.

Board Wants to Employ Several Hundred Men on the Trenches.

It is quite possible that at the meeting of the council this evening reconsideration of the vote on the confirmation of D. A. Reed as city engineer will be moved. Mr. Reed's friends confidently asserted this morning that a promise to make such a motion had been obtained from one of the aldermen who voted against the confirmation last Monday. Some of Mr. Reed's opponents scout the idea that there have been any defections from their ranks, but others and the larger number, do not seem to think such a thing impossible. It is generally claimed, however, by those opposed to Mr. Reed that some of those who supported him at the last meeting have been won away from him, and that he will not make as good a showing tonight as last Monday.

Mr. Smith, of the board of public works, this morning announced his determination to appear before the council and ask that the board be empowered to employ 400 or 500 men on the waterworks trenches until such time as the contracts are let.

There seems to be some difference of opinion among the members of the board as to exactly how long a time the resolution under which day labor has been employed for the past three weeks is intended to cover. It is contended on one hand that the resolution empowers the board to keep the men at work until the contracts are let, and on the other hand, that the time for which such authority was granted, expired Saturday night. In order to make the matter sure, Mr. Smith will ask further action by the council this evening.

The board will report on the cost of the work on the trenches by day labor from April 15 to April 30, with a recommendation that the employment of day labor be continued.

The city attorney will advise that the St. Paul & Duluth Railroad company be directed to open the unused streets in Oneota, which the company has fenced up. If the company will not do so, on request, measures to compel it to do so are recommended. The opinion, in substance, holds that the village was there first and the company must respect its rights. The opening of the streets will, it is advised, cut off any possibility of the company obtaining title by adverse possession.

What the city attorney's opinion in the matter of the salaries of Chief Black Electrician Powers and Secretary Truelsen for April will be, he refused this morning to state, for the season that he preferred that certain explanations he was preparing, might be submitted with the opinion in order that the grounds for his conclusions might be fully understood. It is conjectured about the city hall that the opinion will hold that the fire commissioners may properly change the salaries paid at the time a new fire commissioner takes his place on the board.

The ordinances now in committee, regulating the speed of boats in the canal and harbor, and authorizing tracks to the Duluth-Superior bridge approach, will probably be reported upon.

The appointments to the library board will come up for confirmation and the committee report on the award of the city printing may be received.

SAVED THE TRUCK.

Electric Wires Prevented Damage to the Aerial Wagon.

During a drill with the aerial truck from No. 1 fire hall, on Michigan street, this morning, the truck was over-balanced and was only saved from capsizing by the electric light wires. As it was, the only damage was to the brace cables of the ladder, which were melted by the current from the wires. The main ladder had been raised, and the fly ladder was being sent up when the accident occurred. The mishap is supposed to be due to the fact that the machine was not standing level.

Endion Tennis Club.

The annual meeting of the Endion Tennis club was held on Saturday afternoon at the office of C. M. Johanson, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Directors, F. W. Paine, C. M. Johanson, H. W. Reichert, Ward Ames, Jr., and A. W. Taussig; secretary and treasurer, D. W. Stocking; house committee, F. W. Paine and C. M. Johanson. The club's courts on East Superior street have been put in shape, and as soon as the weather will permit, playing will commence. There will be about twenty-five active members, and from present indications this year will be a successful one in tennis circles. At the meeting eight names were submitted for membership.

Rather Narrow Margin.

Passengers on the incoming St. Paul & Duluth night express, due here at 6:30 this morning, had a scare as the train was approaching the Superior depot, a collision with a freight on the Northern Pacific road seeming unavoidably for a moment. According to the story of the passengers, the express was approaching Tower avenue at the time, when the passengers in the forward coaches noticed a long freight train bearing down toward the crossing on the Northern Pacific tracks, rapidly approaching the express. By reversing at full speed, the engineer of the freight managed to bring his train to a stop, with the pilot within a yard of the day coach next the sleeper of the express.

Mayor Truelsen Decides That the "Couchi-Couchi" Dance Must Go.

Says it Was Reported to Him to Be Strictly All Right.

Some Complaints Made Have Moved Him to Have it Discontinued.

There will be no more "Couchi-couchi," says the mayor, and the wriggle and contortions of the Egyptian dances will delight Duluth bloods no more. The mayor, who had his eye teeth cut in the Midway Plaisance of the World's fair, was a little suspicious, he says, when he was told the name of the dance that it was proposed to give at Mr. Esh's place, and he selected, for reasons best known to himself, Lieut. McLean as just the man to size the thing about right.

The lieutenant lost no time in visiting the show without instructions. From what the mayor says, it is inferred that the lieutenant made an exhaustive report on the subject. At least it is inferred from what the mayor says that the lieutenant made a report that indicated that he had performed his duty with commendable zeal. The lieutenant, according to the mayor, reported that the "Couchi-couchi" was strictly all right.

The mayor says that the lieutenant reported that he also consulted several prominent business men whom he found looking in the show when he arrived, as to their opinion of it, and was assured by them all that there was nothing the matter with it.

The mayor said that he later received a letter from Dr. Humason of the First Methodist church, enclosing one sent to the latter, calling attention to the exhibitions as being highly prejudicial to the morals of the community. In view of this protest, which comes from responsible members of the community and of other matters which have reached his ears, the mayor has determined, he says, that to avoid offence in future, the singing and performing of women in saloons will not be allowed.

The proprietor of the place in which the Egyptian dance was given already had, he informed the mayor, two women singers under contract for this week, and they will be permitted to perform on the understanding that if the performance is in any way objectionable it will be stopped forthwith.

Health Board Wants One Scavenger in a District.

The board of health at a meeting this morning decided to license but one scavenger in a district. It is thought that better service will be secured by centralizing the responsibility. The district east of the Point of Rocks will be divided. The board decided to make a test of formaldehyde, a new disinfecting gas, the product of wood alcohol and platinum in contact. Experiments in New York and elsewhere have demonstrated that it is a cheap and effective agent. The new gas will be brought to the attention of the medical societies of the county by the board.

Greece Agrees to the Conditions of Mediation of the Powers.

Active Measures Taken to Stop the Advance of Turkish Troops.

Negotiations at Athens Are Regarded as Being Quite Conclusive.

Athens, May 11.—A collective note from the powers on the subject of mediation has been presented to the Greek minister for foreign affairs, M. Skoulaudis, by the Russian minister here, M. Onou. It is said that the Greek government has accepted the conditions imposed, and has confided its interests to the care of the powers.

Active measures, it is further stated, were taken at Constantinople today to stop further advance of the Turkish troops under the command of Edhem Pasha.

The collective note of the powers is to the following effect: Upon a formal declaration by Greece that she will recall her troops and agree to such an autonomous regime for Crete as the powers in their wisdom shall deem best, and accept unreservedly the counsels of the powers, they will intervene in the interests of the people. It was understood that Greece, in her reply, would assent to all of these conditions.

The diplomatic pour parlers which have been proceeding all the morning have been brought to a definite conclusion. Greece has formally adhered to the preliminaries of peace as agreed upon between the powers and the heads of the different legations have received positive assurances investing them with authority to treat with Turkey. The negotiations at Athens are regarded as concluded.

MEDALS FOR THE TURKS.

Constantinople, May 11.—A dispatch received here today from Larissa says that the imperial army is marching in two columns from Pharsala on Domokos and Almyro.

An Imperial trade just issued orders gold and silver medals to be struck for presentation to the troops taking part in the war against Greece.

TOURGEE'S JOB.

Consul at Bordeaux, France---Other Appointments.

Washington, May 11.—The president today sent the following nominations to the senate: To be consuls of the United States—Albion W. Tourgee, of New York, at Bordeaux, France; Sidney E. Everett, of Massachusetts, at Batavia, Java.

Interior—Henry P. Cheatham, of North Carolina, to be recorder of deeds, District of Columbia; Ephraim H. Smock, of Wyoming, to be receiver of public moneys at Buffalo, Wyoming.

Postmasters—Miss Mary Redfield Newlands, at West Point, N. Y.

DENMARK'S CABINET.

A Crisis Which Will Result In New Officials.

Copenhagen, May 11.—The long expected ministerial crisis has occurred. The premier and minister for foreign affairs, Baron Thott, tendered the resignation of the cabinet this morning, and the king summoned ex-Premier Estrup to form a new cabinet.

In addition to President Wier Reed, Thott, the outgoing cabinet is composed of the following members: Herr Rump, minister of justice for Iceland; Col. Schanack, minister of war; Vice Admiral Ravn, minister of marine; Herr Luttichau, minister of finance; Herr d'Aarhus Bardenfleth, minister of public worship and public instruction; Herr Herrang, minister of the interior; Herr Von Sdsted, minister of agriculture.

COWLES' MARITAL MISFIT.

New York, May 11.—The Herald today says: Eugene Cowles, the basso of the Bostonians, is the defendant in a suit for limited divorce brought by his wife, Mrs. Cowles, through her counsel, Col. George Bliss, instituted proceedings for divorce some weeks ago. The matter was kept quiet, and instead of an open court hearing, Augustus C. Brown was appointed referee to take testimony and report to the court whether in his judgment a decree of divorce should issue or not. Private hearings at Mr. Brown's office are now being held. Friends of the couple say that incompatability is the cause of the separation.

WILL HANG IN AUGUST.

St. Paul, May 11.—Governor Clough has fixed upon Friday, Aug. 20, as the date for the execution of Lewis Kelliher, the Sherburne bank robber and murderer. The reason for deferring the execution so long is that the trial judge sentenced Kelliher to four months' solitary confinement in the Martin county jail before he should be hung, and this sentence was passed April 12.

DULUTH INVENTORS.

Washington, May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Patents were issued to residents of Duluth today as follows: Alexander M. Hay, apparatus for utilizing heat of furnace products, also combined gas producing and air heating apparatus; Alexander McDougall, construction of roofs, floors and pavements.

BALDWIN RETURNING.

Satisfied Secretary Bliss Understands the Situation.

Washington, May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—After constitution with Chippewa Commissioner Baldwin, Senator Nelson today introduced and secured the adoption of a resolution calling on the secretary of interior for Inspector Wright's report of his Chippewa pine investigation. The truth of Maj. Baldwin's charges against the last corps of examiners will now be known.

Maj. Baldwin returned to Minnesota today. He says he is now satisfied that Secretary Bliss understands the situation, and that she will see the Indians are well treated. He informed the secretary that there was sufficient money on hand to engage a new corps and complete the examination of the Chippewa pine. Congressman Morris will attend to this matter here.

HEAVY DAMAGES.

Street Railway Must Pay For Fonda's Legs.

St. Paul, May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The conclusion of a remarkable suit for damages was reached today, and a verdict was given for James M. Fonda against the Twin City Rapid Transit company for $17,640.20. Nearly two years ago Fonda lost both legs by being run down by a street car near Seven Corners in this city.

He brought suit for $25,000, and when the case first came on for trial a few months ago the attorneys for the plaintiff, after their case was practically all submitted, moved to dismiss the case without prejudice. This was done and many sensational rumors regarding the reason for this action have been since current. The case came on for trial a few days ago and this big verdict against the street railway company resulted today.

THE DISTRICT COURT.

Barton Injury Case Continued Until Tomorrow.

All three divisions of district court this morning were occupied with personal injury cases, although in one room the trial was delayed for a day because of the absence of one of the attorneys. The Barton case, which was taken up yesterday morning, was continued until tomorrow morning after a jury had been drawn, to await the return of John Williams, one of the attorney's associated in the defense. Judge Moer's room was therefore un occupied this morning.

In Judge Cant's room a jury was drawn to try the case of Nels Hall, as administrator of the estate of Ole Hagen, deceased, against the Duluth Street Railway company, to recover $5000 for the death of the deceased, who was the 2-year-old son of Chester Hagen, of the West End. He was killed by a street car last summer, and his parents want the company made to pay $5000. J. W. Reynolds appeared for the plaintiff and Thomas S. Wood and R. D. Sillimon for the defendant.

In Judge Ensign's room a jury was being drawn to try the case of Flybert McVicar against the Duluth Ice company, another personal injury case. The plaintiff was employed by the ice company about a year ago storing ice in its place in the East End. He claims that he had occasion to pass from one ice house to another along a bridge, which he alleges to have been unsafely constructed. It gave away with him and precipitated him to a platform beneath, breaking his leg and otherwise injuring him. He sues for $15,000 damages. His attorney is M. H. Crocker, and the defendant is represented by Theodore Hollister.

Yesterday afternoon C. P. Robbins and Victor Johnson, charged with grand larceny in the second degree, pleaded not guilty. The Davis cases were all continued over the term. The grand jury was still in session this morning, but no new indictments were returned.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Considerable Strength Shown at the Opening.

New York, May 11.—Considerable strength was manifested at the opening of business, the gains being most pronounced in the railway shares and particularly so in the Internationals in response to better prices in London. Business was in large volume and the improvement averaged about half a point in the standard shares.

A more cheerful feeling pervaded the stock trading about 11 o'clock, and more general buying was evident for the long account. The grangers were the features, and were well sustained by the rapid progress made in seeding in the Northwest, the prevalence of good weather and the improvement in prices in the grain market. The industrials lagged, and did not participate in the rise to any particular extent except for Chicago gas, which made a marked gain. The strong tendency towards improvement had extended throughout the list, when the announcement of shipments of gold to Europe by Thursday's steamer checked the advance, and a general reactionary tendency succeeded. Up to that time Manhattan had been conspicuous for a rise of 1¾. Norfolk and Western gained 2 points on small dealings. Tennessee Coal, Western Union and Sugar had also gained a point. The railways were in brisk demand, and prices advanced easy. The reaction extended to ⅝ in Manhattan. The bond market was without special feature, but held firm, and the trading was in moderate volume. Sales to noon, 93,400.

WEAR MAKES RUGS VALUABLE.

The most costly rugs in the world come from Persia. The beautiful softness and peculiar sheen of these rugs are due to the constant treading of bare feet. The rugs are made of goat's hair and wool combined. All Oriental rugs are hand made and each piece of wool inserted is tied twice. Years of labor are involved in making some of the largest of these floor coverings, but they never wear out. When a rug is made it has to be subjected to years of foot-wear before it becomes at all valuable. Many the Persian rugs now in use have been walked on more than 100 years and are still as new as ever.

DECEIVED

Cecil Rhodes Hoodwinked the British South African Chartered Company.

Officials Deny Knowledge of Intended Interference in Transvaal Affairs.

British Parliamentary Inquiry Into the Raid is Being Pushed.

London, May 11.—The parliamentary committee appointed to inquire into the Transvaal raid today continued the examination of the duke of Abercorn, chairman of the Chartered Company of British South Africa. In refuting the suggestion of Henry Labouchere, one of the members of the committee, that the raid was engineered for stock jobbing purposes, witness said he had neither bought nor sold a single share of the company's stock during the last six months of 1895.

The next witness was the duke of Fife, son-in-law of the prince of Wales. The duke said he had no knowledge whatever that the raid was to occur, nor had he any suspicion that the Chartered company's troops might be used in any way in connection with the troubles at Johannesburg or elsewhere in the Transvaal. The witness admitted that he had sold 1000 shares of the company's stock during the autumn of 1895. The price was then about £6, but he failed to see what that had to do with the raid.

"I state here on oath," he added, "that I knew nothing of the rair nor had the faintest suspicion that any interference in the affairs of the Transvaal was contemplated by anybody connected with the Chartered company. Mr. Rhodes did not disclose his connection with the revolutionary affairs at Johannesburg. I have great regard for Mr. Rhodes, but if pressed, I am perfectly prepared to say that Mr. Rhodes deceived me. I am sorry to have to say so, but I have no doubt Mr. Rhodes will himself admit it." When asked if his sale of stock had anything to do with the disturbances in the Transvaal, he said: "Certainly not. I repudiate the idea with indignation."

Lord Clifford explained that the enrollment of Rhodes' horse and the importation of arms was not connected with the Transvaal. "I had no suspicion that Mr. Rhodes was financing a revolution until after the raid," said he.

Sir Horace Bart, a director of the British South Africa company and member of parliament for West Marylebone, testified that he sold 500 shares of the company's stock late in 1895, but said the raid could not be connected with the market, because the directors were absolutely ignorant of it.

Mr. Cawston, another director, admitted having sold 3000 shares of the company's stock at the end of 1895, but asserted that this was an ordinary commercial transaction.

GOVERNMENT WORK.

Dredging at Ashland Begun Today---Other Contracts.

Capt. C. S. Barker, of Superior, began work today on his dredging contract at Ashland. This is a $15,000 piece of work. Capt. Barker is also working at Portage lake on a job of about $35,000, which he has left from last year. This makes $50,000 worth of work that he now has on hand, and this in the past has been about as much as he could depend on from the government. But in addition to this he has a contract on hand for more than $800,000 worth of working, $200,000 worth of which he is likely to be called upon to do this year. Capt. Barker has been making his plans for this, however, and is not likely to get caught. He has greatly increased the size of his dredging plant, and is prepared to do the work.

Williams, Green & Williams are also prepared to begin work at any time. The sundry civil bill is almost certain to be passed within a few days, and work will then be begun in short order.

At other points along the lake in Maj. Sear's district work is in progress. At Marquette work on the concrete breakwater is again under way, and the breakwater at Presque Isle Point is being built. At Grand Marais, Mich., the pile dyke work has been begun. The government is completing this work itself, three contractors having failed while on the job. A. & D. Sang have just commenced building the 200 feet pier extension there, for which they have the contract.

QUEEN'S DRAWING ROOM.

London, May 11.—The queen's drawing room at Buckingham palace today was a most imposing function. Half a dozen duchesses were present, in addition to hosts of other distinguished people. There was a large attendance of ministers and members of the diplomatic corps. Lady Naylor-Leiland, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Chamberlain, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Lady William Beresford, formerly Mrs. Louis Hammersley, of New York and the duchess of Marlborough, were among the Americans enjoying the entree.

A GERMAN ADMIRAL.

San Francisco, May 11.—Rear Admiral Tirpits, the newly appointed secretary of the German navy, arrived from the Orient on the steamship China yesterday, en route to Berlin to enter upon the duties of his office.

A GOLD SHIPMENT.

Boston, May 11.—Kidder, Peabody & Co. will ship $700,000 in gold from New York by the steamer Columbia on Thursday.

FIGURES FOR THE YEAR.

Statistics as to City Expenditures, Assessments, Etc.

From the annual report of the board of public works, which is now being prepared, the following figures are taken: Total cost of maintenance of streets and sewers, $56,224.37. In addition to the expenditures for maintenance proper, there are the following items: Cost of canal ferry, including repairs, $3651.32; timber crib on Michigan street, between Seventh and Fifteenth avenues west, $2611.01; repairing public dock at Garfield avenue, $846.13; cleaning slabs from face of public dock, $120; Lakewood telephone, $500; repairs on London road, $1442.02; cost of street lighting in Duluth, Lakewood and West Duluth, $5,415.90; New Duluth and Fond du Lac, $808.20; Park Point, $300; total, $64,524.10.

Expenditures on city buildings were as follows: Constructing Armory and market house, not including concrete floor, $27,038.60; constructing pump house foundation, $6021.33; miscellaneous repairs, $84.50.

Assessments levied were: Park—To reimburse the city for the purchase price of Garfield park, $10,184.45; for planting trees on Superior street, from Eighth avenue east to Twenty-second avenue east, $845.

Other assessments—Grading, paving, etc., $11,181.54; sanitary sewers, $2295.61; sidewalks, $2656.34; street sprinkling, $3750.65; miscellaneous, $11,060.15; total, $31,287.29. In addition, there have been final assessments for improvements by the former village of Lakeside confirmed, amounting to $12,705.50.

On the waterworks there have been let during the year eight contracts, amounting to $569,728.17, not including that for the intake pipe, which was let last year. The cost of the day work on the waterworks has been previously given.

WHO WILL IT BE?

Considerable Speculation as to D. A. Reed's Successor.

D. A. Reed, the newly elected city engineer, will qualify and assume the duties of his office within a few days. Speculation is already rife as to who will succeed him on the board. There have been mentioned for the vacancy Daniel Blanchard, F. L. Young and John Flood. The mayor says that he has not yet determined whom he will appoint.

As to what changes, if any, will be made in the force of the engineering department, Mr. Reed said today he had given no thought.

It is understood that the board of public works is considering the matter of organizing at once with two members, with W. H. Smith as president. Legal advice as to the regularity of such a proceeding was asked for today by the board.

WAS EASY WITH HIM.

Judge Edson Was Lenient With Markinson.

John Markinson, a West Duluth cattle dealer, was before Judge Edson this morning charged with offering for sale the carcass of a calf less than five weeks old. Markinson pleaded guilty and stated circumstances which, he thought, should extenuate his offense. In the first place, he said, he had not sold the carcass but traded it. Further, although he is a cattle dealer, as he said, he did not know how old the calf was. Judge Edson, on the strength of his story and in view, further, of the fact that Markinson is not a butcher, let him off with a fine of $1 and costs.

John Milligan pleaded guilty of being drunk and was fined $1 and costs. He will go on the hill for ten days. William Smith, for begging on the street, and James McCarty, for vagrancy, were also fined $10 and costs each and will sojourn on the hill for ten days also.

William Farmer, who carried a good-sized farm of rich soil on his person, was allowed to go on the promise to leave town.

UNION LABEL LEAGUE.

Claims Policemen and Firemen Wear Non-Union Clothes.

The Union Label league held an interesting meeting last night in the Kalamazoo block. President J. D. Hayes, on the ground of his projected absence for a long period, tendered his resignation, and a successor will be chosen at the next meeting. Vice President Thomas Savard presided in his absence. The delegation from the Tailors' union protested that the police and fire department, with but few exceptions, patronize non-union shops for their uniforms, and the delegation wanted to know if something could not be done. Chief Black and the assistant fire chief and Chief of Police Hansen and Lieut. McLean were in the habit of buying union goods, but the other members of both departments were not.

It was moved and carried that the secretary correspond with the Police Department Relief association in the premises, in the belief that the situation would be remedied if the matter was brought to the attention of those in power. The fire department was referred to the executive committee of the Trades assembly, and it will come up at the next meeting of the assembly. In the discussion the late fight of the assembly for "offs" for the fire department was brought up, and the firemen were accused of ingratitude.

EMPEROR WILLIAM LIBERAL.

Paris, May 11.—Emperor William, of Germany, has instructed the German ambassador here, Count Von Munster-Ledenburg, to remit the sum of 10,000 francs, $2000, to the committee of the charity bazar whose work was crippled by the terrible fire of a week ago. It is said that this sum, in addition to the 937,500 francs, $187,600, previously received by the committee from an anonymous source, will enable the work of charity to be carried on as usual.

TREASURY CONDITION.

Washington, May 11.—Today's statement of the condition of the treasury shows: Available cash balance, $229,008,743; gold reserve, $147,556,867.

OPENED

May Term of the Circuit and District Courts in Session.

Nearly All Cases on the Calendar Continued Because of No Jurors.

Admiralty Cases Will Be Taken Up Tomorrow---Criminal Case Annulled.

The May term of the United States circuit and district courts opened today at the federal building with Judge Lochren presiding. H. D. Lang, the new clerk of the United States circuit court, who succeeded Mr. Hills, was at the clerk's desk today for the first time in Duluth. In the district court Deputy Clerk Charles L. Spencer is here. Other court officials in attendance are: United States District Attorney E. C. Stringer and his assistants, J. M. Dickey and G. R. O'Reilly; Deputy United States Marshals J. M. Redding, G. E. Henry, T. J. Sheehan and E. L. Warren, and Court Crier James Conway.

All of the cases on the circuit court calendar wer continued, because no jury trials will be held, there being no fund for petit jurors. The case of Simeon Chapman vs. Wright & Davis was placed on the calendar and continued. It is extremely doubtful whether an adjourned term will be held, even should the appropriation bills pass congress.

A number of motions were being heard this afternoon. This evening the demurrer in the case of Duluth Water and Light company vs. City of Duluth will be argued. This morning the plaintiff in the two cases of T. B. Walker vs. B. B. Richards et al. and T. B. Walker et al. vs. B. B. Richards et al. put in proofs. The case has been settled by a decision of the United States supreme court in the case of Webster vs. Luther. It involves soldier's additional scrip entries of land.

Martin W. Watrous was admitted to practice in the United States circuit court and C. C. McCarthy in the United States circuit and district courts.

In the United States district court the grand jury was charged and retired. The case against Lincoln H. Kempton, charged with assaulting a customs officer at Knockching, was annulled.

Tomorrow the hearings in the Inman tug admiralty cases will be held. There are two questions only to be determined, whether the masters are seamen and are entitled to have preferred claims, and whether the claims of 1895 will be allowed.

THE PRESCOTT CONTRACT.

Inspector T. W. Hugo Reports to the Council.

Inspector T. W. Hugo in his report to the council last evening states that in his opinion, the pumping engines can be completed for the contract price, provided that no more payments are made on proportional account. These proportional payments are payments made on account of material and labor for the general work of the shop outside of the work on the engines direct. As stated by Mr. Hugo, it was arranged that they be made in order to enable the Prescott company to meet its current expenses, and they are, in effect, an advancement to the company of anticipated profits. They are based on the proposition that totals of the bills for material and pay rolls for labor on the engines direct bear to the totals of the bills for material and pay rolls for labor on the other work. These proportions have run from 52 to 89 per cent.

It will, the report states, take $23,390 for material to complete the work. Of this, $5068.71 have been provided for in estimates, leaving $18,282.29 unprovided for. Adding to this last named sum, the sum of $53,942.84, the total of the estimates allowed, gives a total of $82,226.13. This, deducted from the contract price, $82,500, leaves the balance of $10,173.87 available for labor.

In order to complete the work, however, the report states that the Prescott company must as soon as possible, get rid of the non-productive elements, such as rent, fuel and other supplies, and pay of foremen, clerks, pattern makers, etc., who do not directly make money for the company, and that it must have the use of the overhead crane at Lakewood. It is recommended that work at Lakewood be pushed therefore, so that no delay will be suffered by the company.

MARINE NOTES.

Barry Bros. have purchased the tug V. H. Raber, of Manitowoc, for use in their Duluth tug line, and she will be her about the same time as the new tugs. She is an A1 tug, and is practically new. The two new tugs, which have been christened the Prodigy and Industry, are to leave the yards this week, and they will be in Duluth soon. They are strong, clean cut tugs with compound engines, and are the same size as the G. A. Tomlinson.

An order was made today for the sale of the hull of the steamer Belle P. Cross, one of the Inman boats.

The freight market was a bit stiff today, though not yet much to talk about. The liners are doing practically all the business, and are picking up a little stuff on a basis of 1½ cents wheat. A shipper was offering 1¼ cents for wheat, but he got no tonnage.

The local weather station has sent for a set of flags and lights to be displayed at the Singer tug office for the convenience of boats in the harbor. The display of signals in this place will be handier for the boats, and will be appreciated.

BROOKE

His Presence in Washington Occasions Talk in Army Circles.

Belief That He is to Assume Temporary Command of the Army.

Also Thought He Will Be Appointed as Major General.

Washington, May 11.—Gen. Brooke, commander of the department of Missouri, is in Washington. He is stopping at the home of Senator Quay. When seen in regard to the report that he is to assume command of the army during the absence of May. Gen. Miles in Europe, Gen. Ruggles, the adjutant general of the army said that no such order had been issued by the war department. When asked, however, if such an order was in contemplation, he said it was a matter which he preferred not to discuss for publication.

The army at present is without a commander. Gen. Miles is on the ocean and does not expect to return to this country for several months. Secretary Alger is nominally in command, though orders are being issued by the adjutant general. When Gen. Miles received permission to go abroad it was believed that the army would get along during his absence without a commander, though the secretary of war expected to transfer Gen. Merritt to Washington in case the services of a commanding officer were needed.

About the time Gen. Miles decided to go abroad Gen. Merritt, the commander of the department of the East, asked for leave of absence, with permission to go beyond the sea. This was granted. It is believed by army officers that Gen. Brooke has come here on a matter of much greater importance to himself than the temporary command of the army. Gen. Wheaton retired Saturday and the president now has under consideration the appointment of a major general. Gen. Brooke is justly entitled to this honor. He was the senior officer a month ago, when Gen. Ruger retired, and was then entitled to promotion. Brig. Gen. Wheaton was to retire so soon, however, that it was decided to promote him so that he might retire with the highest rank.

It was tacitly understood then that Gen. Brooke should have his promotion when Gen. Wheaton retired. Gen. Forsyth, however, who commands the department of California, and Gen. Bliss, who commands the department of Texas, have now both applied for the vacant major generalship on the ground that they will retire before Gen. Brooke, and that they should be permitted to enjoy the honor of highest rank for the same reason that it was a month ago given to Gen. Wheaton.

While Gen. Brooke's friends say that it was well enough to adopt this plan in the case of Gen. Wheaton, who had only a month to serve, it would not be fair to apply it to Gen. Forsyth or Gen. Bliss, whose length of service runs until 1898 and 1896.

ABOUT OPIUM.

Low Duty Will Prevent Profitable Smuggling.

Washington, May 11.—Assistant Bowell of the treasury department says that there would be no doubt that the tariff bill as reported to the senate could yield sufficient revenue for the needs of the government. "While the total revenue which it is estimated certain schedules," he said, "will yield is less than the amount estimated under the same schedules in the house bill, we will have, as an offset, $10,000,000 from the duty on tea and $15,000,000 from the increased tax on beer.

"I have some doubt whether the increased rate of duty on prepared opium will result in increasing the revenue. When the duty on opium was $12 a pound in 1883 the quantity imported on which duty was paid was 66,673.8 pounds, valued at $417,658, and the duty amounted to $800,-145, while in 1895, when the duty was $6 a pound, we imported 123,663.6 pounds, valued at $965,515.43, and the amount of duty collected, $741,261.76. The great difference in the quantity reported for 1893 and 1896 is explained by the fact that, while the higher duty remained, the article was constantly smuggled, so that the quantity which actually reached the country was much larger than the statistics of imports will show.

"With a duty of $6 per pound there is not sufficient profit for the smuggler to induce him to engage in such hazardous enterprises. It may be that a duty of $8 a pound is not so high as to encourage smuggling, and that we will have no difficulty in collecting it."

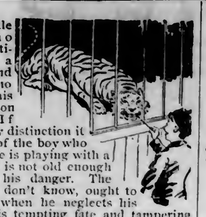
A PLEA FOR DURRANT.

San Francisco, May 11.—Attorney Eugene Duprey and George A. Knight have begun the preparation of their plea for executive clemency on behalf of Theodore Durrant, which will be presented to Governor Budd next Friday. The procedure before the governor will be strictly in accordance with law. There will be no emotional or sensational appeals. The attorneys say they will be content to depend upon facts and the force of argument to save their client. It is not the intention of Mr. and Mrs. Durrant to accompany the attorneys to Sacramento, as it is understood that the governor will not see them should they present themselves. Durrant is sanguine that the governor will act favorably on his application.

CLARKSON RATES OBJECTIONABLE.

Topeka, Kan., May 11.—Webb McNall, state superintendent of insurance, addressed letters today to all of the general fire insurance agents in Kansas, informing them that their respective companies must discontinue the use of the Clarkson rates or be suspended from doing business in Kansas. He said that it is apparent that Clarkson's scheme was devised for no other purpose than to defeat the object of the anti-trust law, and therefore it is in itself a violation of such law. By the use of Clarkson's rates competition is prevented and a trust created that local agents dare not break down.

The little boy who tickles a tiger with a straw and the man who fools with his health are on a par. If there is any distinction it is in favor of the boy who imagines he is playing with a big cat and is not old enough to realize his danger. The man if he don't know, ought to know that when he neglects his health he is tempting fate and tampering with death. Nine men out of ten neglect their health. The result is that untold thousands fall victims every year to the insatiable tiger called consumption.



98 per cent. of all cases of consumption are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It acts directly on the lungs, building new tissue in place of old, and driving out all impurities and disease germs. It corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver and restores the lost appetite. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder, and nerve tonic. Thousands have testified to their recovery under its use after their cases were given up by the doctors and all hope was gone. The druggist who claims to have something that will do just as well is untrustworthy.

"I was afflicted for four years with local weakness, but would not confess it for a time," writes Mrs. Beulah Woodall, of Bateman, Patrick Co., Va. "My mother told me she had read of Dr. Pierce's medicines and advised me to try them. I took the 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and they cured me. I cannot praise Dr. Pierce's medicines too much."

Nothing will keep down the fortunes of an ambitious family more than big doctor's bills. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser enables a family to get along without calling in a doctor except in cases of serious illness or accidents. It teaches a mother how to treat the minor maladies and accidents of every-day life. It contains 1,008 pages, over 300 illustrations, and is written in plain English that any one can understand. Over a million homes own copies of it. A new edition is ready and will be given away absolutely FREE. If you want a paper-covered copy send twenty-one one-cent stamps, to cover the cost of mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. If you want a fine cloth binding, send ten cents extra, thirty-one cents in all.

CONDUCTORS' OUTING.

Several Thousands of Them Are Seeing California.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 11.—Three special trains loaded with conductors have reached the city, one from Atlanta with 300 people on board, one from St. Louis with 450 passengers and one from Chicago over the Santa Fe carrying 450 delegates. One train from Pennsylvania en route on the Southern Pacific bears a distinguished party. Most of the people on board are men who were formerly railroad conductors, and through their ability and industry have risen to higher positions in the service of Eastern railroads. After attending the convention this party will go on to Santa Barbara and other parts of California.

Today a delegation of members of the order and friends arrived in the city from St. Paul, Portland and other places in the Northwest. A party of conductors from the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific road arrived Sunday evening. After the convention they will go to San Francisco and thence back to Kansas City, via Portland, Seattle, Tacoma, Ogden, Salt Lake, Colorado Springs and Denver.

Every state in the Union will probably be represented this afternoon, when the grand division of the Order of Railway Conductors organizes for the transaction of the long line of routine work which always attends its biennial sessions. The sessions are all to be held in Music hall, but will not be open to the public, the order being a secret one. The ladies of the auxiliary association have also been indefatigable in their efforts to complete this work. Delegates of the local orders go out on all lines to meet the incoming trains and welcome the travelers. Tuesday evening there will be a grand ball at Hazard's pavilion in honor of the visitors. Wednesday evening there will be an exhibition of Spanish games and dances.

IMPORTANT TO SUFFERERS.

How You May Obtain a Lasting Cure for Piles.

No Surgical Operation, No Pain, Trifling Expense—A Simple, Harmless Remedy, But It Does the Work.

There are some people who have piles as frequently and regularly as other people have colds.

Any little bowel trouble will bring them on, any extra exertion, as in lifting, will produce them, and in fact will often appear without any apparent provocation. Piles, however, are much more serious than a cold, as the tendency is always to grow worse until the trouble becomes deep seated and chronic, or develops into some fatal rectal disease.

While there are many pile remedies which give relief, yet there is but one which not only gives instant relief, but at the same time makes a permanent cure, and that is the well known Pyramid Pile Cure.

This remedy is composed of simple, harmless, vegetable ingredients, but combined so effectively and act so promptly and thoroughly that it cures every form of piles whether itching, blind, bleeding or protruding.

In long standing cases the Pyramid Pile Cure has proven to be the only certin cure except a surgical operation, and its advantages over an operation are many, as it is painless, causes no delay, or interference with daily occupation, and last, but not least, it is cheaper than any surgical operation could possibly be, costing but $1 a package at any drug store.

The cases that the Pyramid Pile Cure will not reach are so few that physicians are doing away with operations for piles and depending on this cheap but effective remedy to accomplish a complete cure, and it never disappoints except in cases beyond the reach of medical skill.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is prepared by the Pyramid Drug company, of Albion, Mich., and for sale by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package. Each package contains a treatise on cause and cure of piles, together with testimonials from every section of this country.

Four Posses Busily Searching For Three Jail Breaking Murderers.

Short Shrift Will Be Given Them If They Are Recaptured.

An Objectionable Statute Which Sets Several Murderers Free.

Phoenix, Ariz., May 11.—Four posses are searching for the three prisoners who escaped from the Prescott jail yesterday, shooting two officers in their flight. Lee Norris, the young assistant district attorney shot by the prisoners, died yesterday. His death has greatly inflamed the public feeling against the prisoners, who will probably be lynched if caught.

This feeling is intensified on account of the passage by the legislature of a law which virtually acquits all murderers where the crime was committed prior to the passage of the law. Two prisoners now in jail here, who have been convicted and sentenced to death, were afterwards granted a new trial by the supreme court, and another, whose trial has not yet taken place, will be cleared through the operation of this law.

The new law was enacted defining murder, and providing punishment, and all former laws are repealed without a saving clause, excepting the cases then pending. From forty to fifty murders have been committed in this county during the last six or seven years without extreme punishment.

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

August Normand, the murderer of the Hallseth family at Larimore, was captured about (twelve miles south of Towner by Charles Tmuen yesterday, at about 9 o'clock. He confessed the murder of the family and told the story of his hardships since the crime. He was brought to Towner and is in the county jail in charge of Sheriff Pendry. He expresses sorrow for his crime and says he is ready to die. He realizes the danger from a mob, but says he expects it, although he would prefer not to be lynched.

The probate courts at Mandan and of the county of Fulton, Ga., are struggling with the question as to whether or not J. Gunn, late of Mandan, was a citizen of Mandan when he died intestate, or of Atlanta, Ga. If he was a citizen of Atlanta on March 2 last, the date of his demise, then his wife inherits all his property, consisting of $40,000 in cash and other property, including the value to about $5,000. If, on the other hand, he was a citizen of North Dakota, his sister, now a resident of South Carolina, gets half the property over and above the first $5000 worth, which goes to the widow.

Sheriff Scheuer arrived at Bismarck from Fort Yates with Paul Hyzyrack and Philip Ireland, the self-confessed murderers of the Spicer family, who have been turned over to this county for safe keeping. They were taken into the jail at Fort Yates, where they have been confined since their arrival on Saturday night, and the trip of seventy-five miles was made overland during the day. They will remain until their trial, which will probably take place at Williamsport June 1.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Frank Barz, his two sons and a brother, Chris Barz, prosperous German farmers, were asphyxiated in a well on their farm near Bedford yesterday. Frank Barz was overcome by gas while at work in a well. The others descended one at a time in an attempt to rescue him and all met the same fate.

Nearly every day emigrant wagons can be seen headed northward at Aberdeen. Most of these belong to people who left the section and went south to Missouri, Oklahoma and other boom regions, hoping to better their conditions. They are now returning, disgusted with South Dakota.

Articles of incorporation have been filed for the Pipe Line Irrigation and Land company at Pierre, with a capital of $50,000. Directors of the company are: A. P. Charles, A. P. Cutter, H. G. Arms, of Chicago; Louis D. Bird, of Glen Ehler, Kans.; and W. G. Yates and W. F. Peirce, of Pierre. The purposes of the company are the irrigation of Dakota lands by means of pumping stations to draw water from lakes and rivers and the distribution for irrigation purposes. The same company will work in North Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas, as well as in this state. They expect to begin operations this season.

SUSPICIOUS AT 'FRISCO.

Baroness von Turkheim's Story Not Fully Believed.

San Francisco, May 11.—The friends of Jeannine Young, "Baroness von Turkheim," in this city have not yet done anything toward raising sufficient funds for her to return to San Francisco, as she requested in her cablegram to the chief of police. Attorney Hutton and one or two other people who are sufficiently interested in her affairs to assist her if the necessity should arise, are afraid that the cablegram to Chief Lees was sent by von Arnold as a decoy in the hope of obtaining money with which to continue his travels. Mr. Hutton, therefore, will await confirmation of the news of the bogus baron's desertion before he does anything in the matter. Chief Lees cabled the "baroness" last night to communicate with Mr. Hutton.

On account of the reference in the cablegram to the important papers in the Fair case that are said to be in Von Turkheim's possession, the chief held a consultation with George A. Knight, attorney for Charles L. Fair, with the object of ascertaining whether the woman might have had any incriminating documents. Mr. Knight stated that in his opinion she had nothing that would be of importance in the Craven case or that could be introduced in evidence. His side of the case wanted nothing with the woman.

STATE SUPREME COURT.

Justice Collins Hands Down a Batch of Decisions.

St. Paul, May 11.—Justice Collins of the supreme court handed down six decisions yesterday, all but one of which were affirmations of decisions rendered by the lower courts.

The single reversal was in the case of Jacob Swanson, a former employe of the Great Northern Railroad company, who brought suit to recover for personal injuries. He obtained a verdict in the lower court, but the supreme court holds that a general demurrer to Swanson's complaint should have been sustained, under the rule that a servant, in the discharge of his duties, is bound to take notice of the ordinary operation of familiar natural laws and govern himself accordingly.

In the case of the Powers Dry Goods company, appellant, versus Mons J. Hallan et al., respondents, it is held that a debtor, not guilty of fraud, may repudiate and ignore a general composition settlement with a debtor, where another creditor, with connivance of the debtors, has secretly obtained an undue advantage and a preference in the settlement, and may recover of the debtor on the original claim.

The other decisions were:

In John P. Rea, receiver of the Bank of New England, respondent, versus John S. McDonald and J. B. Businell, appellants. Order affirmed.

Alice M. Morse and Daniel L. Morse, appellants, versus Francis A. Wellcome, respondent. Order affirmed.

In re assignment of Jacob Skoll, Joseph Robitshek and J. M. Davis, assignee, appellants, versus Swedish-American National bank of Minnesota, et al., respondents. Order affirmed.

William Borman et al., plaintiffs, versus L. Schneider, doing business as the Marine Boiler works, intervenor, appellants. E. A. Baker et al., defendants; J. M. Baker et al., respondents. Judgment affirmed.

WHITE EARTH FIRES.

Government Sawmill Burned---The Woods Blazing.

White Earth, Minn., May 11.—Heavy forest fires are raging in the pine belt about eighteen miles east of the agency, and considerable damage is being done to timber.

A party of men was sent from here to save the government sawmill, 20 miles east of here. They returned yesterday and reported that the country is all on fire and that the government saw, shingle and planing mills were completely destroyed by fire despite all efforts to save the property.

The men narrowly escaped with their lives.

A number of lumber camps are also burned, with outfits of logging sleighs, etc. The Indian sugar camps, this side, are burned. A heavy wind is prevailing and if a rainfall does not come soon the whole country will be on fire.

ST. PAUL BANKERS INDICTED.

St. Paul, May 11.—Some more indictments were returned yesterday by the grand jury in the sensational bank failures of the past winter. Several are against President Dawson and Cashier Dawson of the Bank of Minnesota, and another against President W. F. Bickel of the Minnesota Savings bank.

One of these indictments is against William Dawson, Sr., and charges him with grand larceny in the first degree for an unlawful overloan of $97,000, represented by his notes to the bank.

Another indictment is against William Dawson, Jr., charging grand larceny in the first degree, and setting out an overdraft of $29,250.27. It is alleged that as an officer of the bank he had no right to make an overdraft to himself.

Another of the indictments is against William Dawson, Sr., and William Dawson, Jr., alleging grand larceny in the first degree, and specifying the loan of $231,-223.69 to the St. Paul Plow company, which is called an "overline."

Another indictment is against William F. Bickel, charging him with stealing from the bank $1910.58 belonging to E. J. Lucius.

It is reported that the jury has also found another indictment against Bickel, contents as yet unknown, except that it charges grand larceny.

All three were arraigned late last evening and furnished bonds for their appearance.

AN INTERESTING DISCOVERY.

Washington, May 11.—United States Consul Kirk at Copenhagen has made a report to the department of state giving a description of an interesting discovery in the physiology of plants made by Johannzen, of the agricultural high school of Copenhagen. The discovery is that plants are susceptible to the influence of ether or chloroform, but in their case, the effect is to waken them instead of putting them to sleep, as would be the result with human beings. Also the plants are made to grow with great rapidity, in or out of season, a fact of the greatest importance to gardeners and florists.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Fire was discovered in the Spring Mountain Breaker No. 4 of the Lehigh Valley Coal company at Jamesville, Pa., at 1:30 this morning and forty minutes after the structure was in ashes. The breaker had a capacity of 800 tons of coal a day and 500 men and boys will be made idle. Loss, $35,000; fully insured.

According to a dispatch to the London Daily News from St. Petersburg, a terrible crime, the result of superstition, was committed at Tresspool, where a number of hermitages inhabited by sectarians. Recently seventeen of the hermits disappeared and it is believed that they had emigrated in fear of the impending day of judgment, but a hermit named Kowallind has confessed that he walled them up alive in response to their earnest entreaties that they might receive the martyrs' crown. The police examined the spot and verified the confession.

INTERNATIONAL CHESS GAME.

Washington, May 11.—Mr. Pearson, the chairman of the congressional committee on the cable match at chess between the house of representatives and the house of commons, is at Asheville, N. C. In his absence Messrs. Shannon and Handy of the committee requested John D. Elwell, of Brooklyn, who is in Washington, to telegraph Harry N. Pillsbury, the champion chess player, to come here today to coach the American team for the match. This is set for May 17, but it may be postponed for a week to allow of a little longer practice. When here it is said that Pillsbury will give an exhibition of blindfold chess play, playing eight games simultaneously, for the benefit of the prize fund of the ladies' international chess tournament, which will take place at the Hotel Cecil in London in June.

THE VENEZUELA BOUNDARY.

Washington, May 11.—Some days will elapse before the final ratifications of the boundary line arbitration treaty between Great Britain and Venezuela are exchanged. This is due to the non-arrival of the copy of the treaty prepared in London for presentation to the Venezuelan government through its minister at Washington. The time of its arrival is uncertain. The Hon. W. L. Scruggs having reached this country with the copy of the treaty prepared by Venezuela for the British government, Senor Andrade, the Venezulan minister here, announces his readiness to exchange ratifications.

WHERE FISHING IS GOOD.

Those looking for the best fishing grounds are reminded of Lake Tetonka, at Waterville, and Madison lake, on the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad.

Wall-eyed pike, bass and crappies are found in great abundance at both of these lakes, which have not been fished out to the extent of some of the older and better known localities.

Excellent hotel accommodations, boats, bait, etc., on hand, and all charges are very reasonable.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—

Notice is hereby given that default has been made in the conditions of that certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Frank W. Merritt and Elizabeth Merritt, his wife, mortgagors, to Leonidas Merritt, mortgagee, bearing date the 3rd day of November, 1888, with power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of St. Louis, state of Minnesota, on the 4th day of November, 1891, at 7:45 o'clock p. m., in Book 71 of mortgages, on page 548; which mortgage was by deed or bill of sale duly assigned by said Leonidas Merritt to Charles L. Dickerman by an instrument in writing bearing date the 22nd day of June, 1892, and which assignment was thereafter on the 23rd day of June, 1892, at 4:25 o'clock p. m. duly recorded in the office of said register of deeds in Book 83 of mortgages on page 156. That said default has continued to the date of this notice.

And whereas there is actually due and claimed to be due and payable at the date of this notice the sum of sixty-eight hundred and ten and 65-100 dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of 8 per cent per annum from the 24th day of March, 1897; and whereas, the power of sale has become operative, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, and lying and being in the county of St. Louis, state of Minnesota, and described as follows, to-wit: Lots one (1), two (2), three (3) and four (4), in block twenty-five (25), in West Park Division of Duluth, Minnesota.

Lot eight (8), in block ninety (90) in Endion Division of Duluth, Minnesota.

Lots nine (9), ten (10), eleven (11) and twelve (12), in block ninety-two (92), in Endion Division of Duluth, Minnesota.

The west one-half of lot eleven (11), in block twenty-eight (28), in the townsite of Oneota, Minnesota.

All according to the recorded plats thereof now on file and of record in the office of the register of deeds within and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota.

Also the following: The south one-half of the southeast one-quarter of the northeast one-quarter of the northwest one-quarter of section thirty (30), township fifty (50) north, of range fourteen west of the 4th P. M.

The southeast one-quarter of the northwest one-quarter of section three (3), township forty-nine (49) north, of range fifteen (15) west of the 4th P. M.

An undivided one-eighth (⅛) of lots two (2), three (3), four (4) and five (5), in section seven (7), township sixty-two (62) north, of range fourteen (14) west of the 4th P. M.; with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the 26th day of May, 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of sixty-eight hundred and ten and 65-100 dollars, and interest and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and $3.06 protest fees paid for protesting the note secured by said mortgage, and one hundred dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Wheat Made a Small Gain Today After a Weak Opening.

Trading Was Dull and There Were Not Many Buying Orders.

The Government Crop Report Was Not Pleasing to Many Traders.

Disappointment over the government crop report issued yesterday caused a rather weak opening in wheat this morning. Initial sales were lower, and under selling by traders, who had been waiting for the government report before taking their position in the market, a further decline ensued. Northwest receipts were also heavy, 498 cars against 320 last week and 538 last year. A better feeling was soon manifested on continued reports of injury to the California crop, and a reaction occurred. This was followed by another decline, and then the market became strong and advanced.

Another matter that had been dividing speculative opinion at Chicago, and was settled by ballot yesterday, went a long way toward obliterating the bearish effect of the government report. The contract grade after the beginning of October next will be restricted at Chicago to No. 1 northern spring and No. 2 red winter, as the result of yesterday's ballot. The immediate effect there was to slightly widen the spread between July and September, as after the latter delivery the No. 2 spring if any of it should still remain, will be of no further use to a speculator. The obliteration of that mixture as a contract grade inspired a measure of hopefulness which the trade stood in need of, and which soon showed itself in the course of the Chicago market.

Trading was dull on the Duluth board, July opened 8c lower at 74½c and declined to 74¼c. Then it reacted to 74⅝c, and after closing off 1c advanced steadily to 75¼c. The close was firm with buyers at 75¼c, an advance of ¾c for the day. Shippers bought 10,000 bus of cash stuff, paying 1½c over July early at 1 1-16c over at the close. Following were the cash day prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 77c; May, 77c; No. 1 northern, cash, 77c; May, 76½c; July, 75¼c bid; September, 69½c; No. 2 northern, 74½c; No. 3, 70 @ 71c. Rejected, 2, 53½@58½c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 77c; No. 1 northern, 76¾c. Rye, 34½c. No. 2 oats, 29½c. No. 3 oats, 28½c. Flax, 78¾c.

Car inspection—Wheat, 321; oats, 28; rye, 7; barley, 19; flax, 51. Receipts—Wheat, 106,286 bus; oats, 76,126 bus; rye, 23,458 bus; barley, 15,443 bus; flax, 57,366. Shipments—Wheat, 150,148 bus; oats, 126,287 bus; rye, 25,000 bus; flax, 15,620 bus.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 10, Chamber of Commerce and 205 Board of Trade, Chicago, May 11.—The disappointing government report would undoubtedly have had a weakening effect on the wheat market, had it not been for the counter effect produced by the numerous reports of crop damage in California, which is said to have occurred since the government figures were completed. The hot winds continue on the Pacific slope and today was hotter than ever. The market was also strengthened by the new rule adopted yesterday on contract wheat, which many think will eventually enhance prices permanently. The scalping crowd played for a down turn all day, and got short at the bottom on prediction of rain in California, which was afterwards denied. The rapid upturn at the close came on the reported taking of a large line for export at New York, some messages giving as high at 800,000 bus. Cash wheat sales here were very small. The world's visible decreased largely, but the decrease in Europe was a discouragingly small part of it.

Corn and oats had a good rally and closed strong. The fine weather does not bring out the anticipated large movement.

Provisions dull with little action. Receipts of hogs continue to overrun.

Puts, July wheat, 71¾@71-¾c.

Calls, July wheat, 75⅝@75c bid.

Curb, July wheat, 73½c.

Shed His Whiskers.

Special Agent A. L. Gray of the United States land office, who was laid off because of a shortage in the government funds and has been at Fort Howard, Wis., arrived here today to testify before the United States grand jury. When Mr. Gray left here he wore what was probably the most magnificent crop of whiskers that Lake Superior breezes ever sifted through. Today he turned up wearing upon his face only a jaunty little mustache and a broad smile.

Rev. Dr. Beach, of Minneapolis, who has been actively engaged in municipal reform work in Cambridge, Mass., and later in Minneapolis, and who is a man of eminently practical ideas on these matters, will be in Duluth on Sunday next. Learning of his presence here, the Civic federation has asked him to address the people, which he will do on Sunday evening, at Pilgrim Congregational church, taking for his subject, "Civic Opportunities and Duties."

The board of public works today advertised for bids for the contract of excavating and back-filling the force main trench from Fortieth avenue east to Sixty-third avenue east.

The birth of a daughter to Henry A. and Rose M. Crese, of 324 South Sixteenth avenue east, is reported.

St. Claire Allison Nicholls, age 16 years, daughter of Charles P. and Florence Craig, died last evening at the home of her grandfather, W. W. Nicholls, 1019 First avenue south, Minneapolis. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the home on Lordon road.

Fred Barr, a good-looking young man of 20, was brought down from Ely yesterday and placed in jail to await an examination for insanity, which was to take place this afternoon. He imagines that a family named Stahl has murdered his brother and other relatives, and he fancied his trip to Duluth with the marshal was for the purpose of prosecuting them.

A marriage license has been issued to E. Lind and Ida C. Larson.

The Irvin Missionary society of the Lakeside Presbyterian church will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. with Mrs. Prosser. There will be a complete program of readings, talks and prayer, and also a business session.

Majorie, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Keyes, died yesterday at Madison, Wis., age 8 months. The funeral will take place tomorrow from the residence, 2029 East First street at 2 p. m.

FOR SEASICKNESS

USE HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE.

Dr. J. Fourness-Brice of S. S. Teutonic says: "I have prescribed it in my practice among the passengers traveling to and from Europe, in this steamer, and the result has satisfied me that if taken in time, it will, in a great many cases, prevent seasickness."

A NOTICE.

In view of the additional heavy office expenses necessary to do a credit business we have decided to conduct this business in the future on an absolutely cash basis, that we may, by removing this expense, sell goods on even a closer basis than ever, which we propose to do and give the friends of this store and the public generally the benefit of the saving. So that from this date our books will be closed to all accounts that have been opened, and in the future will adhere to a strictly cash closer profit method of doing it. Very respectfully,

WEST END

Bay View Heights Farmer Narrowly Escapes a Very Severe Burning.

W. C. T. U. Has Several Interesting Meetings to Be Held Soon.

Frantic Struggle of a West End Barber With a Vicious Wheel.

A few days ago a farmer living on Bay View Heights, visited the West End and took on an overload of spirits. While driving home sparks dropped from his pipe to the hay in the bottom of the wagon and set it on fire. He was unconscious of the conflagration that was raging about his feet until he was suddenly jerked from the wagon by Lieut. Briggs to prevent his cremation. He is now nursing a pair of badly burned feet as well as a swelled head.

THE TEMPERANCE UNION.

The ladies of the Women's Christian Temperance union will hold their regular bi-weekly meeting at the usual place at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The topic will be "Discussion of the Curfew." Mrs. Huntoon will lead the meeting. A number of papers bearing on the subject will be read, among them being that of Mrs. Jaques, which was prepared for the meeting of the Central union held last week.

The annual county convention of the Women's Christian Temperance union will be held at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow beginning at 9:30 a. m.

The gold medal rhetorical contest in preparation by the W. C. T. U. will be given in about two weeks, the exact date not yet having been decided upon.

MASTERED THE WHEEL.

Bill Chestock, the West End barber, mastered a refractory bicycle on Central avenue this morning during the rain storm and incidentally furnished a great deal of amusement to a crowd of people that braved the elements to witness his heroic efforts. William had several hard falls, but when he was not lying on the muddy pavement tangled up in the machine he was scorching down the street at breakneck speed, a terror to the street cars and drivers of horses. He finally succeeded in making a run of four blocks without a fall and although he was badly disfigured was very proud of his achievement.

GIVEN A SERENADE.

After the celebration of the marriage of Fred H. Merritt and Maud R. Decker, at the residence of the latter's parents at the corner of Fortieth avenue west and First street, the bride and groom were treated to a serenade that was remarkable principally for its lack of harmony. In the good old days it would have been called a charivari.

DONATED ITS USE.

Myers Bros., who own forty acres of good land suitable for agricultural purposes on Bay View Heights, have volunteered the use of it for the season to any poor persons in the West End who may need it. He has turned it over to A. S. Oslen, assistant county poor superintendent, who will apportion it to applicants according to their needs. The land has all been under cultivation before and is well adapted to raising vegetables of all kinds.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

J. J. Wheeler and John Clark, of Oneota, have returned from Rainy Lake where they have been looking over the gold fields. They are convinced that there is plenty of the precious metal to be found in the earth there, but think the investment of large capital will be necessary to get it out at a profit.

C. G. Garrison, of Oneota, who for the past two years has been employed as superintendent of an opal mine in Idaho, has removed his family to Minneapolis where they will reside in future.

Walter Merritt, son of E. T. Merritt, broke his arm in a bicycle accident yesterday.

N. B. Merritt, who left Oneota a short time ago for Idaho, is now in Pasadena, Cal.

Lieut. Briggs has moved into a house in Hazelwood Park.

G. B. Paddock, of Jackson, Minn., was in West Duluth yesterday looking over his property interests.

Two children of C. H. March, superintendent of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railroad company, are down with typhoid fever.

George O'Brien has returned from Chicago.

J. W. White has gone to Ada, Minn., for a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Randall report the birth of a daughter at their home on Sixty-first avenue west.

Mrs. Josephine Carlson, graduated midwife, thoroughly competent and experienced. Fifty-sixth avenue west, West Duluth.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

MARINE MATTERS.

Boats Ready to Accept Almost Any Rate.

Cleveland, May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wild rates on iron ore have been established at 60, 50 and 40 cents, but it would not be at all surprising to see any of these low figures reduced before the week is out, as owners of boats that are moving seem ready to accept almost any price in their efforts to secure downbound cargoes. The 70 cent contract reported yesterday refers only to one boat, and as far as can be learned this is all that has been done as yet in contracts from the head of the lakes, aside from the boats of the ore companies.

CARGOES ARE SCARCE.

Buffalo, May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—One or two loads a day is all that Buffalo can furnish. The Siberia makes her first trip out, going to Cleveland for coal to Duluth.

Active work on the extension to the breakwater begins at once with a force of 200 men, and a fleet of nine canal boats is to make daily trips for stone to Lockport.

STIMULATE THE SLUGGISH KIDNEYS.

In addition to its tonic and cathartic properties, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters exercises a beneficial influence upon the kidneys and bladder, when they are inactive, by stimulating them to renewed exertion, thus reopening, as it were, a sluice for the escape of impurities whose regular channel of exit is the organs of urination. Among these are certain abnormal and inflammatory elements, productive of irreparable injury to the system if not entirely expelled. The kidneys and bladder themselves are also benefited by this stimulus, as their inactivity is usually a preliminary to their disease and disorganization. They also experience, in common with other portions of the system, the potent invigorative effects of the Bitters, which furthermore corrects disordered conditions of the stomach, bowels and liver.

Dr. C. W. McFadden, dentist, has removed from Miller building, to rooms 208 and 209 Lonsdale building.

FINAL ASSESSMENT FOR GRADING AND OTHERWISE IMPROVING WEST THIRD STREET AND GRAND AVENUE WEST.

Office of the Board of Public Works,
City of Duluth, Minnesota,
May 11, 1897.

Notice is hereby given that a contract has been completed for grading and otherwise improving West Third street and Grand avenue west, in the city of Duluth, Minnesota, from the center line of Twenty-eighth avenue west to the westerly end of the bridge at Thirty-seventh avenue west; that the board of public works of said city will meet at their office in the city hall, in said city, on Monday, the 24th day of May, A. D. 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m. to make an assessment of the sum of thirty-three hundred eighty-six (3386) dollars and ninety-nine (99) cents upon the real estate benefitted by such grading and other improvements, for the purpose of raising money to in full defray the expense thereof.

All lands situated in said city and to which benefits result from said improvement will be assessed in proportion, as near as may be, to the benefits resulting thereto from said improvement. All persons interested in said proceeding shall have the right to be present and be heard at said time and place in relation to the making of said assessment.

Dated May 11, 1897.

There is claimed to be due, and is due, at the date of this notice, the sum of two hundred fifty-five and 55-100 dollars ($255.55), upon a certain mortgage executed and delivered by Charles S. Beck, Jr., and May E. Beck, his wife, mortgagors, to Julia S. Lovejoy, mortgagee, bearing date the 20th day of July, 1894, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 26th day of July, 1894, at 3:50 o'clock p. m. in book 121 of mortgages, on page No. 34; and no proceeding having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Notice is hereby given, that said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described therein conveyed by said mortgage, which are situated in St. Louis County, Minnesota, and described as follows, to-wit: Lot numbered two (2) and the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section numbered two (2) in township numbered sixty (60) north, of range numbered seventeen (17) west; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said county, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the 24th day of June, 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m. at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of two hundred fifty-five and 55-100 dollars ($255.55), and interest, and twenty-five dollars ($25) attorneys' fees and the disbursements allowed by law.

Dated May 10th, 1897.

Attorneys for said Mortgagee.
Duluth, Minnesota.
Duluth Evening Herald, May-11-18-25-June-1-8-15.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—

Whereas default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage which was duly executed and delivered by William S. Woodbridge and Frances A. Woodbridge, his wife, mortgagors, to Caroline V. Cram, mortgagee, bearing date March first (1st), 1891, and which was duly executed and delivered May fifteenth (15th), 1891, and was duly recorded in the register of deeds' office for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on May sixteenth (16th), 1891, and one (1) o'clock p. m., in Book thirty-six (36) of mortgages, on page three hundred eight (308) thereof; such default consisting in the non-payment of the principal sum thereby secured, with interest thereon from September 1st, 1893, at the rate of eight per cent per annum and exchange.

And whereas there is therefore claimed to be due, and there is actually due, upon said mortgage debt, at the date of this notice, the sum of one thousand fifty-six and 08-100 ($1056.08) dollars, principal, interest and exchange.

And whereas said mortgage contains a power of sale in due form, which has become operative by reason of the default above mentioned, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described therein, situate in St. Louis County, Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: All of lot numbered two hundred twenty-seven (227), in block numbered sixty (B. 60), Duluth Proper, Second Division, according to the recorded plat thereof on file of record in the office of the register of deeds in and for said St. Louis County; which premises will be sold by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the twenty-third (23d) day of June, A. D. 1897, at ten (10) o'clock a. m., at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and seventy-five dollars attorney's fees, stipulated for in said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated May 7, 1897.

NOTICE OF CONFIRMATION

OF COMMISSIONERS' REPORT, IN THE MATTER OF THE CONDEMNATION OF A RIGHT-OF-WAY FOR A PUBLIC THOROUGHFARE FROM THE STATE ROAD IN THE SOUTHEAST QUARTER (SE¼) OF SECTION 4-48-15 TO SHORT LINE PARK.

Office of City Clerk,
Duluth, Minn., May 5th, 1897.

Notice is hereby given that an assessment of damages made by the board of commissioners in condemnation proceedings for obtaining a right-of-way for a public thoroughfare from the state road in the southeast quarter (se¼) of section four (4), township forty-eight (48) north, range fifteen (15) west, to Short Line Park, as shown by the plat of the same on file in the office of the city clerk, has been returned;

That as to that piece and parcel of land situated in the east half (e½) of the northeast quarter (ne¼) of section five (5), township forty-eight (48) north, of range fifteen (15) west, viz: 2.229 acres, proposed to be taken, and for which damages were awarded to Charles E. Dickerman and E. C. Gridley in the total sum of $1.00 as to which no legal confirmation was had on account of misdescription of said premises in former notice.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, to all persons interested in the said east half (e½) of the northeast quarter (ne¼) of section five (5), township forty-eight (48) north, of range fifteen (15) west, that the said award as to said land will be confirmed by the common council of the city of Duluth at a meeting of said council to be held at the council chamber on Monday, May 17th, 1897, at 7:30 o'clock p. m., unless objections are made in writing by persons interested in the said land required to be taken.

Chicago, May 11.—Forecast until Wednesday: For Wisconsin: Fair tonight and Wednesday; cooler in south and east portions tonight; fresh west to north winds. For Minnesota: Fair tonight and Wednesday; cooler in extreme southeast portion tonight; fresh northwest winds.

IN GREATER NEW YORK.

The municipal campaign in Greater New York has opened already. The election will not occur until November, but the struggle is on now, and will grow warmer every week. There are indications that the Republican vote will be split up in several factions, and under such conditions a victory for Tammany will be a foregone conclusion. Indeed it is probable that Tammany would win with only one ticket opposed to its candidates, owing to the great dissatisfaction felt with the present Republican administration, and with various laws enacted by the Republican legislature, which are regarded by many New Yorkers as an infringement on their personal liberty. The Raines hotel law and other measures of a similar character have proven to be very obnoxious.

Senator Platt perceives the great danger that the present situation will result in a Tammany victory, and he is now engaged in the rather hopeless task of cementing the opposition. There are so many leading men opposed to Plattism as strongly as they are to Tammany that they will pay but little attention to his appeals to join hands with his forces. Mr. Platt issued a notice to all whom it may concern that the Republican machine intended to make a fight, and invited all good citizens to unite under his leadership, which has awakened an agitation that will continue from now until election next fall. While the "easy boss" of the Republican party was thus proclaiming his position, a meeting was in progress at Tammany hall, at which State Senator Thomas F. Grady, who writes the platforms and does the fine talking for that great machine, announced its attitude. He declared very plainly that, while the gold men who deserted Tammany last year might come back into the wigwam, they must not expect to control the action or the utterances of that organization, and said that Tammany still stood upon the Chicago platform, although it was not expected to be an issue next fall. "We will deal with any issue and every issue in its own good time," he said. "We have no apologies to make for supporting Democratic principles in last fall's campaign and for not betraying the trust then reposed in us, but we will close the door upon no man who wants to vote with us for Democratic principles this year."

Mr. Platt, in his pronunciamento, criticised Mayor Strong's "purely personal administration," as he called it, but was even more severe upon the Citizens' union, a non-partisan organization which is trying to regulate municipal affairs under the leadership of Robert L. Cutting. He said it "was guilty of an insolent attempt to usurp power and grab public benefits," and declared that ten selfish, self-appointed self-seekers asked 165,000 organized and registered Republican voters to step aside and let them name the candidate, distribute the patronage and control the government of Greater New York according to their own whims and caprices.

But the Citizens' union is paying no attention to Mr. Platt, and its latest scheme is to nominate a non-partisan ticket, headed by President Seth Low of Columbia college for mayor. Mr. Low was formerly mayor of Brooklyn, and gained considerable fame from his excellent administration. He is accounted one of the best authorities in the country on the subject of municipal government, and no doubt would command a very large support from the business men and otherwise respectable element. With a regular Republican ticket in the field, however, Mr. Low's candidacy would enable Tammany to again capture the city hall, as it has always done when the opposition was divided. Last year the population that now composes Greater New York cast 534,254 votes, of which 283,119 were for McKinley and 225,638 for Bryan. In 1892 the same population cast 294,679 votes for Cleveland and 181,813 for Harrison, which was nearer a normal political division. But these figures do not offer a safe basis for prediction, because this year's election will be solely municipal, with none but local issues and the great prize, the control of a city of 3,500,000 people, and in municipal elections New York is as uncertain as is Chicago.

THE BIBLE BARRED.

Following closely upon the decision made in a case in Stearns county, this state, by Judges Baxter and Searle, that the reading of the Bible or prayers of any kind in the public schools is a violation of the state constitution, comes a similar decision by Judge Carpenter at Detroit, Mich. Judge Carpenter decides, as did the Minnesota judges, that reading Bible lessons in school is religious instruction of such a nature that it comes within the constitutional prohibition against theological teaching in institutions of learning supported by the state. A collection called "Readings from the Bible" is one of the text-books introduced by the board of education in the Detroit schools. One Conrad Pfeiffer, whose children attended a public school, brought the suit in which the decision of Judge Carpenter was rendered. He set up in his complaint that his son as a pupil was obliged to attend a place of religious worship or religious services in the school and that he, as a taxpayer, was compelled to assist in the maintenance of religious instruction in violation of his rights under the constitution. It was shown in the suit that teachers read aloud during school hours each day from the Bible selections. The court declared that in the intent of the constitution this was "religious instruction" which taxpayers could not be required to support. The case was elaborately tried and elicited great public interest.

Judge Carpenter closed his lengthy decision with the following statement:

"Our constitutional provisions respecting religious liberty mean precisely what they declare. They forbid any legislative authority compelling a person to pay taxes for the support of a teacher of religion or diu luishing or enlarging the civil rights of any person on account of his religious belief." The last clause of this extract implies that scripture studies in the schools impose on the taxpayer, the expense of religious instruction while excluding him or his children from the benefit of the schools if the studies are such that he is compelled by his conscience to withdraw his children from them.

This case, says the Chicago Chronicle, seems to be somewhat different from those in other states where reading of the Bible has caused difficulty. In Detroit a selection of scripture passages or chapters designated as Bible readings was prepared for school use. The selections may have been regarded as mere literary exercises. In other cases the Bible as a whole was used in schools, the teacher selecting the lessons for various days, making the readings a purely religious ceremony. But according to the Michigan court the practice in either case is incompatible with conformity to the education articles in the state constitution.

MINING LAWS NEEDED.

A small meeting held in a private office in this city a few days ago decided, it is said, to request Congressman Morris to oppose any measure which would apply the federal mining laws to this state. It was asserted that the development of the gold region on this side of the international boundary is not retarded because the mining laws have not been applied to Minnesota, and that prospectors can secure all the land they desire under the homestead and timber and stone acts. The Herald has been unable to learn that there was any person present at this little gathering who has had any experience in prospecting for gold or staking out claims under the federal mining laws, and consequently it cannot concede that the decision of this meeting fairly represents public sentiment on the question. Judge Morris would do well not to accept the protest emanating from this source as an expression of opinion by those who are deeply interested in the subject.

So far from those interested in the Rainy Lake region being satisfied with the existing state of affairs, they are strongly opposed and are anxious that the federal mining laws should be applied to the state in order to facilitate the work of prospecting and ensure the development of gold properties on the American side of the boundary. It is an undoubted fact that the great development on the Canadian side of the line, while very little has been done on the American side, is due to the favorable mining laws in Ontario. These laws are somewhat similar to the general mining laws of this country, and if prospectors in the American gold region could avail themselves of the benefits of the latter laws there is not a shadow of doubt that the American side of the line would be a scene of great activity. Men who have worked for years in the gold and silver regions of the West are clamorous for the application of the mining laws, because of the advantages they present to prospectors.

It is absurd to say that the homestead and timber and stone laws are amply sufficient to secure titles in the gold region. No man can take up a homestead there without committing perjury, and every person who has watched the proceedings in the land district knows that if a man took up land there under either the homestead or timber and stone laws, and a gold mine was found on the land, he would find innumerable contests started against his rights to hold the land, and the case would travel through the land office and interior department, perhaps taking years, and then probably into the federal courts. The man who had taken up the land in good faith would probably lose it, and if he won, it would be after the expenditure of a large sum of money in defending his rights. There must be a simpler system than this, if the American side of the gold region is to be developed, and practical mining men, who understand their business and know the merits of the general mining laws, are satisfied that they must be applied to this state before any great development can be expected.

While claiming that the labor cost of producing lumber is greater in Canada than in the United States, the opponents of the $2 duty are nevertheless compelled to admit that, according to official reports, the average pay to workmen in sawmills in the United States is $1.71 a day and in Canada only $1.41, or 30 cents per day lower in Canada than in this country. The claim, says the Detroit Journal, that this difference is more than made up by our superior facilities for manufacturing pine lumber, by reason of our improved machinery, is naturally followed by the inquiry what is to hinder the Canadians from putting in improved machinery, and who knows but their facilities may be as good as ours a year from now?

Washington papers note the fact that a curious friendship has sprung up between Senator Foraker and Senator Tillman. Almost daily, when business lags, and both men have looked over their mail, Mr. Tillman walks over to the Republican side and sits beside Foraker. There they spin yarns, and the South Carolinian relates his early boyhood experiences and his latter-day political battles in a manner peculiarly his own. The fact is that both Foraker and Tillman are in the "fire alarm" class, and why should they not be friends?

Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Garfield, Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Cleveland were total abstainers during their reign in the White House. Mrs. Garfield, Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Cleveland never furnished wine to their guests, except at state dinners, when their husbands wished wine to be served. It is said Mrs. Grant was the first woman to move against having wine in the White House. Mrs. McKinley is a total abstainer.

"Money" is the title of a new nonpartisan monthly magazine published in New York. The leading article in the first number is by ex-Congressman Towne and is entitled, "Is Independent Free Coinage of Silver Practicable?" Other articles are: "The Dearth of Money in the South and West," by William E. Dodge; "The Money of the United States," by Maurice L. Muhleman, of the United States sub-treasury, New York.

The fire hall at Emporia, Kan., was burned late one night recently, and it was all the firemen could do to save the engine and hose carts. They had been playing cards in the loft when the fire started. All the town is laughing at them, but them not feel badly. Only a short time ago the firemen at Superior lost their hall and nearly all its contents by fire.

The lobbyists at Washington have had very poor business this year owing to the policy of inaction pursued by the house, but they are now in high spirits. The sugar trust is going to war on the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty, and there will be plenty of packet money for the boys while the battle is on.

John Bright resented the flattery that he was a greater orator than Mr. Gladstone. Those who said so, he declares, did not know what they were talking about, and yet there was no doubt that he was a much more finished speaker than "the grand old man."

Dr. Hillis is pouring hot shot into the Chicago people in his sermons every Sunday, and they are squirming under the lash. He asserts that the public life of Chicago is corrupt and that its private morals do not shine for a world to admire.

Even in the best newspaper offices accidents will happen, as in the case of the New York Herald, which recently stated that a man had died of "sorosis of the liver," meaning, of course, cirrhosis.

WHEN PAY DAY COMES.

When pay day comes what transports thrill
The o'ercharged soul and seem to fill
The whole wide world with blissfulness!
Each stranger face smiles a caress;
The rustle of the crisp bank bill
Sounds sweeter than the bitthesome trill
Of spring's first songster, and a still,
Deep sense of riches we confess
When pay day comes.

Whereas despair was rife, the skill
Of hidden forces works until
Our cherished griefs grow strangely less—
Are lost in raptures that possess
The citadels of mind and will
When pay day comes!

THE POSTAL CONGRESS.

Boston Globe: The potal congress at Washington will do a good thing if it changes the maximum weight of a single-rate foreign letter from a half ounce to an ounce. The rate would then conform to the American domestic rate and a troublesome exception would be done away with.

Chicago Times-Herald: By far the most important question of all is the universal stamp issue. It is probable that this congress will not see its way clear to recommend the adoption of the universal stamp, but the time is surely coming when it will be possible to purchase such a stamp in any postoffice on the globe, with the assurance that it will carry a missive to any city or village on the globe that is under an organized government.

Kansas City Journal: It is gratifying to reflect that the universal postal system had its origin in our own country. The idea was conceived thirty-five years ago by Postmaster General Blair of Lincoln's cabinet. Previous to that time separate treaties with different countries involved a complexity of rates and weights that greatly encumbered the service. The first conference was held in Paris in 1863, and, as a result, within a few years the maximum foreign letter rate charged in the United States was reduced from $1.02 to 24 cents.

Philadelphia Ledger: Among the matters to be considered by the coming congress is the proposition to adopt an international or universal postage stamp, not to be used for domestic postage, and the arrangement providing for an international return stamped envelope. The universal postage stamp proposition was submitted to the Vienna congress in 1891 by Postmaster General Wanamaker and the international return stamp proposition was made at that congress by the British delegates. Neither proposition was accepted at the time for the reason it was urged, that complications arising from differences of currency and in the rates of exchange would make the schemes impracticable. A motion was made to refer the propositions to the international bureau at Berne for more minute consideration, but this was opposed by the chief of the German postal department, and the motion fell. It is said that both propositions will fall in the present congress.

New York Sun: It is generally thought that, of the more important new measures proposed, the one most likely to succeed is that of increasing the unit of weight for single letter postage. It is now half an ounce for 5 cents. One argument for an increase is that in some countries the allowable weight has been increased to an ounce, and it is desirable, if possible, not to have a different standard, or at least a lower, for letters going from one country to another. Liberality in the margin of weight allowed seems to be good policy, for many letters will still not go over the half ounce, while it favors those who do not have appliances for determining weights or ready access to postoffices. The increase of weight implies greater expense for transportation where mails are paid for by weight, but not a proportional increase for other handling and for office work. It is thought, however, that, in order not to make too radical a change, the new unit of weight, if one is established, may be three-fourths of an ounce instead of an ounce.

THE NEW TARIFF BILL.

THE HIDE DUTY A MISTAKE.

Philadelphia Press (Rep.): There is undoubtedly a sentiment in some parts of the West in favor of a duty on hides, but the proposition will be received with great disfavor in the East. The old duty on hides was abandoned twenty-five years ago. The business of this country is framed to this condition. The leather manufacture is adjusted to it. The restoration of the duty will benefit no considerable class, certainly not the farmers and cattle raisers in whose interest it is ostensibly proposed. It would be wrong to ignore the fact that there is a call in some sections for this duty and that some good and judicious men, like Senator Allison, support it. But none the less must we regard them as mistaken and as proposing a policy which will not help the West and will prove most unfortunate in the East.

AN UNFORTUNATE TAX.

Milwaukee Wisconsin (Rep.): The proposed tax of 10 cents a pound on tea, which has been recommended by the senate finance committee, was a surprise to everybody, as tea has been on the free list for the past twenty-five years. It is in the nature of an emergency tax, as it expires by limitation Jan. 1, 1900. It is unfortunate that this tax should be required, for tea is an article of almost universal consumption, and it will be felt as a hardship by the tea drinking women of the country. But the necessities of the government are so urgent that it requires all the money that can be legitimately raised from imports.

TAXING HIDES.

St. Louis Republic (Dem.): Taxing hides is an interesting feature of the bill, because it will offer New England a dose of the medicine which she has been administering to the rest of the country. We shall see whether she will patiently swallow the blow directed at one of her chief industries. In this feature is hope of a row among the bounty grabbers which may result in the benefit of the whole people. With that possible exception there is not much relief in the senate's amendments. The trusts get their plunder and the modifications of the schedules merely make them not quite so bad as they were.

HINT TO THE HOUSE.

Chicago Times-Herald (Rep.): The platform on which Mr. McKinley was elected pledged the administration to no particular schedules. It is impossible that the ways and means committee of the house should contain all the wisdom and all the knowledge on this question. It is admitted that the measure as amended will yield $50,000,000 additional revenue annually; and it is admitted that it is conservatively protective. More than this the house cannot ask at this time.

A MORE MODERATE MEASURE.

Springfield, Mass., Republican (Ind.): Aside from the tax on hides, the increased duty on carpet wools and the apparent repeal of Hawaiian reciprocity, the senate bill is a more moderate measure as a rule than the Dingley bill. The house rates have been reduced in many cases, and particularly in the tobacco schedule, where duties on filler and wrapper tobacco have been put back where they are in the present law. The retroactive clause drops out as it should.

THE HAWAIIAN AGREEMENT.

Cleveland Plain Dealer (Dem.): Two important features of the senate bill are the elimination of the provision in the Dingley bill which continued the Hawaiian reciprocity agreement and the dropping out of the retroactive provision which imposed Dingley bill duties on all imports on and after April 1. The effect of the former will be to additionally complicate the Hawaiian question, already sufficiently complicated. The dropping out of the retroactive provision tends to put Secretary Gage in a hole for his haste in treating as a de facto law what was merely a bill that had passed only one stage of its progress to the statute book.

DAMAGE BY TARIFF CHANGES.

Indianapolis News (Ind.): Alexander Hamilton himself could not come within gunshot of telling what revenue would be yielded by either the Dingley bill or the senate bill. And the worst of it is that our tariffs cannot in the nature of things be permanent. In the last twenty years we have had four tariffs, and the one now incubating will be the fifth. Three of those five tariffs, including the one about to be enacted, have been enacted in the last seven years. And no one expects the tariff of the present year to be permanent. What folly it all is.

PASS THE BILL.

Philadelphia Times (Dem.): No matter whether the new tariff policy shall stand or not, it is of vital importance to the whole country that it should be speedily put into operation and practically tested. As business is waiting for it, and as there can be no possible enlargement of investment in industrial enterprises while there is any measure of uncertainty as to the tariff policy of the government, every senator should appreciate the necessity of aiding the passage of the new tariff at the earliest day possible after reasonable consideration.

NEW DEPARTURES.

Philadelphia Ledger (Rep.): The senate bill departs from the letter of the Republican platform in abandoning reciprocity and in practically overthrowing the Hawaiian treaty. This question is bound to excite warm discussion in the senate and in the house. The senate proposes that where any country shall pay a bounty on an exported article the United States shall enact an additional duty equal to such grant.

More Activity in Mining Circles Is Reported.

Virginia, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a little more activity in mining circles. The Norman mine will ship 400 tons daily and expect to put on a night crew Wednesday or Thursday night. The Fayal has commenced loading the stock pile with a steam shovel and will continue to increase shipments. The Auburn is shipping a number of cars daily and will increase shipments in a few days. At the Hale mine, the management say they will commence work and shipping about May 15. The Roberts mine will commence shipping soon and probably will be a heavy shipper before the season is over. The Cincinnati mine is loading only five cars daily, but expects to increase shipments about May 15.

CHANGED

The Aldermen Decide to Have D. A. Reed For City Engineer.

His Rejection Was Reconsidered and Ten Votes For Election Secured.

The Board of Public Works Authorized to Employ Day Labor on Trenches.

The council last evening confirmed the election of D. A. Reed as city engineer by a vote of 10 to 6, reversing its action at the meeting a week ago, when the resolution recommending confirmation was defeated by a tie vote. Alderman Hanson moved the reconsideration. Aldermen Rowley and Stevens were instantly on their feet, objecting strenuously. The latter raised a point of order that reconsideration could not be had at this time. He was overruled and appealed, the chair being sustained by a vote of 12 to 4.

Alderman Jefferson put Hanson on the rack. The former asked the latter what had brought about the change in his mind.

Alderman Sang interpolated that Alderman Jefferson's question was highly improper, and that Mr. Hanson should not answer it. The latter, replying to Alderman Jefferson said his object was to stop the present friction, to which the alderman from the Third responded, sneeringly, that the change was probably due to new information received by Mr. Hansen.

The motion to reconsider was carried by a vote of 9 to 7, and then a parliamentary war began. Motions to lay on the table, refer back to the committee, to refer to the city attorney and to adjourn followed each other, all of which were defeated. In the intervals between the grapples, vigorous speeches were made on both sides.

Alderman Jefferson appealed to the council to get a good man, one in whom the public would have confidence. If Mr. Reed were elected, he said, there would be no end of trouble. The waterworks were too important an undertaking for the employment of any but the best; talent that could be secured.

Alderman Shannon said that, while he might not approve of all appointments that might be made, he was not in favor of assumption by the council of any responsibility in cases where the duty of appointment rests in other quarters, so long as fairly good men are selected.

WANTED FRICTION ENDED.

Alderman Sang said his reason for supporting Mr. Reed was that he desired to put an end to the friction and get to work. He said that if another engineer was put in and an engineer left on the board there would be a continuance of friction.

"Well, are you sure you will have an engineer, either in the engineer's office or on the board?" was the shot that Alderman Jefferson fired in reply to this.

Alderman Harker said that the council should not confirm a man on whom, when the matter is sifted, the blame of the state of affairs at Lakewood may be found to rest. Alderman Jefferson said that he would move as an amendment that the election be made temporary and made some more remarks about Mr. Reed. Ald. Sang suggested that if Alderman Jefferson had anything definite to urge against Mr. Reed, he had better prefer charges against him.

"Well, I will, if you will give me one week," said Alderman Jefferson, "and against the whole board of public works as well."

"Mr. Chairman, I think we ought to go slow," said Alderman Stevens. A shout of laughter went up from the spectators at this.

"Well, I mean this evening," added the speaker, and proceeded to urge his reasons for further deliberation. More parliamentary fencing followed, but Reed's adherents forced a show-down at last. The vote on the confirmation was as follows:

Yeas—Crassweller, Dahl, Duren, Hanson, Richardson, Shannon, Simpson, Sang, Tischer, Cochrane, 10.

Nays—Burg, Harker, Jefferson, Rowley, Stevens, Trevillion, 6.

WORK ON THE TRENCHES.

A resolution was unanimously passed, after considerable discussion, authorizing the board of public works to employ 150 additional men and to proceed with day labor on the trenches until the contracts are let. The resolution directing that contracts be let on the work came near being rescinded, the vote on the question being a tie. The matter came up in a resolution by Alderman Jefferson giving the board power to proceed to complete the work by day labor, and employ as many men as it saw fit.

Alderman Rowley emphatically denounced the resolution as a scheme of the mayor's. A motion to rescind the contract resolution was by the chair, declared to be necessary before putting Alderman Jefferson's motion, the motion to rescind being lost as stated. The number of additional men to be employed was fixed in the statement of Mr. Smith, of the board of public works, as to the force necessary to keep ahead of the pipe laying.

The ordinance fixing the speed of all vessels in the canal, and of vessels of over 500 tons gross burden in the harbor at not more than six miles per hour, was passed by a unanimous vote. The penalty for a violation is fixed at not more than $100 or more than ninety days in jail.

The appointment of Dr. C. L. Codding, W. M. Hubbard and R. W. Mars as members of the library board was confirmed.

A communication from the mayor was received giving an account of the expenditure of the special fund of $200 for the expense of the special charter commission. It was recommended, that in addition, the claim of E. R. Cobb for per diem at $2 per day while engaged in working on the charter, amounting to $18, be paid, and also the sum of $63.22, the city's proportion of the stenographer's fees. These two items went to the committee on claims and accounts.

THE SALARIES QUESTION.

The city attorney submitted a long opinion holding that the salaries of Chief Black and Electrician Palmer must remain at the old figures until changed by the board of fire commissioners. Secretary Truelsen's pay, it was held, however, may be fixed annually, the secretary being appointed for a term of one year only. The attorney general, it was stated, endorsed the opinion.

A report from T. W. Hugo stating that the pumping engines can be furnished for the contract price if no more payments on proportional accounts are made. It was referred.

A communication from the Building Trades council was received stating that the committee of that body appointed to examine the pump house walls had reported that the stone was painted and the sand not up to the specifications. Contractor Fredrickson was censured and the voidance of the contract with him demanded. Referred.

The following resolutions were passed:

Directing the board of public works to advertise for bids for a steel truss to carry the force mains and rider over Lester river, and to let the contract for the same if the cost proves not to exceed that of a wooden one; directing the board of public works to investigate and report on the matter of repairing the dock at Clyde avenue, Ironton; directing the city attorney to take steps to collect a judgment of $4553.77 in favor of the city against the street railway company; directing the comptroller to publish a statement of the city's financial condition on March 1, and the city treasurer to give a guaranty bond in the sum of $100,000; confirming the report of commissioners in condemnation for the right of way for the force mains through unplatted lands east of Lester river; directing the First National and American Exchange banks as depositories and fixing their bonds at $500,000 each.

The following petitions were referred: For altering the line of the Swan lake road to run south of the Martin and Thompson hills; allowing the estimate to the Carroll-Porter company for pipe, amounting to $16,211.12, to the city attorney for investigation as to the validity of the waiver of the boatsmen; awarding to the Gillette-Herzog company the contract for two miles of 36-inch steel supply main pipe at $39,916; for the insertion of a provision in trench work contracts that Duluth labor be employed at not less than $1.50 per day, introduced by Alderman Dahl.

There was a warm debate on the latter. President Cochrane, who had left the chair to oppose it, denouncing it as socialistic and the height of folly. It went to the city attorney.

The following petitions were received and referred: From residents of Ironton, asking that the street railway company be notified to extend its line to the center of Ironton; from the pawnbrokers, asking that the annual license be reduced from $250 to $100, and from the draymen, asking that licenses on drays be fixed at $5 for two horses and $2.50 for one horse teams; from O. H. Simonds and others, against granting an employment agency license to W. H. Alexander, of 10 Fifth avenue west, for the reason that the establishment is in a saloon.

Alderman Duren introduced a resolution fixing the pay of the police secretary at $70 per month for the current year, but the council adjourned before it was put to a vote.

There was no caucus in the afternoon, the council being merely called to order and adjourned.

SPELLMANS INDICTED.

The Grand Jury Charges Them With Arson.

The grand jury yesterday afternoon returned indictments against Thomas and Rachel Spellman, charging them with arson in the third degree. The case was investigated last week, but the indictments were not returned to the court until yesterday afternoon. The bills allege that the Spellmans set fire to their building at 1813 West Michigan street for the purpose of getting the $4200 insurance there was upon it. There was a mortgage upon the building for $3500. The fire was promptly squelched by the department, and it is claimed that unmistakable evidences of a deliberate attempt to burn the building were discovered. Florence Angieman, a niece of the Spellmans, who lived with them, was bound over in municipal court, but the grand jury failed to find any evidence connecting her with the crime, and no indictment was found against her.

Indictments were also returned against Charles Lundberg and Abraham Levant for grand larceny in the second degree. They are accused of stealing knives and revolvers from the store of the Duluth Hardware company shortly after the fire.

NEWSPAPER MAKERS

Have Troubles Like the Rest of Us.

It is a matter of note that great numbers of newspaper editors and attaches are troubled more or less with a sort of nervous dyspepsia, which will not yield to medicines. They almost invariably get better by abandoning coffee and tobacco, showing that nature will revive if the oppressive poisons are removed. Habit, however, is a powerful lever to keep a man in a rut. The fraternity have come to know Postum Cereal Food Coffee and are enabled to revel at will in their coffee three times a day, not only without harm, but the result of the practice brings flesh and strength in a remarkable degree, for the reason that Postum is made up of the parts of the cereals containing the albumen gluten and phosphates which nature uses to build up the gray matter in the nerve centers.

"It makes red blood" is a great trademark and it means something to the brain workers who supply the reading world with their daily supply of news.

There is but one original Postum Cereal Coffee with hundreds of weak imitations offered as "just as good."

HAS KEPT HIS PROMISE.

Ex-Mayor Lewis Says D. A. Reed Kept Faith.

Ex-Mayor Lewis said today that the understanding had with D. A. Reed at the time of the latter's appointment to the board of public works bound Mr. Reed not to make any efforts to secure the office of city engineer only up to the time of the appointment of W. H. Smith to the board. Beyond that time, Mr. Lewis said, he thought he had no right to lay any restrictions on Mr. Reed, nor did he do so.

"The next vacancies were to be filled by Mayor Truelsen," said Mr. Lewis, "one in three months and one in a year, to which Mr. Wilson and Mr. Smith were appointed respectively. Mr. Reed promised me that he would not make any attempts to get the office of engineer until Mayor Truelsen had made those appointments, and he has kept his promise."

G IS THE CHAMPION.

Won Out in the Ball Game Last Night.

The indoor baseball game between Companies A and G resulted in a victory for G, and the members of that company were elated. It was a fine game and both sides played to win. Company A had one of its best men, Melby, the pitcher, missing, and this probably handicapped it somewhat, although Don Gearhart filled the box in first-class shape. In former games the first inning seemed to be the hard one for the G boys, and when they retired their opponents without a score, G stock was high. A failed to score in the nine innings. G scored one in the first and two in the sixth. In the fifth inning it looked for a few minutes as though G was going to pile up a high score, but the base runners got slightly rattled and before they came to the side had been retired. G did not play the last half of the ninth and the game closed with a score of 3 to 0 in favor of G. The batting was not unusually heavy, although some long hits were made. Only one man got a base on balls and two or three were struck out.

Following the game there was informal dancing. Hoare's orchestra played, and for two hours a large number of young people enjoyed themselves.

A NEW VOCAL TEACHER.

Prof. Woodward Has Opened a School of Music.

Professor Francis E. Woodward, who has taken charge of the First Methodist church choir, is located in the Mesaba block, in the rooms formerly occupied by Mark C. Baker. Associated with him is his wife, Emily Ellis Woodward, and they will instruct both in vocal culture and piano. Professor and Mrs. Woodward came here from Boston. They were known and recognized in that city of culture and art as singers and teachers of great ability. Mr. Woodward comes here first of all for his health, but also to take charge of the music at the First M. E. church. He had a record of thirteen years of most successful work as teacher, artist, singer and conductor, and numbers among his pupils many artists filling the positions as teachers and singers in Boston and different parts of the country. Mr. Woodward has had the finest advantages, being a graduate of the New England conservatory of music, and also a teacher in this well-known institution. He has studied with such masters as Charles R. Adams, George J. Parker, Clara Rogers, Max Heinrich, Signor Campanari of the great Metropolitan Opera company and many others in this country, besides having enjoyed the privilege of studying under the world's greatest teacher, Signor Shriglia, of Paris. Signor Shriglia is the founder of the greatest of voice methods, and has as his exponents the most renowned artists of the day, namely, M. Jean de Reszke, who, up to the time of his study with Shriglia, was a well-known baritone, but is now the greatest tenor on any stage. His brother, M. Ed de Reszke, Nordica, Sanderson, Pol. Plancon, Paul Dome, all are pupils of this great master. Mr. Woodward received a flattering offer while studying with Shriglia in Paris to sing in grand opera, but his tastes were not along that line, and he returned to Boston, where he is known as an exponent of the Shriglia school. Mrs. Woodward's voice, of rare quality, with the easy emission of tones as high as E in alt., has always won for herself many admirers wh rever she has sung. Her work is always marked by that artistic finish which is heard none too often.

DR. HOBBS

Hears More Reports

Notwithstanding So Many People Have Already Reported, on His Second Free Distribution of Pills the Number Increases Daily.

All Say They Have Received Great Benefit and Feel that a Speedy and Permanent Cure Will Follow.

The Test is Regarded on All Sides So Far As a Forerunner of Great Success.

It is only a few days ago that the second announcement of what is bound to again prove one of the most remarkable tests ever made of a discovery in medicine, appeared in this paper. So far a large percentage of those who received a free sample of Hobbs Sparagus Kidney Pills have made a report which as a whole is satisfactory.

When it is considered that so great a number of our citizens suffer from kidney troubles of one kind or another, have, within this short time found a medicine which has greatly benefitted them, and that all appear to be on the road to rapid recovery, the incalculable value of Dr. Hobbs' discovery to suffering humanity, cannot be overestimated.

If scores of people in the city of Duluth alone received so much benefit from this remedy on the first free distribution, and are receiving equally as much on the second distribution, what an untold blessing it must prove to be, and what a vast amount of suffering it will save when the people of the whole world come to know of it!

Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills have already firmly established themselves and gained the confidence of the people in this community, and have more warm friends in Duluth and vicinity than all of the kidney remedies that were ever heard of here before put together.

They have become the almost universal topic of conversation in every part of the city. Nothing of such importance has presented itself to the people of Duluth in recent years. Bright's disease, rheumatism (which is traceable 99 times out of 100 to kidney sluggishness and inactivity,) backache, impure blood, malarial germs, and, in fact, all the thousand and one diseases that come from a deranged condition of this filter, cleanser and purifier of the body, are all now stripped of their horrors since it has become a well-known and established fact that a safe and harmless specific for their cure has been discovered in Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills.

There are undoubtedly hundreds of thousands of people who are suffering to a greater or less degree from kidney troubles who do not know it.

Some are in a drawsy, dull condition—feel languid; generally speaking, they say they feel pretty well, when accosted by some friends, yet they have not that bright, sharp, vigorous tone to their system as of yore. Unbeknown to them, poison from their kidneys (which are a little out of order) is gradually collecting in their system, and totally unconscious of the fact, they are slowly, but surely being poisoned to death.

It may be a process of years, but the result of the kidneys working imperfectly means almost certain destruction at last. No man can feel vigorous and bright, and no woman has that healthful, rosy tint to her cheeks that poets have paid homage to, since the creation of the world, where the kidneys are not performing their functions properly and regularly, day and night.

A plant commonly known as a vegetable, but which in reality is one of the most valuable and active kidney medicines—asparagus—has, by the skill of medical science, been called upon to perform its duty as nature intended it should.

Asparagus has been known for years to the medical fraternity to possess a certain amount of virtue for kidney ailments. Dr. Hobbs took up this subject many years ago, and after long and patient experimenting, is enabled to combine the medicinal properties of the asparagus plant with other valuable diuretic and kidney healing remedies known to the medical fraternity of the world, in such a form that it can today, under his formula, be regarded as a positive specific for all forms of kidney, bladder and urinary diseases in both sexes.

SMALLEY CONCERT COMPANY.

The Smalley Grand Concert company will be heard at the First Methodist church Friday evening. An exchange says of the quartet:

"The very fine program was exceedingly well rendered, every selection showing the participants to possess not only more than ordinarily fine voices, but that they had received much skillful and successful cultivation. Marie Louise Perrine's voice was very smooth and of decided compass, while Gertrude Sprague at the very opposite extreme showed wonderful skill, and could fill the low notes to a degree that was surprising to every one present, and her solo, the old bass favorite, 'Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep,' was indeed a surprise for a female voice."

HEINRICH MEYN.

The Heinrich Meyn concert to be given at the Lyceum, Friday evening, May 20, is the talk of all music lovers in Duluth just now. Mr. Meyn is a great singer, and has received great ovations everywhere. The Springfield Republican says of him:

"The especial sensation of the evening was caused by the superb performance of the young baritone, Heinrich Meyn. Mr. Meyn has a noble voice, rare dramatic power, and a good method; he delivers his tones with certainty, ore rotundo, and with an effectiveness that thrills the pulses of his hearers; he can also soften his splendid voice to the most restrained and gentle effects. One seldom hears a baritone so strong, so magnetic and so expressive."

TALKED WITH MR. AMES.

Minneapolis Journal Man Saw Him Friday Evening.

In reference to the dispatch from Fargo regarding C. C. Ames, which appeared in the Minneapolis Journal on Friday evening, that paper on Saturday evening said:

"There appeared in the Journal last night a special telegram from Fargo which made some very serious allegations against C. C. Ames of the firm of Ames & Lockman, grain commission men, of Duluth. Mr. Ames having formerly lived in Fargo. It now appears that the Journal's Fargo correspondent was deceived by a rumor which has arisen through Mr. Ames' absence from Duluth. The Journal was informed of Mr. Ames' whereabouts last night, and was able to see him for a few moments before he left the city. He was able to prove that his accounts are straight, and that in a short time he will be on the ground again to make it uncomfortable for those who have circulated false reports.

"The firm, Mr. Ames said, suffered a heavy loss by having paid a draft on forged bills of lading last fall, which crippled them. Mr. Ames states that a reorganization is about perfected which will place the firm on a good financial basis."

THE MINERAL LAWS.

Reasons Why They Should Be Extended Here.

A prominent explorer and prospector, in speaking of the action taken by a few gentlemen who met last Saturday and instructed Secretary Buchman of the jobbers' union to inform Congressman Morris that there was no necessity for extending the government mineral laws to Minnesota, said:

"Without the application of the mining laws to the new gold field there can be no general development or growth. The country, if any important discoveries are made and excitement aroused, will be speedily bought up by speculators. Every acre of government land that lies within the bounds of what is now believed to be the gold belt of the American side can be purchased with scrip at $5 an acre with an outlay of less than $500.00, which is no more than the estimated value of the two or three acres that are owned by the Little American company. Homesteaders can take possession of 160 acres each, which is more than any person or company ought to control if mineral of value is found upon it. Under the mining laws a claim, which may be acquired without cost by any man who will do $100 worth of development work on it each year for five years, consists of about twenty acres. This leaves the field open for men who will hunt for gold and expend labor and money in prospecting their discoveries. Speculators who buy the land with scrip or who take it up under the homestead and stone and timber acts will delay development. They will, as a rule, do little prospecting themselves, and will not permit others to do anything without first paying tribute to them. The only way that a big population can ever be attracted to the extreme northern part of St. Louis county is by extending the mining laws to that country. Then, and only then, will prospectors go there in large numbers. Canadian laws attract miners. The American laws repel them. Only speculators can offer objections to the proposed measure, for that class alone can profit by existing regulations."

TEACHERS

List of the Kindergartners Who Will Be Retained Next Year.

The Name of Miss Clark, the Principal, Does Not Appear.

Five Teachers Are Also Dropped---Monroe School Kindergarten Stopped.

The list of teachers for the next school year of the independent school district is now practically complete, the contracts with the kindergartners having all been closed and the list prepared for presentation to the school board at its meeting Saturday night. No action has yet been taken on the principalship. No principal has been employed, however, the name of Miss Mary S. Clark, who has been principal of th kindergartens for several years, not appearing on the list. Five kindergartners are released and their places are not filled. The Monroe kindergarten has been closed, but one of the kindergartners has been retained and will probably be placed elsewhere. No kindergartners have been employed for the Bethel kindergarten.

The list of those who have been employed is as follows:

Adams school—Minnie A. Leopold, director; Edith Scoville, assistant.

Emerson school—Mary McRae, director.

Endion school—Anna Farrell, director; Susie Barnard, assistant.

Franklin school—Jean Poirier, director; Ruth Ingalls, assistant.

Glen Avon school—Margaret Graff, director.

Irving school—Emma Schneider, director; Gertrude Seaton, assistant.

Jackson school—Lucy Peckham, director; Lillian Ingalls, assistant.

Jefferson school—Maud Nichols, director; Clara S. Clapp, assistant.

Lakeside school—Maud Porter, director.

Longfellow school—Adelma Bradley, director.

Lester Park school—Margaret Quillard, director.

Madison school—Agnes Buchanan, director; Jessie Nichols, assistant.

Monroe school—Emma Longstreet, director.

Washington school—Edyth M. Baker, director; Florence Williams, assistant.

THE RUSH FOR LAND.

Twenty-Two Applications Were Received Today.

Townships 59-11 and 60-11 were opened for entries at the United States land office today, and there was a rush in the morning, but not a very lively one, that is, not so lively as some have been. At 6 o'clock about fifty men were clustered around the door of the federal building waiting to get in. When the doors were opened there was one rush to get in and up the stairs to the land office door. There was quite a scrimmage, in which caps were lost, coats torn, etc. C. McNamara, of Tower, had his coat fairly torn from his back. A woman, Bessie Wixeen, was the first to file, and made a timber and stone application. Up to noon there had been 22 applications, of which 15 were accepted, 7 conflicted with homestead entries or Indian allotments. Of the 15 accepted filings, 7 were homestead entries, 7 were timber and stone entries, and 1 was a pre-emption filing. The pre-emption claimant alleges settlement since 1891, and the homesteaders since 1890.

Tomorrow township 65-19 will be opened, and a greater rush is expected.

Rocky Mountain Stages.

Two stage coaches of the kind used in the Rocky mountains in the old staging days have been purchased by the transportation company operating between Tower and the gold fields for use over the Crane Lake road. The first of them is expected to arrive in Duluth tomorrow for shipment to Tower. C. S. Sargent, manager of the company, left this afternoon for Tower to make a tour of the inland lake and stage route. Quite a number of passengers are being transported to the gold fields and the work of forwarding the freight that has accumulated at Tower will be commenced at once.

MORE INQUIRY REPORTED.

Dingley Tariff May Increase Demand For Stumpage.

Dealers in pine lands report considerable inquiry for stumpage and while no sales have been reported of any consequence, a number of deals are being negotiated which will undoubtedly be consummated. It is expected that the duty of $2 a thousand provided for in the Dingley bill will stimulate the lumber market and create a demand for pine lands. It is not believed that the effect of the tariff will be felt at once very materially as the Tonawanda and other markets are now being filled up with Canadian lumber which is now being rushed into the United States in anticipation of the passage of the Dingley bill. This will cease, however, as soon as the law becomes operative and will increase the demand and better the prices for American pine.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

New York, May 12.—The stock market opened with slight variations either way, but with general tendency downward on continued uneasiness regarding the possible extent of the gold exports this week. Sugar broke a point on Washington reports of the sugar schedule being in jeopardy, but quickly rallied ¾. Union Pacific was strong and improved ⅝. The railways soon displayed an improved tone and gained fractionally on liberal purchases. Union Pacific was the leader of the movement and touched 7⅜. Some of the industrials exhibited heaviness, particularly Tobacco, which sagged ⅝ on rumors of unfavorable developments at today's annual meeting. Sugar was erratic, but tended mainly lower on pressure by the bears. Chicago Gas received effective support and crossed 83 on buying for both accounts.

Liquidation in New Jersey Central was resumed and the price fell off ¾c to 77c, but without noteworthy influence on the other anthracite coal stocks or on the general market. Business was very quiet and values moved very narrowly in either direction. Purchases by London gave the chief stimulus to the rise in Union Pacific, the securities of which were dealt in quite freely at advanced prices. Oregon Navigation preferred was again in request and moved up to 45½c. The bond market displayed general firmness, but the trading was in moderate volume. Sales of stocks up to noon, 65,000 shares.

SIR DONALD SMITH'S VIEWS.

London, May 12.—Sir Donald Smith, the Canadian high commissioner, in an interview with a representative of the Associated Press today, said he was hopeful that fast steamships between Canada and Great Britain would be running within two years. In regard to the tariff propositions submitted to the parliament at Ottawa, Sir Donald Smith said that it was nothing but the accentuation of Canada's attachment to Great Britain, with which country she desires the closest possible commercial relations. Certainly, he added, it was prompted by no feeling of hostility to the United States, with which country Canada is eager for real reciprocity.

LINOTYPE MACHINES.

Kansas City, Mo., May 12.—According to one source there is to be war between the International Association of Machinists, which closed its biennial convention here yesterday, on one side, and the Typographical union and the linotype experts on the other. Just before the final adjournment of the machinists, it is said, they passed resolutions in secret demanding that those having charge of typesetting machines shall be members of the International Association of Machinists. The sessions of the machinists were held in secret, and the passing of the resolutions was supposed to have been known only in the convention.

The officers of the convention afterwards denied that such a step had been taken, and it was given out that the matter had finally been referred without action. As the position alleged to have been taken by the machinists is strenuously opposed by the Typographical union and the experts, a sharp fight is anticipated if such a measure has really been adopted. The executive board, which remained in session after the convention adjourned, finished its work today.

VICTORY

Greeks Vary the Monotony By a Naval Success Off Tenedos.

Two Hellenic Gunboats Capture a Turkish Steamer With Rich Cargo.

Turkish Rule Proclaimed in Several Important Former Greek Settlements.

Athens, May 12.—Advices received here today from the island of Skiathos, off the east coast of the Volo peninsula, says that the Greek gunboat Venus and the Greek torpedo boat No. 14, captured yesterday, off the island of Tenedos, on the west coast of Asia Minor, a Turkish steamer, having on board 100 Turkish soldiers, six officers, 300 Martini rifles, several thousand cartridges, six quick-fire guns, various military stores and £4000 in cash.

The money was found upon a Turkish major, who was one of the officers captured. The Greek warship took the prize to the island of Skiathos.

TURKISH RULE.

Moslem Officials in Charge at Several Greek Towns.

Constantinople, May 12.—A decree issued today by the council of ministers orders a battalion of gendarmes to Larissa and also appoints the former Ottoman consuls at Volo, Larissa and Trikkala to be Kaimakams, or administrators of those districts, with powers to organize Turkish administration in these parts of Greece.

The sultan will personally defray the cost of the war medals which are to be presented to the Turkish troops which have taken part in the campaign against the Greeks.

GREEKS FLEE TO ARTA.

Constantinople, May 12.—The Turkish military commander at Janina telegraphs that all the Greek forces in Epirus have fled to Arta, abandoning 3000 rifles, 300 cases of ammunition and a mountain gun. Seventy-nine Greeks were killed in the recent fighting. The fourth batch of wounded Turkish soldiers has arrived here.

A FIGHT IMMINENT.

Pharsala, May 12.—Important fighting is expected here between the Turks and Greeks, unless an armistice is immediately agreed upon at Constantinople.

TWO GIRLS LYNCHED.

Supposed to Have Poisoned a Whole Family.

Huntsville, Ala., May 12.—At daybreak today the bodies of Mollie Smith and Mandy Franks, two negro girls, were found swinging from ropes from trees on the side of the road leading from Jeff, Ala., to Huntsville.

The lynching was done at an early hour by a mob of about twenty persons. The two girls were suspected of poisoning the family of Joseph O'Kelly at Jeff.

Mollie Smith was arrested last night while making her way across the Tennessee line, and Mandy Franks was captured at home. The latter is said to have made a confession.

The first poisoning of the family was about two months ago, and Mr. O'Kelly died. A few days ago several other members of the family were poisoned, but all are recovering.

VICIOUS BILLS KILLED.

Humphrey Bills Defeated in Illinois Legislature.

Springfield, Ill., May 12.—The Humphrey bills extending the franchises of all street railways in Illinois fifty years and vesting the control of existing lines and new franchises in boards of commissioners, instead of the aldermen of the various cities, were killed in the legislature today.

The enacting clause of the first bill was stricken out by a vote of 123 to 29. Similar action was taken regarding the second bill by a viva voce vote. The Humphrey bills have been subjected from the start to a red-hot fight by the civic reform organs and the newspapers, and the defeat of the bills caused widespread rejoicing.

HANGED FOR MURDER.

Somerville, N. J., May 12.—Elmer Clawson was hanged here today in the Somerset county jail. Elmer Clawson was 19 years old. He shot a former employer, Harry Hodgett, a farmer, on the morning of Aug. 29 last. The murderer, on the morning of the crime asked Hodgett to re-employ him, and on the farmer's refusal to do so a quarrel began during which Clawson drew a revolver and fired three shots at his victim, two taking effect. Then, mounting a wheel, the murderer rode away. Clawson has since his conviction professed contrition for his crime and recently at his request was baptized into the Methodist Episcopal church.

PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATIONS.

Washington, May 12.—The president today sent the following nominations to the senate: War—Brig. Gen. James W. Forsyth to major general.

Postmasters—Iowa, Marion Bruce, Rolfe. Michigan—Henry R. Huntington, Benton Harbor; Ramsey Arthur, Schoolcraft.

RIVER TOLD THE SECRET.

The Electrocution of Murderer Frantz at Dayton Tomorrow.

Dayton, Ohio, May 12.—The electrocution of A. J. Frantz, the murderer of Bessie Little, is set for tomorrow. The crime and the subsequent arrest of the perpetrator makes one of the most sensational stories in the criminal annals of this state. Both the accused and his victim came from good families, and both were devoted members of the church and professed Christians. Last summer the dead body of the girl, Bessie Little, was found in the river. The remains were viewed by the coroner and then interred, the verdict being death from unknown causes. The chief of police, Thomas J. Farrell, started to work on the case, made up his mind that there was something more in the case than had been made public, and he had the body taken up and re-examined. No marks of violence were found, and the body was again buried.

Still not satisfied, Chief Farrell again had the body disinterred, and then it was that the bullet holes were found in the victim's head. A day or two later Chief Farrell had collected evidence sufficient to cause the arrest of Albert J. Frantz, a well known young stenographer. He at first denied all knowledge of the girl's death, but later acknowledged being out riding with her on the night of her death. She was despondent, and finally drew a revolver and shot herself. He became frightened, and threw her dead body into the river. The detective work performed by Chief Farrell would make a story equal to any of Gaboreau.

Insanity was pleaded for Frantz as supplemental to the suicidal theory, but despite a stubborn fight by his attorneys, he was condemned to death. This will make the third electrocution under the new law changing the means of inflicting legal death to electricty.

COSTLY PROTECTION.

Levee Expenses at New Orleans Eat Up Taxes.

New Orleans, May 12.—The river is again stationary, but at a point nearly two feet above the highest stage of 1883, the previous record. The strain is terrific, but with the aid of the good weather and heroic efforts, is being magnificently borne. The financial drain is now becoming evident and the La Fourche board has levied a special tax. President Thomas of the Orleans board favors increasing the general levee tax from 1 to 2 mills.

The main fight is still at the Burton levee, where another break occurred at 7:30 o'clock this morning. It is under the dry kiln which is built across the levee. The break is now the width of the building. A large force of men is now working on the break, but it will take at least twenty-four hours to close it.

WAIL FROM SCALPERS.

Ticket Brokers Will Memorialize Governor Black.

Pittsburg, May 12.—The American Ticket Brokers' association is holding its nineteenth annual convention here. About 200 of the 500 members in the association are in attendance. The convention will discuss and take action on the new laws the railroad companies are having introduced in congress and the various states, prohibiting competition in the selling of unused tickets by scalpers. A law has now passed prohibiting the same in New York.

Secretary McKenzie, of Cleveland, has prepared an elaborate report, which he will send to Governor Black today. The statement protests against the law; sets forth the reasons for such protest, and asks him not to sign the bill, which is now in his hands.

AMBASSADORS AT CONSTANTINOPLE.

Constantinople, May 12.—The ambassadors met yesterday for an exchange of views on the subject of mediation. In the meanwhile the Turks are advancing in Greece. Edhem Pasha's original orders being to march upon Athens. Uneasiness prevails here on the subject of peace negotiations. It is feared that the reported conditions will render an agreement difficult and cause further complications. It is said Russia may propose concessions to the Macedonians. The director of the Duetsche bank of Berlin is expected here shortly with proposals to reorganize the Turkish finances, conclude a loan and secure railway concessions.

SETTLERS FOR MINNESOTA.

Washington, May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Grigla, immigrant agent of the Great Northern railway, is here. He has collected a party of forty families in Pennsylvania and fifty in Baltimore, the heads of which will shortly leave to make homes for their families in Kittson county, Minn.

NEW POSTMASTER.

Washington, May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Swedback was today appointed postmaster at Upsala, Morrison county, Minn., vice Edwin Peterson, removed.

SYMPATHY

Senate Thinks One Greek Resolution of Sympathy Is Sufficient.

So Senator Allen's Motion Was Turned Down in the Committee.

Tariff Bill Will Be Called Up Tuesday---A Cuban Conference.

Washington, May 12.—The senate committee on foreign relations today decided upon an adverse report upon Senator Allen's resolution expressing sympathy with the Greeks in their war with Turkey, on the ground that the subject had been covered in the action of the senate of last session on a resolution, of which Senator Cameron was the author. The Cameron resolution was agreed to without reference to committee on Feb. 20, and when the Allen resolution was introduced on April 20, a promise was made that if it should be permitted to go to the committee it should have immediate attention. What delay there has been was due to the fact that the committee's meetings were not regularly held.

The only material difference between the two resolutions is that the Cameron resolution was an expression of sympathy with the Greeks in their intervention in Cretan affairs, whereas the Allen resolution expressed sympathy with them in their struggle against the advancement of the Ottoman empire, and expresses the opinion that this sympathy should be tendered by the executive.

The committee also took up informally the Cuban question and decided to ask the secretary of state to supply the fullest possible information in regard to the situation in Cuba. The opinion was expressed that Secretary Sherman would be willing to put the committee in possession of all the facts at his command.

Senator Aldrich returned to Washington today, and said that nothing had occurred to change his determination to call up the tariff bill on May 18, the date which had been set by him when he reported the bill. Speaking of the claim of the Democrats that they had not sufficient time to examine the comparative statement, he said that it had been furnished them in time, he thought, to answer every purpose.

Senator Allen has presented a resolution in the senate requiring E. R. Chapman to present himself at the bar of the senate and purge himself of contempt before clemency be extended. The Allen resolution went over until tomorrow. The Morgan Cuban resolution also went over until tomorrow to permit the committee on foreign relations to present a statement.

A CUBAN CONFERENCE.

Senate Foreign Relations Committee and McKinley.

Washington, May 12.—An important conference is in progress at the White House this afternoon between the president and Senators Davis, Foraker and Morgan of the foreign committee in the senate, presumably about the Cuban question.

APPROPRIATION BILLS.

Washington, May 12.—The senate today passed bills appropriating $1,500,000 for a public building at Indianapolis, and $200,000 for one at Deadwood, S. D.; also a bill granting Montana 50,000 acres of land in aid of an asylum for the blind.

TRANSVAAL'S REPLY.

Looks Like a Virtual Defiance to Chamberlain.

London, May 12.—A special dispatch from Cape Town says that the reply of the Transvaal government to the strong note, said to amount to an ultimatum, from the secretary of state for the colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, insisting upon observance of the London convention, is defiant in tone.

It insists, the dispatch says, upon the right of the Transvaal to demand arbitration of the questions in dispute, and also upon its right to pass the aliens immigration law, and asserts that if this right is disputed, arbitration is the best means of arriving at a settlement of the question.

TWO MINERS ASPHYXIATED.

Oxford, N. J., May 12.—The bodies of Adam Snyder and Barney Rider were found at the bottom of the zinc ore mine on the Raub farm, about one mile from this place, at 7 o'clock this morning. The men had been employed by prospectors, and went to work last evening. At 10 o'clock they were hoisted from the mine and, after taking their lunch, returned to their work. That was the last seen of them alive.

Philip Rapp, who had charge of the hoisting engine, says the men gave him no signal after they re-entered the mine after lunch. When the day shift was lowered this morning the men were horrified to find the bodies of their companions. They had been overcome by gas.

RAIN CAUSES DAMAGE.

Parkersburg, W. Va., May 12.—Rain fell in torrents here last night, causing big damage to railroads. No trains on the Baltimore & Ohio were run today owing to two bridges having been washed away at Cairo, thirty miles east.

PLANING MILL BURNS.

Uniontown, Pa., May 12.—Laughead & Madezette's large planing mill plant was destroyed by fire this morning. Loss, $55,000; insurance, $25,000.

WILL ROW AT HENLEY.

Teneyck's Son After the Diamond Sculls.

New York, May 12.—Another American oarsman is going to try and win the diamond sculls at the now famous Henley regatta. Edward H. Teneyck, son of James A. Teneyck, the well-known professional oarsman of the Wachusett boat club, of Worcester, Mass., who defeated Joseph Whitehead, of Cambridgeport, Mass., the national champion, in a match race on Lake Quinsigamond, Worcester, Mass., last October, will compete at the Henley regatta in July. An evidence of his speed may be taken by the fact that when he competed in the intermediate single scull at the last national regatta held on Lake Saratoga last August, his time for the mile and a half was 12 seconds faster than the time of the winner of the senior single event and he was not hard pressed at any stage of the race.

The qualifications for a contestant at Henley are such that there are few men engaged in the sport in this country who are eligible to row there as amateurs. Young Teneyck, however, possesses all the qualifications for competing as he is still a student, being a pupil at the public school at Worcester, his home. When he competes at Henley he will be within one month of celebrating his 18th birthday.

PROBABLE LYNCHING.

That is If Arizona Trailers Catch Their Man.

Prescott, Ariz., May 12.—Last night a message was received from Sheriff Ruffner, which locates his posse twenty-three miles north of town on a fresh trail of Parker, the train robber and murderer. They will be camped for the night, awaiting the arrival of the Indian trailers. The other jail breakers cut loose from Parker and have gone in an opposite direction. A big posse leaves today on the north-bound train with fresh animals.

Parker, since Sunday has been without food and he is evidently so closely pursued that he has become bewildered. A fight to the death is expected before he is captured. There are over fifty officers out from this city, and the country is thoroughly aroused. The city is quiet, but the citizens are determined if a capture is effected.

FIRES AT 'FRISCO.

About Half a Million of Damage Will Result.

San Francisco, May 12.—Early this morning fire broke out in the tannery of A. B. Patrick & Co., which occupies a strip of land on Sixth avenue south, between Q and R streets, and two hours later there was little left but ruins. The loss to the plant and stock is estimated from $400,000 to $425,000, with insurance of $200,000. The buildings destroyed numbered ten, four of which were two and a half-story frame structures, and one a five-story building. The remainder were one-story sheds. The fire had almost full sway after it started, from the fact that the firemen could not get to the rear, the strip of land on which the tannery was situated being bounded on three sides by tide-water.

Almost simultaneously five tenement houses on Telegraph Hill were burned. The families occupying them barely escaped with their lives, so rapidly did the flames spread. Loss about $75,000.

Another blaze destroyed four cottages on Wisconsin street, in South San Francisco, last night. Loss, $5000.

An explosion of gas in the grocery store of D. Bordori, 1020 Bryant street, wrecked the building, injured a number of people, including the proprietor, and did damage to the extent of $4000.

COTTONWOOD LUMBER BOOM.

St. Louis, May 12.—The Mississippi Valley Cottonwood association in session here has decided to advance the price of all grades of cottonwood lumber $2 per 1000 feet. This action was taken on account of the destruction of cottonwood which the lower Mississippi floods have caused, resulting in a demand far in excess of the supply. Last year members of the association had produced 100,000,000 feet of cottonwood, but the supply this year would fall far short of that figure. The average price of cottonwood lumber will hereafter be $12 per 1000. Another important matter was the adoption of a memorial to the United States senate asking that the proposed duty of $2 per 1000 feet, board measure, on all imported lumber be levied.

EMBEZZLER VASSAR'S CASE.

San Francisco, May 12.—Rufus H. Vassar has appeared before Police Judge Low to answer to the charge of embezzlement preferred against him by Maud Mitchell Dugan. The ring was returned to the young woman. Upon the promise of one of Vassar's friends that he would write to his people in New York for the $112 which Miss Dugan claims he stole from her, the prosecution of the embezzlement charge was postponed. It is understood that Miss Dugan will not prosecute Vassar if he returns the money.

PATENT ORDER MODIFIED.

Washington, May 12.—Commissioner of Patents Butterworth has modified the six months' order as to patents issued under the last administration. Commissioner Seymour prevented the admission of an amendment to an application if presented more than six months after any action in the case. The new order repealing the former provides that if an amendment to an application be presented more than six months after any action, of which notice must be given to the applicant, it may not be admitted except upon a showing duly verified of good and sufficient reason why it was not earlier presented.

BIG RAILWAY BOND SALE.

New York, May 12.—The Illinois Central railroad has negotiated a sale of $30,000,000 of 3½ per cent gold bonds, secured upon the former Chesapeake, Ohio & Southwestern, and St. Louis, Alton & Terre Haute; also $1,250,000 Chicago, St. Louis & New Orleans first mortgage 3½ per cent bonds to retire maturing divisional bonds, and $2,000,000 of maturing Springfield division bonds to be renewed at 3½ per cent.

NASHVILLE

The New Gunboat Which is Scheduled For a Trial Trip Shortly.

One of the Prettiest and Most Useful Vessels of the Navy.

Unusual Fittings and Very Economical Arrangement of the Engines.

Washington, May 12.—The gunboat Nashville, which will go out on her maiden trial trip today if the weather permits, over the Long Island sound course, is an exceedingly pretty vessel. Yet, with a handsome appearance that the sailor loves so well, the gunboat combines so many other qualities that she is the particular pride of Chief Constructor Hichborn, under whose plans she was built.

The boat is unlike anything else in our navy and is designed to supply a need that has been very much felt of late years, in that she will make a most effective naval police boat that can be maintained in active service for a small proportion of the cost of operating one of the large cruisers which have been the recourse of the navy department for all sorts of small but important commissions, such as maintaining a patrol against the filibusterers, looking after pelagic sealers, running up shallow rivers in the Orient and generally carrying the American flag into ports where it is necessary to make a show for the advancement of our commercial interests and the safety of our friends living abroad.

The Nashville was built by the Newport News Shipbuilding company at a cost of $280,000, which makes her one of the cheapest ships ever constructed for our navy, considering her qualities and uses. She is the only one of the three gunboats just built by that company for the government to carry sail, being rigged as a fore and aft schooner with two pole masts bearing sails, the canvas being calculated only to steady her in a seaway.

The most novel feature of construction is found in the arrangement of her engines and boiler. These are so designed that the ship will be equally economical at high or low speed, whether running at eight or fifteen knots per hour. This is accomplished by quadruple expansion engines on her twin screws. At low speed the low pressure cylinders are cut out and steam is used from the boilers only in the triple expansion engine. At high speed the engines are quadrupled and steam is supplied directly to the high pressure cylinders from four boilers, while the other two turn their steam at lower pressure into the intermediate cylinders.

The Nashville is a vessel of 1371 tons displacement, 220 feet long by 38 feet 3 inches beam and drawing only 11 feet of water. The contract calls for a speed of fourteen knots per hour, but she is expected to make at least a knot more than this, and provision is made for the payment of a bonus of $20,000 per knot in excess. She carries an unusually powerful battery for a vessel of her class, and being designed with a view to service in tropical waters, is fitted with all the accessories that make life comfortable aboard ship there.

THE TRIP POSTPONED.

Bridgeport, Conn., May 12.—The trial trip of the new gunboat Nashville, scheduled for today has been postponed on account of the weather.

GRAND ARMY GROWL.

Which Lacked the Backing of Good Sense.

Washington, May 12.—Complaint has been filed at the pension bureau against the soldier's home at Roseburg, Ore., alleging that it is violating section 4755, of the revised statutes making it a misdemeanor for any one pledging, or receiving as a pledge, the mortgage, sale assignment or transfer of any right, claim or interest in any pension certificate or to hold it as security for any debt or promise. Some inmates of the home called attention to the matter and it was taken up by several Grand Army posts, one of which, at Roseburg, has made formal complaint.

The bureau has made an investigation and exonerated the management of the home. There are legal authorities both ways and a decision construing strictly the statute cited would, it is stated, not only be unjust, but lead to serious consequences. The evidence shows that the home directors have required all pensioners to surrender their pensions to the treasurer of the home. Four dollars a month is then allowed each person for personal expenses and the remainder is paid to dependent relatives, or if there are none, the money is accumulated for the benefit of the pensioner. This practice is substantially similar to that in operation at twenty-one other soldiers' homes.

The pension bureau takes the position that it is not expedient to intervene in the case, as the act of March 3, 1893, by implication, sanctions the requirement which has been in force in most of the state soldiers' homes.

"TICKETS PLEASE!"

Thousands of Conductors Have Gathered in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, May 12.—More than 2000 delegates to the twenty-sixth session of the Order of Railway Conductors arrived yesterday and before sunrise this morning an additional 1000 had arrived to swell the throng now surging through the corridors of the hotels. A large number of the delegates were accompanied by their wives. The St. Louis special arrived this morning and the Chicago special arrived yesterday afternoon in two sections. The Pennsylvania division which was to arrive today over the Southern route is delayed by a washout near El Paso. It is in two sections and it will probably be a day before it can reach Los Angeles. The train bearing the New York delegation is expected Friday morning.

Promptly at 1 o'clock yesterdayt afternoon the delegates convened at Music hall Grand Chief Conductor Clark occupying the chair. The roll call showed a majority of the delegates present. The reports of the grand chief conductor and other officers occupied the whole of the session and in the evening a public reception was tendered to the visitors.

The sweetness of the first embrace with the woman of his choice will always linger in a man's mind. It is a pity that the sweet memory should ever be poisoned by the taint of ill-health and consequent unhappiness. It is sad that the flower of a happy remembrance should be obscured and killed by the noxious weeds of sickness and sorrow. Too frequently this is the case. A woman cannot be a happy, helpful amiable wife who suffers from weakness and disease at the very mainsprings of her nature. Pity may grow up to take its place, but love itself seldom survives where this is the case. If a woman will, she may always hold her place in a man's mind and heart. If she will take the right care of herself in a womanly way she will never lose her rightful inheritance, a husband's love.

The best of all known medicines for women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly on the important and delicate organs that make wifehood and motherhood possible and makes them strong and well. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, soothes pain and tones up and builds up tired nerves. It prepares for almost pangless motherhood and insures healthy children. Thousands of women who were sickly, nervous, fretful invalids are now happy, cheerful and helpful wives as a result of its use. All good medicine dealers keep it and there is nothing "just as good." Any dealer who tries to persuade you that there is, is thinking more of his profit than of your welfare and health

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a safe, sure, speedy, permanent cure for constipation. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe. Druggists sell them, and no other pills are as good.

FATHER'S VENGEANCE.

May Be Visited on His Daughters' Murderers.

Paducah, Ky., May 12.—John Ray, ex-sheriff of Carlisle county, is on a manhunt. He is now somewhere in Southeastern Missouri searching for a man whose name he refuses to disclose. Nearly five years ago Ray's two daughters, aged 16 and 21, went blackberry hunting, near Bardwell, Ky. Four hours later they were found dead. Their throats had been cut, and they had been outraged. Two thousand men scoured the country for the assailants. J. S. Seay Miller, a negro, was captured in Missouri. He confessed, and was hanged at Bardwell by a mob, composed of every white man in Carlisle county.

The father of the girl contended that more than one man was implicated in the killing of his children. Sunday he found proof which confirmed his suspicion. He also discovered clews which pointed at a certain white man. Ray declares that the negro lynched was only an accomplice. He traced the suspect to Mayfield, Ky. Tuesday the fugitive fled to Missouri, with Ray only a few hours behind him. The father is terribly wrought up, and swears summary vengeance.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.

A Pleasant, Simple, but Safe and Effectual Cure for It.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs, and difficult breathing; headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue, and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlandson, the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet composed of diastase, aseptic pepsin, a little nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and not being a patent medicine can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. N. J. Booher, of 570 Dearborn street, Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition, resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passes backward into the throat, reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of the stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of the stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

Send for little book, mailed free, on stomach troubles, by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores.

BRYAN

Great Preparations Being Made For His Coming California Visit.

Will Give San Francisco a Speech as Well as Los Angeles.

Interesting Revenue Question Which Confronts the Revenue Officials.

San Francisco, May 12.—Chairman Alford of the Democratic state central committee has been arranging the details of William J. Bryan's visit, and preparing for a great occasion on the night of July 7, when the distinguished visiter will be given an ovation, and will address a mass meeting. A week ago Chairman Alford secured Mr. Bryan's promise to come to San Francisco immediately after the banquet to be given Mr. Bryan at Los Angeles on July 5.

A number of leading Democrats will go to Los Angeles by special train and escort the orator to this city, arriving on the morning of July 7. On the evening of the 8th Mr. Bryan will leave for Oregon. W. W. Foote wired Mr. Bryan begging for more time and speeches than he had alloted to California, but has received word that it would be impossible now to alter the distinguished visitor's program.

BURNED BRANDY.

Problem For San Francisco Revenue Officers.

San Francisco, May 12.—The internal revenue officials have had a nice question of internal revenue law put to them on account of the burning of the ship Francis, off the coast of New Jersey, last Saturday. On the ship were 200,000 gallons of California wine and 20,000 gallons of California brandy. On the brandy there is a tax of 1.10 a gallon.

The brandy was being transferred from a bonded warehouse in this city to one in the East, and Lachman & Co., and others in this city who owned the brandy, gave bonds that they would deliver it to a bonded warehouse in the East. Having failed to do so, they are technically liable for $22,000.

It is a question for the commissioner to determine, and as it is not known here whether any of the brandy was saved from the fire, Lachman & Co. will be compelled to file a complaint.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Virginia, Minn., May 12.—Dan Rice, a brakeman at the Oliver mine, got caught under the wheels of a derailed engine Monday night. The train was making a last trip with a load of cars, and standing on the front of the engine were two working hands and Rice. As soon as the danger became apparent the two laborers jumped. When Rice jumped the wheels caught him, throwing him to the ground. The calf of his right leg was torn almost entirely away from the bone and the left ankle was broken. Amputation will not be necessary, but Rice will be laid up for several months.

There are times when the variation of a pulse beat tells the practiced physician whether the scale will go down and mean death or up and mean life. But suppose the medicine he prescribes is not the medicine which your child is taking, but something the druggist thought would do just as well! Who is going to regulate the balance then? A druggist who will offer you something else when you ask for Scott's Emulsion will do the same thing with his prescriptions. Get what you ask for!

IT BROUGHT HER STRENGTH.

Story of How a St. Paul Woman was Induced to Follow the Indians' Example, and, Like Them, She Enjoyed Health.

Other Suffering Women Should Do Likewise.

The Kickapoo Indian Remedies, as Sold To-day, Are Identically the Same as They Were When Used by the Indians, and Still Prove Themselves in Every Instance to be Restorers of Health.

There are hundreds of women to-day who are semi-invalids, worse perhaps than though they were absolutely confined to their beds. They drag themselves around, unable to enjoy life, unable to attend to their work, suffering continually more or less, and with each year becoming a greater burden to their families. The cause for such troubles may often be found in a deranged condition of some one of the great vital organs of the body, the stomach acting improperly, failing to digest its food as it should, the blood becoming impure, and no longer absorbing the nourishment derived by the stomach from the food, the kidneys and the liver diseased and unable to expel from the body the poisonous secretions that naturally collect therein—and all this results eventually in a collapse of greater or less magnitude, until the patient either ends a life of weary invalidism by a complete breaking up of the vital forces, or in her weakened condition becomes a ready prey to some existing malady which soon carries her off, being unable to cope with that which, under ordinary circumstances, would be but a trifling disorder. If women would but doas the Kickapoo Indian women did, and instead of taking noxious drugs, follow their example and take Nature's own great remedies, health, strength and long life would be theirs. Kickapoo Indian Sagwa, the great blood purifier and invigorator of the stomach, liver and kidneys, by keeping these organs in a healthy condition, makes good health an assured fact. Mrs. Harriet Jansen of 554 Bay St., St. Paul, Minn., is one of the great army of women who had suffered for years and at last found health and strength by using Kickapoo Indian Sagwa. To use her own words, she says: "I had been an invalid for five years, and had spent a great deal of money for doctors and medicines. Received no benefit from any of them. I was induced by a friend to try Kickapoo Indian Sagwa. Three bottles made a different person of me. My appetite returned. I sleep well and enjoy myself as I used to before I was ill and life became a burden to me. I can now do my own house work again, as I had not been able to do for several years. Am gaining in flesh and my friends say I look five years younger. All this I thank God for, and bless you as the instrument in the hands of an all-wise Providence, who effected a complete cure in my case. I recommend your medicines to every one whenever the opportunity offers, and I can safely say that your Kickapoo Indian Sagwa will do all, and more than you claim for it."

We will mail free to any address, our pamphlet entitled "The Kickapoo Indian Doctor." This is full of useful information in regard to symptoms of disease, how to prevent disease, and how to cure disease. No family should be without this useful and instructive book. Address the Kickapoo Indian Medicine Company, New Haven Conn.

WANT IT "OPEN."

No Money in Kansas For a Temperance Show.

Topeka, Kas., May 12.—The temperance crusade which has been inaugurated here threatens to break the annual fall festival, which has been widely advertised to take place in September. Some of the men who have agreed to contribute declare that they will withdraw their subscription unless the agitation shall cease.

A member of a leading drug house says to day: "We cannot run a good show on a Sunday school basis. Unless the assurance is given that things will be 'open' we will not give any money. I know several other business men who think this way, and who will act in a like manner. The same sentiment has been expressed by other business men."

BLANTHER'S WIVES.

Murderer's Mates Bob Up Serenely at Intervals.

San Francisco, May 12.—While the San Francisco police were scouring the world for the record of the murderer of Philippoena Langfeldt, there remained unknown to them a chapter in his life, the scene of which was laid in San Francisco. Joseph Edward Blanther was married in San Francisco, March 23, 1887, to Irene E. Campbell, by Rev. Father John E. Cottle, then assistant rector of St. Mary's church.

The fact of his marriage here was completely hidden from the police, and would probably have never been heard of but for a desire of the widow to obtain the contents of a certain tin box which she thinks the police of this city have in their possession. The first intimation of the fact came in a letter from the widow's attorney, J. L. Hudson, of Houston, Tex., which has been received by Sheridan Whelan.

It is highly probable now that the police were mistaken in the belief that the woman with whom Blanther lived while in Chicago was Annie Walker. It is much more probable that the woman was Irene Campbell. This woman is the fifth to claim wife-hood with Blanther.

CAVALRY MOUNTS.

England Seeking Them in Argentine Republic.

Washington, May 12.—The bureau of the American republics has received reliable information that in the latter part of April a commission, composed of fifteen cavalry officers and six veterinary surgeons, left England for the city of Buenos Ayres for the purpose of buying a large number of horses in the Argentine Republic, to be used in the cavalry service of the English army.

The circumstance is regarded as significant only in the fact of showing the development in that part of the world. It is the first time that any European country has had recourse to the markets of South America for such a purpose. Heretofore the British army has been supplied with horses from the United States and Canada, and to a limited extent from the continent of Europe.

Mlle. Yvette Guilbert, the celebrated cafe chantant singer, will be married today at Paris to Dr. Max Schiller. Dr. Schiller is a bachelor 26 years old.

Charley Jacksen, colored, charged with attempting to wreck a railroad train was taken from Constable F. M. Norworthy yesterday while on his way to Clinton, La., by an armed body and hanged to a tree.

The body of Anthony Konitskuski, swollen and disfigured, was fished from a 25-foot well in New Boston, Pa., yesterday. He probably met his death by violence. The well is the main supply of the 600 residents of the village and the remains have been in the well at least two weeks.

What appears to have been an organized attempt to rob Cook county by means of forged juror certificates was detected at Chicago. Two men are under arrest and warrants have been issued for four others.

The Greek commissariat has collapsed. The only rations now received by the soldiers are bread and cheese. Not even coffee is procurable.

Quebec provincial election took place yesterday and resulted in the complete overthrew of the Conservative party. In the last legislature the parties stood: Conservative, 50; Liberals, 23. These figures have been reversed as the result of yesterday's election. The Liberals having elected fifty members with a probability of fifty-three and the Conservative s about twenty.

Pouch, the murderer of the Harris family near Waukesha, Wis., has not been captured. A man arrested at Franksville, Racine county, proved to be a well-known farmer.

Homer T. and Walter Fowler were taken to Madison yesterday by Deputy Marshal Frank Meehan. They were arraigned at noon. Myron Reed, of West Superior, appeared as their attorney. They pleaded not guilty, and bail in the sum of $5000 each was furnished with Peter Elmon as surety. The Fowlers claim that politics are back of the prosecution.

At St. Paul the grand jury late yesterday afternoon made another partial report, handing in one indictment, which was not given out. This indictment is another against William F. Bickel, and charges him with tureen y of a number of promissory notes, about half a dozen in number.

Herman M. Shaffer, a professor in the Rochester, N. Y., theological seminary, was accidentally killed yesterday by falling out of a window at his home. He was 58 years old and leaves a son in Milwaukee and a daughter in Chicago.

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

The loss by the Sheldon fire Saturday is estimated at $30,000; insurance about $10,000. The contents of safes are intact. Few will rebuild until after harvest. The Sheldon Enterprise has not a single except of this and a desk. There was $500 insurance on the building and $500 on the stock.

Marie Rieks, the window smasher, was in Fargo Monday. Last Friday St. Paul authorities sent her do Jamestown. From there she went to Detroit, then to Fargo, and this morning was sent back to Jamestown. North Dakota people have sore on Minnesota authorities for sending the woman up here, and she is likely to be returned to St. Paul in short order.

A section of the Lisbon mill dam has given away and the "apron" is destroyed. Consequently the water has receded about five feet. The damage is considerable. O. Nelson, the manager of the mill, was in Wausecа, Minn., when the accident happened.

In district court at Fargo Andrew Lindborg, who was charged wit hattempdin gto poison his wife, was dismissed after the jury had disagreed in his case.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Clive Perry, aged 15, was accidentally shot by Nelson Pegland, aged 12, at Ashton. The boy was handling a hammerless shotgun when it went off, the charge passing through the door and into the shoulder and face of the girl, who was at work in an adjacent room. The charge contained fifty-two shot, many of which the surgeon was unable to extract. The patient is doing well and has a fair chance to recover.

At Sioux Falls the grand jury has returned an indictment against Rev. T. Powell Richards, rector of the Episcopal church, at Dell Rapids, charging him with teaching boys and girls immoral practices. The affair has caused a wide sensation, and Dell Rapids is divided over it into factions, one defending the minister and the other strongly condemning him. He has been highly successful as a clergyman.

The federal court at Pierre convened yesterday morning, Judge Carland presiding. A damage suit for $1800 against the Northwestern railroad for the alleged burning of a mill at St. Lawrence by sparks from an engine is on trial.

THE OREGON'S ACCIDENT.

Seattle, Wash., May 12.—The government board of inquiry appointed to investigate the nature of and responsibility for the obstruction on which the battleship Oregon settled while lying at the entrance of the Pugent Sound naval station, has begun its session at Port Orchard. The hearing is behind closed doors. Rear-Admiral W. A. Kirkland is acting as judge, and J. H. Hetherington as judge advocate. Capt. Barker and Lieut. Commander Drake of the Oregon were the first witnesses. The inquiry has nothing to do with the dock itself. It is simply to fix the blame for the accident to the Oregon caused by the obstruction outside the dock.

Sent Free to Men.

INDIANA MAN DISCOVERS A REMARKABLE REMEDY FOR LOST VIGOR.

Samples Will Be Sent Free to All Who Write For It.

James P. Johnston, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., after battling for years against the mental and physical suffering of lost manhood has found the exact remedy that cures the trouble.

He is guarding the secret carefully but is willing to send a sample of the medicine to all men who suffer with any form of sexual weakness resulting from youthful ignorance, premature loss of memory and strength, weak back, varicocele and emaciation. The remedy has a peculiarly grateful effect of warmth and seems to act directly giving needed strength and development wherever needed. The remedy cured Mr. Johnston completely of all the ills and troubles that come from years of misuse of the naturally ordained functions and is said to be absolutely reliable in every case.

A request to Mr. James P. Johnston, Box 1001, Ft. Wayne, Ind., stating that you would like a sample of his remedy for men, will be compiled with promptly and no charge whatever will be asked by him. He is very much interested in spreading the news of this great remedy and he is careful to send the sample securely sealed in a perfectly plain package so that its recipient need have no fear of embarrassment or publicity.

Readers are requested to write without delay.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—

Whereas default has been made in the conditions of a certain purchase money mortgage which was duly executed and delivered by John C. Van Norman, mortgagor, to Laura V. Caldwell, mortgagee, bearing date March twentieth (20th), 1891, and which was duly recorded in the register of deeds' office for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on April eighth (8th), 1891, at one o'clock and twenty minutes (1:20) p. m., in Book seventy-one (71) of mortgages, on page three hundred sixty-eight (368) thereof; such default consisting in the non-payment of the sum of $3469.89, of the principal sum thereby secured, and of interest thereon from June 1st, 1895.

And whereas there is therefore claimed to be due, and there is actually due, upon said mortgage debt, at the date of this notice, the sum of three thousand nine hundred twenty-five and 16-100 ($3925.16) dollars principal and interest;

And whereas said mortgage contains a power of sale in due form, which has become operative by reason of the default above mentioned, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made, said mortgage will be foreclosed, by a sale of the premises described therein, situate in St. Louis County, Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: Lots number one (1) and two (2), in block number thirty-six (36), of West Duluth, First Division, according to the recorded plat thereof on file in the office of the register of deeds in and for said county and state; which premises will be sold by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the fifth (5th) day of June, A. D. 1897, at ten (10) o'clock a. m., at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and seventy-five dollars attorney's fees, stipulated for in said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

ADVANCED

Wheat Made a Small Gain Today on Considerable Bullish News.

Crop Reports From California Were of a Decidedly Gloomy Character.

Shortage of Twenty Per Cent in the French Crop Reported.

The early news of the wheat market was rather bearish and Chicago started at a decline, but the initial sales on the Duluth board were at an advance of ⅛c over yesterday's close. The bearish influences were the fine weather West and better crop reports from all winter wheat sections, with the exception of California. Reports from there, however, were of a decidedly gloomy tone. In addition there were reports of a 20 per cent shortage in the French crop. Later Liverpool cables showed a good advance from the opening, and the local market gradually strengthened. Not a whit better than the news from California was that from Illinois, although there was not so much noise made about it. The acreage sown last fall was 1,749,000 acres and all of that left standing is 520,000 acres. The condition of that small remainder is 51, indicating roughly a crop of about 4,000,000 bus compared with a yield last year of 28,200,000 bus. Regarding the deficient promises of the French crop, it means about 65,000,000 bus less than was raised last year and therefore suggests that France will have to import at least 50,000,000 bus foreign wheat next season.

Trading was active on the Duluth board, July wheat opened ⅛c higher at 75¾c, sold up to 76⅝c on the bullish news mentioned above, but during the last hour declined to 75¾c. The close was at that figure, being an advance of ⅛c for the day. Shippers bought 50,000 bus of cash stuff at 1½c over July. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat:—No. 1 hard, cash, 77½c; May, 75¾c. No. 1 northern, cash, 77½c; May, 75¾c; July, 75¾c; September, 69¾c bid. No. 2 northern, cash, 75½c. No. 3, 70@71¾c. Rejected, 74@76c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 77½c; No. 1 northern, 77½c. Rye, 35c. No. 2 oats, 21c; No. 3 oats, 20½c. Flax, 74½c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Minneapolis, May 12.—Wheat active and steady; May, 74½c; July, 73¾@73½c; September, 69½c. No. 1 hard, 76¾c; No. 1 northern, 73½c. Receipts, 150 cars.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade, Chicago, May 12.—After nervous fluctuations extending over a range of 1½c wheat finally closed just where it opened and about the same as last night. Early buying was mainly on orders from the seaboard and foreigners were reported good buyers at New York and London. California news was unchanged and the Illinois crop report showed a worse condition of affairs than had been dreamed of. Advices from the Southwest, however, were more favorable and indicated a very early harvest. The market broke back to its starting point on the sale of about 2,000,000 bus by a prominent St. Louis short seller. Cash business continues unimportant and the reported large business at the seaboard yesterday failed of confirmation. Trade is nervous and runs quickly on any news either way. We think the buying side safest for the present.

Corn and oats eased off again as expected as the shorts got in yesterday. Receipts continue light.

Provisions developed no new features worth recording.

Puts, July wheat, 73¾@73c.
Calls, July, wheat, 74⅝@74½c.
Curb, July wheat, 73½c.

WON THE CHESTER CUP.

London, May 12.—M. R. Lebaudy's chestnut horse Court Schomberg, five years old, won the race for the Chester cup at the Chester meeting today.

MARINE MATTERS.

The Ore Freight Situation is Decidedly Flat.

Cleveland, May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Vesselmen from Detroit, Buffalo and other places who have been here during the past few days looking for ore freight contracts, might as well have stayed at home. A little flurry was caused by the ore purchases of the Illinois Steel company, but nearly all of this will be cared for by boats of the ore companies, and the situation is as flat as ever.

RETALIATION ON VESSELMEN.

Welland, Ont., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sailors along the canal want the government to pass a retaliation law that will require American vessels to ship Canadian crews to take them through the canal. Canadian seamen claim that they are shut out in every way, even train crews being changed as soon as the line is crossed.

PASSED DETROIT.

Detroit, Mich., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Up: Sitka, midnight; Chisholm, 3:40 a. m.; Schuylkill, 7; Northern Queen, 7:30; Wawatam, 7:40; Cherokee and consort, 8:20; Berlin, 9:10; Eriesson, Holley, Desmond and consort, 9:30; Lenty and consorts, 11:30.

Up yesterday: London, 11:40 a. m.; Bannockburn, 12:10 p. m.; V. H. Ketchum and consort, 1:20; North Wind, 3:30; Wetmore and consort, 5:30; Kearsarge, 6; John Duncan, 8:50.

THE SAULT PASSAGES.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Up: Wade, St. Andrew, 9:30 last night; Mark Hopkins, 5:30 a. m.; Oglebay, 7; Harper, Tyrone, Christie, Amaranth, 9; Coralla, 10. Down: Selwyn Eddy, 2:40 a. m.; S. Mitchell, 5; Vega, Marina, Stevens, 6:20; Manola, Martha, Nimlok, Alberta, 7:50; China, 9:30; Pratt, Ash, 10.

Up yesterday: Devereaux, 4:20 p. m.; Prentice, Halsted, Middlesex, Huron City, Bay City, 6:10. Down: Vanderbilt, 5 p. m.; Peshtigo, 9.

PASSED PORT HURON.

Port Huron, Mich., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Down: Mariska, 3:15 a. m.; J. Eddy, 4; E. M. Peck, 4:30; G. Farwell, 8; Fisk, 9:30.

Down yesterday: Aragon, noon; Commodore, 3:15 p. m.; Spokane, 3:30; Venezuela, Law, Hoyt and consorts, 8:45.

CAPT. BERMACK ARRESTED.

Buffalo, May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charter: Arenac, with salt to Duluth, at 30c. Capt. Hermack, of the Arenac was arrested this morning on a warrant sworn out by a deckhand named Kretschman, charging assault on the high seas. He gave bonds and was released. The charge is not regarded as serious.

VESSEL MOVEMENTS.

Ashland—Arrived: Victory, Constitution. Cleared: Fulton, Thomas, Lake Erie.

Buffalo—Cleared: Armenian, Nyanza, Siberia, Curry, Duluth.

COAL-CARRYING OUTLOOK BAD.

The coal freight market is very quiet, and in some cases big vessels are having trouble in getting cargoes, says the Cleveland Leader. If the big carriers continue to take coal at the low rates that are being paid, there will be but very few up cargoes to be had late in the season. Some owners do not seem to care much what rate they get; all they want is a cargo. The greater part of the coal that has been shipped up to date has been taken by vessels of the larger class.

SUIT AGAINST A STEAMER.

Evidence has been taken at Kingston, Ont., in a suit brought in the United States district court of Minnesota against the steamer Arabian by the Marine Insurance company. The action is brought by the company to recover from the steamer some $20,000 damages paid the Montreal Transportation company by the insurance company for injuries sustained in 1891 by their vessel, the Minnedosa, in the Welland canal, which damages are alleged to have been caused by the fault of the Arabian in negligently running into the lockgate and smashing it.

PORT OF DULUTH.

Arrived—Stephenson, Bell, Wilson and whalebacks, Fairbairn, Corliss, Siemens, Krupp, Lake Erie, light for ore; Pentland, Buffalo, light for grain; Shores, Dobbins, South Chicago, railroad iron; Sawyer, Redfern, Lake Erie, light for lumber; City of Duluth, Chicago, pass and mdse; Crescent City, shipyard; Neshoto, Yuma, Bielman, Lake Erie, coal; Harlem, Alaska, Buffalo, mdse.

Departed—Vilean, Buffalo, grain; Mohawk, Buffalo, flour; Stephenson, Bell, Lake Erie, ore; Dixon, Port Arthur, pass and mdse.

MARINE NOTES.

Thus far but a single corporation has shipped hard coal from Buffalo the present season, and it is reported that it will shut down the present week.

It is stated at Cleveland that a small steamer and consort which made a trip to Lake Michigan with coal and back with ore quit $300 in debt.

Of twenty-six vessels which whitered at Ashtabula all but the steamer Cumberland and consort Verona have gone into commission.

The new revenue cutter Walter Q. Gresham will leave Cleveland on May 20 for Sault Ste. Marie.

The steamer L. C. Waldo has broken Marquette's iron ore cargo record. With 4500 tons she exceeded by 700 tons the heaviest previous cargo, that of the Aurania last season.

The Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin says: "The Duluth News Tribune states that the one-time steamer Clement, which is now serving as a lighter at that port, was the first and only sidewheel steamer on the lakes. No better evidence than this is required to demonstrate the extent to which the business of marine reporting has degenerated."

Tug men are complaining that the range lights have been put in wrong, especially those above the bridges in St. Louis bay. They claim they do not mark the channel properly. A petition will be sent to the lighthouse board in regard to them.

The Zenith City again broke the cargo record today by taking 50,500 bushels of rye and 131,181 bushels of wheat, a total of 5463 tons and 880 pounds. The Carnegie's record is close behind with 182,000 bushels of wheat, or 5460 tons. The Zenith City drew 16 feet, and was aground in the elevator slip for some time this afternoon.

Dr. C. W. McFadden, dentist, has removed from Miller building, to rooms 33 and 39 Lonsdale building.

WEST END

The Ironton Steel Plant Is More Closely Guarded Than Ever.

No Questions as to What Is Going on Will Be Answered.

Applications For Ground For Gardening Are Being Received.

The rule of secrecy that has been adopted by the management of the Ironton Structural Steel company is being more rigidly enforced than ever. Now they not only will not permit visitors on the premises, but they will answer no questions even of the most unimportant character concerning the plant. They will not even tell whether any portion of it is in operation or likely to be. A few men are evidently employed there, for they go and come at regular hours, and nearly every day the furnaces are fired, but what is being done no one not connected with the establishment is permitted to know. If the institution was a secret still in the mountains of Georgia, it could not be more closely guarded.

MANY APPLICANTS ALREADY.

The liberal offers of vacant land for use by the poor for gardening purposes has given great impetus to truck farming in the West End. There are already quite a number of applicants for garden patches in the tract on Duluth Heights which was turned over by Myers Bros. to the superintendent of the poor for the benefit of those who wish to cultivate it.

NO ARREST AS YET.

Lieut. Briggs is still looking up evidence in the alleged bigamy case of Joseph Kennedy, but as yet an arrest has not been deemed advisable. Kennedy is still in possession of wife No. 2, but her mother, Mrs. Hunt, is thoroughly convinced that her son-in-law has another wife still living and who has not been divorced, and she is encouraging a most diligent inquiry that the facts may be arrived at.

WELL REPRESENTED.

The West Duluth W. C. T. U. is well represented at the county convention of the union being held in the First Presbyterian church today.

ACCUSED OF FORGERY.

Jacob Schuhe Arrested Across the Bay.

Jacob Schuhe, who, the police believe, is the author of a number of bogus checks that are bitter memories in the minds of many Duluth business men, was brought over from Superior by Detective Troyer last evening and lodged in jail. Schuhe was arrested Saturday in Old Superior on suspicion of having stolen a typewriter, and while he was in custody across the bay he was recognized by Detective Donovan.

The checks that it is believed Schuhe issued here are all for small amounts and are bungling pieces of work. Two of them purported to have been signed by the Northwestern Fuel company, one by W. C. Sargent and one by William R. Stone, of the Stone, Ordean & Wells Grocery company. Among the victims are G. H. Schulenberg, of 1726 London road; J. A. A. Lindvall, of West Duluth, and W. S. Hill, of 404 Piedmont avenue. Mr. Hill has positively identified Schuhe as the man who passed the check on him. Schuhe said he got the typewriter of another man whose name he would disclose in court. Schuhe was to have a hearing today.

Expects a Revival.

C. H. Davis, of Saginaw, Mich., returned today from his trip over the Duluth, Superior & Western and the Duluth, Mississippi & Northern railroads, the latter of which is owned by the firm of Wright & Davis. Mr. Davis is accompanied by his wife and daughter. He said that the road is in good condition and that he expects to haul considerable ore from the Mahoning mine during the season.

To an Evening Herald reporter Mr. Davis said that he looked for a great revival of the iron industry in the near future. The very things which were apparently working to the demoralization of the business would, in his opinion, soon result in this country's supplying the world with iron. The dissolution of the different iron pools would in the end prove a blessing in disguise and place the United States on such an iron producing basis that it could easily compete for the trade of any market in the world. Mr. Davis said that no logging would be done on the line of his road this summer.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—

Whereas default has been made in one of the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Florence E. Moore (unmarried), mortgagor, to May R. Achorn, mortgagee, dated September 25th, 1895, with a power of sale therein contained, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for St. Louis County, Minnesota, September 27, 1895, at 8:30 o'clock a. m., in Book 127 of mortgages, page 44.

Whereas such default consists in the non-payment of the sum of seventy dollars, interest due on the 1st day of April, 1897, the holder of said mortgage has exercised the option in said mortgage given to her by declaring, and she does hereby declare the whole principal sum secured by said mortgage with all accrued interest thereon to be now due and payable.

And whereas there is therefore claimed to be due and there is due upon said mortgage at this date the sum of two thousand and eighty-three and 61-100 dollars as principal and interest and twelve and 83-100 dollars insurance premium paid under the terms of said mortgage.

And whereas said mortgage contains a power of sale which has become operative by reason of the default above mentioned and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot four (4), of block two (2), Myers' Park, Duluth, county of St. Louis, state of Minnesota, according to the recorded plat thereof, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the twenty-second (22d) day of May, 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of thirteen hundred and six 96-100 dollars and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and seventy-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 16th, A. D. 1897.
LEWIS H. PARKER,
Mortgagee.
W. G. JOERNS,
Attorney for Mortgagee.
Duluth Evening Herald, April-7-14-21-28-May-5-12-19.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS.—

All delinquent taxes in St. Louis County may be paid on or before June 1st, 1898, for the original amount of taxes levied, and without any penalties or interest being added, provided such taxes have not been sold or assigned to private individuals or companies, and provided same shall not be so sold or assigned previous to the time that payment is made.

All such delinquent taxes are subject to sale and assignment, and when so sold or assigned must include all penalties and interest which have accumulated thereon and the owner will be compelled to pay the amount for which such taxes are assigned together with interest at the rate of 1 per cent per month in order to redeem same.

Assignments are being purchased every day and the only assurance that a taxpayer can have for securing the advantage of this law is to pay the taxes without delay.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—

Whereas default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage which was duly executed and delivered by Thomas Sharp, (a widower), mortgagor, to Alexander Macrae, mortgagee, bearing date of the thirteenth (13th), 1895, and which was duly recorded in the register of deeds' office for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on June twenty-third (23d), 1895, at one (1) o'clock p. m., in Book one hundred twenty-seven (127) of mortgages, on page four hundred forty (440); which mortgage, with the debt thereby secured, was thereafter duly assigned by said Alexander Macrae to Margaret Meskill, by an instrument of assignment dated June twenty-sixth (26th), 1895, and was duly recorded in said register of deeds' office, on June twenty-seventh (27th), 1895, at 8:40 o'clock a. m., in Book one hundred seven (107) of mortgages, on page two hundred forty-seven (247) thereof; such default consisting in the non-payment of the semi-annual installments of interest upon said mortgage debt, and of the coupons given for the same, which became due respectively on June 1st, 1896, and December 1st, 1896, amounting to the sum of $40 each, no part of any of which has ever been paid; by reason whereof the assignee of said mortgage has elected to exercise the option to her given by the terms of said mortgage, by declaring, and she does hereby declare, that the whole principal sum secured by said mortgage, with all accrued interest thereon, and exchange and $16 therefore paid by said assignee of said mortgage, for insurance premiums upon said mortgaged premises, in accordance with the provisions of said mortgage, is now immediately due and payable.

And whereas said mortgage contains a power of sale in due form, which has become operative by reason of the defaults above mentioned, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described therein, situate in St. Louis County, Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: Lots numbered three (3), five (5), seven (7), nine (9) and eleven (11), in block numbered five (5), in Central Division of West Duluth, according to the recorded plat thereof on file of record in the office of the register of deeds for said county; which premises will be sold by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, Minnesota, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the twenty-fifth (25th) day of June, A. D. 1897, at ten (10) o'clock a. m., at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt, interest and insurance premiums so paid by said assignee, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fee, stipulated for in said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated May 10th, 1897.

RUSSIA'S ATTITUDE.

A St. Petersburg correspondent of the New York Sun, whom that journal describes as "an eminent Russian," gives some interesting facts, from a Russian point of view, regarding Russia's position towards Turkey and Greece. He writes with unexpected frankness, and his statements confirm the current view of the subject. While admitting that from the days of Peter the Great Russia has fought nine wars against Turkey in defense of Christians, he claims that "as the case stands at present, it is not only the poor, persecuted Christians that have to be considered, but also the fact that each of the great powers stands in fear lest should a conflict occur one and all of its rivals would start out to try to catch some fish in troubled waters." But this result Russia cannot afford to have brought about. It is her play for the present to see that little Greece is thrashed, and the following reason is given:

"If, notwithstanding all expectations to the contrary, the Greeks are victorious, it will be impossible to keep the Servians and Bulgarians from making war on their own account. They would either join Turkey in order to crush Greece, their rival, or they might enter into an agreement with Greece to annihilate Turkey and partition the Turkish empire between them—a scheme to which Russia could never agree. We bear up with Turkey, it being an old state, with historically avowed relations and obligations toward us, but we cannot countenance on the Balkan peninsula and on the straits that are so indispensable to us political combinations that threaten to prove inimical to us. This is the reason of our wish to retain Turkey, if possible, in its present condition, contenting ourselves with securing administrative immunity for the Christians."

Russia's purpose is confessed in this sentence: "As for Russia, this is not a convenient time for her to have the Eastern question settled; none of our European rivals has at present any serious complications to deal with, and therefore they will be ready to join forces against us." And what does Russia expect to secure when the Eastern question is "settled?" Here is the answer given by the Sun's correspondent: "There is not a single statesman in Europe who does not understand that sooner or later the straits, the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles, serving as an outlet to the Black sea and the Marmora sea into the Mediterranean, will belong to us; that it is impossible to keep an enormous country away from its aim, to which it has aspired for 200 years."

But the time is not ripe for Russia to succeed in this desire, and consequently she has backed up the Turk against the Greek, and the other powers, which are subservient to Russia now in the hope of finally checking her designs, have been united to handicap Greece in her efforts to wage war successfully against the sultan. The result has been as the czar wanted. Greece has been defeated and has sued for peace, and the powers are called in to mediate between the two belligerents. Greece will be punished by by the imposition of an indemnity probably, but the sultan is not likely to be given any additional territory. The map of Europe will not be changed. The Turkish empire will not be enlarged or increased, and will be continued as a barrier to the carrying out of Russia's designs. Meanwhile Russia will wait her opportunity, and some fine day when the other nations are involved in complications of their own, stirred up probably by Russian intrigue, and the conditions are favorable, Russian troops will be poured across the Turkish frontier in tremendous force and the Dardanelles will be in possession of the Cossacks.

Next Saturday Philadelphia will dedicate one of the most imposing monuments to George Washington that the country contains. The ceremonies will be elaborate, the parade long and the orations numerous. President McKinley, Vice President Hobart and the cabinet will attend. The monument has been built at great cost, the funds having been raised by the Society of the Cincinnati. Philadelphia is an excellent place for such a memorial, for that city was the seat of government most of the time during Washington's administration. The Herald next Saturday will give a full account of the dedicatory ceremonies.

THE FOREST RESERVATIONS.

The lower branch of congress yesterday, by a vote of 100 to 39, refused to concur in the senate amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill, to revoke President Cleveland's orders as to the forest reservations. This will necessitate sending the bill to a conference committee. The senate may yield on this point, but it is usually inclined to stand by its amendments and may do so in this case. The lands set apart by President Cleveland's order are in Wyoming, Utah, Montana, Washington, Idaho and South Dakota. President McKinley was appealed to by the people resident near the lands, to revoke the order, but he preferred to leave it with congress to determine whether his predecessor's order should continue in force, though there is reason to believe that he is in sympathy with those who demand its modification or suspension. The discussion of the matter in the senate was marked by some very vigorous language from Western senators condemnatory of the Cleveland order and the fact that the amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill, authorizing the revocation or modification of the order, was agreed to without division, showing the convincing character of the arguments of its advocates.

President Cleveland acted upon the advice of experts in setting apart these lands. The intelligent gentlemen composing the commission were unanimous in the opinion that the only wise course was to create these reservations, but they had in mind only the general public interest and left out of consideration the hardship which would result to thousands of people, if congress fails to take any action. It is hardly likely that President McKinley will revoke the order creating the reservations, but will so modify it as to remedy the objections which are urged against it and give the people resident near the lands reserved the relief they ask.

NO FORFEITURE WORKED.

The St. Paul Dispatch has just discovered that the act of the last legislature "forfeiting" the Duluth & Iron Range railroad land grant is of no effect, because the supreme court in 1890 handed down a decision that the state cannot divest the road of the land by declaring a forfeiture. The Herald drew attention to this decision when the "forfeiture bill" was before the legislature, and it was also brought to the notice of the legislative committees which considered the bill, but they evidently thought they were greater than the courts.

The fact is it was purely a "legpulling" bill, and those who were behind it were awfully surprised because the railroad company paid very little attention to it and refused to "put up" in order to have it killed. The company, however, did not care very much whether the "forfeiture" bill passed or not, because it relies upon the decision referred to. Of course, a case will probably be made up and the new law brought before the supreme court, so that it may be declared null and void.

James Boyer Runnon, associate editor of the Kansas City Star, whose death was announced the other day, was a distinguished member of the profession. Born in Indiana fifty-five years ago, he entered the ranks of the newspaper workers at the close of the war, receiving his first lessons on the Chicago Times under Wilbur F. Storey. By force of ability and industry he rose steadily from the ranks and became one of the pillars of the Times in its best days. He was also an associate of Horace White and Joseph Medill on the Chicago Tribune, and for twelve years past was the directing force of the Kansas City Star. Under his management the Star became the leading journal of Kansas City. His death in the early autumn of life is a great loss to the Star and to the profession he adorned.

The newly arrived Chinese minister will be a little more "like folks" than has been any of his predecessors, for he speaks English fluently and keeps up with the times. He made a speech to the Protestant clergymen of San Francisco the other day, commending the work of missions in China, and he has views on the subject of the Chinese exclusion act.

When Paderewski's son was a little boy he wanted to go to the Paris Cirque, where his father was to play. When he returned his father asked how he had enjoyed it. "It was the dullest circus I ever saw," frankly answered the lad; "I thought you were going to jump through hoops, but you only played on the piano, just as you do at home."

Importations of foreign merchandise are at the moment large beyond all precedent. Last week's imports at New York were double what they were a year ago, and much above the usual record of the preceding week. The eagerness of importers to get in their goods before the new tariff law goes into effect is the cause.

Some 1300 depositors in the wrecked Globe Savings bank at Chicago have petitioned the state legislature to make good their losses of $400,000. This is a new idea which is bound to be very popular with losers in bank wrecks, but it is hardly likely that the legislature will encourage it.

Lord Salisbury's facetious remarks to the Primrose league has inspired John Morley to say: "We see the sultan laughing, the Greeks bleeding and the prime minister making a jest of it." But Salisbury does not appear to feel the keen thrust. He has a tough skin.

It is suggested as a preliminary to peace that Turkey agree to the status quo ante bellum. The Omaha Bee thinks, however, that with a succession of victories to the credit of the Turks it is safe to bet the beard of a prophet that they will insist on a better ante or more blood.

Sir Walter Besant estimates that the living descendants of the Pilgrim fathers in the United States number about 15,000, although not 10,000, he thinks, know the relationship. The Springfield Republican thinks 10,000 are enough to live with.

The Engineering Record, of New York, must be on the inside of the aldermanic secrets in this city, because on May 8 it said: "D. A. Reed has been elected city engineer of Duluth, Minn." And Mr. Reed was not elected until May 10.

Rudyard Kipling's services as war correspondent in Thessaly for the London Times have demonstrated that he is a very poor reporter, although he may be regarded as a great author.

A Washington man died the other day from grief over the death of his mother-in-law. At least this is the story that comes from the capital. But no one is required to believe it.

Gen. James Longstreet is to succeed Gen. Wade Hampton as Pacific railroad commissioner. He is a feeble old man, and this fact shows what a sinecure it is.

The Greek army under Prince Constantine has found another impregnable position. But when the Turks appear in sight, watch the Hellenes run!

The phrase "Greater New York" is to be dropped now, and the old name without the "greater" will be resumed.

Mr. Middlecoff will not be consul at Bordeaux. But he may still hope to pass four years at Marseilles.

THE FIELD DAY.

High School Athletes Actively Preparing For It.

The annual field day of the Duluth High School Athletic association will be held at the fair grounds, Saturday, May 22, and the members of the association are actively engaged in preparations which will make the event one of the best ever given. The association held a meeting yesterday afternoon, at which committees on arrangements, prizes and selection of officers were appointed. The members of the team are in hard training, and from the material at hand and the work the boys are doing, the outlook is good for a strong team to represent the association in the outside events. The team will be made up of the winners at the Duluth field day. Preparations are being made for the Ashland and Minneapolis field days, which are close at hand. The Ashland day will be May 29, and the Minneapolis event will take place the following Saturday, June 5.

Last year the joint field day with the Minneapolis Central High School took place at Duluth, and the visitors won out by a narrow margin, after an intensely interesting contest. This year the Duluth boys hope for better luck. Harry Meining, who was always the best sprinter in the high school, is training those who will enter for the runs in the Duluth field day, and the boys are making good progress under his direction.

The events for the Duluth day will be eighteen in number, and interesting in their nature. The lists are now open, and there will be a large number of entries and plenty of material to afford exciting events. The complete list of events is as follows: Fifty-yard dash, quarter-mile bicycle, 100-yard dash, mile run, pole vault, 120-yard hurdle, shot put, mile bicycle, 220-yard dash, running broad jump, half-mile run, standing broad jump, 440-yard dash, hammer throw, two-mile bicycle, running high jump, 220-yard hurdle, half-mile bicycle.

REASON FOR BUILDING.

Sims Logging Railroad Extension is to Haul Logs.

J. P. Sims, president of the Itasca Lumber company, is in Duluth. To an Evening Herald reporter he said that the Sims logging railroad, which was built out fifteen miles from Deer River in 1893, is to be extended ten miles this year to enable the company to haul a lot of logs that were cut on burned land last winter. Mr. Sims stated that his company began the construction of the road in 1893 before the financial crisis came, and concluded to complete it as originally designed.

It has never been used, as shortly after the road was built, a large tract of land at a distance from the road was burned over and it was necessary in order to save the timber to cut it, so the timber through which the road was built has not been touched. The company has no expectation of building the road any further than it is needed for logging operations. No logging is to be done by the company this summer and the line in object of the proposed extension is to take out logs that have already been cut.

THE CHANDLER MINE.

Shipments of Ore Are Begun In Earnest.

Ely, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Chandler steam shovel began operations yesterday, and shipping from this mine will now be commenced in earnest. An extra switch engine and crew has arrived to do the switching in the yards for the shovel.

The company has been shipping a few cars a day since the opening of navigation, which have been loaded at the pockets. The commencement of work by the shovel means an increase of shipments to about seventy-five to 100 cars per day. It also brightens the prospects for a good summer's work.

FLAG OUTRAGE DISCREDITED.

Washington, May 12.—The state department has received no information whatever regarding the reported killing of Mr. Alger, the United States consul at Puerto Cortez, Honduras, during a fight between the government forces and the revolutionists, nor of the alleged insult to the American flag by the Nicaraguan steam tug Lucy R. In the absence of official information, the department is disposed to discredit the reports.

A CONVICT'S CONFESSION.

Napanee, Ont., May 12.—A short time ago John F. Troy, a convict in Kingston penitentiary, confessed to shooting Angus McLeod, at Napanee, in September, 1892. Yesterday Troy was placed on trial. He said he had entered McLeod's house to rob it, but without any intention of murder. McLeod caught him in the act, and he shot him dead. He bore the secret as long as he could, but it tormented him in his confinement until death seemed preferable. On his own confession Troy was found guilty. He will be sentenced this afternoon.

THE GOLD OUTFLOW.

New York, May 12.—Kidder, Peabody & Co. have increased their gold shipment for tomorrow $50,000, making the total shipments $550,000.

JOHNSTOWN FLOOD WRITERS.

New York, May 12.—The Johnstown Flood Correspondents' association will hold its annual meeting and dinner at the Waldorf hotel, New York, on the evening of May 31.

ROBES AND UNIFORMS.

Supreme Council of Catholic Knights at Mobile.

Mobile, Ala., May 12.—The supreme council of the Catholic Knights of America, which convened here yesterday, will remain in session over Saturday, making a five-day session. There is much interest felt in all local circles about this truly representative body of clergy and laymen,

SECRETARY W. S. O'ROURKE.

some of them being the most distinguished men of widely separated sections. Some 200 supreme delegates are attending, together with a large detail of the Uniform Rank, as most of them bring their families, swelling the convention to thousands. The committee of arrangements has Dr. Angelo Festorazzi for chairman, and George J. Sullivan for secretary. The sessions of the council are held daily in the spacious hall of the new McGill institute; but the evenings are devoted to varied entertainment, such as excursions, boat rides, etc., including a formal grand banquet on one of the evenings.

The order of the Knights was established in 1877. It has one supreme council and 600 subordinate councils. Its membership is 25,000. The benefits disbursed since organization are $7,000,000. In 1896 the order disbursed $612,000. The supreme spiritual director is Most Rev. W. H. Gross, of Portland, Ore.; supreme president, Edward Feeney, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; supreme vice president, C. S. Ott, of Galveston, Tex.; supreme secretary, William S. O'Rourke, Fort Wayne, Ind.; supreme treasurer, Charles J. Kirschner, of Toledo, Ohio.

PRESIDENT EDWARD FEENEY.

WHAT IS TIME?

I asked an aged man—a man of cares,
Wrinkled and bent, and white with hoary hairs:
"Time is the warp of life," he said—"O, tell
The young, the gay, the fair, to weave it well!"

I asked the ancient venerable dead—
Sages who wrote and warriors who bled;
From the cold grave a hollow murmur flowed,
"Time sows—and the seed we reap in this abode!"

I asked a dying sinner, ere the tide
Of life had left his veins: "Time," he replied,
"I've lost it; ah, the treasure!" and died.

I asked the golden sun, and silver spheres—
Those bright chronometers of days and years;
They answered: "Time is but a meteor glare!"

And bade us for eternity prepare.

I asked the seasons, in their annual round,
Which beautify or desolate the ground;
And they replied (no oracle so wise),
"'Tis folly's blank, and wisdom's high est prize!"

I asked a spirit lost; but oh! the shriek!
That pierced my soul—I shudder while I speak!
It cried, "A particle—a speck—a mite
Of endless years, duration infinite!"

Of things inanimate, my dial I
Consulted; and it made me this reply:
"Time is the season fair of living well—
The path of glory or the road to hell!"

I asked my Bible, and methinks it said:
"Time is the present hour; the past is fled:
Live; live today; tomorrow never yet
On any human being rose or set."

I asked old Father Time himself, at last;
But in a moment he flew swiftly past,
His chariot was a cloud, the viewless wind
His noiseless steeds, which left no trace behind.

I asked the mighty Angel, who shall stand
One foot on sea, and one on solid land;
"By heaven," he said, "I swear the mystery's o'er—
Time was," he cried, "but Time shall be no more!"

WILLIAM MARSDEN. 1754-1836.

A VALUABLE CONCESSION.

Washington, May 12.—United States Consul Grimke, at Santo Domingo, has informed the state department that the Dominion government has granted a concession for twenty-five years to Enrique Domois, a French citizen, for the production of bananas on an extensive scale and the refining of petroleum at La Romana. American capital is embarked in the enterprise, which is already well under way.

IN A MERRY MOOD.

Chicago Record: "Your daughter Imogene is a perfect Venus, Mr. Duggins." "Yes—Venus de Milo; she never does any work with her arms."

Household Words: A policeman was asked by a coroner whether he had taken any steps by way of attempt to resuscitate a man on whom an inquest was being held. "Yes," said the constable, "I searched his pockets."

Cleveland Leader: "Bosworth would have made a fortune as a novelist." "What makes you think so?" "I was with him the other evening when he was telling his wife why he happened to be so late in getting home."

Indianapolis Journal: "What is the argument of this play?" asked the old-fashioned gentleman, as he came out after the first act.

"The argument," repeated the manager; "There isn't any worth speaking of just now. That usually happens on salary day."

New York Press: The milkman was plainly irritated. "Here, just us times are so hard," he exclaimed, "you think you must have a new silk dress?"

"Yes, dear," said his wife, "but this is to be only a watered silk, you know."

Feminine tact, it seemed, never did a thing but find man an easy mark.

Detroit Free Press: "I see that Mr. and Mrs. Newly each have a wheel now. We always used to see them together on a tandem."

"That was before they were married."

Detroit Journal: The member of the firm pressed his hand to his heart.

"I love you madly!" he exclaimed. "I love but you! I have never loved before!"

The typewriter inclined her head.

"Very well," she replied. "More than one copy, sir?"

THE OWNER OF MUCH LAND.
He numbered his acres by thousands,
Upon plain and in valley they lay;
He could mount a swift horse
And ride in one course
On his own broad demesne all day.

He counted his dollars by millions,
But he couldn't hold nature at bay;
All the land that he owns
Lies between two stones
That are six feet apart today.
—Cleveland Leader.

FAIR AND DEAR.
He held her hand against his breast
And looked into her eyes,
And what he did to her ruby lips
The reader may surmise.

But never again will a woman's head
Lie on his heaving breast,
And never again will a woman's lips
By his two lips be pressed.

For never a preacher said the words
To make her share his lot;
So he 'gan to pay a thousand plunks
For every kiss he got.
—Cleveland Leader.

ROOM THE BERTILLION SYSTEM.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 12.—The consideration of the Bertillion system of measurement occupied nearly the entire session of the convention of chiefs of police of the United States and Canada today. It was finally decided not to petition congress on the matter until the system had been thoroughly tested. The delegates then pledged themselves to use their best endeavors to have the police commissioners of their respective cities make a special appropriation for the purpose of making the Bertillion system a national affair, with general headquarters in one of the larger cities.

BECHUANALAND TROUBLES.

London, May 12.—A special dispatch from Cape Town announces that a serious engagement has taken place in Bechuanaland. Chief Toto has been captured and six volunteers have been killed.

CHAMPLAIN CANAL BREAK.

Troy, May 12.—About twenty-five feet of the bank of the Champlain canal gave way at midnight and it will be several days before boats can pass through that waterway. The break is between Waterford and Mechanicsville. It was caused by quicksand. Considerable farm property in the neighborhood was damaged. The estimated loss to the state is $40,000.

HURDLE RECORDS BROKEN.

Chicago, May 12.—The world's record for 300 yards hurdles was broken twice today in the trial heats at the military and athletic carnival at the Coliseum, P. O'Dea, C. A., Chicago, going the distance in 38 2-5 seconds and Kraenzlein, Chicago A. A., making it in 37 2-5 seconds, the former record being 38 4-5 seconds. Both men are students at the university of Wisconsin, though carrying Chicago A. A. colors in the carnival.

A DEAD RAILROADER.

Memphis, Tenn., May 12.—Col. H. C. Rector, commercial agent of the Cotton Belt railroad, died at his home in this city this morning, aged 51.

Dr. C. W. McFadden, dentist, has removed from Miller building, to rooms 208 and 209 Lonsdale building.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage which was duly executed and delivered by Beulah Mansfield and Lucy T. Magoffin, his wife, mortgagors, to J. J. Janeway, Executor, mortgagee, bearing date May first (1st), 1893, and which was duly recorded in the register of deeds' office for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on May tenth (10th), 1893, at ten (10) o'clock a. m., in Book one hundred two (102) of mortgages, on pages two hundred fifty-six (256), two hundred fifty-seven (257) and two hundred fifty-eight (258) thereof; such default consisting in the non-payment of the sum of $60, upon the semi-annual installment of interest which became due on July first (1st), 1896, and also in the non-payment of the whole of the semi-annual installment of interest, and of the coupon note given for the same, amounting to the sum of $120, which became due on January 1st, 1897, all of said sums being unpaid interest upon said mortgage debt, and upon the principal note thereby secured; by reason whereof said mortgagee has heretofore, and after such defaults, and each of them, and continued for more than ten days, elected to exercise the option to him given by the terms of said mortgage, and of said principal note, by declaring, and he does hereby declare, that the whole principal sum secured by said note and mortgage, with all accrued interest and exchange thereon, is now due and payable.

And whereas there is therefore claimed to be due, and there is actually due, upon said mortgage debt, at the date of this notice, the sum of three thousand two hundred sixty-nine and 90-100 ($3269.90) dollars, principal, interest and exchange.

And whereas said mortgage contains a power of sale in due form, which has become operative by reason of the defaults above mentioned, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made, said mortgage will be foreclosed, by a sale of the premises described therein, situate in St. Louis County, Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: All of lots numbered forty-nine (49), fifty (50), fifty-one (51), fifty-two (52), fifty-three (53), fifty-four (54), fifty-five (55) and fifty-six (56), in block one hundred and twelve (112), Duluth Proper, Third Division, according to the recorded plat thereof on file of record in the office of the register of deeds in and for said St. Louis County, Minnesota; which premises will be sold by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the fifth (5th) day of June, A. D. 1897, at ten (10) o'clock a. m., at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt, interest and disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated April 15th, 1897.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—Default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage duly made and delivered by Twin City Packing Company (a corporation) of St. Paul, Minnesota, mortgagor, to Granite Savings Bank and Trust Company, of Barre, Washington County, Vermont, mortgagee, bearing date the first day of January, 1895, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 7th day of January, 1895, at 1:40 o'clock p. m. in Book 104 of mortgages on page 278.

Said default consists in the non-payment of the sum of twenty-four dollars interest, which became due and payable by the terms of said mortgage, and the notes secured thereby on January 1st, 1897, all of which is yet due and owing upon said mortgage. Now by reason of said default it has become optional with the holder of said mortgage and mortgage notes to declare the whole debt secured by said mortgage to be immediately due and payable, in the exercise of which option the whole amount of said debt has been declared and is hereby declared and claimed to be due, amounting at the date of this notice, to the sum of six hundred forty and 22-100 dollars.

And whereas said mortgage contains a power of sale which by reason of said default has become operative and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described and situate in St. Louis County, Minnesota, to-wit: Lot number seven (7), in block number one hundred forty-three (143), West Duluth, Fifth Division, according to the recorded plat thereof, which premises, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, Minnesota, at the front door of the court house of said county, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on Thursday, the 10th day of June, 1897, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at public auction to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt and interest, together with fifty dollars attorneys' fee, stipulated in said mortgage to be paid in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from date of sale as by law provided.

Dated April 28th, 1897.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage which was duly executed and delivered by Charles Larson and Rebecca Larson, his wife, mortgagors, to Marion E. Bacon, mortgagee, bearing date December thirty-first (31st), 1894, and which was duly recorded in the register of deeds' office for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on December thirty-first (31st), 1894, at four o'clock p. m., in Book one hundred twenty-seven (127) of mortgages, on pages three hundred fifty-two (352) and three hundred fifty-three (353) thereof; which mortgage with the principal note and coupons thereby secured, was thereafter duly assigned by said Marion E. Bacon to Addison M. Farwell, by an instrument of assignment bearing date January twenty-sixth (26th), 1895, and which was duly recorded in the register of deeds' office for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on February second (2d), 1895, at four (4) o'clock p. m., in Book one hundred eight (108) of mortgages, on page two hundred one (201) thereof.

And whereas said Addison M. Farwell thereafter died testate, and his will has been duly admitted to probate, and letters testamentary thereon duly issued, by the probate court of St. Louis County, Minnesota, to Maria F. Sterling and Ella F. Warriwell, the executrices named in said will, who have heretofore qualified, and are now acting, as such executrices.

And whereas the default above mentioned consists in the non-payment of the semi-annual installment of interest upon the debt secured by said mortgage, and of the coupon given for the same, amounting to the sum of $105, which became due on January 1st, 1897, which default has continued to this time; and also in the non-payment of insurance premiums upon the premises covered by said mortgage amounting to the sum of $72, which said mortgagors have neglected and refused to pay, in accordance with the provisions of said mortgage.

And whereas there is therefore claimed to be due, and there is actually due, upon said mortgage debt, at the date of this notice, the sum of one hundred seventy-nine and 19-100 ($179.19) dollars, interest, exchange and insurance premiums paid upon said mortgage, in accordance with the provisions thereof.

And whereas said mortgage contains a power of sale in due form, which has become operative by reason of the defaults above mentioned, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described therein, situate in St. Louis County, Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: Lot numbered three hundred eighteen (318), of block sixteen (16), Duluth Proper, Second Division, according to the recorded plat thereof in the office of the register of deeds for St. Louis County, Minnesota; which premises will be sold by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the fifth (5th) day of June, A. D. 1897, at ten (10) o'clock a. m., at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt, interest and insurance premiums, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and seventy-five dollars attorney's fees, stipulated for in said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated April 10th, 1897.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage which was duly executed and delivered by Joseph A. Mannheim, and Elizabeth Mannheim, his wife, and Matthias Haug and Anna Haug, his wife, mortgagors, to Mary L. Horton, mortgagee, bearing date November fifteenth (15th), 1894, and which was duly recorded in the register of deeds' office for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on December third (3rd), 1894, at twelve (12) o'clock m., in Book one hundred twenty-seven (127) of mortgages, on pages three hundred twenty-eight (328) and three hundred twenty-nine (329) thereof; such default consisting in the non-payment of the two semi-annual installments of interest upon said mortgage, and upon the principal note thereby secured, each amounting to the sum of $24, which became due respectively on May 1st, 1896, and November 1st, 1896, both of which have continued to this time; by reason whereof said mortgagee has elected to exercise the option to her given by the terms of said mortgage, and the principal note thereby secured, by declaring, and she does hereby declare, that the whole principal sum secured by said note and mortgage, with all accrued interest thereon, and exchange, is now due and payable.

And whereas there is therefore claimed to be due, and there is actually due, upon said mortgage debt, at the date of this notice, the sum of six hundred seventy-four and 15-100 ($674.15) dollars, principal, interest and exchange.

And whereas said mortgage contains a power of sale in due form, which has become operative by reason of the defaults above mentioned, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof;

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale in said mortgage contained, and pursuant to the statute in such case made, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described therein, situate in St. Louis County, Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: Lots numbered sixty-one (61) and sixty-three (63), in block numbered one hundred ninety-one (191); lot numbered forty-five (45), in block numbered one hundred seventy-nine (179); and all of fractional block numbered sixty-seven (67); all in Duluth Proper, Third Division, according to the recorded plat thereof in the register of deeds' office for St. Louis County, Minnesota; which premises will be sold by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the fifth (5th) day of June, A. WILL BE SAWED HERE.

George Graham's Log Purchase to Be Manufactured Here.

George A. Graham, of Fort William, purchased last winter for his firm 7,000,000 feet of pine logs on the south shore, with the intention of having them towed to Fort William to be sawed into lumber. Now this idea has been abandoned and it has been decided to have the logs sawed in Duluth. A reporter for The Evening Herald asked Mr. Graham what had caused him to change his plans, and he replied that since it was practically a settled fact that congress would place a tariff of $2 a thousand on pine lumber, that the product of his logs would be worth more here than in Canada, and so it was to his advantage to have them sawed here. He said that for two or three years it's firm had been buying American logs to be sawed in its mill at Fort William, but that with the Dingley tariff on lumber this would not longer be practicable.

This is the first direct benefit that Duluth will receive from the new tariff law, as the sawing of these logs will furnish employment for wage-earners here that would otherwise have been given to Canadians. It means the distribution among Duluth millworkers of about $15,000 in wages, which will at once find its way into the regular channels of trade, that would otherwise have gone out of the country.

There is a large amount of pine cut on American soil that annually finds its way to Canadian mills, to be brought back to the United States in the form of lumber. Much of this is done along the border line of Minnesota, especially by way of the Lake of the Woods. The new tariff will encourage the location of mills on the American side of the line, for it will no longer be profitable to take the logs to Canada and then pay a duty of $2 a thousand before the lumber can be placed in the best market which is to be found in the United States.

New Choir Formed.

The Gounod choir which was organized by Mark C. Baker, has been disbanded, and its place will be filled by a musical organization known as the choir of the First Methodist church. The first rehearsal of the new body was held at the church last night under the supervision of Francis E. Woodward, the new musical director of the church, who will organize and train the choir. He expressed himself last night as being much pleased with the material at his disposal. The quartet of the new choir has not yet been selected, but Mrs. Woodward will be soprano, and Mr. Woodward will be baritone. The first public appearance of the choir will not take place for several weeks. In the meantime rehearsals under Mr. Woodward's business-like direction will continue.

A POPULAR RESORT.

Lake Park hotel, at Lake Minnetonka, is the most popular tourist resort in Minnesota. It is only a half hour's ride from Minneapolis, and reached by frequent trains. The accommodations are in every way of the best, and prices extremely reasonable. Good fishing, boating, yachting and bathing. Hotel will open for the season of 1897 on June 24. Female Minstrel Show.

The female minstrel show of the High School Musical society will be held Friday evening, May 21, in the High School Assembly hall, and a big entertainment and a large crowd are confidently expected. The entertainment is given to help pay the cost of printing the Zenith, the annual publication of the high school. Rehearsals are now in active progress, and the entertainment will contain many novel features. The show will be of the usual burnt cork variety, opening in the old style and following with specialties. The close will be a grand cake walk in which five couples will participate. The names of the performers will not be made public.

The Druggists Meet.

The Head of the Lakes Retail Druggists' association held its first annual meeting at the Spalding last evening and made a permanent organization with the following officers: President, F. W. Kugler, Duluth; vice president, C. H. Slocum, West Superior; secretary, A. LeRicheux, Duluth; treasurer, E. A. Mattix, Duluth. The following members were named to serve with the officers of the association as an executive committee: C. W. Aust, Duluth; A. J. Lindgren, West Duluth; Louis Rietz, Duluth. The next meeting will be held in Superior on the first Thursday evening in June.

MARRIED, NOT MURDERED.

Kansas City, May 12.—Miss Geneva Downing, aged 21 years, daughter of W. W. Downing, general Western agent of the Chicago Soap manufactory, and Miss May Arnold, aged 23, both of whom caused a sensation by mysteriously disappearing from Sedalia, Mo., on Friday last, have been found living at a hotel here, married, respectively to Charles W. Hill and William T. Cousley, sons of well-to-do merchants of that place. They had eloped to Independence, "just to surprise their friends," and were married by the mayor of that city. All are prominent society people.

THE PLAN

Scheme of Road Which Is to Run From Duluth to Winnipeg.

Will Have Feeders Running Westward Into the Dakota Grain Fields.

The Government of Manitoba Guarantees the Interest on the Bonds.

The first intimation given the public that plans for the construction of an independent railroad line connecting Duluth and Winnepeg were in process of development, came from Winnipeg in the announcement that Premier Greenway had left that city for New York a few days ago to close a contract for the province of Manitoba with a syndicate of capitalists. The Associated Press today reports from Ottawa, Ont., that the Winnipeg, Duluth & Hudson Bay railroad company is seeking a charter from the Dominion government to build a line south from Winnipeg to the boundary line where connection is to be made with a line to be constructed to that point from Duluth. Later the road is to extend northward to Hudson.

To complete the story of these carefully matured plans The Herald learns today from New York that Premier Greenway has concluded a contract that has been duly signed by him on the part of the Manitoba government, and by Col. James McNaught and others representing a syndicate that will comprise the proposed Winnipeg, Duluth & Manitoba Railroad company for the construction of the road from Winnipeg to Duluth. Col. McNaught is well known in Northwestern railroad circles, having for a long time held the position of general counsel for the Northern Pacific, and during the administration of Henry Villard conducted negotiations through Premier Greenway which resulted in the construction of the Manitoba & Northern Pacific railroad, which gave the Northern Pacific a Winnipeg connection.

The preliminary plans for the proposed line connecting Duluth and Winnipeg have been carried out to a successful termination with the greatest secrecy to avoid the active opposition that would be aroused by their publicity from the Canadian Pacific, Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads, all of which will be materially affected by the operation of the proposed road. Under the terms of the contract just signed the government of Manitoba guarantees for a long term of years the payment of the interest on bonds to be issued by the new company. This makes the sale of bods sufficient to build and equip the road at par an easy matter. In return for this subsidy the company agrees to build and operate a line from Duluth to Winnipeg and guarantees to put into effect a rate of 10 cents a hundred pounds on wheat from Brandon and other common points to Duluth. On coal, a reduction of $1.50 a ton is promised and on all other classes of freight from Duluth a cut of 25 per cent under existing rates is provided for.

Before signing the contract Premier Greenway was assured that the company had arranged for all money necessary to carry out their part of the agreement and that the actual work of construction would be commenced at the earliest possible date. No movement was made to secure the granting of the charter at Ottawa until all parties to the agreement had attached their signatures to the contract.

The plans of the new company which threatens to effect a complete revolution in the railroad carrying business of the Northwest, are more far reaching than yet appears. In addition to the main line from Duluth to Winnipeg, several branches will be built into the wheat fields of North Dakota. As originally conceived the road will gain an entrance to Duluth over the St. Paul & Duluth tracks from Carlton, acquiring terminal facilities from that company, of which it has an abundance for a dozen roads. The road will be built by the shortest feasible rout skirting Leech and Red lake on the south and making direct to the boundary line from Red lake.

Auxiliary companies will be organized to build three, and possibly four, feeders into North Dakota. One will run west as far as Carrington, tapping the main line at a point near Itasca lake. Another will go west to Grafton, and a third through Drayton, where it will be possible to utilize the thirty miles of grade already constructed by the Duluth & North Dakota railroad, and perhaps an alliance will be effected with that company that will make it unnecessary for it to build to Duluth or to a connection with the Duluth, Superior & Western at Deer river.

Col. James McNaught and his associates will, in a short time, probably within a month, pay a personal visit to Duluth and other points along the line of the proposed road, and arouse local interest in the enterprise.

The inducements which have resulted in this great undertaking are very alluring, and the only thing to be wondered at is that they have not attracted capital before, notwithstanding the powerful opposition offered by the great railroad systems that now cover the territory and divert its natural outlet at Duluth to St. Paul and Minneapolis. It has been shown that in the crop year beginning Sept. 1, 1895, there was brought to Duluth 88,000,000 bushels of grain of all kinds, on which freight was paid, amounting to over $8,500,000, enough to construct two complete roads from this city to the wheat fields, to say nothing of the immense revenue they would derive from hauling lumber, coal and miscellaneous freight. By the proposed reduction in freight rates a saving to farmers of 5 cents a bushel on wheat will be made, which in itself is a good profit, that will greatly encourage its production. Much Manitoba wheat, which now finds a market by the Canadian Pacific, will come by way of Duluth when this road is completed, and it is estimated that fully 5,000,000 bushels that now goes to Minneapolis from North Dakota, will come to this market, for, on an average, a saving of a haul of 100 miles and a proportionate saving in freight will be made.

Duluth jobbers will have a new field opened to them, and will be given railroad facilities that will be free from the influences of their competitors in St. Paul and Minneapolis, which now control the railroads to their disadvantage.

The next month bids fair to prove a most eventful one in the railroad history of Duluth, for events are likely to happen that will give this city the benefits to which her commanding position justly entitles her.

KIDNEY TROUBLES

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,

Also Backache.

I cannot speak too highly of Mrs. Pinkham's Medicine, for it has done so much for me. I have been a great sufferer from Kidney trouble, pains in muscles, joints, back and shoulders; feet would swell. I also had womb troubles and leucorrhœa. After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Blood Purifier and Liver Pills, I felt like a new woman. My kidneys are now in perfect condition, and all my other troubles are cured.—MRS. MAGGIE POTTS, 324 Kauffman St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Backache.

My system was entirely run down, and I suffered with terrible backache in the small of my back and could hardly stand upright. I was more tired in the morning than on retiring at night. I had no appetite. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I have gained fifteen pounds, and I look better than I ever looked before. I shall recommend it to all my friends, as it certainly is a wonderful medicine.—MRS. E. F. MORTON, 1043 Hopkins St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Kidney Trouble.

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I had suffered many years with kidney trouble. The pains in my back and shoulders were terrible. My menstruation became irregular, and I was troubled with leucorrhœa. I was growing very weak. I had been to many physicians but received no benefit. I began the use of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine, and the first bottle relieved the pain in my back and regulated the menses. It is the best kind of medicine that I have ever taken, for it relieved the pain so quickly and cured the disease.—MRS. LILLIAN CRIPPEN, Box 77, St. Andrews Bay, Fla.

RAINY LAKE REGION.

Many Gold Properties Are Changing Hands.

One indication of the excitement of the day is shown in the fact that property is rapidly changing hands, says the Rainy Lake Journal of May 6. Reports reach us of properties that are unsurveyed, with only the prospector's reports and samples, being taken at figures ranging from $250 to $5000, and in one case for $10,000. One good feature about the transactions is the readiness of the sellers to retain an interest in the property and to use the purchase money in development. Locations with some development work are bringing from $4000 to $25,000, and a few exceptionally fine pieces have brought higher prices. The region can no longer be considered an experiment. Contact veins are now proved to a depth of over 400 feet in the district and fissure veins to 300 feet. The milling of the ore in every case has proved them to be essentially free-milling in character and of the sort to pay handsome dividends. The value of the ores is well distributed throughout the rock, and is not of the sort called "pockety" in other regions.

A big explosion of dynamite, that wrecked all the window glass at the Ferguson mining camp, occurred Monday. The men were burning brush and rubbish, and it being very dry, the fire got beyond control. The small dynamite house containing 500 pounds of the explosive being near the barn, prevented them from extinguishing the fire, and soon that building was consumed. When the flames reached the dynamite house there was an awful roar, that shook up things all around the mine. No one was hurt.

A miner, a Finlander, fell from the ladder a distance of sixty feet in the Foley mine Friday and sustained serious injuries. At first it was thought he would die, but later reports state that he is now in a fair way to recovery. His head was said to be crushed, also his hips, and if he gets well it will be nothing short of miraculous.

More testimony reaches the Journal this week as to the existence of placer gold in the Rat Root valley, south of this town. The water, however, is too high in the creek beds to prosecute the search for pay dirt.

Charlie Moore, the veteran prospector and boomer of these gold fields, has struck a find near Rat Portage that is said to be as good as the Sultana.

The shaft of the Olive mine is now said to be about eighty feet deep, and the vein is gradually widening and the ore continues to be very rich. Work on the stamp mill is progressing, and when completed there will be a stream of "yellow boys" coming out of that fine mine.

John Sutherland, the Little American amalgamator, who was up the Seine for several days, has returned and is now fixing up a stamp mill preparatory to continuous running.

LICENSES DUE.

Dog Owners, Hackmen and Draymen Take Notice.

Notice is hereby given to all owners of dogs, hacks and drays, billiard tables, pool tables and bowling alleys operated for hire, all pawnbrokers, second-hand dealers and auctioneers and all who conduct theaters and shooting galleries,

That all licenses issued upon the same before May 1, 1897, expired upon that date; and the ordinances of the city of Duluth require licenses to be renewed on the first day of May in each year.

Enforcement of the laws will be insisted upon, and those not complying with the requirements will incur the penalty in such case made and provided.

SMALLEY CONCERT COMPANY.

Next Friday evbening the Smally Grand Concert company will give a concert at the First Methodist church. The Smalley Ladies' quartet is the finest in the world. It was formerly known as the Schumann Ladies' quartet and has traveled all over the United States. With the company is Miss Maud Caruthers, a finished reader and elocutionist. The Joliet News said of her:

"The reading of Miss Caruthers was exceedingly fine and highly appreciated. She has a beautiful voice and shows a great variety of style and ability. She captured her audience and was recalled with an enthusiasm that is seldom tendered one befor a Joliet audience."

HEINRICH MEYN CONCERT.

The ladies of the Cecilian choral are working energetically for the success of their concert at the Lyceum Thursday evening, May 20. The attraction which they will offer—Heinrich Meyn, the famous baritone—they believe to be one that will greatly enthuse all lovers of music. He is one of the leading artists engaged for the Minneapolis musical festival and has a magnificent reputation. The reception accorded him here is certain to be a fine one. The subscriptions made assure a large audience. Mr. Meyn's program will include seven numbers.

The Cecilian choral will give numbers and the concert will close with a mixed chorus "Hail Bright Abode," by Wagner.

Following the concert there will be a reception at the Spalding which will be open to all subscribers.

Still Incorrigible.

William Tulloch, a lad of 15 years, appeared before Judge Edson yesterday afternoon for a hearing to determine whether a suspended sentence for incorrigibility should not become operative. Tulloch was convicted last fall, sentence being suspended on his promise to do better. It appeared on the hearing yesterday that the young man had been in the habit of absenting himself from school, staying out late nights and associating with bad companions. Judge Edson took the case under advisement.

Graduated With Honors.

C. F. Schmauss, who was engaged in business in Duluth several years ago, has been studying medicine and surgery at Rush Medical college, Chicago, and is among the graduates this year. He has not only passed all examinations with high credit, but has also captured one of the interneships (house physician and surgeon) in the Cook county hospital in a hotly contested competitive examination. He will assume the duties of this position on Dec. 1, and will probably spend the intervening six months in Duluth.

The Cecilian Choral Society,

Taking part in the Northwestern May musical festival, Minneapolis, will leave in the St. Paul & Duluth railroad 9 a. m. train, special cars, Monday, May 16, reaching there at 3 p. m. Other trains, 9 a. m.; limited, 1:55 p. m. and 11:15 p. m. Round trip fare, $5.75. Tickets on sale May 15, 16, 17 and 18 at Union depot and city ticket office, 332 West Superior street, corner Providence building.

DEMURRERS OVERRULED.

The City Loses in West Duluth Water Case.

The demurrer in the case of the Duluth Light and Water company against the city of Duluth was argued in the United States court, before Judge Lochren, last evening. The case is an action brought by the plaintiff, which owns the West Duluth water plant, to collect hydrant rentals from the city. The amount for which the action was brought was for rentals for two quarters, amounting to in the neighborhood of $6000. The city filed three counter claims, and to these the plaintiff demurred.

The first counter claim was for $171 for over payments made to the company in March, 1896. There was no argument on this, it being a question of measurement, which will be settled by engineers. The demurrer was overruled, and an order was made to go to trial on the issue of fact.

The second counter claim was that between August, 1891, and April, 1895, the overcharged the city on eight hydrants more than it was entitled to under the ordinance, and that the city had paid the amount, $2795, under a mistake of fact; also that between April 11, 1895, and Jan. 18, 1896, the city had been overcharged on eleven hydrants, amounting to $624.78.

The demurrer to this second counter claim was made on the ground that the present company, the plaintiff in this case, did not then own the plant, and that the city must look to the old company for its remedy. Judge Lochren sustained the demurrer.

The third counter claim was for $768 and $59.73, which it was claimed the old company owed the city for repairs to paving. The demurrer to this was sustained upon the same ground that the first one was—that the city must look to the old company for its remedy.

The difference between the amount of the company's claim and the city's counter claim has been paid.

Special Rate Made.

A rate of $18 from Duluth to Rat Portage and return has been made by the Canadian Pacific and the Booth and Beatty lines of steamers, for the gold mining convention that meets at Rat Portage June 2, 3 and 4. This includes berths and meals on the steamers between Duluth and Port Arthur. The tickets are to be issued on the certificate plan and will be good leaving Duluth May 29 and 30. The return limit will be thirty days which will enable those who attend the convention to visit the mines in the vicinity of Rat Portage.

Rainy Lake Roads Open.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your issue of May 3 I see an article headed, "No Freight Moving—Rainy Lake Roads Are in Too Poor Condition." I wish to state through your valuable paper that such is not the case, as I have been transporting freight daily since April 29 up to the present time. Seven tons have been delivered at Foley, Seine River, and eight tons at Rainy Lake City, and two of the most prominent business men of Seine River and Rainy Lake City, who came through this way and had several tons of freight in Duluth ordered shipped by way of Rat Portage, but after coming by way of Tower, and finding the roads in such good condition, immediately sent word back to have it shipped this way. In fact the road across the portage has never been in such good condition so early in the season as it is this spring. It will not be necessary to wait on the transportation company, recently organized, to get things in shape before shipping freight this way, as there are competent men, both on the lakes and portage, to take care of passengers and freight. The first passengers over this route arrived at Mine Center on April 20, while up to the present time no one has arrived by way of Rat Portage. Last week J. Everett and others made the trip from Tower to Mine Center in twenty-one hours. When the improvements are made on the portage, the travel will certainly come this way, as the time is so much shorter and the expense much less. All the statements I make here are facts, as I am in a position to know.

Thousands Testify

To the curative, health-giving powers of Swift's Specific, the only blood remedy to be relied upon for obstinate, deep-seated blood diseases.

For centuries the human race has battled with a disease which has claimed its victims by the million. Contagious Blood Poison, the most horrible of all diseases—the curse of mankind—has spread its contamination throughout the world, blighting one generation with the taint of another.

A Real Blood Remedy.

This foe to humanity has baffled the skill of medical scientists, and, being unable to cure the disease, the doctors direct their efforts towards covering up its symptoms. There is but one effect to be obtained from the universal potash and mercurial treatment—it bottles up the poison and dries it up in the system,—but it must be remembered that it dries up the marrow in the bones at the same time, gradually consuming the vitality.

With this wreck of the system comes falling of the hair and eyebrows, loss of finger nails, and decay of the bones—a condition most horrible.

But there is a cure for Contagious Blood Poison. Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) has been curing it for fifty years, and is the only remedy which will have the slightest effect upon it. It forces the poison from the system, and removes all trace of the taint.

Mr. Frank B. Martin, of 926 Pennsylvania Ave., Washington, D. C., writes:

"It is difficult to describe my pitiable condition. My throat and mouth were full of sores, my tongue was almost eaten away, and I had not taken solid food for three months. My entire body was covered with red blotches, my hands and feet were sore and my hair was falling out rapidly.

"I was in great despair, when, as a last resort, I began to take S. S. S., but when I had finished the fourth bottle I began to improve, and by the time I had taken eighteen bottles I was thoroughly rid of the disease. Of course I was not sure I was cured, but I am now convinced, as no sign of the disease has returned for four years. S. S. S. is the best blood remedy in the world, and my cure was due solely and alone to it."

Mr. Otto H. Elbert, who resides at corner of 22d st., and Avenue N., Galveston, Tex., says:

"I was given the usual treatment of mercury, and took enough to kill an ordinary man. Of course, I was pronounced cured half a dozen times, the disease returning each time. I am sure no one was ever in a worse fix than I—my hair had fallen out by the handful, my feet were so swollen that I could scarcely walk, and I was in a sad plight.

"A dozen bottles of S. S. S. cured me completely, so that for five years I have had no sign of the terrible disease."

Swift's Specific is the only blood remedy guaranteed purely vegetable. One thousand dollars reward will be paid for proof that it contains a particle of mercury, potash or other mineral.

A book on the disease and its treatment will be mailed free. Address Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Georgia.

Physical Culture Exhibition.

On the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday, May 26 and 27, there will be given in the High School Assembly hall an exhibition of physical culture, conducted by Max Albertzhaeusser, the physical director of the public schools. All the grades will take part in the exhibit, which will be an elaborate one, with illustrations of all the various methods employed in the schools for the development of the youthful physique and carriage. The same exercises will be given on both evenings. The idea in separating the exhibit is to give everybody an opportunity to see it. There will be no charge for admission, but it will be necessary to obtain tickets from G.T. Boyd at the High School.

WILL ADMIT THE CHINESE.

Washington, May 12.—In response to the urgent request of the director general of the Nashville exposition, the secretary of the treasury has decided to admit for exposition purposes the 26 Chinamen recently arrived at San Francisco and the sixty-four at Tacoma. The secretary states, however, that under no circumstances will any additional permits to enter be granted.

Marriage licenses have been issued to A. M. Stearns and Adele V. Cormany, William Andersen and Christina McFarlane, and to Daniel A. Fitzpatrick and Mary A. Brady.

The fittings and furnishings of the barber shop at 421 West Superior street, in the Spalding Hotel block, have been sold by A. Miles to the Spalding Hotel company. The considerations expressed in the bill of sale filed yesterday was $2500.

The following births have been reported to the health department: A son to Samuel and Jennie Brown, of 2109 West Third street; a son to L. V. and Ella Allen, of 731 Garfield avenue.

The board of public works expected to issue about sixty orders for work on the trenches today. There were sixty issued yesterday, and there will be left but about thirty to be filled tomorrow before the limit authorized by the council is reached.

A convention will be held at the Swedish Mission church, corner of Twentieth avenue and Second street west, beginning tomorrow at 8 p. m., and continuing until Sunday. Sessions will be as follows: Friday at 3 and 8 p. m.; Saturday at 3 and 8 p. m., and Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 3 and 7:30 p. m.

The concert at the First Baptist church last evening was well attended, and was a very worthy event. The music of the band, the singing of the soloists and the playing of the instruments was excellent. Grease is conquered! Kelly did it.

FINDS ON THIS SIDE.

Gold Being Discovered Near Rainy Lake City.

Capt. George Lloyd of the steamer Lloyd arrived today from the Rainy Lake country. He reports a find on Rat Root river, seven miles from Rainy Lake City, on the American side. Bill Diamond, a homesteader, is the man who discovered it. He was digging a well and struck the gold. Another find was made near Beaks river narrows, six miles northeast from Rainy Lake City. There are a number of good finds reported on the American side.

The Lyle company is moving its stamp mill to the Little American mine. The Little American property is showing up richer every day. The vein is now thirteen feet and with no wall. McGuire, the engineer of the Little American mine, has a property on the American side which is showing up gold. The Grassy Island Land company has a 90-foot vein on Grassy island. Several new American companies are coming in.

Everybody is prospecting, including even the storekeepers. Capt. Lloyd is down for some machinery and will return tomorrow.

A Baseball Team.

At last night's meeting of Company G it was decided to form an outdoor baseball team, and the organization was started with Henry Mehling as captain and Will Chapman as manager. The chief topic under consideration now is a projected trip of the range during which the team will play all the clubs organized in the different towns.

The High school baseball club will have a game with the team from the West Superior Normal school Saturday.

SUES GAY

Eastern Bond Buyer Served With a Complaint While in the City.

Plaintiff Asks Pay For Services in Furthering the Bond Election.

An Alderman Named as Having Paid Part of the Money.

An incident that occurred during the recent visit of E. H. Gay, of E. H. Gay & Co., of Boston, to this city has but recently come to light. Mr. Gay, while here, was served with papers in a suit in which he is a party defendant. Now, the experience of being served with papers in a law suit is not unprecedented in Mr. Gay's career, indeed such things occur to every man of Mr. Gay's varied and large interests. But the nature of the claim was such as to render the incident remarkable, as was evidenced by the raising of the eyebrows and puffing of the lips on his part as he read the complaint.

The claim was for a balance alleged to be due the plaintiff for services rendered in the recent water bond election. The complaint stripped of legal verbiage, set forth that the plaintiff did, for the consideration of $250, agreed to be paid to him, undertake to and did render services at and before the water bond election in question in behalf of the passage of the proposition for the purchase of the water plant by the city. There had been, of the amount promised, the complaint alleged, the sum of $50 in hand paid, but the balance was unpaid although the same had been unpaid. Therefore, the plaintiff prayed judgment for the balance. It is alleged that an alderman paid him the $50. The plaintiff in the case is Charles Belcher, of West Duluth. George A. Elder, W. E. Cole and W. J. Macdonald are also defendants.

Who has that balance is the question that is agitating the minds of the few who are cognizant of the claim made. The only sure starting point for theorizing is the positive assertion of the plaintiff that he has not received it, although, he says, he labored faithfully for it.

MR. BUCHANAN EXPLAINS.

Saturday's Meeting Regarding the Mining Laws.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Allow me to correct a misapprehension as to the intents and object of the meeting held at Mr. Washburn's office Saturday last regarding a mining law that might apply to the needs of our state. The meeting was called, not with the object of retarding the introduction of such a bill (as the impression has gone abroad), but to find whether there was an absolute necessity for one. For some time past there has been an impression in the minds of several persons that the reason developments were greater on the Canadian side of the line than the American was on account of the laws regarding land and mineral claims. Simultaneously Mr. Washburn, Thomas A. Merritt and myself wrote Hon. Page Morris suggesting that it might be well to have a law passed that would stimulate mining. In reply Mr. Morris stated that he would be willing to introduce and father such a bill if he knew what was wanted. He asked us to find out, and have Mr. Washburn draft the measure to suit the requirements of the case, which he is quite willing to do at any time that a sufficient number of persons who are fully intelligent to the situation ask it. The decision of the Saturday meeting ruled against it, and I took the trouble to invite as many persons as I knew of, who might be interested and informed on the matter. Few however attended, and those that did were under the impression that the present law was adequate.

The meeting was called hurriedly, at a time and place to suit Mr. Washburn's convenience, as it was necessary to have him present. The letter I was requested to write Mr. Morris in no wise interferes with any further action in the matter, as the following copy of it will demonstrate; the clipping refers to an account of the meeting published in Sunday's News Tribune:

"I enclose a clipping from the News Tribune that about gives the conclusion we arrived at regarding the law pertaining to mining in our state, also the papers you mailed Mr. Washburn. We may not have arrived at the right one, but it was the best under the circumstances, owing to the limited amount of information at hand. One hears lots of complaint and suggestions on the street in ordinary conversation, but when the pros and cons are put together and sifted they do not amount to much, so would advise not doing anything until some more substantial reasons are put forward for a change, which, if I hear of any, will inform you of." Trusting I have put the matter clearly. Yours truly,

W. BUCHANAN.

Duluth, May 12.

Says They Are Fakes.

A letter from J. M. Esty, a mine prospector of considerable experience, has been received by Secretary Truelsen, of the board of fire commissioners, saying that the stories of gold deposits between the Prior and Big Horn rivers in Montana, are fakes. He has been prospecting there for four months, he says, and it is gathered from his letter that an appetite was about all he acquired in return for his labors. He denounced the glittering reports sent out as part of a scheme of speculators.

MUST NOT SOLICIT.

People Cannot Ask to Be Called as Jurors.

One of the laws passed at the last session of the legislature was an act forbidding the practice of requesting the placing of names on jury lists. Municipal Court Officer Marshall has posted up a copy of the laws at his office so that all who ran may read. The act provides that it shall be unlawful for any person to solicit or request, directly or indirectly, any officer charged with the duty of preparing a jury list to place the names of such person or any other person on the list. The officer, also, is forbidden to put on the list any name upon such solicitation, direct or indirect. Persons whose names the officer has been solicited to put on the list are subject to challenge for cause. The penalty for a violation of the act is a fine of not less than $10, nor more than $100, or imprisonment for less than ten nor more than ninety days, or both.

Today's Rush For Land.

The rush at the United States land office this morning was somewhat livelier than yesterday, but was not especially exciting. Township 65-19 was opened, and there 27 entries, of which 18 were accepted. Of these 13 were homestead entries and 5 timber and stone. Nine conflicted with Indian allotments or other entries. Two women, Signe Hagen and Sarah C. Brickley, made the first entries.

Two more towns, 66-17 and 66-18 will be opened, and the greatest rush of the three days is expected.

May Be Re-engaged.

A mistaken idea seems to have been unintentionally conveyed by the published remarks on the absence of the principal's name from the list of kindergartners appointed for the next year of the public schools. The fact is that the policy for the next year in the kindergartens has not yet been settled, and that explains why no action has yet been taken on the principalship. It has not yet been decided whether cadets will be employed next year or not, and upon that decision depends the question of engaging a principal. If cadets are employed a principal will be necessary, and Miss Clark will probably be engaged. If it is decided to do without a training school it is probable that no principal will be employed.

Will Cut the Timber.

George Lydick, county commissioner of Itasca county, is in Duluth today having just returned from Washington, where he has been to secure permission from the interior department to cut the dead timber on the Whitibigoshish reservation. He was successful in his mission, and the Indians will soon be put at work cutting logs. Mr. Lydick, Maj. R. M. Allen, agent of the White Earth reservation, and one member of the Indian commission, will have charge of the work. The logs will be sold to some lumber firm. Maj. Allen is in the city today in consultation with Mr. Lydick.

Admiralty Case On.

In the United States court today the admiralty cases in which the Inman tugs are concerned were being heard. The claims of the ship carpenters were allowed as liens on the boats. The discussion as to whether the masters are seamen and entitled to have their claims preferred was then taken up and was in progress at noon.

Yesterday a large number of second citizenship papers were issued, and at noon today another large lot were given. Nearly 100 in all have been issued.

Decrees have been filed in the case of D. E. Walker et al vs. D. D. Shumway et al, declaring the title to land in question to be in the defendants.

Physical Culture Exhibition.

On the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday, May 26 and 27, there will be given in the High School Assembly hall an exhibition of physical culture, conducted by Max Allertzhaeusser, the physical director of the public schools. All the grades will take part in the exhibit, which will be an elaborate one, with illustrations of all the various methods employed in the schools for the development of the youthful physique and carriage. Two prize exercises will be given on each evening. The idea of separating the exhibit is to give everybody an opportunity to see it. There will be no charge for admission, but it will be necessary to obtain tickets from G.T. Boyd at the High School.

WILL ADMIT THE CHINESE.

Washington, May 12.—In response to the urgent request of the director general of the Nashville exposition, the secretary of the treasury has decided to admit for exposition purposes the 261 Chinamen recently arrived at San Francisco and the sixty-four at Tacoma. The secretary states however, that under no circumstances will any additional permits to land with any additional permits to land be granted.

A convention will be held at the Swedish Mission church, corner of Twentieth avenue and Second street west, beginning tomorrow at 8 p. m., and continuing until Sunday. Sessions will be as follows: Friday at 3 and 8 p. m.; Saturday at 3 and 8 p. m., and Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 3 and 7:30 p. m.

The concert at the First Baptist church last evening was well attended, and was a very worthy event. The music of the band, the singing of the soloists and the playing of the instruments was excellent. Grease is conquered! Kelly did it.

FINDS ON THIS SIDE.

Gold Being Discovered Near Rainy Lake City.

Capt. George Lloyd of the steamer Lloyd arrived today from the Rainy Lake country. He reports a find on Rat Root river, seven miles from Rainy Lake City, on the American side. Bill Diamond, a homesteader, is the man who discovered it. He was digging a well and struck the gold. Another find was made near Brule river narrows, six miles northeast from Rainy Lake City. There are a number of good finds reported on the American side.

The Lyle company is moving its stamp mill to the Little American mine. The Little American property is showing up richer every day. The vein is now thirteen feet and with no wall. McGuire, the engineer of the Little American mine, has a property on the American side which is showing up gold. The Grassy Island Land company has a 90-foot vein on Grassy island. Several new American companies are coming in.

Everybody is prospecting, including even the storekeepers. Capt. Lloyd is down for some machinery and will return tomorrow.

A Baseball Team.

At last night's meeting of Company G it was decided to form an outdoor baseball team, and the organization was started with Henry Mehling as captain and Will Chapman as manager. The chief topic under consideration now is a projected trip of the range during which the team will play all the clubs organized in the different towns.

The High School Baseball club will have a game with the team from the West Superior Normal school Saturday.

SUES GAY

Eastern Bond Buyer Served With a Complaint While In the City.

Plaintiff Asks Pay For Services In Furthering the Bond Election.

An Alderman Named as Having Paid Part of the Money.

An incident that occurred during the recent visit of E. H. Gay, of E. H. Gay & Co., of Boston, to this city has but recently come to light. Mr. Gay, while here, was served with papers in a suit in which he is a party defendant. Now, the experience of being served with papers in a law suit is not unprecedented in Mr. Gay's career, indeed such things occur to every man of Mr. Gay's varied and large interests. But the nature of the claim was such as to render the incident remarkable, as was evidenced by the raising of the eyebrows and puffing of the lips on his part as he read the complaint.

The claim was for a balance alleged to be due the plaintiff for services rendered in the recent water bond election. The complaint stripped of legal verbiage, set forth that the plaintiff did, for the consideration of $250, agreed to be paid to him, undertake to and did render services at and before the water bond election in question in behalf of the passage of the proposition for the purchase of the water plant by the city. There had been, of the amount promised, the complaint alleged, the sum of $50 in hand paid, but the balance was unpaid although the same had been unpaid. Therefore, the plaintiff prayed judgment for the balance. It is alleged that an alderman paid him the $50. The plaintiff in the case is Charles Pelcher, of West Duluth. George A. Elder, W. E. Cole and W. J. Macdonald are also defendants.

Who has that balance is the question that is agitating the minds of the few who are cognizant of the claim made. The only sure starting point for theorizing is the positive assertion of the plaintiff that he has not received it, although, he says, he labored faithfully for it.

MR. BUCHANAN EXPLAINS.

Saturday's Meeting Regarding the Mining Laws.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Allow me to correct a misapprehension as to the intents and object of the meeting held at Mr. Washburn's office Saturday last regarding a mining law that might apply to the needs of our state. The meeting was called, not with the object of retarding the introduction of such a bill (as the impression has gone abroad), but to find whether there was an absolute necessity for one. For some time past there has been an impression in the minds of several persons that the reason developments were greater on the Canadian side of the line than the American was on account of the laws regarding land and mineral claims. Simultaneously Mr. Washburn, Thomas A. Merritt and myself wrote Hon. Page Morris suggesting that it might be well to have a law passed that would stimulate mining. In reply Mr. Morris stated that he would be willing to introduce and father such a bill if he knew what was wanted. He asked us to find out, and have Mr. Washburn draft the measure to suit the requirements of the case, which he is quite willing to do at any time that a sufficient number of persons who are fully intelligent to the situation ask it. The decision of the Saturday meeting ruled against it, and I took the trouble to invite as many persons as I knew of, who might be interested and informed on the matter. Few however attended, and those that did were under the impression that the present law was adequate.

The meeting was called hurriedly, at a time and place to suit Mr. Washburn's convenience, as it was necessary to have him present. The letter I was requested to write Mr. Morris in no wise interferes with any further action in the matter, as the following copy of it will demonstrate; the clipping refers to an account of the meeting published in Sunday's News Tribune:

"I enclose a clipping from the News Tribune that about gives the conclusion we arrived at regarding the law pertaining to mining in our state, also the papers you mailed Mr. Washburn. We may not have arrived at the right one, but it was the best under the circumstances, owing to the limited amount of information at hand. One hears lots of complaint and suggestions on the street in ordinary conversation, but when the pros and cons are put together and sifted they do not amount to much, so would advise not doing anything until some more substantial reasons are put forward for a change, which, if I hear of any, will inform you of." Trusting I have put the matter clearly. Yours truly,

W. BUCHANAN.

Duluth, May 12.

Says They Are Fakes.

A letter from J. M. Esty, a mine prospector of considerable experience, has been received by Secretary Truelsen, of the board of fire commissioners, saying that the stories of gold deposits between the Prior and Big Horn rivers in Montana, are fakes. He has been prospecting there for four months, he says, and it is gathered from his letter that an appetite was about all he acquired in return for his labors. He denounced the glittering reports sent out as part of a scheme of speculators.

MUST NOT SOLICIT.

People Cannot Ask to Be Called as Jurors.

One of the laws passed at the last session of the legislature was an act forbidding the practice of requesting the placing of names on jury lists. Municipal Court Officer Marshall has posted up a copy of the laws at his office so that all who run may read. The act provides that it shall be unlawful for any person to solicit or request, directly or indirectly, any officer charged with the duty of preparing a jury list to place the names of such person or any other person on the list. The officer, also, is forbidden to put on the list any name upon such solicitation, direct or indirect. Persons whose names the officer has been solicited to put on the list are subject to challenge for cause. The penalty for a violation of the act is a fine of not less than $10, nor more than $100, or imprisonment for less than ten nor more than ninety days, or both.

Today's Rush For Land.

The rush at the United States land office this morning was somewhat livelier than yesterday, but was not especially exciting. Township 65-14 was opened, and there 25 entries, of which 18 were accepted. Of these 13 were homestead entries and 5 timber and stone. Nine conflicted with Indian allotments or other entries. Two women, Signe Hagen and Sarah C. Brickley, made the first entries.

Two more towns, 66-17 and 66-18 will be opened, and the greatest rush of the three days is expected.

May Be Re-engaged.

A mistaken idea seems to have been unintentionally conveyed by the published remarks on the absence of the principal's name from the list of kindergartners appointed for the next year of the public schools. The fact is that the policy for the next year in the kindergartens has not yet been settled, and that explains why no action has yet been taken on the principalship. It has not yet been decided whether cadets will be employed next year or not, and upon that decision depends the question of engaging a principal. If cadets are employed a principal will be necessary, and Miss Clark will probably be engaged. If it is decided to do without a training school it is probable that no principal will be employed.

Will Cut the Timber.

George Lydick, county commissioner of Itasca county, is in Duluth today having just returned from Washington, where he has been to secure permission from the interior department to cut the dead timber on the Winnibigoshish reservation. He was successful in his mission, and the Indians will soon be put at work cutting logs. Mr. Lydick, Maj. R. M. Allen, agent of the White Earth reservation, and one member of the Indian commission, will have charge of the work. The logs will be sold to some lumber firm. Maj. Allen is in the city today in consultation with Mr. Lydick.

Admiralty Case On.

In the United States court today the admiralty cases in which the Inman tugs are concerned were being heard. The claims of the ship carpenters were allowed as liens on the boats. The discussion as to whether the masters are seamen and entitled to have their claims preferred was then taken up and was in progress at noon.

Yesterday a large number of second citizenship papers were issued, and at noon today another large lot were given. Nearly 100 in all have been issued.

Decrees have been filed in the case of D. E. Walker et al vs. D. D. Richards et al, declaring the title to land in question to be in the defendants.

Prices that make the brain reel with money saving delight is the keynote of advertising when confidence permeates the pledges of every issue. High quality and price lowness is the essence of advertising combination worthy of public recognition, and the latter without the former is as worthless as a needle without thread. EXTRAORDINARY

AN ORDINANCE

An ordinance regulating the speed of vessels and other water craft in the harbor of the city of Duluth.

The Common Council of the City of Duluth Do Ordain:

Section 1. That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to move, propel, or cause to be moved or propelled in any manner whatsoever, any vessel, boat, scow, lighter, tug, float or water craft of any kind whatever, at a rate of speed exceeding six (6) miles per hour, in the entrance to Duluth harbor, commonly called the Duluth ship canal.

Section 2. That in that portion of the harbor of Superior bay and St. Louis bay, and the waters connecting therewith, lying within the limits of the city of Duluth, it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to move, propel, or cause to be moved or propelled in any manner whatsoever, any vessel, boat, scow, lighter, tug, float or water craft of any kind whatever of the burden of five hundred (500) gross tons or over at a rate of speed exceeding six (6) miles per hour.

Section 3. Any person or persons, who, upon any of the said waters within the limits aforesaid, shall move, propel, or cause to be moved or propelled, or who shall assist in moving or propelling any such vessel, boat, scow, lighter, tug, float or water craft of any kind, at a greater rate of speed than herein provided, and any master or other person having such vessel, boat, scow, lighter, tug, float or water craft in charge, who shall, upon said waters and within said limits, cause or permit the same to be moved at a greater rate of speed than herein provided shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred (100) dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail for a period not to exceed ninety (90) days.

Section 4. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication.

Passed May 10, 1897.

ROBT. L. COCHRANE,
President.

Approved May 11, 1897.

HENRY TRUELSEN,
Mayor.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—

Whereas default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by James A. Quigg, mortgagor, to William C. Tyndall, agent for the Minneapolis Brewing Company, mortgagee, bearing date the 25th day of August, 1896, and with a power of sale therein contained, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds within and for the county of St. Louis in the state of Minnesota, on the 15th day of September, 1896, at 8:40 o'clock a. m., in Book 56 of mortgages, on page 579; which said mortgage with the debt thereby secured was thereafter duly assigned by the said William C. Tyndall, agent for the Minneapolis Brewing Company, to the Minneapolis Brewing Company, a corporation, by an instrument in writing dated the 9th day of September, 1896, and duly recorded in the office of said register of deeds on the 14th day of September, 1896, at 8:40 o'clock a. m. in Book 108 of mortgages on page 450; and

Whereas by reason of said default the power of sale in said mortgage has become operative, and there is now claimed to be due thereon, and is actually due on said mortgage, at the date of this notice, the sum of one hundred and six dollars and sixty-four cents ($106.64), and no action or proceeding has been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof;

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained, and pursuant to the statute of said state of Minnesota in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed and the premises covered thereby, situate in said county of St. Louis and in said mortgage described as follows, to-wit: The undivided one-half interest in and to lot two (2), of section two (2), in township sixty-six (66) north, of range twenty (20) west of the fourth principal meridian, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash to pay and satisfy the amount then due on said mortgage and twenty-five dollars ($25) attorneys' fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure thereof, and the disbursements allowed by law; which said sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the county court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county of St. Louis, on Wednesday, the 16th day of June, 1897, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated this 24th day of April, 1897.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—

Default has been made in the payment of the sum of eleven hundred sixty and 78-100 dollars, which amount is claimed to be due and is due, owing and unpaid at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage containing a power of sale duly made and delivered by William S. Woodbridge and Frances A. Woodbridge, his wife, Dwight E. Woodbridge and Mary M. Woodbridge, his wife, mortgagors, to Annie E. Rodgers, mortgagee, bearing date the first day of February, 1894, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 24th day of July, 1894, at 4 o'clock p. m., in Book 127 of mortgages, on page 292.

And whereas said default is a default in the conditions of said mortgage, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described and situate in St. Louis County, Minnesota, to-wit: Lots number forty-three, forty-five and forty-seven (43, 45 and 47), in block one hundred twenty-seven (127), in Duluth Proper, Third Division, according to the recorded plat thereof, which premises will be sold by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, Minnesota, at the front door of the court house of said county, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on Thursday, the 20th day of May, 1897, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at public auction to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt and interest, together with seventy-five dollars attorneys' fees, stipulated in said mortgage to be paid in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from date of sale, as by law provided.

Dated April 7th, 1897.

Creators of New Styles

are not, as is generally supposed, the merchant tailors, but the wholesale tailors, whose annual output reaches up into the millions—the firms that manufacture the Suits and Overcoats sold at "The Great Eastern." What merchant tailor could afford resident buyers in all the principal English, German and French woolen centers? What merchant tailor could afford to pay $10,000 per annum to an expert designer? What merchant tailor could possibly equal or approach the magnificent facilities these great wholesale tailors possess and utilize in the creation of their new styles every season?

None in the world. Years ago, before the manufacture of ready-to-wear clothes had reached its present magnitude as an American industry and its high degree of perfections from an artistic standpoint, the merchant tailor had the lead; but today, if you're looking for the best made, best looking, best wearing, newest and nobbiest Spring Suits and Spring Overcoats for the least possible price, you'll get as much style and as good values at "The Great Eastern" as at any other place in all America.

EX-SHERIFF IS LIABLE.

Paul Sharvy May Have to Pay a Second Time.

Judge Cant has ordered findings prepared for the defendant in the case of Genevieve M. Dunning against M. W. McDonald. Kathleen O'Leary, Paul Sharvy, as sheriff, and James A. Boggs. The case has been hanging on the calendars for the past three years, and it has an interesting history. In the fall of 1893 a judgment for about $200 was entered against McDonald. Shortly before that he had transferred to Kathleen O'Leary, his niece, a real estate mortgage and a house and lot in West Duluth. Afterwards J. A. Boggs, as attorney for Miss O'Leary, foreclosed the mortgage, which was for about $600. Boggs got a check for the money from Sharvy, and about two hours after Miss O'Leary telegraphed Sheriff Sharvy not to pay it to Boggs. The check was not stopped and it was paid the following day. From all that appears in the case, Boggs has it yet. The plaintiff set up that McDonald's transfer of the property to Miss O'Leary was to defraud his creditors and that it was void. The court finds that there was no evidence to sustain this claim. There was also a fight as to whether Mr. Sharvy was liable for the money paid to Boggs, and the court finds that he is. Fryberger & Johanson were McDonald's attorneys.

BAVARIAN HOPS.

Fitger & Co. Receive a Shipment From Germany.

A shipment of Bavarian hops arrived here today in bond from Germany for A. Fitger & Co., the brewers. These hops were sent through the courtesy of Baron von Sternburg of the Lutzschena brewery of Leipzig, who is an old friend of Mr. Fitger, and a classmate of his in the brewer's academy of Munich in 1877. Mr. Sternburg sent the hops of the stock which he bought for his own celebrated brewery, and he and his brewmaster unite in asserting that a finer growth of hops has never been offered in the markets of Germany. However, Fitger & Co. claim that the best which the fatherland affords is not too good for the citizens of Duluth. It will make a good tonic when it comes in contact with Minnesota barley malt and Lake Superior water.

Firemen Deny It.

The members of the Firemen's union characterize as untrue the statement made at the Label league meeting by members of the Tailors' union that they get their clothes made in non-union shops. Since the label agitation began they have insisted on label goods, they say.

John Flood Said to Be in the Lead For Reed's Place.

Report That the Board is Planning a Reorganization at Once.

Difference of Opinion as to the Legality of Mr. Reed's Election.

It has been given out by those who claim to stand near the throne that John Flood has the inside track for appointment as the member of the board of public works. The friends of F. L. Young are working hard for the latter, but they are handicapped in some degree by the opposition against Mr. Young of some of the members of his own party, in whose mouths the row at the Populist city convention this spring has left a bitter taste.

It was announced today that the program to be followed by the board of public works is that Mr. Reed shall resign the office of president and that a reorganization would be at once effected, Mr. Reed continuing as a member until this has been completed. In this way it is thought that no delay need be experienced on account of any possible hitch in the appointment and confirmation of Mr. Reed's successor.

In order to assure himself that he may legally surrender his office to D. A. Reed, the city engineer-elect, City Engineer Patton yesterday afternoon submitted the question to City Attorney Richards, this step being taken by Mr. Patton for the protection of his bondsmen. The request for an opinion embraces three propositions, viz., whether the reconsideration and confirmation are legal; whether, if the appointment is legal, Mr. Reed can assume the office of city engineer until relieved from duty as a member of the board of public works, and, lastly, whether the provisions of the charter disqualifying for the position of alderman or any other office persons holding an elective or appointive office under the city applies.

Mr. Richards had not this morning reached a decision on the latter point. As to the other points, the action of the council in reconsidering is legal, and that Mr. Reed may enter upon the discharge of his duties as city engineer without waiting until his successor on the board is appointed and qualified. He might do this, Mr. Richards holds, without even formally resigning from the board, his assumption of the office of city engineer working, in effect, a resignation from the board.

It is understood that the city attorney's opinion does not entirely allay the apprehensions of all the parties interested, and legal advice from other attorneys may be sought. Several prominent attorneys are not inclined to agree with Mr. Richards' conclusion on the two points as to which he has already decided. They hold that the decision of the supreme court in City Assessor Hawkes' case applies, and, further, that the doctrine that Mr. Reed can put himself out of one office and into another without formally resigning and, at least, the acceptance of the resignation by the mayor, will be held bad in being in contravention of public policy.

The charter provision referred to, as to the meaning of which Mr. Richards said he was in doubt, reads as follows: "No person * * * who holds any elective or appointive office * * * shall be qualified to be elected to or shall hold the office of alderman or any other city office."

His Hearing Set.

Jacob Schunke, who is held in suspicion of being the person who issued a number of bogus checks on Duluth business men during last summer and fall, was taken before Judge Edson this morning on the charge of forgery in the second degree. His hearing was set for Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Bail was fixed at $350, in default of which he was committed to jail. The police are confident of a conviction.

An Injunction Filed.

In the case of Alfred and Leonidas Merritt against A. A. and H. E. Harris, a suit of injunction was filed this morning, restraining the defendants from in any way transferring or incumbering the 951 shares of stock in the Security Land and Exploration company, which are in litigation. The injunction holds until the determination of the suit. It was made conditional upon the filing of a $15,000 bond by the plaintiffs, protecting the defendants from loss by reason of the injunction. The bond has been filed and approved, and the injunction now goes into effect.

What is a cough? It is an irritation of the throat and lungs. What causes it? Congestion. Stop the congestion, the irritation ceases, and the cough is cured. But how to stop the congestion! Ah, there is where the physicians have always been puzzled. Some doctors give cod liver oil, others cough syrups, but the most advanced prescribe stimulants. Nature must be assisted. Pure whisky will do it. See what physicians say:

Professor Austin Flint, of Bellevue (New York) college, says: "The judicious use of alcoholic stimulants is one of the striking characteristics of progress in the practice of medicine during the last half century."

Professor Henry A. Mott, of New York, says: "The purity of Duffy's pure malt whisky (as simple analytical tests will readily convince a physician or expert) should certainly recommend it to the highest public favor."

Dr. William T. Cutter, state chemist of Connecticut, says: "Duffy's pure malt whisky contains no deleterious or injurious qualities, and its absolute purity, as well as scientific mode of manufacture, must recommend it to general use and favor."

Duffy's pure malt whisky is a certain cure and preventive of congestion. Be sure and secure the genuine.

BARTON CASE SETTLED.

Was Reported in Court Today as Dismissed.

Two of the personal injury occupying the district court yesterday faded away yesterday afternoon, leaving only one on trial. The Barton case against the Virginia Light and Water company, which had partly gone to trial and was waiting for the return of one of the attorneys, was reported settled and was dismissed. The terms of the settlement were not made public. The case of Fylvert McVicar against the Duluth Ice company fell to the ground yesterday afternoon when the plaintiff's case was rested. Mr. Hollister moved to dismiss on the ground that no cause for action had been made out, and Judge Ensign granted the motion.

This morning Judge Ensign took up the case of Charles L. Wentz, formerly superintendent of the Duluth agency of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, against R. F. Daere, his successor, and the company itself. Wentz sues for $12,000 damages for false imprisonment. After he left the company he was charged with having embezzled a sum of money, and was arrested. Before bail was secured he was confined in jail for a short time. When the case came to trial he was released, and he now sues for the alleged damages to his reputation. W. B. Moer and R. P. and W. N. Edson are his attorneys, and W. W. Billson appears for the defense.

In Judge Cant's room this morning the case of Nels Hall, as administrator, against the Duluth Street Railway company, was still on trial. The plaintiff was seeking to prove by the railway employes that the brake of the car which caused the accident on which the suit is based, was so defective that it was impossible to stop the car promptly.

John Lundberg and Abe Levant, two young boys, pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing knives and revolvers from the Duluth Hardware company. The Spellmans were to plead to charges of arson in the third degree this afternoon.

REPORT

Of Senate Foreign Relations Sub-Committee Is Presented.

Senators Davis and Foraker Prepared it, Morgan Not Participating.

Pitiable Condition of Many Americans in the War Ravaged Island.

Washington, May 13.—The senate committee on foreign relations today had the Cuban question under consideration on the basis of the report of the sub-committee appointed yesterday to confer with the president and Secretary Sherman. The report was prepared by Senators Davis and Foraker, the Republican members of the sub-committee, Senator Morgan, the Democratic member, declining to participate in it. The report consists of a concise statement of the contents of official reports from American consuls from Cuba bringing the information up to within a week from the present time. This report confirms the newspaper reports as to the situation of affairs in the island and even goes farther in depicting a deplorable situation than do most of the newspaper stories.

Especial stress is laid upon the condition of American citizens in the island. Of these it is positively stated that there are hundreds in a starving condition and most wretchedly clothed. Deaths of Americans from starvation are reported. They are scattered in all parts of the island, and are shown no consideration whatever because of their American citizenship. They are generally persons who reside on the plantations, but who being among strangers and without employment are compelled to subsist on almost nothing. They are not allowed to return to their plantations, even to pick berries or to secure the least article of subsistence.

They are theoretically under the care of the Spanish army, but the army is without a commissariat. They have no means of leaving the island. Their condition is pronounced wholly deplorable. The committee was especially impressed with this recital, and the opinion generally expressed that the situation should be remedied if possible. It was considered as placing even a worse aspect upon the question of our relations to Cuba than the imprisonment of Americans of which there are now comparatively few instances. The report also indicates a generally wretched condition of all the inhabitants of the island because of the scarcity of food and money, and especially in the centers of population, and because also of the pressure of the most malignant diseases, such as yellow fever, smallpox and dysentry. These diseases the natives withstand with comparative ease, but they are especially oppressive to the Spanish soldiery.

The reports indicate that the Spanish army is not so strong now as it was a year ago, largely on account of these ravages while they indicate no diminution of the insurgent forces. The reports upon which the sub-committee's brief was based were from various consuls, including Consul General Lee. They make no recommendations as to the American policy, but merely give the situation as they see it. In view of the developments in the committee, Senator Morgan agreed not to press the consideration of his resolution today, but he will make an effort to have the question made the unfinished business Monday at 2 o'clock.

This acquiescence on the Alabama senator's part to temporary delay is understood to be given under the impression that it will result in bringing to the resolution the support of the entire committee on foreign relations. This will, of course, materially strengthen the resolution in the senate and it is believed by its friends, will expedite its passage there. It is now probable that the committee will not make any formal report and that the correspondence will not be given to the public for the present.

WANT A WARSHIP.

To Command Landing of Relief For Americans.

Washington, May 13.—Members of the foreign relations committee have recommended to the president that, if necessary to secure the landing of food and clothing necessary to relieve the wants of Americans, they should be accompanied by an American warship. The president has listened to this advice, but has not indicated his intention to act upon it.

The committee has a list of heads of families representing over 100 Americans who are said to be in a starving condition. They are represented to be "corralled" in towns and unable to get out for food even if they had the means to procure it. The correspondence represents that there are thousands of Cubans in this condition.

The delay by the senate committee on foreign relations in taking no action until Monday is for the purpose of giving the president an opportunity to act. Representations were made to the president that there is necessity for immediate action. It has also been represented that the matter of recognition ought to be by the executive and not by the legislative branch of the government. The president has been urged also to take some steps looking toward the relief of the starving Americans in Cuba. It is the belief of members of the committee that members will take action before Monday, but if nothing is done by that time there is no doubt that the committee will urge the Morgan resolution in the strongest terms possible.

There will be a practically unanimous expression of opinion in favor of the resolution by the foreign relations committee. Some may raise the constitutional question against it, but will not urge it very hard, but at the same time will express sympathy with Cuba and say that some action ought to be taken, but maintain that the action should be by the executive and not by congress.

VESSEL MISSING.

And Some Very Wealthy Gold Prospectors Also.

New York, May 13.—A dispatch to the Herald from Buenos Ayres, Argentine, says: United States Minister William I. Buchanan has begun an investigation to find out, if possible, what has become of the American sailing vessel Joseph F. Loubat, which, it is feared, has been lost somewhere between this port and Terra Del Fuego. The vessel, which was commanded by Capt. T. H. Connors, and had on board Moses Y. Ransome, a wealthy American, and several prominent young men from Cleveland, Ohio, left this port in January on a search for gold. The Loubat is a small vessel and the fact that nothing has been heard from her has given rise to the fear that she has been lost.

Minister Buchanan has undertaken the investigation at the request of the American relatives and friends of the men aboard the Loubat, who are anxious to ascertain as much as possible regarding the movements of the vessel since she was last seen. Mr. Ransome is a man of considerable wealth and is a close personal friend of Senator Mark Hanna. With him on the Loubat were Charles Ransome, his son; Kirk Gardner, a son of former Mayor Gardner, of Cleveland; Douglas Perkins, Jr., son of a capitalist of Cleveland; Walter Powers and W. H. Huntington, engineers; William A. Harris, a draughtsman, and Hugh Hinds.

Just before the vessel left New York, Mr. Ransome stated that his destination was Sluggards Bay, Terra Del Fuego. He knew, he said, that gold was abundant in that vicinity, and with an invention which he had recently perfected and which he carried along, he hoped to realize a fortune for himself and his comrades. His machine was for the purpose of separating gold from sand, and he said the place he had selected for his operations would prove not only the efficiency of his invention, but would yield a fortune.

FARROW'S TRIAL.

Insurance Swindler is in Court in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, May 13.—The case of Lieut. Edward S. Farrow, of New York, for fraud and conspiracy in connection with the Mutual Reserve Fund Life association of New York, was called for trial in the county courts at 11:20 o'clock this morning. The trial attracted quite a number of people prominent in the insurance world, to the court room, and some interesting developments are promised on both sides.

C. Linford Woods, who is jointly indicted with Farrow, was brought into court and placed in the prisoner's dock. It is said he will be used as a witness by the prosecution. After the selection of the jury and the opening speech for the prosecution court adjourned for lunch.

COMPANY MUST PAY.

Jury Gives the Plaintiff a Verdict For $11,790.

Pittsburg, May 13.—In the United States court this morning the jury in the case of Mrs. Louis Morris, against the Fidelity and Casualty company of New York, rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $11,790 in full amount of the policy with interest from March 19, 1894, the date of death. The action was for the recovery of a $10,000 accident policy carried by the husband of the plaintiff. Morris was killed by falling from a skiff into Lake Chautauqua. The insurance company refused to pay the policy on the ground that he died from heart trouble and was not drowned.

A DETROIT FAILURE.

Detroit, Mich., May 13.—John B. Dyar, for twenty years a successful business man of Detroit, gave bills of sale today, transferring over $200,000 worth of property and securities to a trustee for the benefit of his creditors. Mr. Dyer has been prominently connected with several large local enterprises. For the past year he has been securing franchises and arranging to build an electric railroad from Detroit to Port Huron. The latter enterprise is what is believed to have caused his embarrassment.

PRESIDENTIAL APPOINTMENTS.

Washington, May 13.—The president today sent the following nominations to the senate: Treasury—James M. Sloan, to be assistant treasurer of the United States at Baltimore; Richard S. Bostwick, surveyor of customs, port of Galena, Ill. Postmasters—Iowa, A. E. Kincaid, at Walnut; James F. Hook, Ballard. Wisconsin, H. S. McGiffin, Edgerton; E. S. Goodell, Viroqua.

NEW POSTMASTERS.

Washington, May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bartlck Wutzka was today appointed postmaster at Flensburg, Morrison county, Minn., vice Charles Kruegel, resigned, and T. G. Butler at Pequot, Crow Wing county, vice F. M. Lawhead, resigned.

AN INCENDIAY MILL FIRE.

Springfield, May 13.—The Funderburg mills at New Carlisle were fired by an incendiary shortly after midnight and destroyed. Loss, $50,000.

ANOTHER CUBAN CONFERENCE.

Washington, May 13.—President McKinley had another important conference this morning, presumably on the Cuban question. Shortly after 10 a. m. Secretary of the Navy Long and Assistant Secretary of State Day came to the White House and were ushered into the cabinet room where they were at once joined by Mr. McKinley. Word was at once sent to those in waiting that the president could not be seen before 1 o'clock. He remained in close conference with the department officials and a number of senators and representatives who had expected a hearing were turned away.

RED LAKE

Maj. Wright's Report on Timber Estimates Sent to the Senate.

Seventeen Million Feet Was Found Where Only Nine Million Was Reported.

Other Discrepancies Which Show Gross Frauds By the First Estimators.

Washington, May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Secretary Bliss today transmitted to the senate, in response to Senator Nelson's resolution, Inspector Wright's report of the investigation of the timber estimates on the Red Lake reservation last December. Maj. Wright begins his report by detailing the qualifications of two estimators, Ayers and McGuigan, employed by him. He says that neither had any knowledge of the previous estimates nor whether the land was sold or unsold. Each tract examined by both men was examined on different days. Maj. Wright gives this information for the purpose of showing that there was no collusion between the estimators.

The report then says: "A total of eighty-five 40-acre tracts were examined and found to contain 17,271,000 feet, against 9,635,000 feet previously reported, of which sixty-one tracts containing 12,472,000 feet, against 5,547,000 feet reported were sold and twenty-four tracts with 4,799,000 feet, against 4,088,000 previously reported, remained unsold at the time of my examination.

"Section 24, township 150, range 35, southwest of northwest, reported at 65,000 feet, was found to contain by one examiner (Ayers) 865,000 and by McGuigan 760,000 (difference being due to difference of opinion in regard to defective timber). Subsequently, with two men, I personally tallied the calipering and measuring of each tree on this tract and found 1611 trees which it was computed would make 902,000 feet of timber."

The report shows a large difference found in many of the tracts reported in this township. The report says that greater discrepancies were found in township 150, range 32, but no tracts are specified in the report. Discrepancies are also reported in township 147, ranges 37 and 38, two forties of which were classed as agricultural and found to contain 17,000 and 18,000 feet of timber respectively.

In many instances large discrepancies existed in regard to the quantity of white pine and Norway reported. In section 24, township 148, range 36, northwest of southeast, reported at 457,000 feet, 50,000 feet being Norway, the balance white. McGuigan reported 760,000 feet, one-half being Norway.

Inspector Wright then says: "On completing examinations of tracts submitted and on my arrival at Fosston, I wired Mr. Douglas, chief of examiners. I informed him of the result of the work. As he insisted I was mistaken, and as he claimed thier work was correct, I insisted on his accompanying me to seveal tracts in company with his foreman. When shown several tracts, which his foreman examined and confirmed my reports, he was very much surprised and failed to explain in any manner."

Maj. Wright subsequently held an examination of the estimators at Crookston. Examiner Finney informed Special Agent Parke, who was present at the hearing, that he had accepted another's figures on tracts reported on by him and had not personally examined them.

In summing up the testimony, Maj. Wright says that it shows the chief's headquarters were a considerable distance from where the work was carried on; the assistant chief remained in the woods, forwarding reports, accepting them as correct when near together, both depending on the foreman to see that the work was properly done. The foreman gathered the reports and was not instructed to ascertain the correctness of the work, and could not have done so anyhow. Each crew of three men camped and worked together in different localities. No test was made of their work, and it was not known as a fact whether each or any of them personally examined every tract reported on or how the work was performed, or how often or how long any of them were absent, except as reported by them. As an example of the looseness in following up the men, the testimony showed that Estimator Beaulieu was at White Earth and St. Paul the weeks ending May 4 and 18, while he reported an examination of certain tracts. Statements are submitted showing dates on which men were at Thief River Falls and Red Lake (from four men).

The report then says: "It will be noticed that the tracts which I examined and found previously underestimated are generally sold, while others found nearly correct remain unsold, demonstrating the fact that the purchasers had had the tracts examined before buying."

Maj. Wright reports that the estimates had cost up to the time of the investigation $151,250. He says that the work should not have cost more than $25,200. Maj. Wright suggests that three competent men be employed to complete the work north of Red Lake, which should not require a great length of time nor a large expenditure of money. He also says that the estimates on the Leech Lake reservation are wholly unsatisfactory.

Maj. Wright says that in his opinion the most satisfactory manner to all concerned in handling and disposing of the timber is that in operation at La Pointe agency, Wisconsin, which includes the establishment of mills on the reservation and payment to the Indians for all timber on the scale of logs cut. From the evidence furnished it appears practicable to establish mills on the Leech Lake reservation for this purpose. If this is not deemed practicable, he suggests the employment of twelve competent estimators to work on the Leech Lake reservation. This has already been done and the work has been prosecuted under the direction of Commissioner Baldwin.

Maj. Wright makes no charges of incompetency or fraud in connection with former estimates. He simply lets the testimony show for itself and leaves to the secretary the determination of whether or not there has been any crookedness in this work.

NEW ORLEANS LEVEES.

Crevasses May All Be Closed Before Morning.

New Orleans, May 13.—The railroad and levee board have made a wonderful fight and will probably close all the crevasses in the Burton levee today and then hold the line while the mud box is being built around the dangerous section. The planters in the parishes below have been organizing forces and filling sacks all night, while special valley trains have hurried reinforcements to the army of defense working in the water to hold the wavering banks.

They expect to win today and may then turn around and build a protection levee from the river to the bayous in the rear, presenting a broadside to future crevasses there and leaving Baton Rouge to take care of her own. The river at New Orleans has been stationary since Saturday, at 19.4. The levees are in fine condition and by next Saturday the big working force will be dispensed with, a few hundred men being retained for emergency repairs.

STATE OF THE RIVERS.

Washington, May 13.—Rivers: The following changes in the rivers (in feet and tenths) have occurred: Ilson—Parkersburg, 3.2; Cincinnati, 3.6; Nashville, 2.3; Fort Smith, 1.9. The river at New Orleans is 3.5 above the danger line and rising. At Vicksburg it is 9.6 above the danger line and has fallen .2. The following heavy precipitation (in inches) was reported: Washington, 1.69; New York, 1.10; Mobile, 2.20; Knoxville, 2.96; Shreveport, 1.72; Long View Texas, 1.92; Eastman, Ga., 1.74; Fort Gaines, Ga., 2.16; Millen, Ga., 2.16; Way Cross, Ga., 2.30; Thomasville, Ga., 1.70; Waynesboro, Ga., 2.10.

TILLMAN'S LATEST.

Wonders If the Senators Have Speculated in Sugar.

Washington, May 13.—Senator Tillman of South Carolina made a sensational speech in the course of the debate on bringing Chapman before the bar of the senate. He said the senate should not go after Chapman, but should learn whether senators had speculated in sugar stock.

There were published charges, he said, that senators had speculated in sugar stock within the last week. Instead of looking to Chapman, he said, the senate might better call on Havemeyer and other sugar trust grandees. Referring to the last investigation he said: "We want to know whether our committee was bought, and punish them and the men who bought them."

IN THE HOUSE.

Washington, May 13.—Representative Castle of California today introduced a joint resolution for the recognition of the belligerent rights of the Cubans. It declares it to be the policy of the United States to recognize the belligerent rights of all oppressed people struggling for liberty.

KANSAS IN LINE.

Would Revoke the Phoenix Company's License.

Topeka, Kans., May 13.—Insurance Commissioner McNall today notified H. M. Magill, Chicago manager of the Phoenix Insurance company, of Hartford, Conn., that unless the company confined itself to fire insurance he would revoke its license. The company has been advertising for tornado business. Other companies whose charters do not provide for tornado or hail insurance have been similarly notified.

Milwaukee, May 13.—As a result of the cancellation by Insurance Commissioner Fricke of the Wisconsin license of the Citizens Insurance company of St. Louis, it is today reported in Insurance circles that Insurance Superintendent Orear, of Missouri, has determined to retaliate by revoking the licenses of all Wisconsin companies doing business in the state of Missouri.

If this plan were carried out it would work a great injustice to companies which are in no manner involved in the controversy between Mr. Fricke and the Citizens company of St. Louis.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Light Trading Marked the Early Opening Hour.

New York, May 13.—Trading on the stock exchange was in light volume at the outset today, slight concessions being the rule in the specialties. The railways were fairly well supported and improved a fraction with the grangers leading.

The heaviness of the industrials was soon communicated to the railway shares, with Omaha suffering most severely on continued liquidation caused by disappointment at the failure of the management to declare a dividend. Sugar bore the brunt of the sales, with the bears attaching considerable importance to the unfavorable tenor of the Washington dispatches. Tennessee Coal was forced down ¾ per cent on the less satisfactory trade advices, and Chicago Gas seemed to be dominated by the defeat of the Humphreys street car bill in the Springfield legislature yesterday. The market generally lacked feature, with realizations accelerating the dealings in some shares.

Tobacco was attacked by the bears and on moderate offerings receded ¼c to 70¾c around 12 o'clock. The general list continued to sag with the strength of the probable action of the senate on the Cuban question and on the gold shipments for Saturday's steamer, announcement being made just before noon of the engagement of $1,000,000 in gold bars for export. Sales to noon, 62,500 shares.

THE JURY

Nine Indictments Returned in the District Court This Morning.

One is Believed to Be in the Case of the Bornemanns.

Five Charges of Forgery Brought Against Young Jacob Schühe.

The grand jury entered Judge Moer's court room at noon today and deposited nine indictments, two of which were withheld, the parties not being in custody. It is said that one of the indictments is against Mr. and Mrs. Bornemann, father and stepmother of Nora Bornemann, the young girl who committed suicide last week. It is known that the jury has been considering the case, and in view of the finding of the coroner's jury it is believed that the indictment holds them in some manner responsible for the death of Nora Bornemann. The nature of the charge is not known. Bench warrants were issued this afternoon on the indictments which were withheld, and it was expected that the parties would be arraigned late this afternoon or tomorrow morning.

Of the remaining seven indictments Jacob Schuhe is the subject of five, and if all of them are true he has been carrying on a sort of a jobbing business in forgery and grand larceny. There are against him four indictments for forgery in the second degree and one for grand larceny in the second degree. The indictment for larceny charges that on Jan. 16 he stole a type writer and $3 in cash from the Duluth Iron and Metal company. The forgery indictments charge the following forgeries: August 19, 1896, check for $3 on the Marine National bank signed "North. W. Fuel Co.;" March 27, check for $4.50 on the American Exchange bank, signed "W. C. Sargent;" April 8, check for $8.50 on the American Exchange bank, signed "Stone, Ordean & Wells Wholesale company;" April 22, check for $8.50 on American Exchange bank, signed "Stone, Ordean & Wells Wholesale Grocers company."

Charles Silverthorne was indicted for grand larceny in the second degree, on the charge that on April 22 he stole an overcoat and a pair of gloves from John Ekill on Garfield avenue. John Conway was indicted for assault in the second degree. The indictment charges that on May 3 he assaulted J. L. Cook with a large whisky bottle.

The grand jury had been expected to get through with its work last night, but matters came up which carried it along so that the final adjournment will not take place until tomorrow.

Later—Charles and Eureka Bornemann were arraigned this afternoon charged with manslaughter in the second degree. Bail was fixed at $1000 each.

SPANISH CAPTURE TERNATE.

Madrid, May 13.—An official dispatch from Manila announces that the Spanish troops have captured Ternate. Of the insurgents fifty-seven were killed. The Spaniards lost twenty-five killed and 226 were wounded.

RAIN IN KENTUCKY.

Middlesboro, Ky., May 13.—Rain for thirty-six hours has again flooded Middlesboro. Thousands of acres of growing corn are under water. Loss to farmers not less than $20,000; to Middlesboro, $5000. The rain has not ceased, but the waters are receding and the worst is over.

THE TREASURY CONDITION.

Washington, May 13.—Today's statement of the condition of the treasury shows: Available cash balance, $228,707,297; gold reserve, $148,048,401.

"I Saved $15

CUBA

What the Senate Committee's Conference With the President Touched Upon.

McKinley Will Move Slowly But Will Not Offend Spain.

Committee Can Have Access to All Cuban Information Received.

Chicago, May 13.—A special to the Times-Herald from Washington says: An important conference held at the White House between President McKinley and Senators Davis, Foraker and Morgan of the foreign relations committee was the result of the decision reached by the committee not to continue the debate in the senate on Senator Morgan's resolution recognizing the belligerency of the Cubans, until the exact policy of the administration had been defined. This was partly due to the semi-official statement made by Senator Foraker that the administration had its own policy and would treat the Cuban question in a proper way when the time came.

The members of the committee plainly asked the president what he intended to do. In confidence he told them that it was not his purpose at the present time to change the attitude of the administration or to do anything which could be construed by Spain as a manifestation of sympathy with the insurgents. For that reason, he said, he had refrained from sending warships to Havana to protect the interests of American citizens. The president told the senators that so long as the status quo was maintained and until overt acts were committed by the Spanish involving the property of American citizens, the administration would not change its existing policy.

The senators asked for some official information about the state of affairs in Cuba and complained because this information had been held back. The president replied that if the official reports of Consul General Lee and other consuls on the island were made public they would inevitably prove offensive in Havana.

He said that he was willing to let the foreign relations committee have all the information in the possession of the government if it would be carefully guarded.

This was really what the senators wanted, and after their interview with the president they visited Secretary Sherman for the purpose of arranging with him the means of sending the inforation. It is probable that no reports will actually be sent to the committee, but that the chairman and certain members will be permitted to read the reports on file in the state department.

From what the president said and from what is already known of the tenor of the consul general's reports, it is evident that Gen. Lee's sympathies are with the insurgents.

Besides, to investigate the Ruiz case, it is said that one of the main purposes of Mr. Calhoun's visit to Havana will be to establish the truth of the statements made by Gen. Lee and other consular agents of the United States.

CORPSE AT THE WHEEL.

A Ghastly Derelict of the Pacific Ocean.

San Francisco, May 13.—Tossing on the stormy waters of the North Pacific is the schooner Gen. Siglin, a battered, helpless wreck, with a corpse for a helsman. The vessel, dismasted and waterlogged, was seen by the sealing schooner William Ainsworth on the morning of May 5 110 miles west of the Queen Charlotte Islands. The body lashed to the wheel was that of Harry Saunders, the schooner's mate.

Of the nine persons who sailed on the schooner from this city not one escaped to tell the story. There were no boats on the wreck and it is thought the captain, passengers and crew perished after leaving the vessel.

VON ARNOLD'S VILLAINY.

Made Love to Several Girls as a Nobleman.

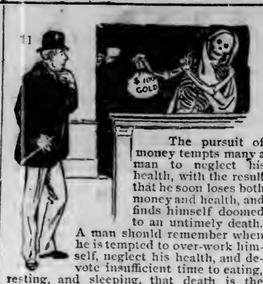
San Francisco, May 13.—Attorney Delmas has not reconsidered his determination not to talk; indeed, his determination has become stronger since the last message was received from his Nemesis at London, in which she asserts that Detective von Arnold was hired to betray her.

Jeannine von Turkheim is not the only Nemesis who believes von Arnold base. Lillian Ashley, who is playing the tragic role of avenging fate to E. J. Baldwin, believes she had a lucky escape from being taken out of the United States at Baldwin's behest. She now avers, and in the averment is corroborated by her sister Emma, that von Arnold, as Baron von Steinmitz, made love to her at Los Angeles and attempted to woo her into forgetfulness of Baldwin's millions and his babe by the glitter of a distant crown. She made inquiries.

The bogus baron's estate and his pretenses melted under the simple test of inspection. She preferred her recent lot, and instead of leaving for Steinmitz with von Arnold, came to San Francisco and registered at Baldwin's hotel as Mrs. Lay, betraying thereby an adaptability to circumstances not unequal to von Arnold's. Miss Ashley hazards the opinion, solely in the hope of saving some other poor girl, that von Arnold and his employers are villains.

BANK ASSETS SOLD

Tacoma, Wash., May 13.—The sale of the assets of the defunct Bank of Tacoma to J. J. McKone for $8250 has been confirmed by the superior court. The face value of the assets was over $350,000. The city of Tacoma had over $200,000 on deposit at the time of the failure. Aug. 15, 1896, nearly all of which was lost.



The pursuit of money tempts many a man to neglect his health, with the result that he soon loses both money and health, and finds himself doomed to an untimely death. A man should remember when he is tempted to over-work himself, neglect his health, and devote insufficient time to eating, resting, and sleeping, that death is the tempter that holds out money as a bait. If a man will take proper care of his health, he will feel like work, and will find that he can do all the work that he cares to do within working hours.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery gets a man into working shape and keeps him there. It invigorates the liver, keeps the digestion in working order, the appetite hearty and keen. It keeps the blood pure and plentiful. It keeps out and drives out impurities and disease-germs. It wards off nervous and wasting diseases. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. It is the product of the life-work of an eminent and skillful specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. Druggists sell it.

Mrs. L. P. Coates, of Blythebourne, Kings Co., N. C., writes: "Three years ago, I was so sick I could not eat, sleep or walk, for I coughed all day and night. My weight was reduced from 150 to 127 pounds. The first night that I slept for hours at one time, was after I had taken three doses of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The offensive matter expectorated grew less every day and when I had taken the whole of one bottle I could sleep all night without coughing, and have been well ever since and weigh 178 pounds."

A good, practical, medical book is worth more in a home than a thousand novels. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is that kind of a book. It contains 1,008 pages and over 300 illustrations. A new edition given away absolutely FREE. If you want a paper-covered copy send 21 one-cent stamps (the cost of mailing only), to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. For cloth binding, 31 stamps.

HUMPHREY BILLS.

Mayor Harrison's View of Effect of Their Defeat.

Springfield, Ill., May 13.—Mayor Harrison, of Chicago, has made the following statement concerning the action of the legislature in refusing to extend fifty years the franchises of the street railway companies: "The defeat of the Humphrey bills leaves the extension of the traction companies' franchises where it properly belongs, in the hands of the municipal authorities of Chicago. In my opinion, speaking as an individual, the next step should be to bring the extension of the franchises before the proper civic authorities, where, if they appear with clean hands, offering the municipality adequate compensation, the companies will receive just treatment.

"Chicago is a fair city, an honest city, a generous city. Its people believe neither in destruction nor confiscation. Their desire is to build up and not to tear down, to anchor and not to cast adrift. We need the assistance of outside capital to help develop our industries, and outside capital will flow into our coffers only upon the guaranty of absolutely fair treatment. The readying of the values of the traction companies' stocks will bring stability to the value of all of our local stocks and bonds. Our fight has been mainly for the principle of home rule. We have won the battle. It now remains for us to prove our ability to protect the interests of the citizens of Chicago, and at the same time accord justice to the corporations."

NEGROES FIGHT.

One Dead, and They Did Not Use Razors.

San Augustine, Texas, May 13.—Two negroes on the farm of George and Felix Johnson, white, went from the latter's house and renewed a quarrel previously begun. Other members of the Johnson families interfered. When the fight ended it was found that Theodore Nobles was suffering from two gunshot wounds. He died in a short time. George Johnson was struck on the head with a gun. He is insensible and his condition precarious. Aaron Johnson was wounded in three places. Felix Johnson was shot in the arm and leg. William White, one of the two attacking negroes, had his skull fractured and was also shot through the body. A posse is searching for his son, the other negro who is also wounded.

TRAFFIC MANAGERS DELIBERATING.

St. Louis, Mo., May 13.—It is now stated that the Southwestern lines whose representatives have been in session for several days past, have not yet agreed upon a plan for a reorganization of the Southwestern Traffic association. Each clause of the proposed agreement has been carefully considered and certain modifications suggested so as to avoid the possibility of any conflict with the supreme court's interpretation of the law in the trans-Missouri case. The conference resumed work this morning.

THE SALE DISPLEASES THEM.

St. Louis, Mo., May 13.—A committee of stockholders and bondholders of the Atlantic & Pacific railroad have commenced proceedings against the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad company, the reorganization committee of that road, the Atlantic & Pacific railroad, the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad, the Union Trust company, the Mercantile Trust company, the Central Trust company and the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust company. The petition ers attack the sale of the Western, Atlantic & Pacific to the Atchison. This line extends from Albuquerque to Mojave.

COLORADO

Females in That State Essay an Explanation of Their Success.

Equal Suffrage, They Say, Has Already Accomplished Much Good.

Temperance Work Has Been Forwarded and Everything is Lovely.

Denver, Col., May 13.—The Colorado Equal Suffrage association and the Civic Federation of Denver make the following statement in reply to reports circulated of late regarding the results of woman suffrage in Colorado:

"We, the members of the Colorado Equal Suffrage association and of the Civic Federation of Denver, having had our attention called to sensational and misleading reports of some Eastern journals concerning the results of suffrage in our state, are impelled to issue a brief answering statement. Self-assertion being as unbecoming in associations as individuals, we should accept in silence, as the inevitable due of innovators, the persecution of prejudice in the press, did their nobility affect ourselves alone. But when false statements are made the weapons with which to defeat the liberty of women in other states, a measure of authoritative self-assertion becomes necessary.

"We don't claim that phenomenal good has been secured by the vote of women. The tyranny of political machinery, made effective by long usage under the management of trained workers, cannot be overcome by the enthusiasm of raw recruits. We do claim that the women of Colorado have a vital part in the great movement that is everywhere seeking a better social order. The successful outcome of the late municipal election in Denver, occurring as it did three years after our enfranchisement, was the first triumph of an organized effort made by women to influence conventions and carry an election. This success is considered an earnest of future achievement through woman's ballots in the interest of reform.

"Never before, as since the establishment of impartial suffrage in our state, has there been here such concentrated effort in behalf of reform legislation. Bills relating to 'civil service,' 'local option,' 'indeterminate sentence,' a 'new primary law' and 'improved election laws' were all proposed and enforced by organizations of women. The first legislature of the new order passed a bill giving the wife equal rights with her husband in the possession of their children, and the bill raising to eighteen years the age of legal protection for girls. In our present house of representatives the effort toward practical economic reform is illustrated in the careful work of the printing committee, which, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Conine, is found to have cost the state $2000 less during the session lately adjourned than ever before.

"To the efficiency of Mrs. Peavy's administration of the offices of state superintendent of public instruction, commissioner of school lands and state librarian the testimony is given by the German element of our population, which, is usually opposed to the recognition of women as citizens of the commonwealth. The Denver Herald, a journal published in the German tongue, says in one of its January issues, 'Mrs. Peavy showed a zeal in performing her official duties hitherto unknown in state officials. Of unimpeachable devotion to duty and great integrity, inspired and upheld by firmness and uprightness of character, she not only attended to the duty of overseeing the teaching in the schools, but insisted that the business of the boards to which she belonged should be handled in proper manner. Often she was obliged to call the male members of the board to book when they wished to lay on the table measures demanding much time and attention; while in her school lands commission work she prevented many a bad swindle by her energetic investigation, and always protected the poorer people against the greed of the more powerful. Our readers know that we have never been in favor of women in politics, and are not today; nevertheless, if the women of the state can put such officers in the field as Mrs. Peavy, to whom we can point as an example of immovable official integrity, then the women will be most welcome comrades in the fight against the corruption that disgraces our republic.

"If the absurd and unfounded comments of the Eastern press in regard to the liability of Colorado women to the requirements of military service, and rumors of an unmanly violence of temper in important state conventions, be worthy of notice, it may be answered that the women of the centennial state are as securely exempt from military duty as are the women living under the control of those states which still deny to them the gentle but effective weapon of the ballot. Further, we answer that no representative convention has had such experience of wild disorder as has been announced by misinformed Eastern papers.

"In regard to the effect of universal suffrage in Colorado upon the temperance question, it is found that although the ranks of the temperance party have not been largely recruited, because women as well as men are in doubt as to the wisdom of working for temperance through a distinct party, temperance legislation has been materially assisted. Three years ago only three Colorado cities prohibited the sale of intoxicants. Now twenty-seven municipalities refuse to grant license for their sale.

"An interesting fact has lately been noted in regard to the relative dignity of the two houses of our legislature. The lower house outranks the senate in the serious decorum of legislative deliberation. The few women who sit as members in the representative hall of our beautiful Colorado capitol seem unconsciously to impose upon its proceedings a greater regard for the amenities of speech and conduct than is observed in the upper house, where there are yet no women to be considered."

Dr. W. P. Mitchell, of Spring Green, Wis., is locked up at the central police station, Chicago, on suspicion of having robbed a bank in that city last September. He was arrested as he was stepping from a Chicago & Milwaukee train from Spring Green. Dr. Mitchell occupied a room directly over the Spring Green bank. Last September the place was broken into, a safe blown open and $800 in gold taken. After the robbery Dr. Mitchell began displaying unusual signs of prosperity. He flourished rolls of bank bills and lived in such an extravagant manner that suspicion was aroused and today word was sent to arrest him.

Julio Sanguilly is said to have landed on May 3 with a large expedition at San Juan de Las Playas, Cuba. It is also said that Rebolf with 100 men, was there to receive him. It is added that commanders of gunboats patrolling that coast have been placed under arrest for not preventing the landing of Sanguilly. San Juan is ten miles east of Sagua.

The Elden, Iowa, bank robbery Feb. 1, when $6200 in cash was taken has been unraveled. Deputy Marshal Charles Stevens, of Elden, has confessed to being the instigator of the crime, and implicates Dick Dodd, of Ottumwa, and three Chicago crackmen.

NICKEL IN JAIL.

St. Paul, May 13.—Among the surprises in this city yesterday was the announcement that William Bickel had decided to go to jail, entirely of his own will. He is in the boys' ward, under the jurisdiction of Sheriff Wagner, and is willing to remain there until such time as he returns to his family and friends, vindicated in the eyes of the community in which he was brought up. His attorneys tried to dissuade him, but he would go, and so escape the persecution following him so vindictively, for that is the view he takes of the recurrent prosecutions. Uri Lamprey and Patrick Conley, who have been serving Mr. Bickel as bondsmen, were on hand to sign the new bond in the sum of $3000, but Mr. Bickel would not allow them to sign and went to jail, hoping that now his persecutors would be satisfied that he was under lock and key, behind bolts and bars.

"ROAD TO DEATH."

Rout and Almost Annihilation of Spanish Troops.

New York, May 13.—A dispatch to the Herald from Havana, Cuba, via Key West, Fla., says: Apparently reliable news of the most important insurgent successes in months just reached Havana. It appears that Gen. Calixto Garcia and Gen. Rabi fell on a Spanish force which was carrying food and supplies from Manzanillo to Bayamo early last week, captured the convoy, routed Gen. Lone's columns and pursued him so vigorously that he fled to the coast with the remnant of his brigade and took a ship at Cabocoruz for Manzanillo.

It is said that so severe were the losses and so thoroughly disorganized were his men that the Spanish general did not dare attempt to retrace his steps to Manzanillo by land, fearing that he would be again attacked and this time wiped out of existence. This engagement, which is regarded by the Cubans here as more important than any battle since Cacarijicara, goes to show how helpless the Spanish are in the country east of the trocha. Spain has lost 5000 men and food and arms without end along the road to Bayamo, and now the Spanish soldiers call it "the road to death."

PET DOGS AND CATS.

Even "Owney" is on Exhibition at St. Louis.

St. Louis, May 13.— The annual show of pet dogs and cats under the auspices of the Woman's Humane society, opened here this forenoon at Harmonie hall with several hundred entries. All kinds of dogs and cats have been entered and some of them are the choicest pets owned by prominent society people.

Among the special attractions are Sweetheart Leighton, a midget fox terrier, who sings and plays his own accompaniments on the piano; a troupe of poodles owned by Mrs. Dr. Rees, of Kansas City, and Owney, the favorite of all railway mail clerks, who has probably traveled more miles than any man.

Several weeks ago it was reported that Owney had been killed by a policeman in Cleveland, but this was not so, for the dog was in this city. The show closes Saturday night.

BIBLES GALORE.

Many Copies of the Book Sent to Foreign Shores.

New York, May 13.—The eighty-first annual report of the American Bible society was presented to its managers at its annual meeting in the Bible house this afternoon. It showed that receipts for benevolent work, including gifts from auxiliaries, were $88,577, and the disbursements for benevolent work were $265,668. The total gifts of the living were $88,880.

Never before, with a single exception, have so many volumes of the Bible been sent from the Bible house in one year to foreign countries. The entire number is 991,354, and seven-eighths of them went to Mexico, Central and South America.

EDITH IS RELEASED.

Elizabeth, N. J., May 13.—Edith Behr, the young woman who was sentenced to five months in the county jail for assault on the Blay brothers, farmers, of Lyons farm, was released from the county jail here today. Her term would not have expired until May 20, but owing to the illness of her mother and father the jail committee on the board of free-holders consented to her release.

SUSPECTED BANK ROBBER.

New York, May 13.—"Wally" O'Connor, said to be a notorious bank thief, is in custody here, under suspicion that he was implicated in the holding up of Cashier Lyman Cobb of the Yonkers Savings bank, when $4100 was taken. The Yonkers robbery took place on April 22 and was an unusually bold affair, the cashier being intimidated by one man with a revolver while a second gathered up the money in sight.

A BRIEF PRIZE FIGHT.

Kansas City, Mo., May 13.—Andy Wirthman, of Davenport, Iowa, was knocked out by Johnny Ford, an Armourdale featherweight, in two minutes in a suburban bout that was backed to last ten rounds. Ford dazed Wirthman with a right on the jaw and followed it up with several stiff punches which landed the Iowan on the ropes. The purse and gate receipts went to the winner.

NOTICE TO BUILD SIDEWALKS.—

In accordance with a resolution of the common council of the city of Duluth, passed April 26, 1897, notice is hereby given to all owners and occupants of any and all lots or parcels of land adjoining the southerly side of Dodge street from Forty-third avenue east to Forty-fifth avenue east to construct a sidewalk in said street adjoining their several lots at their own proper expense and charge before May 27, 1897. Said walk to be constructed in accordance with plans and specifications on file in the office of the board of public works, and to be built to the established line and grade, or to a temporary line and grade to be given by the city engineer.

If the said owners or occupants fail to construct said walk before May 27, 1897, or if any such work, or part thereof, is not done in the manner prescribed by said plans and specifications, or if said walk is not built to the line and grade prescribed, then the board of public works of the city of Duluth will cause the same to be done, and the full cost and expense thereof, together with ten (10) per cent additional for cost of surveys, plans and superintendence, will be assessed against said lots.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—

Default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and delivered by Frank E. Searle and Ida E. Searle, his wife, mortgagors, to W. J. Holmes, mortgagee, which said mortgage was dated March 30th, 1896, and was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of St. Louis County, Minnesota, on April 3rd, 1895, at ten fifty (10:50) o'clock a. m., in Book one hundred twenty (120) of mortgages on page three hundred eighty-three (383). Said mortgage was thereafter duly assigned by said W. J. Holmes to R. B. Swift by an instrument in writing dated October 23rd, 1895, and duly recorded in the office of said register of deeds on December 31st, 1895, at three forty-five (3:45) o'clock p. m., in Book one hundred seven (107) of mortgages on page three hundred forty-nine (349).

The default aforesaid consists in the non-payment of the semi-annual installment of interest which became due by the terms of said mortgage on the debt secured thereby on April 1st, 1897, and has continued to date of this notice.

It was provided in said mortgage that if any default should be made in the payment of the sums thereby secured or of the interest thereon or any part of either, that the whole principal sum or sums secured thereby and accrued interest thereon should become due and payable forthwith without any notice at the election of said mortgagee, his legal representatives or assigns; and the said R. B. Swift by reason of the default aforesaid has elected to declare and does hereby declare the whole amount secured by said mortgage and accrued interest thereon to be due and payable.

There is claimed to be due and there is due at the date of this notice upon the debt secured by said mortgage the sum of four thousand one hundred and seventy-nine and 42-100 dollars ($4179.42) and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said mortgage debt, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that under and by virtue of a power of sale which is contained in said mortgage and which has become operative by reason of the aforesaid default and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described and thereby mortgaged, viz: All that tract, piece or parcel of land lying and being in the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: Lots one (1) and two (2), in block eleven (11), of the First Division of West Duluth, according to the plat of said First Division as filed and recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for said St. Louis County, Minnesota, which said premises with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction for cash, to the highest bidder, to pay said mortgage debt and interest and taxes (if any) on said premises and the sum of one hundred (100) dollars attorney's fees, stipulated for in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure thereof, and the disbursements allowed by law, by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on Saturday, the 5th day of June, 1897, at ten (10) o'clock in the forenoon of that day subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Wheat Went Up a Cent Today Despite the Bearish News.

Cables Were Lower, Crop Reports Better and Receipts Larger.

High Closing Price of Wheat to Arrive in This Market.

In spite of lower cables, better crop reports and large Northwest receipts wheat opened a shade higher today than yesterday's closing price, the chief bull influences being the large export engagements yesterday and figures showing light stocks in this country. The market reacted soon after on reports of much needed rain in California. This was followed by another slow advance, caused chiefly by free seaboard acceptances this morning. Trading was dull and narrow. Northwest receipts amounted to 312 cars against 258 cars last week and 263 last year.

The early news which caused the little spurt at the commencement consisted of the following: Liverpool was quoted ½d lower to start with and later quotations showed another ½d decline. California news was rather bearish, after granting the ess by drouth of practically all the late sown wheat, it affirms that the area left was as great as the harvested acreage of the year before. The weather in California was variously reported as cloudy and cool, according to some dispatches; dry and hot in others. The weather abroad, according to cablegrams received, was cold, stormy and hurtful to crops, with snow storms in the United Kingdom and the continent.

Besides the bullishness already alluded to the following were added in the course of the forenoon. It was reported early that seed lips were worked today for export direct from Chicago. Dutch reported that an exporter had taken 250,00 0 bus there yesterday & Bac over the July price for shipment first seed for June, and the weather bureau wired one thread into the bullish fabric by predicting frost tonight or tomorrow in Illinois, Upper Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa and the Dakotas.

July wheat opened here 1c higher at 76c, reacted a shade time to 75¾c for soon recovered and sold up steadily to 76¾c shortly after 11 o'clock. After noon it advanced and closed firm with buyers at 76¾c, an advance of 1c during the day. Shippers bought 10,000 bus of cash stuff at 2c over July No. 3 at 75¾c; No. 2 red at 76¾c over July for round lots. The mills were in the market. It was reported that 300,000 bus were worked for millers, and 50,000 bus additional for export. The sources of where to arrive at the close was a surprise to the trade. It closed at ½c above the cash price, whereas it is usually 1c below cash. It was regarded as an indication that the elevators are not delivering on May contracts, and are competing with the shippers. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 79¼c; May, 78¾c; No. 1 northern, cash, 78¾c; May, 78¾c; July, 76¾c; September 76¾ bid. No. 2 northern, 76½c. No. 3, 71¾@72¾c. Rejected, 70¾@76¾c To arrive—No 1 hard, 76¾c; No. 1 northern, 76¾c. Rye, 35½c. No. 2 oats, 22½c; No. 3 oats, 21½c. Flax, 76½c.

Estimated receipts hogs tomorrow, 22,000; estimated receipts hogs today, 27,000; left over, 4000. Light hogs shade lower; others steady. Yesterday's closing: Light, $3.55@3.62½; mixed, $3.55@3.90; heavy, $3.45@3.50; rough, $3.45@3.60. Cattle, receipts, 10,000. Market steady. Beeves, $3.90@5.25; cows and heifers, $1.90@4.00; Texas steers, $3.10@3.80; stockers and feeders, $3.45@4.50. Sheep, receipts, 5000. Market strong.

GOSSIP

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade, Chicago, May 13.—The wheat market had a strong undertone today from start to finish and the advance was checked only by the cash. Some selling early influenced by reported showers in California but the crowd is so bullish now that it resents anything but strong news from that section. The principal motive of the day was steadily improved export demand and if it continues we are undoubtedly at the commencement of an important advance for the cash demand has been so feeble lately that the buyer is afraid of it. Duluth reports large sales at the highest premium for many months. Seaboard clearances about 600,000 bus and about 300,000 bus new business today, while in this city stood bus of seeing wheat were sold for direct export. The Liverpool markets came lower but French cables again reported reports of damage, likely the deficiency as high as 75,000,000 bus.

Corn and oats followed yesterday's decline. The corn market is to the hands of a clique of local traders who were large buyers of calls today.

Provisions easy with the exception of pork which found good buying.

Puts, July wheat, 75¾@75¾c.

Calls, July wheat, 76@76¾.

Curb, July wheat, 74¾c.

MARINE MATTERS.

Very Poor Outlook For Getting Ore Cargoes.

Cleveland, May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A summary by the Iron Ore Trade shows that the purchases of the Illinois Steel company will afford no season business for vessels outside of those controlled by the iron ore companies. The Carnegie company has purchased about 400,000 tons of old range ore, which is about one-fourth of what will be required for its furnaces and steel plants aside from the Mesaba. If the works are operated to about the full capacity. Other ore companies are buying ore very sparingly and in some cases not at all. As yet the only season business from the head of Lake Superior secured by vessels other than those of the ore companies is one block of 50,000 tons, Ashland to Toledo, at 75 cents, and the engagement through Chicago influence of vessels controlled by C. W. Elphicke & Co. at the same figure.

MARINE NOTES.

The British and Foreign Insurance company has caused the steamer C. W. Elphicke to be libeled at Buffalo on a claim of $5287.91, being the amount which the company had on a lot of grain for the damage of which it is asserted the steamer was at fault. The Elphicke has been bonded.

The steel barge Carrington a day or two ago left Chicago with the largest grain cargo ever taken out of that port. It consisted of 123,000 bushels of corn and 79,417 bushels of oats, aggregating 1831 tons.

The Eddy-Shaw fleet will lay up until business improves. The fleet comprises the steamers City of Bangor, E. C. Pope, Selwyn Eddy and Penobscot.

The Barry tugs all left for Duluth yesterday, the new tugs Prodigy and Industry from the shipyards and the Raber from Manitowoc.

Inspectors Chalk and Monaghan inspected the Barry tug G. A. Tomlinson this morning.

WEST END

Health Inspector Reports Work of Cleaning Up as Progressing Rapidly.

Silver Club's Tent Will Be Used at Rainy Lake For a Restaurant.

West Duluth Heavyweights Are Reducing Weight on the Bicycle.

Freeman Keene, the West End health inspector, reports that the work of cleaning up is progressing very finely. Last week there were 107 loads of garbage taken to the dump near the Marinette works, all by private individuals. Next week city teams will be set at work on streets and alleys at places where property owners can not be reached, and complete the spring cleaning up. Little more remains to be done aside from work planned by the city authorities.

NEW USE FOR IT.

The West Duluth Silver club has sold the tent used during the last campaign for political meetings to Murdoch McDonad, and with the proceeds has liquidated all of the club's indebtedness and has a small balance left in the treasury. The tent which did such excellent service in the cause of silver last fall was yesterday shipped to Rainy Lake, where it will be utilized by Mr. McDonald as a dining room for a restaurant that he will establish there. It has a seating capacity for 600 people.

IT REDUCED HIS WEIGHT.

Lieut. Arthur Briggs has been devoting his spare moments during the past week in learning to ride a bicycle. That he has done some hard work is evidenced by the fact that he has lost fifteen pounds in weight. His example is now being followed by a number of other West Duluth heavyweights, among them being Pat Gilley and Pat Gallighan, who are nightly engaged in balancing themselves on the two-wheeled machines. They have selected back streets for their training grounds and will not make their appearance in public until they are able to ride with skill and grace. Briggs is fast becoming but a shadow of his former self. His present weight does not exceed 240 pounds.

GAVE HIS IMPRESSIONS.

At the meeting of the Plymouth Congregational church last night S. S. Williamson, superintendent of the Sunday school, read a report of the impressions he received at the state Sunday school convention, which he recently attended. He said that the convention was very instructive to the delegates and will enable him to inaugurate a number of changes in the Plymouth school that should prove very beneficial.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

The Women's Christian Temperance union was in session this afternoon at the Congregational church discussing the curfew question. Miss Buntin acting as leader of the meeting. A number of interesting papers bearing on the subject were read.

Frank Bellerman, of Wisconsin, who has been in West Duluth for the past two months looking after his property holdings here, left yesterday for Fond du Lac.

Mrs. Ed Randall is recovering from a dangerous illness.

Mrs. M. Tims has opened a home bakery in the Langslow building on Central avenue, near Ramsey street, where all kinds of home baking can be had at the most reasonable prices.

Mrs. Josephine Carlson, graduated midwife, thoroughly competent and experienced. Fifty-sixth avenue west, West Duluth.

GIVEN TO THE JURY.

Reservoir Site Case Submitted By Judge Moer.

At noon today Judge Moer gave to the jury the appeals of the Fidelity Insurance, Trust and Safe Deposit company, of Philadelphia, and others from the award of commissioners in condemnation of property taken for the new pumphouse and reservoir site at Thirty-sixth avenue east above Fourth street. The awards altogether were about four, and the appellants asked about $3000. The city claimed that a street had been put in and that the benefits from the street were set off against the damages by the commissioners in condemnation. Therefore the damages were fixed at a nominal sum. Yesterday afternoon the city moved that the jury be instructed to return a verdict in its favor, and the argument was continued through a part of this morning's session.

Judge Moer denied the motion, upholding the claims of the appellants in every respect. He held that the street was put in for the pumphouse and reservoir, not to benefit the property. He directed the jury to return a verdict for what it found to be the value of the property taken.

In the case of Nels Hall against the Duluth Street Railway company, Judge Cant this morning denied a motion to direct a verdict for the defendant, and this afternoon the attorneys were arguing to the jury. The case was expected to go to the jury about 4 o'clock.

In the case of Charles F. Wentz against the Metropolitan Life Insurance company the attorneys at noon were arguing a motion to direct a verdict for the defendant.

The criminal cases will be taken up early next week.

GREECE'S SQUADRONS ACTIVE.

Salonica, May 13.—The Greek squadron is watching the coast from Thessalonia to the gulf of Volo, and it is claimed the Greek warships are also blockading the gulf of Salonica. A British steamer bound for Salonica has been prevented from entering the gulf.

THE WARRANT REVOKED.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ex-Postmaster Caselberg has received a telegram that the governor today revoked the Nisbett warrant in the Chicago requisition case.

NOTICE OF CONFIRMATION

OF COMMISSIONERS' REPORT, IN THE MATTER OF THE CONDEMNATION OF A RIGHT-OF-WAY FOR A PUBLIC THOROUGHFARE FROM THE STATE ROAD IN THE SOUTHEAST QUARTER ($\frac{SE}{4}$) OF SECTION 1-48-15 TO SHORT LINE PARK.

Office of City Clerk,
Duluth, Minn., May 5th, 1897.

Notice is hereby given that the report of commissioners of damages made by the board of commissioners in condemnation proceedings for obtaining a right-of-way for a public thoroughfare from the state road in the southeast quarter ($\frac{SE}{4}$) of section four (4), township forty-eight (48) north, range fifteen (15) west, to Short Line Park, as shown by the plat of the same on file in the office of the city clerk, has been returned;

That as to that piece and parcel of land situated in the east half ($\frac{E}{2}$) of the northeast quarter ($\frac{NE}{4}$) of section five (5), township forty-eight (48) north, of range fifteen (15) west, viz: 2.29 acres, proposed to be taken, and for which damages were awarded to Charles E. Dickerman and E. C. Gridley in the total sum of $1.00 as to which no legal confirmation was had on account of misdescription of said premises in former notice.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, to all persons interested in the said east half ($\frac{E}{2}$) of the northeast quarter ($\frac{NE}{4}$) of section five (5), township forty-eight (48) north, of range fifteen (15) west, that the said award as to said land will be confirmed by the common council of the city of Duluth at a meeting of said council to be held at the council chamber on Monday, May 17th, 1897, at 7:30 o'clock p. m., unless objections are made in writing by persons interested in the said land required to be taken.

THE WEATHER.

United States Agricultural Department, Weather Bureau, Duluth. Synopsis of weather conditions for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m. (Central time), May 13.—The barometer is lowest over Lake Superior. It has risen decidedly in the Canadian Northwest, where it is now highest.

Showery conditions have prevailed in the lake region, and thence westward to the Lower Missouri valley and Eastern Montana, the rainfall of .32 inch at Marquette being the heaviest reported. At 7 o'clock this morning rain was falling at the following named stations: Detroit, Marquette, Omaha, Rapid City and Winnipeg.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 42; maximum yesterday, 52; minimum yesterday, 39; rainfall, .01 inch.

Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity: Fair and colder tonight, possibly with frost; fair Friday and continued cool; easterly winds becoming brisk to high northerly by tonight.

JAMES KENEALY,
Local Forecast Official.

Chicago, May 13.—Forecast until 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Fair tonight and Friday; colder tonight; cooler in east portion Friday; brisk northwest winds. For Minnesota: Fair tonight and Friday; colder in central and east portions tonight; frost tonight; fresh northwest winds.

WHAT OF CUBA?

Advices from Washington yesterday and today indicate that a crisis has been reached on the Cuban question, so far as this government is concerned, and that some definite action is to be taken at an early date. Senators Davis, Foraker and Morgan of the foreign relations committee held conferences yesterday with President McKinley and Secretary Sherman, and were given access to the Cuban reports now held at the state department, in order that the senate may be put in possession of all the latest official information regarding the state of affairs in Cuba. It is stated by members of the committee that the official reports justify the passage of the strong resolution introduced by Senator Morgan, recognizing a state of war in Cuba, and there is good reason to believe that if the resolution should pass both senate and house President McKinley will approve it and the administration's policy will be framed in accordance therewith.

The ending of the dry season on the island has brought Gen. Weyler's campaign to a close, and he has utterly failed to restore the authority of Spain in the island. During the past year Spain has accomplished practically nothing towards crushing the insurgents. The death of Antonio Maceo was a severe blow to the Cuban patriots, but it has not resulted in Spanish successes. The insurgent army was dispersed, but it was not destroyed and the military policy of Gen. Gomez has been continued with great success. The guerrilla warfare conducted by him has accomplished its purpose, and Gen. Weyler's attempt to pacify the island has utterly failed. The second year of the war closes with 20,000 to 30,000 insurgents under arms and directed by a capable general. Another letter written by the Cuban correspondent of the London Times, who views the conflict from a disinterested standpoint, says that Gen. Weyler's five months' campaign has resulted in no gain of a tangible nature. The killing of Maceo and the capture of Rivera have not materially affected the rebellion. The correspondent even declares that not one province has been thoroughly pacified and, as for the future, he sees no prospect that Spain, in her deplorable financial condition, can ever reimpose her rule.

The Springfield, Mass., Republican has published a letter by an American, who has for several years spent his winters in Cuba, in which the misery of the inhabitants was depicted in the darkest of colors. Havana is a great cesspool of disease and squalor, while desolation and starvation are stamped upon the rural districts. This correspondent says that "hatred of Spain has become an inextinguishable passion in the Cuban," while Spain proposes the annihilation of a whole population. Reconciliation, he believes, is impossible. There is no reason to doubt that Gen. Weyler's inhuman policy of driving the non-combatant cultivators of the agricultural districts from their farms and forcing them to concentrate in the garrisoned towns has resulted in a vast amount of wretchedness and actual starvation. The policy of concentration is not denied by the Spanish authorities; they defend it on the ground that if the non-combatants are allowed to cultivate the soil the produce will help sustain the insurgent cause. But the suffering thus produced is intense. Consul Brice writes as follows from Matanzas to the state department: "Over 7000 persons have been concentrated at this place, three-quarters of whom are entirely without means of support. Women and children are dying on the streets from starvation. Death and misery walk hand in hand. Among these people there are several Americans. Yellow fever, smallpox and other diseases are prevalent. All this is the result of Gen. Weyler's inhuman policy. Aid for these sufferers should promptly come from the United States."

The practice of modern civilized nations furnishes no justification for such a policy. It is brutal and inhuman and is only worthy of denounciation, no matter by what country it is practiced. In his last regular message to congress, previous to the beginning of Gen. Weyler's winter campaign which has failed completely, President Cleveland said: "But I have deemed it not amiss to remind the congress that a time may arrive when a correct policy and care for our interests, as well as a regard for the interests of other nations and their citizens, joined by considerations of humanity and a desire to see a rich and fertile country, intimately related to us, saved from complete devastation, will constrain our government to such action as will subserve the interests thus involved and at the same time promise to Cuba and its inhabitants an opportunity to enjoy the blessings of peace."

Surely the time has arrived which President Cleveland indicated in these words might come, when the United States should intervene and put an end to the cruelty and brutality of the Spanish mode of warfare, which has failed altogether to subdue the insurgents, but has subjected innocent women and children to all the horrors of starvation and exposure, and has made large portions of Cuba little better than barren wastes. After two years of warfare, during which 150,000 troops have been sent to Cuba, Spain has utterly failed to re-establish her authority. She is now on the verge of bankruptcy, and her campaign has reached the level of the barbarian nations of past ages. The United States government cannot afford, as a civilized nation, to permit a continuance of this state of affairs in a country that lies at her very doors.

VICIOUS MEASURE DEFEATED.

The Illinois legislature yesterday killed the Humphrey bill against which was arrayed a strong public sentiment in Chicago, created by the reform newspapers and leading citizens who made a warm assault upon the scheme of the street car corporations to defy the right of the people to properly regulate the street car service of Chicago when the present franchises expire.

The bill was most iniquitous. It sought to extend existing franchises fifty years, make the ordinances contracts, fix 5-cent fares for twenty years, provide for the insignificant compensation of 3 per cent for fifteen years, 5 per cent for twenty, and 7 per cent for the rest of the time, enable companies with franchises running several years longer to dodge even this compensation, enable corporations to use any power but steam, and to extend their lines without bidding for franchises, which new lines, threatening competition, must do, and to secure to existing roads a monopoly of the down-town streets by denying to all others the use of tracks now in the streets without consent of the owners.

It is not astonishing that the people of Chicago arouse in indignation and protested against the passage of such a monstrous measure. The street railway corporations made great efforts to put the bill through the legislature, and it was asserted very positively that bribery and fraud were employed to secure its passage. But all the influence of Yerkes, et al, and the questionable methods adopted by their agents were futile to pass the bill. Public indignation grew so strong that the legislators dared not vote for it, without incurring the displeasure of having been bought by the corporations which would be benefited by it. The chief credit for the defeat of the bill and the victory of the people over the corporations belongs to the Chicago newspapers which aroused public sentiment against the iniquitous scheme.

BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY.

The efforts of the News Tribune to throw cold water upon the scheme to establish the beet sugar industry in Duluth or its immediate neighborhood cannot be too strongly condemned. Instead of insinuating that the business will be overdone and will prove unprofitable, the morning paper, if it desired to advance the interests of the city in which it is published, should give to its readers accounts of the success which the industry is meeting in other states and by this means endeavor to increase the interest of the farmers, so that a sufficient quantity of beets may be raised to justify the erection of a factory.

Owing to the general condition of business, it is difficult at this time to get capital interested in this or any other enterprise, and articles similar to that published by the News Tribune this morning certainly will not assist those who are endeavoring to get the industry started here. There is no danger that the business will be overdone, as the market for sugar in this country is practically unlimited. Very heavy amounts of beet sugar are now imported annually from Germany. There is no good reason why this sugar should not be manufactured in this country, and the money which now goes to fatten German sugar producers be kept at home.

HE WOULD BE COLLECTOR.

It is said that ex-Senator C. B. Buckman, of Little Falls, is a candidate for the position of collector of customs at this port. Mr. Buckman worked hard for the election of Judge Morris and his influence in Morrison county secured many votes for the Republican ticket. It has hitherto been the understanding that he wanted to be collector of internal revenue, but now it is stated that he desires to come to Duluth as collector of customs, a position which he regards as belonging to the district.

Judge Morris, by selecting Senator Culkin for register of the land office, recognized the claim that the federal offices here should be filled from the district at large and not from Duluth exclusively, and he may be also willing to grant Mr. Buckman's request. Such a proceeding, however, would not be apt to smooth the ruffled feelings of the Duluth Republicans, who are not very much pleased with the selection of Senator Culkin, who lives in another land district. The filling of the offices is a troublesome job for the congressmen. Some people are certain to be disappointed and become sore over the result.

Insurance Commissioner Betts, of Connecticut also attempts to call a halt on the extravagance of the life companies in their feverish hunt for new business. Commissions on first-year premiums have risen in twenty years, he says, from 15 to 65 per cent, and other expenses in winning new business bring the total cost actually above the first premium. An average of $42 per $1000 is spent to obtain the first premium of $40. That puts upon the older members the expense not only of providing for the death losses of the first, but of supplying the amount which must be carried to the reserve. This is an injustice to the older members, for which the commissioner sharply criticises the companies.

The suicide record was broken in New York Tuesday of last week, when six persons killed themselves within twenty-four hours, while several others tried to without success. Within four days, since the month began, there have been twelve suicides as against seven in the same period a year ago. But when one thinks of the total number of people in New York, he wonders that the list of suicides is so small. It would not be noticed much in Paris or London.

The following are the commonest names in New York, according to the New York city directory for 1897, from which they are selected: Smith, 3183; Brown, 1562; Miller, 1495; Murphy, 1210; Meyer, 1103; Johnson, 1086; Kelly, 1074; Cohen, 1006; Levy, 961; Williams, 893; Jones, 892; Murray, 884; Wilson, 873; Clark, 848; Sullivan, 820; Martins, 816; White, 782; Davis, 762; O'Brien, 760; Ryan, 752; Moore, 752.

Secretary Gage intends to cancel the new $1, $2 and $5 silver certificates as fast as they come in and substitute certificates of more attractive and convenient design if possible. This has an appearance of wasteful and whimsical action, but the angular lines and figures of the new certificates are not particularly pleasing in effect, while the general similarity of the three denominations bothers those who have to handle much money.

The following story is told about Dr. Lyman Abbott. He was dining at the Aldine club the other day when a friend introduced Charles D. G. Roberts, the writer, to him. "Very pleased to meet you," said Roberts, "but I recognized you at once by your symbol." By a curious accident the worthy divine was sitting under an old print vividly depicting the capture of a sperm whale.

Duluth real estate men should not complain because the market is inactive. The spring selling and renting season in the New York real estate market has been quite as dull and unsatisfactory as it was a year ago. Activity in building kept right on in the city after the panic of 1893, but at last even that real estate market is beginning to feel the effects of the prolonged depression.

Mr. Labouchere is gratified at being able to put an end to skepticism about the Twickenham house built on the site of Pope's villa. In making repairs recently a stone was found on which was carved the inscription: "On this spot stood until 1809 the house of Alexander Pope. The grotto that formed the basement still remains. 1848."

A little while ago George Gould moved to Tarrytown for the purpose of escaping taxation in New York city. But the Tarrytown folks are not very slow in reaching for a good thing. They have already doubled Gould's taxes, and are carefully watching for a chance to give the levy another boost.

The Engineering News is authority for the statement that there are 3196 waterworks in the Union, and that of these fully 1700 are owned by the different towns and cities. Of the fifty largest cities only nine are now dependent upon private corporations for their public water supply.

Talk by telephone between New York and Chicago has been so profitable at the rate of $9 for a 5-minute conversation that the service is to be extended to Omaha. It will cost $14 for five minutes' use of this latter line from New York, but the telephone companies think it will pay.

A bill to give motor vehicles equal rights with other vehicles on public highways was defeated in the Illinois legislature. But the day will soon come when all vehicles, no matter how propelled, will be accorded equal rights.

The Chicago Record suggests that Queen Victoria who has not invited the president to be present at her jubilee may be retaliating because she received no bid to the late prize fight.

Governor Pingree has found that the railroads of Michigan are paying taxes amounting to only $700,000, when they should pay $3,000,000. Governor Pingree never fails to look after the people's interests.

Will the Superior Leader kindly state when and where "science has established the fact" that "the rapid sweeping away of forests was the cause of those extremes of meteorology, drouths and floods?

A family named Luck got stranded at St. Louis the other day and had to appeal for charity. They should change the family name to Hard Luck.

IS GREECE DONE FOR?

Chicago Times-Herald: The powers may well interfere before the medieval tyrant at Constantinople gives courage to the belief discovered in Turkey by a recent writer "in a great Mohammedan revival with the sultan khalif at the head—a second epoch of Saracen prowess."

Chicago Tribune: There is no use in concealing the fact that Greece is absolutely at the mercy of Turkey. The Hellenes are so clearly defeated and incapable of striking an effective or even dangerous blow that the powers must intervene and stop this useless, quixotic effort of Greece.

New York World: But the cause of Greece is hopeless, and it can gain nothing by any continuance of hostilities. Its meager resources cannot but be further exhausted by the cost of the war, and its impoverished inhabitants can only look forward to a future of deeper poverty and to a longer struggle in their hard road to ordinary prosperity. Common humanity demands that an end should be put to the war and equitable peace secured.

Denver News: If Greece has any sense it will quit. The Grecian army is no match for the Turkish army and the Greek commanders are not fit to cope with the leaders of the Turks. The retreat from Pharsalia to Domokos was compelled just as much as the retreat from Larissa to Pharsalia. Edhem Pasha systematically turned all the Greek positions and left no choice to the Greeks except between retiring and being overwhelmed.

Philadelphia Record: The chancelleries, which so lately showed their elation over the disasters suffered by the Greeks, would now rejoice over a genuine Greek victory, as it would tend to prevent the sultan from becoming utterly intractable. The resuscitation of the supposedly moribund Turkish empire would upset the calculations of all the members of the European concert, and, most of all, of those of Russia, who so recently desired the annihilation of Hellas and the Hellenic propaganda.

Indianapolis Journal: In addition to the great superiority of the Turks in numbers they are much better armed than the Greeks. They have the Mauser magazine rifle of recent pattern, firing seven shots of small calibre and sighted up to 2125 of small calibre and sighted up to 2125 yards; more than a mile. The Greeks are equipped with old-fashioned French single loaders of large calibre, with a range of 1200 yards. The Greek soldiers can carry about thirty-two cartridges, while the Turkish regulars carry eighty of the lighter projectiles. The fighting ability of the same troops with this disparity of arms is more than doubled by the better guns.

New York Tribune: Left to herself, Turkey would impose on Greece a war indemnity which would lay under mortgage every goat and gripevine in the peninsula, crippling its finances for indeterminate olympiads. But the powers will not have this. Greece is a poor country, and cannot afford to pay for being beaten like forehanded states as France and China. If the Turk is reasonable he will be satisfied with the status quo ante bellum, but whether he is or not will make little difference. He is not likely to get more and is sure to be turned out of all his European holdings at no distant day. His recent successes have turned his head in some degree, but the conceit can readily be taken out of him whenever it becomes necessary.

SENATE TARIFF BILL.

OBJECT TO WOOL SCHEDULE.

Chicago Tribune (Rep.): If the committee's bill had a decent wool schedule and did not make such outrageous concessions to the sugar trust it would be much superior to the Dingley measure. It would give more revenue and provide needed protection.

THE BEER TAX.

Chicago Chronicle (Dem.): The proposed increase will affect all brewers alike and the Milwaukee brewers will have no special reason to complain. They are pretty well off and can raise the extra cash as easily, no doubt, as any other brewers. Besides, they admit that the tax will not come out of their pockets in the long run, but out of those who pay for the beer.

BLAMING THE DEMOCRACY.

Indianapolis Journal (Rep.): If the brewers do not like the principle of an increase of 44 cents a barrel in the tax on beer, or if anybody objects to the duty of 6 cents a pound on tea they can thank the Democratic party for it. The necessity of these taxes for the next two years grows out of the enormous importations of foreign goods now being made under the Wilson-Gorman law, by which the government is cheated out of millions of dollars of revenue.

SPEEDY ACTION NECESSARY.

Philadelphia Ledger (Rep.): It is of prime interest to the country that tariff legislation shall be speedy. Business is halted because manufacturers are afraid to move. They do not know how their interests are to be affected, nor can they anticipate in what shape the particular schedules which concern them will be when the new law goes into effect. They have just seen the Dingley bill torn to shreds by the senate committee, and it would be idle to speculate upon the changes that will be necessary before the senate and house can come to an agreement. It is therefore a matter of urgent need that congress shall pass a revenue bill at the earliest practicable day.

OPEN TO CRITICISM.

New York Tribune (Rep.): Many changes are certainly of real merit, and others may upon examination of data prove to be which at first appear needless. But there will be disappointment throughout the country that the measure reported to the senate is open to criticism in some particulars about which public opinion will be sensitive. The extensive substitution of ad valorem duties and the beer tax are already discussed as out of line with the Republican principle that specific should be preferred to ad valorem duties where it is possible, and that revenue should be raised rather by duties on imports, which encourage industry, than by internal taxes, which bear upon the people nearly per capita and enhance the cost of living nearly as much for the poor as for the rich. Nor is it pleasant that the benefit to sugar refiners is greater than under the present tariff, so that opponents of the bill have a pretext for saying that its sugar schedule was "written by the sugar trust." The duties on tea and hides, the tax on beer, the abrogation of the Hawaiian treaty, the omission of the reciprocity provision, will all challenge some Republican criticism. It is probably not expected that the bill will pass in its present form.

IMPROVED THE ORIGINAL.

Washington Post (Rep.): As a matter of fact, we are inclined to think that the subcommittee has improved the original Dingley bill in many respects. They have, in a general way, lowered the duties all along the line, and that, speaking in the abstract, is a good thing, for tariff taxes may easily be pitched so high as to defeat the ends of revenue by the simple process of prohibition. A moderate tariff yields much better results to the treasury than a tariff which discourages importation.

FOR REVENUE ONLY.

New York Sun (Dem.): The tariff bill as it stands is strikingly different from the present Wilson tariff in its relation to the great Democratic constitutional doctrine of five years ago, that the tariff should be for "revenue only." The duty proposed on tea, for instance, is in itself enough to put the stigma of shame upon the Wilson abortion, and to command the support of every Democrat, mugwump or cuckoo who supported the Indianapolis platform of 1896, or who poses as an adherent of the Democratic platform of 1892. A tariff on tea is for revenue only. A tax on wool, in respect of which also the Dingley bill differs radically from the Wilson bill, is a necessity of the revenue principle.

THE NATION'S DESTINIES.

Wabasha Herald: Grover Cleveland made a strong executive, but will he, we fear, an arrogant, dangerous party leader. He was educated in a New York political atmosphere under a policy of rob or ruin. The star of empire is passing Westward and the destinies of this nation are in the hands of a new generation, and the voice of a Bryan or a Towne will enlighten a world when the hollow mockeries of the ex-president will be lost in passing westward over the Hudson river

THE SPRING TIME.

Puck: Magazine editor—Yes, this is fine spring weather. It's just the kind of weather, however, that makes me weary of life, and is actually driving me to an early grave.

Visitor—Heavens! What's the matter? A day like this ought to fill a man with poetry.

"That's just the trouble; it does."

And, glancing through the window, the doomed wretch sighed in an agony of soul as he saw a long-haired gentleman lift a roll of manuscript from a push cart and approach the sanctum door.

BREEZY LINES.

Philadelphia Record: The fellow who is taking bicycle lessons is seldom stuck on his wheel.

Truth: "I suppose you may say the honeymoon is at an end when the husband begins to stay out late at night?"

"Not exactly. It doesn't really end until the wife can go to sleep again without believing what he has to say for himself."

Indianapolis Journal: "What was the subject of discussion?" asked Mrs. Clubwife's husband, as that lady came in.

"La, how times have changed," was grandma's comment. "In my day the right question would have been, 'who was the subject of discussion?'"

Detroit Journal: "If thou wouldst wni my regard," she exclaimed, "act!"

Clearly, then, she was not one of those matinee girls, for their regard is often won by mere duds, who could not act to save their necks.

Chicago Post: "The sneak thief who ransacked my office was a man of judgment. He knew what was appropriate to the occasion."

"What did he do?"

"Well, he must have had about fifteen minutes of the hardest work he ever did selecting what he could take away and I notice the sign, 'This is my busy day,' is missing."

Chicago Tribune: Acquaintance—What was the first thing you did when that rich relative of yours died and left you his money?

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

August Normand, designated as the Larimore murderer of Hillestad children, was brought to Grand Forks on the Great Northern flyer, and by 6 o'clock last evening was safely landed behind the bars in the county jail of this city. The train yesterday morning conveyed Judge Fisk to Larimore, where it was reported great excitement prevailed. State Attorney Hamilton and Chief Ryan proceeded to Towner, where arrangements were perfected to bring the prisoner to Grand Forks. The day was a quiet one here among officials. Sheriff O'Connor was foxy and would not be interviewed regarding the capture or say when Normand would arrive here. During the day at Towner Normand and Thuren, his captor, were photographed, after which the murderer was visited by numbers of prominent Towner citizens, to whom he talked freely. He says he killed the Hillestad children, and is sorry for it.

A carrier pigeon sent to G. S. Barnes at Fargo, fifteen months ago from Breeder Bidwell, of Cleveland, Ohio, recently escaped from its cote, after the death of its mate, a letter received at Fargo yesterday says the bird arrived there safely. It is a remarkable performance, considering distance and length of time since it was brought to Fargo. The bird won first prize in the nutbrown pigeon show at Cleveland two years ago, and first prize in the poultry show in Fargo last winter.

Fire at 7 o'clock yesterday morning totally destroyed seven buildings and the Great Northern depot at Mayville. Loss, $15,000. Among the losers are L. Larson, general merchandise, $1000, insured, $3500; H. Backer, jeweler and electric plant, loss, $3500, insured, $2500; Karl Sjeld, bakery, $800, insured, $600; Ole Mattson, general store building, $2500, insured, $1500; Goose River bank, badly scorched, loss $200 on building.

The ideal conditions for seeding which have prevailed near Devil's Lake for the last month have enabled farmers to put in a larger acreage of grain than for several years with prospects of a larger yield than the average. These conditions apply to the Turtle Mountain section, as well as the Devil's Lake region. The hundreds of settlers arriving this spring are all busy and well pleased. The month of April showed 290 homestead entries at the United States land office in Devil's Lake, the largest in its history. The total for the year ending April 30, was 1486.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

The case against Rev. W. W. Case, who, with his wife, were cited to appear before the county court at Yankton to show cause why their four young girls should not be taken from them and placed in suitable homes, was dismissed by States Attorney Faulk, who stated as his reason therefor, that after thoroughly examining the evidence on hand, he was of the opinion that it was insufficient to uphold the case.

Frank Trudell, convicted of the crime of rape in the first degree at this term of court at Wolmsocket, was today sentenced to twelve years in the penitentiary.

ALEUTIAN HUT.

Curious Dwelling Brought Back By a Traveler.

New York Journal: No Alaskan is happy unless he lives in close proximity to a totem pole. A totem pole is a timber carved and painted in grotesque figures and generally stuck in the ground in front of an Alaskan residence, to whose inhabitants it is supposed to bring good luck and many children.

But among the Aleutian islanders, which beleng to Alaska, the natives, it has now been found, have improved upon this decorative scheme. An enterprising English traveler named Dewindt, who attempted to cross from Alaska to Siberia over the Aleutian islands, has taken photographs of some of the extraordinary dwellings of the natives, and these he has presented to a public museum in London.

Not satisfied with this, Dewindt also took back to England an entire native habitation as he found it on one of the Aleutian islands. This remarkable house had been ornamented by its owner with a picturesque collection of skulls and bones.

There were the skulls of seals, of walrus, of wolves, of foxes, of dogs and of other animals, all highly bleached and glistening in the sun. These had been stuck in the interstices of his timber dwelling by the Aleutian native, who much prided himself upon the effect and was only induced to part with his dwelling upon the payment of a substantial sum in rum, beads, tobacco, firearms and cloth.

The native expressed his astonishment at the desire of the Englishman to take back his dwelling to the white man's land, but said he supposed that the Englishman found it so superior to his own that he intended to live in it or to present it to his own chieftain as a souvenir of his voyage. After being photographed as it stood in the snow and ice, the dwelling of the Aleutian was taken to pieces and carefully packed. Now it has been put together and placed on exhibition in London as one of the primitive dwellings of present day savages.

LIBRARY CAT MISSING.

The cat at the Allegheny Carnegie library is missing, says the Pittsburg Press. The loss will prove a serious one, not from a monetary standpoint, but from the fact that it was the roach exterminator of the building.

This peculiarity in the missing cat caused it to be classed as a phenomenon, for the acquired taste for the insects made it fearful of mice. On several occasions it was known to run from a mouse, instead of seizing it as it sped across the floor of the engine room in the basement.

Roaches are always found where there are large collections of books and papers, and they often cause great loss by eating through the binding in order to reach the paste that holds the leather to the board backs. The cat in question was brought to the library building about three years ago. It was the property of John Askey, the special officer, who got it while on a visit to Canton. Its eccentricity was first noticed about two years ago, and since then the library attaches have had no further trouble from roaches.

The cat did not eat the insects, but after killing them, would carry them to the waste paper box. It was always remembered when visitors inspected the book rooms, and in this manner gained considerable notoriety among the attaches of other libraries in this vicinity. It is thought that some one of the patrons of the library has stolen the cat, which was considered a handsome specimen of the feline race.

DESTINY.

A wise old mother is Nature—
She guideth her children's feet
In many a pleasant pathway;
Yet her strong life-currents beat,
Sometimes in intricate channels—
As a mountain stream may run—
But ever her purpose triumphs,
And ever the goal is won.
Her eyes are the eyes of Argus,
And she uttereth her decree;
The brook shall come to the river,
And the river shall reach the sea!

We have failed to read the riddle
Of the impulse and desire,
That burn in the soul of being,
Like the sun's great heart of fire,
Impelling the bird, storm-drifted,
To hie to its sheltered nest,
And the mother to bring her baby
The warmth of her shielding breast;
And the blossom to yield its honey
As the spoil of the bandit bee—
While the brook goes down to the river,
And the river reaches the sea!

But whatsoever we name it—
Be it Destiny or Fate—
It leads the prince to his kingdom,
The king to his palace gate;
The lover shall taste the kisses
That grow on the maiden's lips;
And safe in the land-locked harbor
Shall be moored the scattered ships;
And the soul shall gain its heaven—
Where the white-robed angels be—
And the brook shall blend with the river,
And the river shall wed the sea.

American Institute of Mining Engineers May Meet Here in July.

Business Meetings to Be Held and Excursion to the Ranges Taken.

Custom House Will Be Open at Seine City Next Week.

The American Institute of Mining Engineers will in all probability hold its next meeting in Duluth. The date has not yet been definitely decided upon, but it will probably be the last week in July. There will be an attendance of about one hundred mining engineers from all parts of the Union. Business meetings will be held in this city and then an excursion will be made over both the Mesaba and Vermilion ranges and the iron mines inspected. The engineers will run down to Michigan and take a look through the copper mines. Arrangements will be made to entertain the visitors during their stay in Duluth.

A CUSTOM HOUSE.

One Will Be Located at Seine City Next Week.

Information comes from Canada that all arrangements for the establishment of a Canadian custom house and port of entry at Seine City have been perfected and that it will be ready for business the latter part of next week. When this is accomplished freight for Seine River and Rainy Lake points on the Canadian side will be billed clear through by the Duluth & Iron Range railroad. Now the company will bill freight only to Tower and will not be responsible beyond that point. All imports of American goods must now go to Fort Frances for entry, except in small lots and be forwarded from there by Canadian boats to points of destination, thus causing annoying delays and unnecessary expense to shippers.

IMPORTANT TO SUFFERERS.

How You May Obtain a Lasting Cure for Piles.

No Surgical Operation, No Pain, Trifling Expense—A Simple, Harmless Remedy, But It Does the Work.

There are some people who have piles as frequently and regularly as other people have colds.

Any little bowel trouble will bring them on, any extra exertion, as in lifting, will produce them, and in fact will often appear without any apparent provocation. Piles, however, are much more serious than a cold, as the tendency is always to grow worse until the trouble becomes deep seated and chronic, or develops into some fatal rectal disease.

While there are many pile remedies which give relief, yet there is but one which not only gives instant relief, but at the same time makes a permanent cure, and that is the well known Pyramid Pile Cure.

This remedy is composed of simple, harmless, vegetable ingredients, but combined so effectively and act so promptly and thoroughly that it cures every form of piles, whether itching, blind, bleeding or protruding.

In long standing cases the Pyramid Pile Cure has proven to be the only certin cure except a surgical operation, and its advantages over an operation are many, as it is painless, causes no delay, or interference with daily occupation, and last, but not least, it is cheaper than any surgical operation could possibly be, costing but $1 a package at any drug store.

The cases that the Pyramid Pile Cure will not reach are so few that physicians are doing away with operations for piles and depending on this cheap but effective remedy to accomplish a complete cure, and it never disappoints except in cases beyond the reach of medical skill.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is prepared by the Pyramid Drug company, of Albion, Mich., and for sale by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package. Each package contains a treatise on cause and cure of piles, together with testimonials from every section of this country.

IS HE A STRANGLER?

Police in New York Think They Have One.

New York, May 13.—In the name of a peddler named Joseph Talker or Talt, the police think they have found the stranger who has caused the death of several women of the town within the last year. Talker was arrested on the street on Tuesday at the instance of Mrs. Paulina Barnat, who claimed to recognize him as the man who attacked her as she was seated upon a bench in Central park a few weeks ago and robbed her of jewelry.

Today Talker confessed he was the robber, Jennie Freeman, who was the mate of Minnie Book, mysteriously strangled to death in her apartments near Fourteenth street last year, identified Talker as being the man who was with the Book woman shortly before the latter's death. The detective bureau also connect Talker with the more recent death by strangling of Minnie Weldt and "Diamond Flossy" Murphy.

W. C. T. U. CONVENTION.

Women of District and County In Joint Session.

The W. C. T. U. of the Sixteenth district of St. Louis county held a joint annual meeting yesterday in the First Presbyterian church parlors. A large number of delegates were present. The district meeting was presided over by Mrs. K. A. Ostergren, in the absence of the president, Mrs. Emily Merritt, and the county meeting by Mrs. C. H. Thompson, president of the county body.

The following papers were read and discussions had thereon: "Scientific Motherhood in the Home," by Mrs. Swan; "Scientific Motherhood in the Church," by Mrs. Bragg; "Scientific Motherhood in the State," by Mrs. Thompson. During a general discussion a delegate referred to the case of the little girl who was drowned recently at Twenty-first avenue east, and suggested that in such cases a female doctor should be summoned to investigate for causes that might point to the cause or motive for death.

A resolution protesting against the abolishment of the office of police matron was passed. The reports of the officers were read, the showing being excellent.

The following were elected officers for the ensuing year: District organization—Mrs. Clark, president; Mrs. Ida Thompson, vice president; Mrs. A. R. Merritt, secretary; Mrs. R. McKinley, treasurer. County organization—Mrs. R. C. Holt, president; Mrs. J. Culbertson, vice president, Mrs. Helen Stewart, secretary; Mrs. B. H. Smith, treasurer.

A GREATER BENEFIT.

Proposed New Road Better For Duluth Than Others.

"It will prove of vastly more importance to Duluth to have an entirely new line from Winnipeg to Duluth, such as the Winnipeg, Duluth & Hudson Bay will be, than to have the Duluth, Superior & Western completed," said a prominent railroad man to an Evening Herald reporter last night. "The new line, when constructed, will have its terminals in Duluth, and will build docks and warehouses and probably elevators. These will all give employment to Duluth men who will spend their earnings with Duluth institutions. The terminals of the Duluth, Superior & Western are all on the Wisconsin side of the line and their iron ore and other heavy freight are handled there and thus it contributes to Duluth's growth only in an indirect way. It is of vastly more importance to West Superior than to this city and will be so to a still greater degree when it is extended to the wheat fields to the north and west, as it undoubtedly will be in the near future. The proposed new line will not touch Wisconsin soil and will be distinctively Duluth enterprise for it will develop before long that Duluth interests are closely connected with the company."

FINAL SOCIAL SESSION.

Elks Will Have a Fine Program This Evening.

The Elks will give their last social session of the season tonight after the regular lodge meeting. A splendid program has been arranged and a most enjoyable time is anticipated. No one will be admitted, except members and specially invited guests. A number of persons who have at one time or another attended a social session have assumed that their invitations are perpetual and entitle them to attend at any time they see fit. In this they are mistaken and in future those not specially invited will be excluded.

Address on China.

An address on "Recent Movements in the Chinese Empire" will be given in Pilgrim church lecture room this evening, by Rev. Lyman P. Peet. Mr. Peet returned last week from Foochow, where he has been at the head of an educational institute under the American board, during the last nine years. Mr. Peet is a graduate of Yale college and divinity school and is one of the most successful of the younger missionaries. This will be one of his first addresses in America and his fresh impression of the Middle Kingdom will be worth hearing.

A STRAWBOARD TRUST.

Cleveland, May 13.—The strawboard manufacturers of the United States held a secret meeting at the Hollenden yesterday and, according to report, formed a trust to control the product of the country, though no definite information could be obtained from them. Representatives of firms in Cincinnati, Covington and Binghamton, N. Y., were present. The manufacturers say there will be no immediate change in prices.

STIMULATE THE SLUGGISH KIDNEYS.

In addition to its tonic and cathartic properties, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters exercises a beneficial influence upon the kidneys and bladder, when they are inactive, by stimulating them to renewed exertion, thus reopening, as it were, a sluice for the escape of impurities whose regular channel of exit is the organs of urination. Among these are certain abnormal and inflammatory elements, prolific of irreparable injury to the system if not entirely expelled. The kidneys and bladder themselves are also benefited by this stimulus, as their inactivity is usually a preliminary to their disease and disorganization. They also experience, in common with other portions of the system, the potent invigorative effects of the Bitters, which furthermore corrects disordered conditions of the stomach, bowels and liver.

LICENSES DUE.

Dog Owners, Hackmen and Draymen Take Notice.

Notice is hereby given to all owners of dogs, hacks and drays, billiard tables, pool tables and bowling alleys operated for hire, all pawnbrokers, second-hand dealers and auctioneers and all who conduct theaters and shooting galleries.

That all licenses issued upon the same before May 1, 1897, expired upon that date; and the ordinances of the city of Duluth require licenses to be renewed on the first day of May in each year.

Enforcement of the laws will be insisted upon and those not complying with the requirements will incur the penalty in such case made and provided.

SMALLEY CONCERT COMPANY.

Tommorrow evening the Smalley Concert company will appear at the First Methodist church. The company is composed of Marie Louise Perrine, first soprano; Grayce E. Gilmore, mezzo soprano; Esther May Plumb, first contralto; Gertrude Sprague, second contralto, and Maud V. Caruthers, reader. This ladies' quartet is the finest in the world. An exchange says:

"The social treat of the season was the concert given by the Smalley Grand Concert company at the Central Presbyterian church last evening. Seldom does a company of such merit appear in this city and certainly none have been received with better favor than the ladies last evening. Each seemed to be a particular star and collectively their music was entrancing."

Of Miss Caruthers an exchange says: "Miss Caruthers is an artist of the highest order and her graceful work on the stage is winsome and fascinating."

HEINRICH MEYN.

The advance sale of seats for subscribers to the Heinrich Meyn concert will open Saturday morning and as they will get the preference of seats it behooves everyone intending to go to get his name on the subscription list. Subscribers also are invited to the reception to be held afterward at the Spalding. The concert will be given at the Lyceum Thursday evening, May 20, one week from tonight. Of Heinrich Meyn the Hartford Times said:

"Heinrich Meyn is all that has been claimed for him—a great dramatic baritone. The superb expression, the declamatory force of his renditions are backed by a full grasp of the poetic element; in other words, he sings with wonderful intelligence. His voice is a beauty. Vibrating with life, full of emotion, genuine to the furthest extent, it bewitches the ear."

THE CINEOGRAPH.

J. T. Condon announces that through the assistance of J. E. Woodbridge, an expert electrical engineer, the cineograph has now attained perfection and the pictures as given last evening were all that could be desired. A large crowd was in attendance and went away thoroughly satisfied in having seen this wonderful creation of that wizard of electricity, Thomas A. Edison. The concert phenograph is a very pleasing part of the entertainment and renders all the latest songs between the different pictures. This will be the last chance to see the cineograph as it will close Saturday evening. A ladies' and children's matinee will be given Saturday afternoon.

The Bornemann Case.

To the Editor of The Herald:

This morning paper of yesterday, in a short item relating to the Bornemann case, stated that it was the general opinion that nothing will come of the investigation. Why will nothing come of this investigation? In this latter part of the nineteenth century, with all our claims to civilization and justice, is it possible that such a case of "persecution unto death" can be thus lightly passed over? It is a terrible thing to contemplate, the suicide of this young girl; and must the community stand by, with folded hands and sealed lips and without a protest, allow such an occurrence to go by almost unnoticed?

Let justice, not avarice, govern this investigation; and if the testimony already given is not enough to warrant more than apparently official, but really shilly-shally, investigation of the circumstances which forced this young girl to end her existence, just when a realization of the hopes and ambitions of this life should be awakening, it is indeed time for the great overturning. For the sake of humanity and our time-honored institutions, we can not afford to turn this matter over with any such heartless indifference. Yours truly,

JUSTICE.

USE HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE.

Dr. J. Fourness-Brice of S. S. Teutonic says: "I have prescribed it in my practice among the passengers traveling to and from Europe, in this steamer, and the result has satisfied me that if taken in time, it will, in a great many cases, prevent seasickness."

WHERE FISHING IS GOOD.

Those looking for the best fishing grounds are reminded of Lake Tetonka, at Waterville, and Madison lake, on the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad.

Wall-eyed pike, bass and crappies are found in great abundance at both of these lakes, which have not been fished out to the extent of some of the older and better known localities.

Excellent hotel accommodations, boats, bait, etc., on hand, and all charges are very reasonable.

DR. HOBBS

Honest Methods Universally Admired.

DULUTH PEOPLE QUICK TO APPRECIATE

The Laudable Efforts of a Generous Physician.

Merit of His Remedy, Backed up by Unquestionable Proof.

The Open Handed Test of His Great Medical Discovery Meets Hearty Approval.

A few days ago the papers of Duluth again gave public notice that Dr. Hobbs, the well-known specialist in diseases of the kidneys, had made a discovery which, if his claim could be substantiated, would revolutionize the treatment of all kidney troubles. That the public might be given the opportunity of testing this discovery without cost, they were not only asked but urged to call at S. F. Boyce's Drug store, of this city, and get a trial package of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills, thus enabling anyone who chose to avail himself of this offer to form his own judgment as to the value of this medicine. No man or woman can believe for one moment that any reputable physician would dare to challenge public opinion were he not absolutely certain of his grounds. This is a point worth careful consideration.

But Dr. Hobbs has no fears of the result, in fact, after his visit to this city a few months ago, he left behind him an astonishingly large number of people who were cured of some kind of kidney disease (and there are many kinds) all of whom still continue to sound his praise.

The eagerness with which enormous crowds of our citizens, from the rich to the poor, sought to avail themselves of Dr. Hobbs' second liberal offer shows conclusively what an army of people there are in this vicinity who are in one way or another afflicted with that dreaded of all diseases—kidney trouble.

This shows overwhelmingly what great confidence people in this city and vicinity have in Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills.

In this test all were welcome—physicians, patients and everybody interested in kidney diseases.

While the test was open to all who were afflicted with kidney troubles, physicians were also welcomed. Nobody was barred. In fact Dr. Hobbs courted the fullest investigation.

In further evidence of this, if any physician failed to get a sample of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills at the drug store of S. F. Boyce on the day of distribution, and he desires to give these pills a test in his practice, the Hobbs Remedy company, Chicago, will, upon application, gladly furnish him a sufficient quantity for that purpose free of expense, by mail, together with a formula showing the ingredients entering into the composition of this great remedy.

What Dr. Hobbs Sparagus Kidney Pills are designed and guaranteed to do.

They soothe, heal and cure any inflammation of the kidneys or bladder.

They cure backache.

They cause the kidneys to filter out of the blood all poisons and impurities, whether made in the system or taken in from the outside.

They render sluggish kidneys active.

They cause the kidneys to cast out the poison of rheumatism (uric acid), the disease germs of malaria and the grippe.

They cause the kidneys to keep the blood pure and clean and thus prevent neuralgia, headache, dizziness, nervous dyspepsia, skin diseases, eruptions, scales, tetters and rashes.

They cause the kidneys to work steadily and regularly.

They dissolve and cast out brickdust and phosphate deposits and dissolve gravel and calculi in both the kidneys and bladder.

They cure Bright's disease.

They cause the kidneys to rapidly rid the system of the poisons of alcohol and tobacco.

They yield a clear mind, sweet sleep, steady nerves, active bodies, brimful of the zest and happiness of living, bright eyes and rosy cheeks, because they keep the blood free from poisons and impurities that would otherwise clog and irritate it.

Healthy kidneys make pure blood.

Pure blood makes perfect health.

Perfect health makes life worth living.

Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills do this, and do it all the time.

WEST POINT APPLICANTS.

Eight Duluth Boys Competing at St. Cloud.

The competitive examination of applicants for the West Point cadetship is in progress at St. Cloud, having opened yesterday. It was expected that it would be completed at noon today. About thirty young men are taking the examination, of whom eight are from Duluth. The examiners are S. S. Parr, superintendent of schools at St. Cloud; W. A. Shoemaker, professor of mathematics at the St. Cloud normal school, and Dr. W. L. Beebe, of St. Cloud.

The physical examination was given first and then the candidates were given an oral test in reading, spelling and pronunciation. Later a written examination in arithmetic, grammar, history and geography was given.

The Duluth boys who are competing are: Clinton Markell, Martin Maginnis, James A. Shannon, Ray G. Holmes, Carl C. Weaver, Milton I. Stewart, C. Powell Grady, Jr., Walter Brackinreed and Walter S. Lafans.

Would Cancel the Debt.

Rev. Richmond Taylor, pastor of St. Mark's A. M. E. church has issued an appeal to the people of the city in general to assist in raising $350. The church has an opportunity to cancel a debt of $750 by raising $350 before June 15, thus saving $200. Rev. Mr. Taylor feels that an apology for asking so much money in these times is necessary, and finds one in the worthiness of the cause. Six years ago he came here and found one member, Mrs. Lulu Hodges, in the mission that had been organized about a year. They went to work and finally the present church property was contracted for. Up to date, with the increase of membership and assistance of friends, there has been paid on the property $1025.75. Mr. Taylor feels that the church is greatly needed and can see that it has done much good. So anxious is he for its success that he has contributed his services for less than $100 a year. Contributions in any amount will be thankfully received and can be paid to James B. Cade, of 311 East Fourth street, the giver sending Mr. Cade's receipt to Rev. R. Taylor, of 411 East Fourth street.

Y. M. C. A. Banquet.

The state committee of the Young Men's Christian associations of Minnesota, including Messrs. G. W. Lewis, R. A. Kirk, C. F. Loweth, D. C. Wolcott, St. Paul; C. E. Dyer, Thomas Frost, R. H. Chute, A. E. Haynes, I. C. Seeley, L. K. Thompson, W. N. Carroll, Minneapolis; William H. Laird, Winona; Professor L. W. Chaney, Northfield; D. C. Hill, Red Wing; W. B. Mitchell, St. Cloud; G. W. Palmer, Mankato; W. S. Woodbridge, Duluth; C. J. Hunt, St. Paul, will give a banquet at the West hotel, Minneapolis, May 17 to the leading men connected with the faculties of the institutions of higher learning in this state. The purpose of this meeting, aside from being social in its nature, is to discuss, with special reference to the work of the College Young Men's Christian associations in the state, the question of the Christian life of the students in these institutions.

Oarsmen Will Confer.

Tonight a number of the oarsmen of the Duluth Boat club will meet at the home of Capt. W. C. Sargent to outline plans for the summer and to arrange for the training of the crews. A number of the young men want Dr. Lyman for coach again this year, but whether or not he could be induced to give the time to it is questionable.

SHEEP OF LEBANON.

Curious Process to Fatten Them For Slaughter.

Harry Fenn, the artist, has written for the April St. Nicholas an account of his visit to the famous cedars of Lebanon, which place is also noted for its silk. Mr. Fenn says: Wherever a handful of earth can be made to rest upon a ledge, there a mulberry plant grows. It is a picturesque and thrilling sight to see a boy lowered by a rope over the precipice, carrying a big basket of earth and cuttings of mulberry twigs to plant in his hanging garden. The crop of leaves, fodder for the worms, is gathered in the same way. By such patient and dangerous industry have these hardy mountaineers been able to make their wilderness of rock blossom into brightly colored silks. Not a single leaf is left on the trees by the time the voracious worms get ready to spin their cocoons, but a second crop comes on later, and a curious use is made of that.

The tree owner purchases one of those queer big-tailed Syrian sheep, the tail of which weighs twenty pounds when at the full maturity of its fatness, and then a strange stuffing process begins, not unlike the fattening of the Strasburg geese. When the sheep can eat no more the women of the house feed it, and it is no uncommon sight to see a woman going out to make an afternoon call leading her sheep by a string and carrying a basket of mulberry leaves on her arm. Having arrived at her friend's house she squats on the ground, rolls a ball of mulberry leaves in her right hand, and slips it into the sheep's mouth. Then works the sheep's jaw up and down with the other hand till she thinks the mouthful has been chewed enough, when she thrusts it down the throat of the unfortunate animal. The funny part of the business is that probably half a dozen gossips of the village are seated around the yard, all engaged at the same operation. Of course, the sheep get immensely fat, and that is the object, for at the killing time the fat is tried out and put into jars, as meat for the winter.

DICKENS AT A CHILD'S PARTY.

A writer in Harper's Round Table tells some pleasant stories of Charles Dickens. He says:

It was at the juvenile birthday parties that Dickens seemed in all his glory. At the supper table, in helping some little miss to "trifle," he would assure her with all possible gravity that it was no trifle at all. When the writer, urged to make a little speech on the occasion of Charley's birthday, came to a full stop at the words: "I am sure," Dickens at once came to his assistance, and enabled him to retire from the platform, however ungracefully, with the remark, among others, "Always be sure, my dear boy, and you'll get along all right."

At the little theatrical entertainments Dickens was the alpha and omega of the proceedings. He was sometimes author, adapter, condense, and even stage carpenter. He overflowed with energy.

Dickens, doubtless remembering his own acute sensibilities as a child, could not wittingly wound a child's feelings. He made fun with, not of us. No party ever came off at Dickens' without "Sir Roger de Coverley's" being introduced. Dickens shouted with laughter as some novice got badly mixed up in "all hands down the middle." Off he darted after the lost sheep—generally an awkward boy—and turned his blushes to smiles by saying: "What a dancer this boy will make when he's tackled a little more coast beef!" or, "Isn't Tommy a nice young man for a small party?"

There was nothing of the pedagogue about him. No vulgar attempt to pose as the brilliant "Boz." He was simply a big boy and he came down the ladder of his fame to met his fellows on their ordinary platform—to be one of them in their own simple way for a time.

RIGHTEOUS WRATH.

Chicago Tribune: "I'm going to give that teacher a piece of my mind," said Mr. Wipedunks, scowling at a note his boy had handed him on returning from school.

"What's the matter, Jenkinson?" inquired Mrs. Wipedunks.

"The matter is," rejoined the indignant father, "that she's written me a letter to tell me that Johnny's away behind in his physics and won't pass for the next grade if he doesn't do better. I didn't know he was studyin' physics. When I want my boy to learn to be a doctor I'll send him to a doctor. These durned fads they're teachin' in school nowadays makes me sick!"

THE SIX-DAY RACE.

Four Duluth Girls Are Training For the Contest.

Next Monday night at the Union rink the start will be made in the six-day ladies' bicycle race for the twelve-hour championship. The track is seventeen laps to the mile and promises to be the fastest built at the head of the lakes. The riders, with their managers and maids, will arrive tomorrow and will finish their training here. The prizes amount to $500, divided as follows: First, $150; second, $125; third, $100; fourth, $75; fifth, $50. The riders are evenly matched and the race between Miss Baldwin and Miss Farnsworth will be a hot one from the sound of the gong to the finish. The City band has been engaged for the occasion. H. O. Messler, of Minneapolis, the well-known track builder and race manager, has been engaged by the rink management to take charge of the races. Manager Wray has offered $100 in addition to the prize money to go to the winner should the twelve-hour record be broken.

At present there are four Duluth girls training at the rink for the race and by Saturday Manager Wray will pick the best rider to represent the city against the professionals.

April School Report.

The statistical report of the public schools for April has been prepared. It shows that there were enrolled on the last day of April of this year 379 more pupils than there were on the same date a year ago. During April 224 new pupils were received. The average membership was 7923 and the average daily attendance was 7595. The average percentage of attendance was 94.1 per cent, and there were 355 cases of tardiness. There were eight cases requiring corporal punishment, and 1001 visitors during the month. The largest enrollment in any school was 621 at the Washington school.

Short Wedded Life.

Tillie Emmonen, of Eveleth, this morning began divorce proceedings against Matt Emmonen. They were married at Bawabik in December, 1895, and the plaintiff is 26 years of age. The grounds alleged for divorce are drunkenness and cruelty, and in the complaint the plaintiff asserts that her husband compelled her to live in a poorly constructed hut which did not even protect her from the weather. He also abused her with foul language, and frequently presented himself in a beastly state of intoxication. In April, 1896, when they had been married four months, the defendant deserted her within a few days of her confinement, and she has not heard of him since. L. McNeel is her attorney.

THE GREATEST RUSH.

Today's Was the Liveliest Scramble For Land.

The rush at the United States land office this morning was the liveliest of any this week. The settlers got the best of the scrimmage, there being thirty-seven homestead entries out of forty-six up to noon. The struggle began last night about 11 o'clock and continued all night long. Many of the old time pushers were in the crowd, not to get land, but to help out certain men in the scramble. One of the men who was there for that purpose was big Gust Anderson, the Superior giant, who is seven feet four inches tall. No one molested him. The rush up the stairs when the doors opened was a wild one and when the crowd got to the top the stairs were literally covered with buttons and strips of clothing.

The first filings were made by women, Sadie E. Shaw and Mary E. Kjostad. Both filed homestead entries. Forty-six entries were filed and all but four were accepted. These four were homestead entries and conflicted with other entries. Of the filings accepted thirty-three were homesteads and nine timber and stone.

Prefer the Camp.

The state militia this year have been given the option of the regular Lake City camp during the summer or an extended march. The course to be pursued is to be determined by the votes of the members of the brigade. The three Duluth companies have all decided in favor of the camp, believing that they will get more benefit than from a march. The choice of July and August was also given for the outing. Companies A and G voted in favor of holding camp in August and Company C voted for July.

C. C. Ames has returned from Minneapolis.

August Peterson came down from Cloquet this morning and registered at the St. Louis.

T. A. Bury and W. M. Moulton, of Two Harbors, are in the city, guests at the St. Louis.

A. Arnold, chief engineer of the Bessemer Steamship company, arrived in Duluth today and registered at the St. Louis.

ARE NOT MARINERS.

Tug Captains Are Not Entitled to Liens.

Yesterday afternoon before Judge Lochren in the United States admiralty court the argument of he question as to whether or not masters of tugs are mariners and entitled to preferred claims upon boats was concluded. The proctors for the masters sought to prove that they were merely pilots and not masters. Judge Lochren ruled differently however, and held that they must look for their pay to the parties with whom they contracted, and are not entitled to liens. The hearing was in the Inman tug matters.

This morning the argument in the case of G. Hennan and E. G. Ashley against the steamer Belle P. Cross and the engines and machinery now in the hull of the tug Tomlinson was taken up. The exceptions to the libel were denied and the motion to set aside the appraisal of the value of the machinery was also denied.

Yesterday in the district court S. H. Irvin gave bail in the sum of $200 to answer at the October term to the charge of writing defamatory matter on the outside of an envelope. Hugh Conway, E. Jones and Sam Tilley are to answer at the October term to the charge of cutting timber on government land. William Coleman pleaded guilty to selling liquor to Indians and was sent to jail for thirty days. John Foster received a similar sentence for the same offense. Hay-bugnming was sentenced to sixty days for the same offense.

STEALING COPPER WIRE.

Street Railway Company Suffering From Depredations.

The street railway company has suffered lately by the depredations of enterprising free-booters who have been digging up the company's ground wires at Woodland. The wires are copper and are bought by junk dealers. Last night, James Monaghan, employed by the company as a watchman, espied a dark whiskered individual in a "Mackinaw" jacket, hewing industriously at the wires with a hatchet. A chase ensued, that lasted clear from Woodland across lots to Superior street, the bewhiskered pirate finally escaping.

Today Mr. Monaghan was appointed a special policeman for the company to protect its property in the wilds of Woodland.

Dr. C. W. McFadden, dentist, has removed from Miller building, to rooms 208 and 209 Lonsdale building.

MAY COST THEM HEAVILY.

Two Men Have Fun Which May End Seriously.

James Walsh, a teamster, was arrested this afternoon and taken before the United States court where he was charged with giving liquor to an Indian. He was held in the sum of $1000 to answer to the charge. Behind this arrest there is a story. Another man is wanted and on the same charge.

Every term of the United States district court bring a large number of Indian witnesses to the city. Among those here now are several young women. Three of these were stopping at a boarding house below Michigan street near the docks and were induced last night by two men to partake of liquor. They had a lively time which wound up by the girls getting very drunk. One of them, Mary McKague, from the Leech Lake reservation, is but 13 years of age. It is said the liberties which the men took with the girls renders them liable to prosecution upon a more serious charge. Walsh is one of the men and United States marshals are after the other this afternoon.

REFUSES

Mr. Patton Will Not Give His Office to Mr. Reed at Once.

Engineer-Elect Must Prove That He Is Qualified to Take It.

City Attorney May Find That His First Opinion Was Wrong.

City Engineer Patton will not give up his office until it has been determined by the courts that Mr. Reed's election is legal or the irregularities claimed to exist therein have been remedied.

Mr. Patton says he has competent legal advice to the effect that, in justice to his bondsmen, he could not surrender the office as matters at present stand. According to the opinion of Mr. Patton's advisers, it would be necessary, in order to legally elect Mr. Reed, that the latter should resign from the board of public works and that the steps of his selection by the board and confirmation by the council should be taken over again. Mr. Patton has determined upon his course on the advice of his own counsel, without reference to what the city attorney may say.

If the city attorney should decide in favor of Mr. Patton's contention, there would be rather an odd situation, as Mr. Reed is armed with an opinion previously rendered by the city attorney, holding that Mr. Reed's position is correct. This opinion was rendered though, before the city attorney had seen, as he says, chapter 11, section 21, of the charter, which provides that no person holding an elective or appointive office shall be qualified to, be elected to, or shall hold any other city office. This may throw a new light on the question in Mr. Richards' mind.

The question seems to be as to the effect of the words "qualified to." On the one hand, it is said that the meaning is that no person holding an office shall be qualified to be appointed or be elected to another office, while on the other side it is contended that the provision means that no person shall be elected to another office, in cases where the office is elective, not qualify for an appointive office, while holding another office. In other words, that an office-holder may be appointed to another office, but may not qualify therefor until he has surrendered his first office. The latter construction is relied on by Mr. Reed and his friends, they holding that the office of city engineer is an appointive one.

Mr. Patton's advisers say this is a narrow construction and against the plain intent and purpose of the charter. Great interest in the fight is developing among the legal fraternity.

FOR ILLEGAL WIRING.

Two Arrests Made For Wiring Without Permits.

The numerous fires originating from crossed electric light and motor wires have stirred the fire department officials to do what lies in their power to remedy matters. This is not much, for at present anybody can get a permit to wire a building no matter how lacking in skill in that line they may be. The only thing that can be done is to see that the law requiring application to be made for a permit is enforced. To this Electrician Palmer is now devoting all his time available for that purpose.

Two arrests were made this morning, those of John Eulund and Conrad H. Hines, for re-arranging without a permit the wires in the building No. 317 and 319 West Superior street. They pleaded not guilty and their trial was set for Monday morning, they being released on their own recognizance. The fire department people advise that an ordinance be passed providing that the work of putting in electric light and motor be done only by persons licensed as competent by examiners appointed for the purpose. Assistant City Attorney Rustgard said today that he intended to draft such an ordinance.

Expect to Ship Soon.

There are now about 160,000 tons of ore on the stock piles of the Pioneer mine at Ely. The management of the property hopes that it will be able to begin shipping under its allotment of 200,000 tons by the new pool in a few days, in which event work will be resumed in the mine as soon as room for new ore is made. The men who were laid off last week when the mine closed down are awaiting in the expectation of soon being again set to work. The Chandler mine which joins the Pioneer is now running with a double shift of men and is shipping ore as rapidly as possible.

KILLED

Terrible Disaster at a Tennessee Mine Crushes Out Ten Lives.

Half a Dozen Others Are Expected to Die---Many Injured.

New Ore Tipple Fell and Carried the Men to Death.

Nashville, Tenn., May 14.—A Florence, Ala., special to the Banner says: A terrible disaster occurred at Pinckney, Tenn., at the ore mines, thirty miles from here, yesterday, at 3 o'clock. The new tipple, or ore dump, sixty feet high, fell, killing ten white men and boys outright, and seriously wounding several others. The killed are:

Joseph E. Remington.
Calvin Kilburn.
William Kilburn.
Jim Brown.
An 11-year-old son of Jim Brown.
C. Harris.
Landin Harris.
Richard Hardwick.
Mat Crow.
Jim Crow.

The seriously injured are: Bill Sims, George Gamble, Cype Gamble, Alexander O'Dill, William Kilpatrick, Joe Newton, Dengy Brown, two McKinnores, M. Christian.

Of the killed, Remington, C. Kilburn, Brown, Harris and the two Crows leave wives, and from one to five children. Those who are seriously injured have broken legs and crushed hip bones, an internal injuries. At least half of those who are injured will die, but their names cannot be ascertained. All of the killed and wounded were on top of the tipple when it collapsed. Only two escaped without serious injuries. One young man, seeing his danger in time, jumped twenty feet to a tree, and received slight scratches, and another jumped to the ground, turning over several times and alighted on his feet, only spraining his ankle. The cause of the collapse is unknown. The dump was a new one, and was tested with twenty cars of ore less than a month ago. There was only a small weight on it when it fell.

The mines belonged to J. Craig McLanahan. Drs. Arnold and Bramlette went to the scene on a special train yesterday evening, cared for the injured and returned this morning.

NASHVILLE AIRSHIP.

Second and Successful Flight Has Been Accomplished.

Nashville, May 14.—The second ascent in the air ship constructed by Professor A. W. Barnard, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., of this city, was made from the grounds of the Tennessee centennial exposition, at 7 o'clock this evening. Ever since the first ascent on Thursday, great interest has been manifested by the public, and the promised second voyage was looked forward to with eagerness. Several days of bad weather intervened, however, and prevented the trip. During the afternoon the house in which the airship has been carefully guarded for weeks past was visited by several hundred people, and when at last the big doors were opened and the ship was brought out, hearty cheers were given.

Considerable time was occupied by Professor Barnard and his assistants in making ready for the flight, but at last the task was completed, and the ship went up twenty or thirty feet, while several men held the ropes until the ship was gotten in a satisfactory position. The professor, holding the handlebars of the bicycle attachment, worked the pedals industriously, but the ship settled down, and several attempts were made to start before the ascent was finally accomplished.

While the spectators were clapping their hands and wishing the professor a safe and pleasant trip, the ship rose and sailed smoothly away. The movements of the machine were closely watched, and when the aeronaut succeeded in reversing the ship, when scarcely half way over the exposition grounds, he was greeted with applause. People quickly congregated from all portions of the grounds and watched the ship until it disappeared. The ship was turned about several times before it passed from the view of the people of the exposition. The wind had a velocity of four or five miles an hour, but the course of the ship was with the air current.

The air ship finally alighted at Madison, twelve miles from Nashville.

FLORIDA'S SENATOR.

Stephen P. Mallory Gains the Coveted Honor.

Tallahassee, May 14.—Stephen R. Mallory was elected United States senator today on the twenty-fifth ballot. The vote was: Mallory, 53; Bagley, 41; Call, 1. Chipley led after the roll call on this ballot, but the changing of votes gave the election to Mallory.

Stephen Russell Mallory was a member of the Fifty-second and Fifty-third congresses from the First Florida district. He lives in Pensacola, where he was born in 1848. He entered the Confederate army in Virginia in the fall of 1864 and later served as a midshipman in the Confederate navy. After the war he entered Georgetown, college, D. C., and after graduating taught school and studied law. In 1874 he returned to Pensacola and since then has practiced law in Florida and has acted actively in politics, serving in both branches of the state legislature besides the national house of representatives, where he was a leading member of the committee on commerce.

FRENCH MUST HANG.

Rockford, Ill., May 14.—James French, the wife murderer, was found guilty today. The death penalty was imposed.

DULUTH BOY AHEAD.

James N. Shannon is Selected For West Point.

St. Cloud, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—James N. Shannon, of Duluth, is first in the West Point examination. Iver M. Engebretson, of St. Cloud, will be alternate. Shannon's average was 97, leading all the others by five points.

WOULD GO TO CONGRESS.

Governor Clough Ambitious to Succeed Loren Fletcher.

Washington, May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Private information received in Washington from Minnesota today is to the effect that Governor Clough has decided to become a candidate for the Republican nomination to congress in the Hennepin county district next year. He will be opposed by Representative Fletcher, who desires to succeed himself.

The fight between them will be bitter, if Clough cannot be induced to get off the track. Just why Clough has decided to try to come to the lower house, rather than to try to succeed Senator Davis in the upper branch, is not known here.

KIEFER STILL HOPEFUL.

May Yet Be Made Commissioner of Immigration.

Washington, May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ex-Congressman Kiefer has not relinquished hope of being appointed commissioner of immigration, and says that he will not until some other man is appointed. He is still here, but says that his object in remaining is to attend the marriage of his only daughter on June 5 to Harry Brock, one of the proprietors of the Congressional hotel.

COURT HOUSE BURNS.

Lexington, Kentucky, Has a Costly Blaze.

Lexington, Ky., May 14.—Fire broke out in an attic of the court house here at 9:45 a. m. and in a few minutes the upper story was all in flames. The fire department seemed unable to make an impression and the court house was soon seen to be doomed. Hart's statute "Woman Triumphant," bought by Lexington women for $500, is in the rotunda. The records of the county were carried out.

The court house was completely gutted and in an hour scarcely anything remained but the walls. Hart's beautiful masterpiece was destroyed in an attempt to remove it. Loose records were carried out and others are in a steel vault in the basement. The court house was built ten years ago and cost $120,000. The fire started in the jury room, which was vacant. The county school superintendent was conducting an examination of fifty school children in the court room and they were all rescued.

The firemen were helpless in the beginning and soon deserted the court house to save surrounding buildings. A high wind prevailed and for a time the buildings to the northeast were in great danger from flying embers. Bucket and garden hose brigades put out many incipient fires. Central and the First National banks and the offices of the Leader and the Herald were in the line of the fire and were quickly emptied of books and records.

When the fire was under control it was found that the first floor and basement were partly saved from destruction by fire, but deluged with water. In addition to the total destruction of the Hart statue many valuable paintings in the court rooms were lost. These were portraits of Henry Clay, Richard Menefee, W. T. Barry, Judge Robertson, T. F. Marshall and other famous Kentuckians, painted by Healy, Sully and other noted artists. The loss on the building is $60,000; insurance, $40,000.

FIGHTING NEAR ARTA.

Heavy Losses and the Battle Still Raging.

Athens, May 14, 6 p. m.—A brief dispatch received here from Arta, late this afternoon, says that a bloody engagement has been preceding since early yesterday morning, near Griboro, between the Greek and Turkish forces. Griboro is on the road to Fillipiada. Both sides, the dispatch adds, have sustained heavy losses.

SOME GRECIAN SUCCESSES.

Paris, May 14.—A dispatch from Athens this morning announces that the Greeks have captured Nikopolis, the site of the Turkish fortress on the peninsula upon which Prevesa is situated. Eighty Turks were killed in the engagement. The Greek troops, the dispatch adds, have re-occupied Soulourn without opposition.

TRAIN ROBBERY.

Wells-Fargo Safe Blown Open and Rifled.

San Antonio, Tex., May 14.—At 2 o'clock this morning the Southern Pacific express train was held up by three men at Lezier, 265 miles west, and the safe of the Wells-Fargo express car blown open. The robbers escaped with the booty, but it is not known what amount of money they got.

THE GOLD EXODUS.

New York, May 14.—Lazard Freres will ship $1,250,000 in gold bars to Europe tomorrow. This makes the total gold shipments for tomorrow announced thus far $2,250,000 and the total for the present outward movement $11,777,000.

RED WING MAN ILL.

Saratoga, N. Y., May 14.—H. T. Taylor, a wealthy lumberman of Red Wing, Minn., was taken seriously ill on the street at Great Falls last night. His condition is serious.

THE TREASURY CONDITION.

Washington, May 14.—Today's statement of the condition of the treasury shows: Available cash balance, $229,178,726; gold reserve, $147,568,512.

DIVORCED

Lily Langtry is at Last Rid of Her Uncongenial Mate.

Defense Made No Appearance---Divorce Granted For Desertion.

Lily Testified She Had Always Been Loving Toward Her Husband.

Lakeport, Cal., May 14.—Emilie Charlotte Langtry, better known throughout two hemispheres as the Jersey Lily, has secured a divorce from her English husband. The decree that gives her much freedom from matrimonial fetters was signed by Judge R. W. Crump yesterday. It was all done very quietly, a default being entered for the foreign defendants, who had failed to file a defense in the time allowed by the California code. While all the legal formalities were complied with, no one except those actually interested in the delicate matter were present. Henry C. McPhoke, who appeared for the plaintiff, was armed with a number of depositions taken in England and America, intended to convince the court that Edward Langtry had deserted his fair wife.

That of the plaintiff was to the effect that she married Mr. Langtry on the island of Jersey in 1876, and that the marriage certificate gave evidence that the lady was 20 years of age, and Langtry was 24. The defendant gave as his place of birth Scotland, while Mrs. Langtry said she was born in Jersey, the witnesses of the ceremony being Mr. and Mrs. Le Breton, the lady's parents. Mr. Le Breton, who was a duly ordained minister of the Church of England, officiated. During their marriage a daughter was born, and named Jeanne. At the time of the taking of the deposition in 1895, this child was 15 years of age, and has always resided with her mother.

Mrs. Langtry testified that her husband had deserted her a number of years ago. From this time to date, the lady testified, he has not furnished her nor her child with any means of support, but, to emphasize his desertion, has declared on a number of occasions that he would not return to his wife. Thus, thrown on her own resources, she had taken to the stage for a livelihood, and had been pursuing that occupation for a number of years past.

In 1886 she came to California, and, taking a fancy to the climate, procured a house in San Francisco, upon Twenty-first street, taking the house for a year, in order that she might have an opportunity to look around and select a location for a permanent home. She finally secured a large tract of land near Middletown, in the southeastern part of Lake county, and took up her residence there. She spent a portion of the money she made on the stage for improvements. From their legal and financial showing the lady returns to her matrimonial experiences, saying in one sentence: "I have always treated Mr. Langtry with affection, never giving him cause to disregard his duty toward me as my husband." In conclusion, she asks that the custody of the daughter, Jeanne, be awarded to her.

Sir George Lewis, James W. Smyth Fitot, Capt. A. W. Wilhamson, Emily Davis Le Breton and Clement Le Breton, the mother and father, testified on the point of desertion by Mr. Langtry, and as to her being a resident of California.

Immediately on the conclusion of the hearing of the motion of Attorney McPhoke, all the papers in the case were sealed, in accordance with the law respecting divorce cases. For several hours Judge Crump studied over the points of the hearing in the retirement of his chambers. Then he signed the decree, finding that Edward Langtry had been duly served with the summons, had failed to answer, and was in default.

MORE LAND DECISIONS.

Orders By Secretary Bliss in Several Cases.

Washington, May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Secretary Bliss has denied motions for review in the land cases of Thomas R. Daniel, Hugh R. Edwards, Annie M. Millard and Mary S. Daniel against the United States from the Duluth district. The former departmental decision is adhered to on the ground that no sufficient reason is given in the motion for review of the decision and no new question of law or fact is presented which has not already been considered.

The request of the claimants' attorney that action be suspended to await the passage of the bill for the relief of timber and stone land purchasers is denied, for the reason that it was introduced in the last congress and is not therefore pending legislation.

In the case of G. A. Scarlett et al. against Levi Edwards et al., from the Duluth district, the land office decision against the defendants is affirmed.

FILLED WITH SAND.

Houghton, Mich., May 14.—The canal from Lake Superior to Lac La Belle, Keeweenaw Point, is filled with sand so that the tug Morse was unable to make an entrance this week. The southern pier at the canal entrance has been broken down just off shore, and the sand has washed through the break, forming a bar that prevents navigation by anything drawing more than five feet of water.

DECREASE IN IMMIGRATION.

Washington, May 14.—The returns received by the immigration bureau during the last several months show a marked falling off in the number of immigrant arrivals in this country. The number of arrivals during the nine months ended March 31, 1897, was 142,911, as compared with 209,630 for the same period in the fiscal year 1896. This is a decrease of 66,689. During April the decrease at New York alone was 11,439, and during the first eleven days in the present month the falling off at New York was 10,600. Commissioner General Stump estimates that the decrease for the entire country during the fiscal year ending June 30 next will not be less than 82,000, of which New York probably will show 70,000.

Did ever a woman experience true happiness until she bent over her rosy-cheeked, sleeping babe, tired of play and forgetful of toys. Never. True happiness for a childless woman is nature's most emphatic impossibility. The world teems with otherwise happy wedded couples that only need the link of a babe's divided caresses to unite them in mutual happiness through all eternity. Any woman may assure herself of happy wifehood, long life, love, and the great blessing of motherhood, who will take proper care of her womanly-self, and resort to the right remedy for weakness and disease of the delicate organs peculiar to her sex.

The best of all-known remedies for the special weaknesses and diseases from which women suffer is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly and only on the organs that bear the burdens of motherhood. It makes them strong and healthy. Taken during the expectant period it banishes the usual discomforts and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It insures a robust newcomer and an ample supply of natural nourishment. All good druggists sell it.

"It is my heart's desire," writes Mrs. M. E. Jimpson, P. O. Box 31, Kinderhook, Columbia Co., N. Y., "to tell you what Dr. Pierce's medicine has done for me. Two years ago I was in a very bad state. I took nine bottles in all of your 'Favorite Prescription.' I had been married five years and had not had any children. I now have a young son one year old. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription effected a positive cure—words cannot express my gratitude for the relief from the great suffering I so long endured. I do not think I should be here to-day had it not been for Dr. Pierce's medicines."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the liver, stomach and bowels.

VIVISECTION RULES.

Which Must Be Observed in the District of Columbia.

Washington, May 14.—Senator Gallinger reported in the senate today the bill for the regulation of vivisection in the District of Columbia, unanimously adopted by the senate committee of the District of Columbia, providing:

First, for the use of anaesthetics in all painful experiments in living invertebrate animals, the so-called inoculation experiments, tests of drugs and medicines and cases of recovery from surgical procedure being expressly exempted from this requirement.

Second, for the licensing of all experimenters by the district commissioners except those who are duly authorized officers of the government.

Third, for the prohibition of vivisection in the public schools and in exhibitions for the general public.

Fourth, for the inspection of all places of experiment by inspectors to be appointed by the president of the United States.

CATTLEMEN'S FATAL QUARREL.

Ord Neb., May 14.—At midnight last night Old Summers, a cattle buyer, was fatally shot by a man named McBride, who is said to be a cattle rustler from Boyd county. Summers formerly lived in Boyd county and the affray is said to be the result of an old feud. Summers having, it is claimed, at one time informed on McBride and his associates. The charge is made that McBride was sent here by the Boyd county gang for the express purpose of killing Summers. McBride escaped, making for the sand hills, and the sheriff and a posse of fourteen men are after him.

DRANK EMBALMING FLUID.

Burlington, Iowa, May 14.—William Watt and Charles Feierdaph, brickyard employes are near death's door from drinking embalming fluid. Last night a farmer named Brach came to town for a coffin. He got drunk, and on his way home he and the coffin and a jug containing embalming fluid were thrown from the wagon. The brickyard men rescued Brach and his coffin, but secreted the jug, which they supposed contained whisky.

SENTENCED TO DISMISSAL.

New York, May 14.—A special dispatch from Washington to the Herald says that Capt. Henry Romeyn, Fifth infantry, recently tried at Fort McPherson, Ga., for having knocked down First Lieut. M. J. O'Brien, of the same regiment, on the post parade ground, has been sentenced to dismissal.

IT WILL SURPRISE YOU.

In order to prove the great merit of Ely's Cream Balm, the most effective cure for Catarrh and Cold in Head, your druggist will supply a generous 10 cent trial size or we will mail for 10 cents. Full size 50 cts. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y. City.

Ely's Cream Balm has completely cured me of catarrh when everything else failed. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Alfred W. Stevens, Caldwell, Ohio.

It seems to you that that tickling, hacking cough is all in the throat. But your doctor will tell you that this sensation is often deceiving. The cough is often the signal of deeper trouble in the bronchial tubes or in the lung tissue itself. These inflamed membranes can only be healed by treating the system. For all lung troubles, especially in the earlier stages, no remedy equals Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil. Its special power is in healing the inflamed tissues of the lungs.

ENDEAVOR

Great Preparations Being Made in San Francisco For Christian Endeavorers.

Chief Features of the Big Gathering Are All Arranged.

Mass Meeting All Over the City and a Mammoth Junior Rally.

San Francisco, Cal., May 11.—The local committee having in charge the preliminaries for the sixteenth International Christian Endeavor convention, which will be held in this city, July 7 to 12 next inclusive, is leaving no stone unturned to insure its success. Already most of the arrangements are complete except as to minor details. While uncertainty in regard to rates has caused considerable delay in some quarters, now that the matter is finally settled, applications for hotel accommodations are pouring in daily, and arrangements will soon be perfected. The program for the convention promises to be one of the best ever provided. Its chief features are as follows:

The convention will open on Wednesday night, July 7, with meetings in eight of the largest churches in this city, and one meeting each in Oakland and Alameda. Thursday morning simultaneous welcome meetings will be held in Mechanics' and Woodward's pavilions. In the afternoon twenty or more churches will be used for denomination rallies. Friday morning practical addresses and opening parliaments upon the fundamental principles of Christian Endeavor will be provided. The afternoon will be given up to a "School of Methods" in the various churches. "Christian Endeavor Fellowship" will be the general subject for Friday evening. Saturday morning the state secretaries are to be heard from in a symposium on the topic, "How May We Make the Committee Work in Local Societies More Effective?" This is an innovation, which will furnish an opportunity for state and united society officers to speak on practical topics bearing on extension of work.

There will be an open-air demonstration on Varness avenue, after which the delegates are given an outing by the local committee. Sunday there will be three meetings of great importance, one for men only, another for women only, and one for ministers and church officers. Monday will be devoted to the evangelistic and missionary influences of Christian Endeavor. The Junior rally, one of the most important features of the program, will be held in the afternoon, and the closing sessions of the convention will be held in the evening.

PERUVIAN SILVER.

Decree Prohibiting Its Coinage Received in Washington.

Washington, May 14.—The state department has received the following copy of the decree promulgated last month suspending silver coinage in Peru: "Whereas, the fluctuation of exchange, arising from the constant depression of the silver metal, demands that the national executive powers take such measures as are within its legal faculties."

Decrees—No. 1—To suspend the coinage of national silver money. The mint will therefore not receive bullion for that object.

2—Silver soles converted into an article of commerce by the fact of their being exported from the country, cannot return, except as merchandise.

3—Consequently the importation, after May 10 next, will be delivered to the mint. This article and the preceding one also refer to foreign silver coin.

4—To render the foregoing article effective, the importation can take place only at the port of Callao, it being compulsory to make the respective manifest there that must be transmitted by the custom houses administration to the mint, there to be melted into bars at the cost of the importer, then returned to him in this form.

5—In the interior prohibition will not include the silver soles which travelers bring with them for their personal expenses, but which must not exceed the sum of fifty soles.

6—The national silver money, which is removed from one port to another of the republic, will be conveyed with a custom house permit, stating it has not been imported, only shipped, by the custom house authorization.

Given at the government house this ninth day of April, 1897.

N. E. PIEOL, President.
IGNACIO REH, Secretary of State.

PRISONER'S BAD BREAK.

Chicago, May 14.—Frank Lewanowiz took a desperate chance last evening in an effort to make his escape from the custody of an officer by jumping from a Northwesrten passenger train moving at the rate of fifty miles an hour. The man's captor was taking him to Waukegan, where he was wanted on the charge of larceny and just beyond the Mayfair crossing he jumped from the window before he could be prevented. The man fell on his hands and face, and, besides being badly bruised, both of his arms ewere broken. The prisoner narrowly escaped being killed outright by being thrown on a pile of ties.

HIS SPITTING PRIVILEGE.

San Francisco, May 14.—W. B. Bradbury, a local millionaire, has been sentenced to twenty-four hours' imprisonment in the county jail for violating the civil ordinance prohibiting expectorating on the floor of street cars. This was Bradbury's second offense. He claims the privilege of spitting when and where he pleases, as an inalienable American privilege and will make a test case of his punishment.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Nearly 400 of the leading business and professional men of Cincinnati attended the annual banquet of the chamber of commerce at the Hollenden last evening. The guest of the evening was Archbishop Ireland, all the others in attendance being members. Senator Hanna, President Thwing and others delivered addresses, but speech of the evening was by Archbishop Ireland upon "The Sure Foundation of a Good Citizenship."

At Morris Park, New York, yesterday the winners were Blue Devil, Deerslayer, Sensational, Octagon, Storm Queen and Xmas.

The winners at the Louisville races yesterday were Crocket, Trolley, James Monroe, Mary Block, Blanton.

Word has been received by the Yale oarsmen from the university of Wisconsin crew that they will arrive at New Haven, Conn., about May 2 for their race with Yale on May 29. Training quarters are being prepared for them. The visitors will while there be the guests of the Yale navy. The details of the races will not be arranged until the arrival of the Badgers.

The movement to secure the adoption of a universal postal stamp by the postal congress has collapsed. There were too many difficulties, the chief being that of currency fluctuations.

Charles F. Moore, the noted forger, check raiser and draft manipulator, who has swindled banks and building and loan associations in many cities of the United States during the past three years, entered a plea of guilty to the charge of forgery yesterday at Fort Wayne, Ind., and was sentenced under the new law to do time at Michigan City from three to fourteen years.

William H. Goodwin, president of the Eliot National bank of Boston, was killed last night while he was walking on Pond street, Jamaica Plains, on his way home from business. A decayed branch of a tree was snapped off by the wind and fell on his head and knocked him down. He died within twenty minutes.

Heavy snow storms and severe storms continue in all parts of Austria and Hungary. There have been avalanches in the Austrian Tyrol and the Stozkammergut. In some parts of Styria and in Silesia and Teschen the people are sledging. Great damage has been done everywhere to crops, vines and fruits. The snow is three feet deep in the mountains of Carinthia. Sheep and game are perishing and there have been earthquake shocks near Graz, Fiume and elsewhere.

Gen. Horace Porter, the American ambassador to France, arrived there yesterday. He was received by prominent members of the American colony. Among them were Gen. Winslow, with whom he will temporarily reside.

Ex-Senator Richard Coke died at 1:50 o'clock this morning at Waco, Texas.

At Mexico City Gen. Powell Clayton, the newly appointed minister of the United States, officially presented his credentials to President Diaz at noon yesterday in the hall of the ambassadors.

FARROW IS NOT GUILTY.

Pittsburg, May 14.—Lieut. Edward S. Farrow, of New York, who was tried in the criminal court yesterday for an alleged violation of the insurance laws of the state, was found not guilty. The jury returned a sealed verdict last night in about fifteen minutes after retiring and it was opened in court this morning. The prosecutor, C. F. Harper, of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life association of New York, was ordered to pay the costs.

MR. VANDERLIP'S PROMOTION.

Washington, May 14.—The nomination of Frank A. Vanderlip, of Illinois, for assistant secretary of the treasury, will be sent to the senate when it meets next. Mr. Vanderlip is now private secretary to Secretary Gage.

HORSEMEN FIGHT.

Over an Allegation of Crooked Turf Practice.

San Francisco, May 14.—There was a lively fight at the Baldwin hotel last night between Ed Purser and Joseph N. Quinn, two well-known horseman. The Quinn boys and several others were arguing with Purser about what they called the "peculiar running" of the latter's horses, as well as those of Atkin and Ottridge. It was a battle of words for a while, then Quinn swung his right on Purser's nose. In a moment several others were mixed up in the fight. The police stopped it before any serious damage was done.

Purser is connected in a way with the Atkin and Lottridge stables, owners of Don Clarencio. It appears that a few days ago Don Clarencio started and was beaten. He had opened at 8 to 5 in the betting and his price receded to 8 to 1. Bookmakers Beverly, Coleman and the Quinns believed that Don Clarencio had been "pulled." Manchester won on Wednesday Jim Quinn bid the horse $500 above his selling price. This caused all the argument and the fighting. The Oakland stewards are now investigating the allegations of fraud.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—Defaults having been made in the payment of the semi-annual installments of interest which became due on the first day of April, 1896, the first day of October, 1896, and the first day of April, 1897, each being for the sum of one hundred and seventy-seven dollars ($170), which defaults have continued to the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by John Hammond and Eleanor S. Hammond, her husband, mortgagors, to The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, mortgagee, bearing date the first day of April, A. D. 1892, and with a power of sale therein contained duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 11th day of April, A. D. 1892, at 11:15 o'clock a. m. in Book 99 of mortgages on page 67; and

Whereas, said mortgagors made default in paying special assessments against the property, which have become delinquent, payment of which was provided in said mortgage, and the undersigned under the terms of said mortgage on May 14th, 1897, paid said special assessments which had become delinquent, with penalties, costs and interest, amounting to the sum of one hundred twenty-two and 16-100 dollars ($122.16); and

Whereas, said mortgagors made default in paying taxes against the mortgaged premises for the years 1894 and 1895, payment of which was provided in said mortgage, and the undersigned on May 14th, 1897, paid said taxes which had become delinquent on the mortgaged premises, with penalties, costs and interest, amounting to the sum of two hundred fifty-six and 03-100 dollars ($256.03), which the undersigned mortgagee had the right to pay under the terms of said mortgage; and said mortgagee does claim a lien against said mortgaged premises under the terms of said mortgage for the amounts paid as above stated, both for taxes and assessments, and which under the terms of said mortgage become a part of said mortgage debt and bear interest from the days of payment at the rate of six per cent per annum; no part of said sums paid for assessments and taxes have been repaid to the mortgagee.

More than ten days have elapsed since the defaults made in the payment of said installments of interest, and the said The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company has duly elected and does hereby elect to declare the whole principal sum of said mortgage due and payable at the date of this notice, under the terms and conditions of said mortgage, and the power of sale therein contained.

There is actually due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice for principal on said mortgage debt and interest six thousand four hundred eighty-four and 07-100 dollars ($6484.07) and for taxes and assessments and penalties, costs and interest thereon, paid as above stated, the sum of three hundred seventy-eight and 19-100 dollars ($378.19), making in all the sum of six thousand eight hundred sixty-two and 26-100 dollars ($6862.26). No action or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Therefore, notice is hereby given, that under the power of sale in said mortgage contained and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The west half of lot numbered eleven (11), and all of lots numbered twelve (12) and thirteen (13), in block numbered eight (8), New Endion Division of Duluth, according to the accepted and recorded plat thereof, of record in the office of the register of deeds for said county of St. Louis; with the hereditaments and appurtenances, all of said lands being in St. Louis County, Minnesota. Said sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the county court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the 26th day of June, A. D. 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt of six thousand eight hundred sixty-two and 26-100 dollars ($6862.26), and interest thereon and one hundred dollars ($100) attorneys' fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—Default has been made in the payment of the sum of $1065.00, which is claimed to be due, and which is due, at the date of this notice, upon a mortgage, containing a power of sale, made, executed and delivered by Napoleon B. Thayer and Mary Thayer, his wife, of Duluth, St. Louis County, Minnesota, mortgagors, to Julia A. Ford, of the same place, mortgagee, dated September 1, 1890, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for said St. Louis County, Minnesota, on September 3, 1890, at 2:10 o'clock p. m. in Book 61 of mortgages, on page 41.

No action or proceeding has been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt escured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, and situate in said St. Louis County, Minnesota, to-wit:

Lot numbered one hundred forty-five (145), in block numbered forty-three (43), in Duluth Proper, Third Division, according to the recorded plat thereof.

Said sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, Minnesota, at public vendue, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, St. Louis County, Minnesota, on Monday, the fourteenth day of June, 1897, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay the amount due upon said mortgage debt, and interest and $50.00 attorneys' fees as stipulated in said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the costs and disbursements of such sale allowed by law; subject to redemption within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated April 30, 1897.

DECLINED

Wheat Lost Over One Cent Today Owing to Bearish Advices.

Cables Showed a Decline of Prices in the Liverpool Market.

Clearances at the Seaboard Light and the Northwest Receipts Heavy.

Wheat opened easy on the Liverpool cables, which responded slightly to the American advance. Northwest receipts were heavy, 306 cars against 131 last week and 21 the year before. Last night's frost were reported as extending as far south as Kansas. Not much damage was expected from this source, however, and when second cables were received, showing a 1d decline the market sold off. In California the weather was said dry, but there was no talk of damaging heat, and in the absence of that the California condition did not have the influence it has been exercising for ten days back. Chicago received seven carloads and withdrawals from store were 198,000 bus.

The small clearances from the Atlantic ports, 82,000 bus in wheat and flour together, and the weakness of the Liverpool market became too much for the bulls to stand up under, and those features added also to the aggressiveness of the bears. May brought a premium of 2½c over July at Chicago at one time in the forenoon, and the extra strength in this month's delivery was taken as evidence of a considerable short interest still remaining in it. Closing cables still reported Liverpool from 1d to 1½d lower for futures and steady to ½d lower for spot.

Trading was active on the Duluth board. July wheat opened unchanged at 76¾c but declined during the first half hour to 76½c. It seemed to go lower and during the noon hour sold down to 75½c or le below the opening. Later it recovered to 75¾c and held well with buyers at 75¾c, being a decline of 1¼c for the day. The elevators bought at least 150,000 bus of cash stuff at 1c over May, and 50,000 bus were worked for shipment. It is expected that wheat stocks here will show 100le change this week; possibly there may be a decrease of 50,000 bus. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 77¾c; May, 77¾c. No. 1 northern, cash, 77¾c; May, 77¾c; July, 75¾c bid; September, 68¾c bid. No. 2 northern, 75c. No. 3, 70½@71½c. Rejected, 54¼@69½c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 77¾c; No. 1 northern, 77¾c. Rye, 35c. No. 2 oats, 22½c. No. 3 oats, 21½c. Flax, 77¾c.

Car inspection—Wheat, 125; oats, 10; rye, 5; barley, 17; flax, 17. Receipts—Wheat, 110,050 bus; oats, 27,121 bus; rye, 186 bus; barley, 7187 bus; flax, 4597 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 86,000 bus; oats, 150,511 bus; barley, 50,000 bus; flax, 23,188 bus.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Minneapolis, May 14.—Wheat weaker; May, 74¾c; July, 74@74½c; September, 66c. No. 1 hard, 76¾c; No. 1 northern, 75¾c. Receipts, 253 cars.

CATTLE AND HOGS.

Chicago, May 14.—Hogs, official receipts yesterday, 26,741; shipments, 3229. Cattle, official receipts yesterday, 10,383; shipments, 2491. Sheep, receipts, 12,580; shipments, 1237. Estimated receipts hogs tomorrow, 17,000; estimated receipts hogs today, 29,000; left over, 2000. Market active and 5c lower. Light, $3.70@3.87½; mixed, $3.70@3.85; heavy, $3.40@3.75; rough, $3.40@3.55. Cattle, receipts, 1500. Strong; no choice cattle here. Beeves, $4.00@5.15; cows and heifers, $1.40; stockers and feeders, $3.45@4.50. Sheep, 8000. Steady to strong.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 onrd of Trade, Chicago, May 14—Liverpool wheat cables again ignored our advance and came a penny lower but their decline is generally credited to the lowering of ocean freight rates which in the past few days has equalled a drop of over 2c per bus. London cables, however, brought liberal acceptances of wheat for fall loading. The visible supply promises to show another good decrease and it is claimed that the entire stock at Duluth will be moved out before the middle of June. Foreign houses are quietly buying May wheat at New York and the widening of the premium shows the presence of a large short interest in May. The market today was in the hands of professionals and sold off to the put price but on the decline a large business was done both here and at the seaboard for shipment and 175,000 bus of wheat were worked here today for direct export notwithstanding the decline at Liverpool. The buying side still remains the safest.

Corn and oats depressed by the weakness in wheat and by heavy sales for country account.

Provisions weakened under increased receipts of hogs at all Western points.

Puts, July wheat, 72¾@72⅝c.

Calls, July wheat, 74@74⅛c.

Curb, July wheat, 73¼c bid.

WEST END

Movement Started For the Rebuilding of the Cody Sanitarium.

Col. Cody Will Be Petitioned to Give One Day's Show Receipts.

Demorest Medal Contest to Be Held May 31---Ball Game Sunday.

A movement has been inaugurated in West Duluth which has for its object the rebuilding of the Cody sanitarium on Bay View Heights, which was destroyed by fire last summer. A petition has been drawn up and is being quite generally signed, requesting Col. William F. Cody, who owned the old sanitarium, to set aside a single day's receipts of the Buffalo Bill Wild West show, to be used as a starter for the reconstruction of the building. The petition expresses the appreciation of the signers of Col. Cody's enterprise, and states that the people of Duluth had taken great interest in the sanitarium that was so unfortunately destroyed. It expresses the belief that if he will set aside one day's receipts of his great show to be devoted to rebuilding it, it can be constructed, and that under the management of Mrs. Helen C. Wetmore, who conducted the sanitarium before the fire, it will not only be an institution of which Duluth will feel proud, but will prove a profitable business venture.

THE DEMOREST CONTEST.

The Woman's Christian Temperance union fixed upon May 31 as the date for the Demorest gold medal rhetorical contest at the business meeting held yesterday afternoon. Mrs. N. D. Hendricks was chosen to represent the union at the state convention to be held in Duluth next August. At the discussion of the curfew question advocates of the curfew bell were in the majority, and in a vote the meeting declared in favor of it.

BASEBALL GAME.

The Hibbing baseball nine has been challenged to play the Proctornott team next Sunday and will undoubtedly accept. The Hibbing club is said to be a very strong one and a good game may be expected.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

In future the Incline car will leave Central avenue at 9:15 p. m. instead of 9 o'clock, to accommodate church goers from Proctorknott who attend Asbury M. E. church.

O. J. Simons has sold his saloon in Proctorknott to Nick Buffer, of Duluth, and has purchased the livery and 'bus line of Dibble & Son.

Martin Maginnis and Carl Weaver, of West Duluth, were among the competitors for the appointment to West Point naval academy from the Sixth congressional district at the examination held in St. Cloud this week.

Saturday evening, May 29, a festival will be given at the Swedish Baptist church, on the corner of Fifty-ninth avenue and Ramsey street. The program will consist of speeches, recitations and vocal and instrumental music. Refreshments will be served.

The Orange lodge of West Duluth has arranged for a literary and musical entertainment and ice cream festival, to be given at their hall on eCntral avenue Saturday evening, May 22.

Mrs. Josephine Carlson, graduated midwife, thoroughly competent and experienced. Fifty-sixth avenue west, West Duluth.

Architect Palmer's Report.

Architect Palmer has finished the work of going over the plans for the pumping station at Lakewood, and is ready to make his report. He will recommend that the wells of the superstructure be made 24 inches wide, as far as the sills of the window of the first story, and that up to that point they be of stone, backed with brick, the balance of the walls to be of brick, 20 inches wide. The erection of a framework in the interior is also recommended, designed to act both as an additional support to the walls and to carry the traveling crane.

A MUSICAL FAMILY OF FIFTEEN.

Probably the greatest musical family in the world lives in Washington county, Ky. There are fifteen members, and each one of the fifteen plays well upon some musical instrument. Very often this family orchestra gives concerts for the entertainment of their friends and for their own pleasure.

The oldest member of the family is the grandfather, who, though 80 years of age, "pokes" the banjo, and has composed several airs for that instrument. These airs have made the old man famous in his own state. The eldest of the children is a young man of 33, who plays the violin, while the youngest, a little 7-year-old girl, plays the organ with remarkable skill. The father, Mr. West, plays several instruments, but prefers the violin. Their home is about three miles from Springfield, Ky., and in that town everbody knows and likes the "West Musical family."

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Opening Sales Were Characterized By Weakness.

New York, May 14.—Weakness characterized the opening of the stock market with liberal sales of Sugar a feature, the price sagging ½ to 1.12¾. Grangers headed the decline in the general list. The trading was more animated than for some time. Some further losses occurred in the general list, but the declines were quite uniform and did not exceed fractions. The Gould shares were notably firm with Manhattan rising 1¾ per cent in consequence of the favorable quarterly statement. The activity soon abated on account of uncertainty regarding the Cuban question at Washington and of the further shipments of gold by tomorrow's steamer. A feature of the United States government bond market was a sale of a block of $200,000 of the new coupon 4s at 123⅛c against 122⅞c yesterday's closing bid.

The bears made a determined attack upon Sugar and the Anthracite Coal group after 11 o'clock and succeeded in precipitating a brisk selling movement in the general list. Sugar was offered freely and fell off to 112¼c, a net decline of 1¼. Delaware & Hudson a point, Reading second, preferred, 1¾. The gold engagement was utilized by the bears to the utmost and the grangers were liberally offered for sale. Northern Pacific preferred fell off ⅝c despite the foreign support. Manhattan shared in the break and lost a point of its provision. The bond market held firm in normal trasactions. Sales to noon, 91,800 shares.

THE WEATHER.

United States Agricultural Department, Weather Bureau, Duluth. Synopsis of weather conditions for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m., (Central time), May 14.—An area of low pressure has passed from Lake Superior to Lake Erie, and is attended by showers this morning as far westward as Marquette and Chicago. Showers have been followed by fair weather in Wisconsin, Eastern Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Western Tennessee, Kansas, Wyoming and Manitoba. Rainfalls at Detroit and Memphis slightly exceeded one-half inch in amount, and are the heaviest reported for the past twenty-four hours.

The temperature fell below the freezing point last night as far southward as Central Nebraska, and an area of high pressure which has pushed southward to Nebraska and Kansas was attended by frosts at the following named stations: Kansas City, North Platte, Huron, St. Paul, Moorhead, Bismarck, Williston and Miles City. The temperature is rising in the Canadian Northwest.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 41; maximum yesterday, 45; minimum yesterday, 40; rainfall, .12 inch.

Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity: Fair and continued cool tonight; Saturday fair and warmer by afternoon; fresh to brisk westerly winds.

JAMES KENEALY,
Local Forecast Official.

Chicago, May 14.—Forecast until 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Fair and cooler with frost tonight; Saturday fair with warmth in the afternoon; fresh westerly winds becoming variable. Minnesota: Fair tonight with cooler and frost in west and warmer in extreme west portion; Saturday fair and warmer; variable winds.

THE CIVIL SERVICE LAW.

Senator Quay, of Pennsylvania, makes no secret of his opposition to the civil service law, and in this respect he differs from the majority of members of congress who hypocritically profess great friendship for civil service reform, while at the same time they are privately condemning in sulphurous language. Senator Quay has started a fight upon the system, as promulgated by President Cleveland, has made the first attack by offering amendments to the deficiency appropriation bill exempting deputy collectors, storekeepers and gaugers in the internal-revenue service, examining surgeons in the pension bureau, Indian agents and several other classes of officials from the classified service, and it is probable that other senators who are interested in securing places for their friends will follow his example.

A very strong pressure has been brought upon the president to induce him to modify the last civil-service order of President Cleveland so as to exempt not only the officials named, but all chiefs of divisions in the executive departments, special agents, disbursing officers and other officials, but he has declined to do so on the ground that that Mr. Cleveland's action was authorized by law, and that he could not repeal or amend the law if it desires any change to be made. The members of the cabinet have complained that they are hampered in their official duties by finding every position of a confidential nature occupied by persons of whom they had no knowledge and in whom they had no confidence. In one of the departments a few days ago it was discovered that three disbursing officers who were intrusted with the expenditure of large sums of money were notoriously unfit for the responsibility, and the head of that department, when he found that he would be compelled to appoint other strangers if he removed them, requested the detail of army paymasters to take charge of the funds and continue the disbursements. The cabinet officers claim the right to select the men who are to handle government funds, and have united in a request upon the president to exempt such officials from the classified service. He has thus far taken no action upon their request, but he may make a favorable response, as it is manifestly inconvenient and even dangerous to carry on the work of the departments when the cabinet officers have no confidence in their subordinates. Certainly the head of the departments should have the right to select the men who must handle the funds. There are certain clerkships which may properly be kept under the civil service rules, but all positions of a confidential nature should be filled in accordance with the wishes of the heads of the departments.

EDITING THE NEWS.

The confession by the News Tribune that it does not edit the news in its local and telegraphic columns was hardly necessary, because the fact has long been painfully evident, and it has been a constant source of wonder why the management did not buy a large blue pencil and give instructions to use it freely, or else call on the fool-killer to work a needed reform. Of course, the News Tribune has published, as has The Herald, "facts and figures illustrating the opportunities for profit that lay in sugar beet culture and sugar beet factories," and it has made excellent suggestions editorially on the subject, and it is too bad its local columns should be used as they were yesterday, to counteract the effect of the good work done editorially.

It was this incongruous state of affairs that The Herald criticized, and it regrets that the morning paper is grieved because its attention was directed to the crass and incomprehensible course of its local department. The Herald still insists that sentiments detrimental to the interests of the city and calculated to injuriously affect efforts to establish important industries here should be carefully excluded from the newspapers. One serious difficulty in the establishment of the sugar beet industry is to induce farmers to begin raising the beets, and the article published by the News Tribune yesterday was calculated to discourage the planting of any beets in this section. It requires considerable nerve to claim that such a course is beneficial to the creation of such an important industry here.

THE INHERITANCE TAX.

The inheritance tax law which was passed by the New York legislature and has gone to Governor Black for his veto or approval is naturally meeting with bitter criticism from the very rich tax dodgers whom it is intended to reach—or, at least, whose estates will be compelled to contribute to the public treasury a proper share of the amount necessary to meet the state's expenditures. Their newspaper organs throughout the country are now engaged in an endeavor to make it appear that public sentiment is opposed to such a law and that it will work unjustly to one class of the community. The News Tribune, for instance, advanced yesterday the absurd claim that the inheritance law will drive the rich men of the state which enacts it. "This law," said the News Tribune, referring to the New York statute, "has for a logical end the banishment of such men to states that are willing to permit millionaires to exist within their borders without asking them to pay nine-tenths of the state expenses." This is the principal objection that has been raised to the law, so far as The Herald is aware, but it is not a valid objection, because most of the states now have inheritance tax laws, and it will not be long before every state will have them. Laws similar in most respects to the New York statute have been sustained by the courts in Illinois, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina and elsewhere, and it is certain that the next sessions of the legislatures in other states will follow their example. The inheritance tax law has come to stay, and the millionaires and other tax dodgers may just as well accept the inevitable. The more they kick the more stringent the laws are likely to be made.

The inheritance tax is not a novel idea by any means. An exchange points out that in England what are called the "death duties" were remodeled by the 1894 budget and increased, making an estimated advance in revenue from this source of about $20,000,000. Before Aug. 1, 1894, the "death duties" embraced a probate duty, an account duty, an estate duty on personalty and a succession duty. Under the finance act of 1894 the above duties were abolished, and instead two duties were levied—one called the new estate legacy duty and the other the new estate succession duty. The whole estate of the decedent is liable in the first place to an estate duty at rates from £1 on the £100 to £8 on £1,000,000, and afterward to succession duties at rates from 3 to 10 per cent. England also, it must be remembered, has a carefully graduated income tax on all incomes of $1000 or over, so that wealth pays tribute to the government both by the living and by the dead hand. In this country the national income tax law passed under the preceding administration having been pronounced unconstitutional, many of the states have turned to legacy duties or inheritance taxes as the legitimate and equitable method of making wealth bear its due share of governmental burdens.

It may please the News Tribune to refer to the inheritance tax as "freak legislation," but it is a thoroughly sensible proposition, and it has come to stay. All the important countries of Europe employ this method of taxation, and the leading states of the Union have adopted it. Minnesota not long ago adopted a constitutional amendment permitting a progressive inheritance tax, and it is probable that the next legislature will give it effect.

The surveys for laying the pneumatic tubes connecting the New York and Brooklyn postoffices have been completed and the work of putting the big pipes in position on the bridge will begin in a few days. The tubes will be of cast iron, in 20-foot sections and eight and three-sixteenths inches in diameter. The carrier, which will be twenty-four inches long, will make the journey across the river in three and one-half minutes under an air pressure of six pounds to the square inch. One of the tubes will be for dispatching and the other for receiving. A regular stream of carriers may thus be kept going in both directions. Each carrier will hold 600 ordinary letters. It will therefore be possible to dispatch 246,000 letters every hour in each direction. It may not be long before letters are sent from New York to Chicago through pneumatic tubes.

Col. Vassos, the Greek commander in Crete, is said to be of Montenegrin origin. His grandfather offered his sword to Greece in the days of the war of independence, and became one of the chief lieutenants of Karaiskaki, the great Greek leader. He then earned the surname of "the Tenacious," and recents events have proved that the old man's leading quality has been fully inherited by his grandson.

The migration of the French-speaking people of Canada to the New England states has assumed enormous proportions in recent years, and shows no signs of diminution. The French population of the province of Quebec is 1,200,000, while, according to the census of 1890, the number of French Canadians and persons of Canadian extraction in the United States was 840,000.

Professor Falb, of Vienna, predicts that on Nov. 13, 1899, the earth will collide with a comet. According to the professor, the collision is to be followed by an era of free gas in sufficient quantity to suffocate mankind. All of which is mighty interesting, if true. The Austrian prophet is about one year ahead of the political prophets of the United States.

The Moorhead city council has decided not to grant a liquor license during the next eighteen months to any person who does not now hold a license. This gives the saloon keepers now in business a monopoly for that length of time. What the members get in return for this favor is not stated.

An Eastern paper says that fault is now being found with the literary style of the Greater New York charter, from which we infer that the News Tribune's authority on "English as she is spoke" has a twin brother in Gotham.

HOELMAN HANGED.

Slayer of Several Women Executed in Illinois.

Paxton, Ill., May 14.—Fred Hoelman, alias Hartman, was hanged in the jail in this city in the presence of about fifty witnesses. Professor Blome, one of his spiritual advisers, read on behalf of Hoelman, a statement from the scaffold declaring his innocence and asking that his body be sent to Grand Haven, Mich., and placed beside that of his wife and child.

Hoelman was hung for killing Mrs. Welbke Geddes, having been convicted on circumstantial evidence. Mrs. Geddes' body was found with a cord around her neck and the other end of the cord fastened to a door knob. He is believed to have killed several other women in this part of the state in the same way, but escaped suspicion and arrest, the coroner's juries rendering verdicts of suicide.

THIEVES CAUGHT.

Knoxville Authorities Make a Great Haul.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 14.—Sheriff Donner and his deputies last night arrested a woman and seven men charged with burglary and concealing stolen goods which unearthed the greatest sensation this city has known for months. A year past robberies have occurred in and around this city and thousands of dollars' worth of goods and jewelry were never recovered.

Alf Eastley and his wife, colored, are the principals arrested. They own a three-story brick house wherein more than $10,000 worth of jewelry and goods were recovered by the officers. They had twenty men on a salary paid to steal for them. Fifty-five gold watches were found in one sack. When the officers entered Eastley showed fight and when overpowered three fine pistols were taken off his person. The officers caught on by arresting one of the thieves who squealed.

Still Laboring With It.

City Attorney Richards was still laboring with the city engineer question this morning. Attorneys for Mr. Reed submitted some points to the city attorney yesterday afternoon, and the latter this morning invited Mr. Patton to have his attorneys do the same if he wished. The invitation will probably be accepted.

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

At Green, twelve miles west of Fargo, there was last winter a snow bank in a tree claim, one-half mile long. During the winter this snow bank was thirty feet deep. What there is left of it is now solid ice, and it will probably not melt away before July. It has broken the trees down badly. The trees were thirty or more feet high.

A box car on the Milwaukee road was broken into at Fargo and 5000 cigars stolen. The police were notified and secured nearly all. The cigars were found in the second-hand store of Solomon Phillips.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Richard and Guy Flick and John Burns were arrested by an officer of the secret service of the United States, charged with multilating United States gold coins at Deadwood. For the past month this city has been flooded with lightweight gold coins, some of the $20 gold coins being short from $3 to $5. The work was dixed upon the parties named beyond a doubt. They used a bath of muriatic acid. The Flicks are young men well connected, one of them, Richard, having graduated but a short time since from the school of mines at Rapid City and holds an assayer's certificate from that institution. Burns was the capitalist of the trio.

Dr. DeBow, alias McAllister, has furnished a sensation for the little town of Gayville, in Yankton county. It seems that the doctor had no diploma, and while at Galveston, Tex., he appropriated one belonging to a Dr. McAllister of that city and came north. Where he spent the time intervening between the time he left Texas and the date of his arrival in South Dakota nobody seems to know, but in 1891 a tall, elegantly dressed man drove a spanking black team into the village of Hartford and inquired if there was an opening for another physician in the town. Being encouraged, he unhitched and opened an office. He called himself Dr. McAllister. He was popular from the start and soon had a profitable practice. He made the acquaintance of a farmer's daughter and married her. In 1893 he opened a drug store and not long afterwards he established a bank. Apparently he was prosperous, but in 1894 the bank failed, and in a small way the failure was most disastrous to the community. The doctor cleared out, abandoning his wife, and she has not heard of him since. In August, 1895, the same distinguished individual driving a black team attached to two buggies, arrived at the village of Revillo. He had heard that Revillo needed a doctor and he opened an office. He made the acquaintance of a merchant's daughter, and in the spring of 1896 he eloped with her and soon after appeared at Gayville, where he again opened an office and made money. The real Dr. McAllister, of Galveston, had in the meantime instituted a search for his stolen diploma, and one day recently, while DeBow was away from home, his house was entered and the diploma was removed. Yesterday Hartford parties seized DeBow's team, and officers were looking for his return home. He gave them the slip and left the village.

A REASON SUGGESTED.

Some Think Duluth May Have a Summer Resort.

The board of public works this morning took steps in the matter of altering the Swan lake road to avoid the steep grades of the Martin and Thompson hills, by directing a survey as far as the city limits of the proposed new route. Mr. Seville, in his remarks to the council Monday evening in behalf of the Canosia Lake Improvement company, urging the improvement, alluded to the benefits that would accrue to the hewers of wood and raisers of produce, but, it is said, there is another end in view, aside from providing a comparatively easy road to town for teams.

The proposed alteration is, it is believed by many, but the first step toward the establishment at Canosia and Grand lakes of pleasure resorts, to and from which people will be swiftly and comfortably carried in the electric cars of the Duluth Street Railway company. In support of this theory, it is pointed out that the new trunk road is to be graded and improved wide enough between Duluth and the lakes to permit of the laying of a track. The sanguine point to a time in the not distant future when Duluth will have a Lake Harriet of her own. Grand lake, near Canosia, is said to be one of the prettiest bodies of water in Minnesota. The distance from Duluth is about eighteen miles.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—Default has been made in the payment of the sum of seventy-two thousand seven hundred one and 74-100 dollars ($72,701.74) principal and interest, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice, upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Roger S. Munger and Olive Munger, his wife, mortgagers, to The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, mortgagee, bearing date the first day of October, A. D. 1886, and with a power of sale therein contained duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on October 2nd, A. D. 1886, at 2 o'clock p. m. in Book 52 of mortgages on page 271; and

Whereas said mortgagors failed to pay the taxes against said property as provided in said mortgage, and the undersigned on May 12th, 1896, paid delinquent taxes with penalties, interest and costs on the same on the property amounting in all to the sum of three thousand seven hundred ninety-eight and 70-100 dollars ($3798.70), being for the years 1895, 1894 and 1885; and

Whereas said mortgagors made default in paying assessments against said property which had become delinquent and were paid by the undersigned on May 12th, 1896, amounting in all, with penalties, interest and costs, to three thousand four hundred thirty-two and 65-100 dollars ($3432.65). No part of said taxes and assessments has been repaid to the undersigned, and for which the undersigned claims and has a lien against said premises and by virtue of the terms of said mortgage, with interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum since May 12th, 1897.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Blocks numbered forty-eight (48) and forty-nine (49), of Third Division of Duluth, according to the recorded plat thereof on file in the office of the register of deeds for said county with the hereditaments and appurtenances. Said lands are located in St. Louis County, Minnesota. Said sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County at the front door of the county court house, in the city of Duluth, county and state aforesaid, on the 26th day of June, 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash to pay said principal debt and interest, and taxes and assessments, amounting in all to the sum of seventy-nine thousand nine hundred thirty-three and 09-100 dollars ($79,933.09) and interest and two hundred dollars ($200) attorneys' fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of the semi-annual installments of interest which became due on the first day of June, 1896, and the first day of December, 1896, each being for the sum of twelve hundred dollars ($1200.00) which default has continued to the date of this notice, upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Charles W. Culver (unmarried) and Frank E. Culver (unmarried), mortgagors, to The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, mortgagee, bearing date the first day of December, A. D. 1892, and with a power of sale therein contained duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 13th day of December, A. D. 1892, at 9:30 o'clock a. m. in Book 99 of mortgages, on page 52; and

Whereas said mortgagors made default in paying taxes on the mortgaged premises for the years 1892, 1893, 1894 and 1895 and also made default in paying special assessments against the property, payment of which was provided in said mortgage; and the undersigned on May 7th, 1896, paid said taxes and assessments which had become delinquent on the mortgaged premises with penalties, costs and interest amounting to the sum of four thousand two hundred eleven and 89-100 dollars ($4211.89), no part of which has been repaid to the mortgagee, and for which under the terms of the mortgage, the mortgagee claims and has a lien against the mortgaged premises with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from said 7th day of May, 1896; and

Whereas the mortgagors made default in paying insurance premium to insure the buildings located upon the mortgaged property, and the undersigned paid on the 4th day of May, 1896, for premium three hundred twenty-seven and 38-100 dollars ($327.38), for policies of insurance on the buildings located upon the mortgaged premises; and the undersigned mortgagee has and claims under the terms of the mortgage, a lien against the mortgaged premises for said premium so paid, with interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from date of payment. No part of said premium so paid has been repaid to the mortgagee.

More than ten days have elapsed since the defaults made in the payment of said installment of interest, and the said The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company has duly elected and does hereby elect to declare the whole principal sum of said mortgage due and payable at the date of this notice under the terms and conditions of said mortgage, and the power of sale therein contained; and

Whereas there is actually due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice, for principal on said mortgage debt and interest, forty-three thousand five hundred forty-five and 66-100 dollars ($43,545.66) and for taxes and assessments and penalties, costs and interest thereon paid as above stated, the sum of four thousand two hundred eleven and 89-100 dollars ($4211.89) and for insurance premium paid as above stated, the sum of three hundred twenty-seven and 38-100 dollars ($327.38), making in all the sum of forty-eight thousand eighty-four and 93-100 dollars ($48,084.93). No action or proceeding has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Therefore, notice is hereby given, that under the power of sale in said mortgage contained and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot numbered thirty-seven (37), East First street, Duluth Proper, First Division; and the north half of lot numbered two hundred eighty-five (285); and the whole of lots two hundred eighty-seven (287), two hundred eighty-nine (289), two hundred ninety-one (291), two hundred ninety-three (293), two hundred ninety-five (295), two hundred ninety-seven (297) and two hundred ninety-nine (299), on Minnesota avenue, Upper Duluth, according to the plats thereof of record in the office of the register of deeds of said county with the hereditaments and appurtenances, all of said lands being in St. Louis County, Minnesota. Said sale will be made by the sheriff of St. Louis County, at the front door of the county court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the 26th day of June, A. D. 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt of forty-eight thousand eighty-four and 93-100 dollars ($48,084.93) and interest thereon and two hundred dollars ($200) attorneys' fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

A CHANGE NEEDED.

The Evils of Protracted National Elections Considered.

To the Editor of The Herald.

Perhaps one of the greatest drawbacks in our federal election system is the fact that such a long interregnum prevails between the national conventions, usually held in June or July of presidential and congressional years, the November elections and the final installation March 4 following of the new administration; and worse than all, that unless an extra session of congress is convened (which seldom is the case), no business can be transacted by the new congress until the following December at the earliest; then months and months expire before any new measures become laws. Look at the long lapse of time from June or July of one year to the December of the following year, a period of from seventeen to eighteen months of practical suspense, which affects the whole affairs of the country, besides that of our relations with other nations.

Practically, therefore, every four years we have a waiting period of eighteen months, anticipating possible radical changes which may vitally affect the common interests of the country. Has not this been our experience? Then why should we be subjected to this long-continued disturbance of public confidence? Why not hold our conventions, say, in January, and get rid of election before March, then have the newly constituted government take office and go into active session without any further delay? This action may be new and contradictory to the constitution and precedent, but if so, is there any good reason why it should not be changed, since its fallacy is apparent? If this position is not logically correct, why should it be right for municipal bodies to hold their elections, say, in February and proceed to business in the first part of March? It would surely seem ridiculous for the latter bodies to wait for a year and a half after invested with power before they could or would proceed to the administration of public affairs; then why should the business of the federal government be conducted on such radically different lines?

It is a notorious fact that the dying session of congress accomplishes, as a rule, very little or no business, especially if an entirely new political party is about to hold sway; it usually leaves a large amount of important and unfinished business for a new administration to take up at a year later, much to the hindrance of the general interests of the country, procrastination being the thief of time. We certainly stand alone among the civilized nations in adopting such a manifestly unbusiness formula. There are no doubt many who are so hide-bound to the constitution that it would be difficult to make the changes, and it is to our national detriment, possibly, that we are laboring under a written constitution of 100 years ago, which is not elastic, and necessitates so much red tape and time to remodel that almost generations suffer before a needed change is instituted.

Some of these views may be in opposition to a large number of opinions, but the writer believes that they still express the ideas of vast masses of the people if they only chose to come forward.

SMALLEY CONCERT COMPANY.

Tonight the Smalley Grand Concert company will appear at the First Methodist church. The ladies' quartet is claimed to be the finest before the public. The Elgin News said of them:

"Twelve numbers were amplified into many more, as with scarcely an exception each artist was recalled. In the quartet singing and solos the young ladies disclosed voices of thorough cultivation and much sweetness; especially was that of Miss Sprague remarkable for its range and volume. Such an entertainment, enjoyable from beginning to close, leaves pleasant memories that will be of value should the company again visit Elgin."

Miss Maud V. Caruthers, elocutionist, is with the quartet. The Chilton, Wis., Times said of her:

"The reader, Miss Maud Caruthers, has a beautiful face and a charming sweet voice, both of which are all emotion when she is reciting. She has not the stiff and studied gesture of the professional, but a personality of delineation and grace which is truly captivating."

HEINRICH MEYN.

Tomorrow morning the subscribers to the Heinrich Meyn concert will have an opportunity to select their seats. There are enough of these to give a large audience and the great singer is sure to have a fine reception. The concert will be given next Thursday evening. The New York Musical Courier said of Heinrich Meyn:

"Mr. Meyn is a baritone of the first rank, well known in New York for his able and musicianly work with the leading orchestral and choral societies, as also for much delightful lyric work in the fashionable social world. The voice of Heinrich Meyn is of a deliciously mellow and vibrant quality, absolutely even throughout its wide range and as brimful of pathos as it is of convincing dramatic strength."

NO DIVORCE GRANTED.

Decision in the Cormany Case at Minneapolis.

M. L. Cormany, formerly of Duluth, recently began suit at Minneapolis to obtain a divorce from his second wife. She filed a cross suit, but neither secured a decision. The Minneapolis Tribune says:

"Judge Elliott handed down his decision in the Cormany divorce case yesterday, and the principals to the action are no better off now than they were before their troubles had been aired in public. The court finds, as matters of fact, that the allegations contained in the complaint of the plaintiff are not sustained by the evidence, and also that the defendant has failed to prove the charges contained in her cross bill. As a conclusion of law, he holds that neither of the two are entitled to a divorce.

"This is the case which attracted so much attention at the time of its trial a few weeks ago, through the character of the testimony. The evidence was of such a character as to compel the matter to be considered behind closed doors, and at one time, when certain attorneys applied for admission, they were informed by the court that he considered it part of his duty to protect the moral character of the bar so far as he could, and for that reason he did not think they ought to be admitted. This was, perhaps, drawing it rather strong, but the evidence was altogether too racy for publication in the papers."

Observing Memorial Day.

County Superintendent Stultz has received a circular from W. W. Pendergast, state superintendent of public instruction, giving the copy of a letter received from the headquarters of the Grand Army of the Republic of Minnesota. This letter requests the state superintendent to ask all county superintendents to urge teachers to hold Memorial day exercises at the regular sessions of the schools preceding Memorial day. In order that the children may learn the lesson of patriotism. The state superintendent, in transmitting the letter, says his department is in full accord with the sentiments expressed, and trusts that the superintendents will do all they can to carry out the suggestions.

SEVERE

James Walsh and James McGurk Find Their Fun Quite Expensive.

One Sentenced For Eighteen Months and the Other For Sixty Days.

Both Finally Entered Pleas of Guilty---United States Court Adjourns.

The two men who fell into Uncle Sam's clutches yesterday through having caused three Indian girls to become intoxicated have probably concluded by this time that their trick was not so very smart after all. James Walsh was arrested yesterday afternoon, as was reported in The Herald. Later in the day the other man was arrested. He proved to be James McGurk. Both men were charged with giving whisky to Indians and at first pleaded not guilty. Walsh later changed his plea to guilty. He was the more guilty man of the two and Judge Lochren gave him a severe sentence—eighteen months in the penitentiary.

McGurk was badly broken up over the affair and at first protested his innocence. Finally, just before Judge Lochren was about to leave, McGurk changed his plea. District Attorney Stringer, after a talk with the prisoner, concluded that he was less culpable that Walsh and interceded for him. Judge Lochren sentenced him to sixty days in jail.

The session of the court was concluded and adjourned last evening. Robert Irwin charged with writing an obscene letter was discharged. John Cameron and Knute Akestad were charged with violating the internal revenue laws and pleaded not guilty. Bail was fixed at $1000 each. Akestad secured boudsmen but Cameron did not. J. L. Coffee, charged with selling liquor to Indians, failed to give a $200 bond. Paul Verbam pleaded not guilty to selling liquor without a license and furnished bail.

In the case of C. E. Dickerman et al. vs. J. W. Bull et al., Judge Lochren denied a motion to strike out certain parts of the complaint.

Judge Lochren left last evening for St. Paul, and other officers of the court departed also.

IN TROUBLE AGAIN.

A Year in Prison Did Kennedy No Good.

De Ward Kennedy was arrested in Superior last evening by Detective Donovan for passing two checks to which the name of Charles L. Rebel, superintendent of the Rebel, had been forged. Kennedy admits his guilty. The checks were drawn on the American Exchange bank, were for $14.85 each, and were dated May 10, 1897. They were passed on Joseph Moore and P. Mussolli, candy and cigar dealers. Kennedy has served a 1-year term at Stillwater for forgery, of which crime he was convicted in the fall of 1895. After his release he was befriended by Mr. Rebel, who got him work and tried to keep him straight. His appetite for liquor was was too much for him, however. He says he committed the forgery for which he is now under arrest in order to get money for drink.

July Fourth Celebration.

The members of the patriotic society, Sons of the American Revolution, are bestirring themselves over a public celebration of national independence next Fourth of July. A meeting will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the parlor of the Spalding hotel to consider the matter and to take suitable action. The exercises last year in the High School hall were so successful that the society hope to evoke a still larger interest this year. Members of the kindred organizations, Sons of the Revolution, Daughters of the American Revolution, Society of Colonial Wars, etc., are co-operating in the movement, and all their members are invited to the conference, together with such persons as are eligible to membership, but have not yet taken out their papers.

A Hibbing Row.

John L. Steele was brought down from Hibbing yesterday to await the action of the grand jury on the charge of assaulting one Dominic Bretlo. He is accused of assaulting the complaining witness in a saloon. CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.

A Pleasant, Simple, but Safe and Effectual Cure for It.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs, and difficult breathing; headaches, feeble appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue, and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlandson, the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet composed of diastase, aseptic pepsin, a little nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and not being a patent medicine can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. N. J. Booher, of 2710 Dearborn street, Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition, resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passes backward into the throat, reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of the stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of the stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

Send for little book, mailed free, on stomach troubles, by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores.

THE BORNEMANNS.

Text of the Indictment Found Against Them.

As stated in The Herald last evening, Charles and Eureka Bornemann, the father and stepmother of last week's girl suicide, were arrested yesterday afternoon and arraigned upon a charge of manslaughter in the second degree. When they were arrested by Under Sheriff Melning and Deputy Bates the Bornemanns betrayed considerable agitation, and said that they had been in a tense nervous condition ever since the suicide. The bail was fixed at $1000 and the defendants were given until today to plead to the charge against them. They did not secure bail until last night at 7:30, when Theodore Frerker, of the California Wine house, and H. W. Hock, of the Duluth Brewing and Malting company, went on their bonds. The indictment against them is as follows:

"Charles Bornemann and Eureka Bornemann are accused by the grand jury of the county of St. Louis, by this indictment, of the crime of manslaughter in the second degree, committed as follows: The said Charles Bornemann and Eureka Bornemann, on the 7th day of May, A. D. 1897, at the city of Duluth, in the said county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, wilfully, wrongfully and feloniously inflicted corporal punishment on a child, to-wit, Nora Bornemann, the 13-year-old daughter of the said Charles Bornemann and step-daughter of the said Eureka Bornemann, by then and there striking and beating the said Nora Bornemann on the head and body with a whip rope, strap and other cruel and harsh instruments unknown to the grand jury, in the hands of the said Charles Bornemann and the said Eureka Bornemann, and they, the said Charles Bornemann and Eureka Bornemann, while whipping the said Nora Bornemann as aforesaid, threatened to kill her, and did then and there put the said Nora Bornemann in deadly fear and caused her to become crazed and overcome in mind and body, until she, the said Nora Bornemann, at the time and place aforesaid, in her desperation and despair, then and there occasioned only by the said violent and inhuman treatment and the said threatening to cause her great bodily injury and to take her life, in order to avoid the said punishment, ran from home and threw herself into Lake Superior at the foot of Twenty-first avenue east, city of Duluth aforesaid, thereby causing her death by drowning.

"Contrary to the form and statute in such case made and provided and against the peace and dignity of the state of Minnesota."

BOAT CLUB PLANS.

Members Talk Over Rowing and Agree to Work.

A number of the young men of the Duluth Boat club met at Sheriff Sargent's residence last night to talk over the boating season, and the result of the discussion was the resolve to make the season a lively one. A number of interesting events were entered. Those who will row this year expect to get down to work next week in the working boats, and from that time forward they will devote all the time possible to getting in shape for the Minnetonka races. Ed Mahoney will give as much time as he can spare from his duties as deputy sheriff to training the oarsmen, and Dr. Lyman will give them the benefit of his experience.

The shells will be put into the water next week, having been cleaned up and prepared for a coat of varnish. The first rowing will be done Wednesday evening. The meeting discussed the plan of holding local regattas every month, to which the Superior club will be invited. They also intend to have an eight-oared race later in the season. Those present pledged themselves to do all the work possible in the boats.

THE ELKS' SESSION.

The Closing Entertainment of the Season.

The "Best People on Earth" gave the last of their series of social sessions in the lodge room in the King block last night, before the regular season of rest taken by all Elkdom during the summer months. The attendance of members and visitors was unusually large even for an Elk event, and the entertainment and enjoyment of those who participated was in keeping with the numbers. Exalted Ruler G. C. Gilbert, after the conclusion of the regular lodge session, had the doors of the hall thrown open to the guests and turned the meeting over to Frank B. Ross, who had been selected by the committee to preside over the evening's festivities.

Everybody was put in excellent humor by the happy remarks made by Mr. Ross as he assumed the autocratic powers vested in him. At the conclusion of his remarks he named James Sargent and Dick Richards as the officers of the occasion, and they performed their duties well, attired in regulation police uniforms, presenting an appearance that would ensure them positions on the force had they come under the observation of Chief Hansen.

A musical, literary and general program of rare excellence was rendered, interspersed with diversions furnished by the chairman and his able-bodied assistants, which furnished fun fast and furious for nearly three hours. Those who participated were Jack Noyes, instrumental solo; Ed Prophet, vocal solo; Mr. Reinhart, whistling solo with banjo accompaniment; P. Doran and Ed Prophet, duet; Frank Taylor, sleight of hand performance; Robert Cox, humorous recitation and solo; Mr. Walsh, piano solo; A. Pfiger, in recitation and song; Professor Robertson's string band, musical selections.

At the conclusion and before the final chorus, "Auld Lang Syne," with which all Elk social sessions are terminated, Joseph Van Rosencrance responded to the toast, "Our Visitors," in a felicitous vein, in which he spoke appreciatively of the open-handed hospitality of the Elks. Refreshments were served at 11 o'clock.

During June, July, August and September the Elk lodges throughout the country hold but one session a month.

CLOUGH CUT IT SHORT.

Warrant For the Removal of Nisbett Revoked.

A dispatch to The Herald yesterday contained a brief announcement that Governor Clough had revoked his warrant granting a requisition from the governor of Illinois for the extradition of W. P. Nisbett, Jr., of Grand Rapids, to Chicago. The St. Paul Dispatch gives the following account of the hearing before the governor:

"Attorney Davis, of Duluth, one of those appearing for E. F. Norris and Allister, the Chicago firm which brought the action, attempted to argue that the governor had no power to revoke the writ. The governor promptly told him that writs of this kind had been repeatedly revoked in this state, and, not more than three months ago, one had been revoked by the governor of Illinois in the Haney case. The governor also gave the parties to understand that, inasmuch as he had already heard the case of the prosecution, the defense had the floor.

"Attorney Chadbourne, of Chicago, charged Attorney Price, for Nisbett, with making false statements, and Price and E. M. Card, who were associated with him, retaliated with charges that the affidavit of Chadbourne and Allister, on which the indictment had been secured, and the requisition first issued, was false.

"The prosecution claimed that on July 14, 1896, Nisbett gave them a statement showing that he had someting like $7200 in property, whereas in reality he had nothing like it. They pointed out several items which they said were altogether too large, and a statement showing that there was a mortgage of $1000 on Nisbett's real estate instead of $400, as contained in his statement. Then the defense came in and showed that this statement was one made in 1894 and not in 1896, and that the date had been set forward to 1896 without Nisbett's consent. Then it was shown that after July 14, 1896, when it was claimed tha Nisbett became a fugitive from justice, this firm had continued to sell him goods and that he had paid them several sums of money. The last bill of goods sold him was March 19 of this year.

"The evidence showed plainly that the whole prosecution was merely a scheme to get Nisbett into Chicago where they could haul him up and make him pay the $2000 the firm claims he is owing it on this account or give bonds for its payment. They had also sent their agents to Nisbett's father and mother in Michigan to induce them to settle it.

"Governor Clough cut the controversy short by saying that he did not care to hear any more and that the requisition was revoked. The announcement was made so suddenly and with such force that it nearly knocked the Chicago people off their feet.

"Afterwards W. P. Nisbett, Sr., of Michigan, told the Chicago parties that he considered this proceeding a cowardly and contemptible piece of business. Mr. Allister replied that they would follow the matter to the end."

DOCTORS' BANQUET.

Annual Spread of the County Medical Society.

The St. Louis County Medical society held its eleventh annual banquet and business meeting at the Spalding last night. The banquet was spread in the ordinary of the hotel, and thirty-one guests partook of its delights. Following the elaborate menu, a number of entertaining toasts were responded to, with Dr. Boyer as toastmaster. The toasts were as follows: "Our Absent Members," Dr. Weston; "In the Public Eye," Dr. Homer Collins; "The Lodge Doctor," Dr. Salter; "Athletics and the Profession," Dr. Lyman; "The Trained Nurse," Dr. McComb; "The Arduous Duties of the Censorship," Dr. Burnside; "Hard Times," Dr. Speier; "The Model Office," Dr. Ritchie; "The Ladies," Dr. Walker; "The Retiring President," Dr. Robinson.

After the banquet a business meeting was held in one of the parlors, the reports showing a successful year and a large increase in membership. Dr. Boyer, the retiring president, was complimented on his manner of conducting his duties. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Dr. Spier, president; Dr. Burnside, first vice president; Dr. Eklund, second vice president; Dr. Wilson, secretary; Dr. McCormick, treasurer. The next meeting will be held the second Thursday in June, and Dr. Fullerton will read a paper on "Contract Practice."

CHILTON RETURNS.

Finished His Long Trip of Inspecting Consulates.

San Francisco, May 14.—Robert S. Chilton, of Washington, chief of the consular bureau of the department of state, is here. He has just made a tour of inspection of the American consulates in Europe and the Orient and is now on his way back to Washinton, after an absence of eight months. Last evening Mr. Chilton said that the consulates like every other federal office, required inspection at stated intervals, but for some reason che inspection he is now making is the first general inspection that has been made in twenty years.

"The purposes of such an inspection trip as I have been making," he said, "is easily explained. The state department wants to know how well or how poorly the government is represented in the various consulates elsewhere consulates are maintained, and how the business of each office is conducted. At the same time it is my province to make suggestions or recommendations in respect to the establishment of new consulates where they are needed and the abolition of existing consulates where they are not needed.

"I left Washington in September last and have been on the go ever since. I visited all the American consulates in England, Scotland, Ireland, France, Belgium, Germany, Italy and throughout Europe generally. Then I proceeded to the Orient. The result of my labors is, of course, a matter that concerns only the state department and my report will be of a confidential nature. I can only say that I found our government, on the whole, very well represented." Mr. Chilton will leave today for Washington.

We would rather be an HONEST FOOL, sticking to honesty as the best policy, than to be considered wise in doing wrong. Oftentimes people have the wrong idea about the right man. Corpulent men with small brains are sometimes considered bigger and wiser than smaller men with large brains. That idea is foolish. Some people think enforcement of the laws is detrimental to communities. What shall we do—change laws or the people? DEFAULT HAS BEEN MADE IN THE conditions of a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Thomas Benton and Maggie Benton, his wife, mortgagors, to The Union Building and Loan Association, mortgagee, bearing date February 3rd, 1894, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on February 6th, 1894, at 8:30 o'clock p. m., in Book 60 of mortgages, page 251; which default consists in the non-payment of monthly interest and premium on the principal sum of said mortgage for more than a space of six months after the same has become due.

And whereas the four shares of stock described in said mortgage have been sold for the non-payment of dues.

And whereas, said mortgagors made default in paying insurance premium for insurance upon the buildings upon said premises, and the mortgagee paid six dollars ($6.00) on April 30th, 1897, for insurance premium, which the mortgagee had the right to do under the terms of the mortgage, and said amount is to become a part of the mortgage debt and be secured by said mortgage.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, will, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt of seven hundred seventy-three and 50-100 dollars ($773.50) and six dollars ($6.00) for insurance premium, and fifty dollars ($50.00) attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 26th day of June, 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

The premises described in and covered by said mortgage and which will be sold as aforesaid are situated in St. Louis County, Minnesota, and described as follows, to-wit:

The easterly twenty-five (25) feet of lot fifteen (15), in block fifty-five (55), Endion Division of Duluth, being a strip of ground of uniform width of twenty-five (25) feet off the easterly part of said lot and of the full depth of said lot, all according to the recorded plat of said division.

INQUIRY

Present Grand Jury Is Said to Be Doing Some Investigating.

Was Expected to Adjourn But Is Looking Into Public Matters.

Jacob Schuhe, the Forger, Pleaded Guilty But Has Reconsidered.

The grand jury having disposed of most of the ordinary criminal business placed before it, apparently has no idea of stopping at that. In fact, it is said that it will follow the precedent fixed by the January and March grand juries and indulge in an investigation of public matters. This explains why the grand jury did not adjourn when it was expected to, and why so great an uncertainty prevails as to when it will adjourn. County Attorney Arbury, when asked this morning when the jury was likely to adjourn, laughed in a sort of hopeless manner, and said that he had "hoped that it would be through today."

Yesterday afternoon Mayor Truelsen, City Treasurer Voss, a jeweler and a second hand dealer were before the jury. The latter informed the mayor that a number of pawnbrokers were running without paying the customary license fee of $500, and suggested that the ordinance relating to pawnbrokers be enforced. This morning Willis J. Holmes and County Commissioner John Williams were before the jury, and while it could not be learned for what purpose they were called, their subpoenaes said that they were summoned to give evidence in an "investigation."

CHANGED HIS MIND.

Jacob Schuhe Pleaded Guilty But Takes it Back.

Jacob Schuhe, the muchlindicted gentleman against whom the grand jury yesterday returned four bills for forgery and one for grand larceny in the second degree, appeared before Judge Moer this morning and pleaded guilty to all four indictments. Subsequently an attorney got hold of him and induced him to repent, and he was to return into court this afternoon to persuade Judge Moer that he did not know what he was doing when he pleaded guilty, and that he should be allowed to withdraw his pleas of guilty and substitute pleas of not guilty.

Charles Silverthorne, who was accused of grand larceny in the second degree, because he stole an overcoat and a pair of gloves, pleaded guilty. John Conway, accused of assault with a whisky bottle, will plead tomorrow.

Mrs. McGindley Presented With a Costly Jewel.

Litchfield, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The grand chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, in session here today, elected Mrs. Flora Pattee, of Minneapolis, grand worthy matron for the state of Minnesota; Mrs. Mary L. McGindley, of Duluth, having declined re-election. W. B. Patton, of Duluth, was elected grand patron. Mrs. McGindley, the retiring grand matron, was presented by the chapter with a very costly jewel in recognition of her services to the order throughout the state during the year.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS.

Chicago Journal: The Duluth Herald refers to a recent utterance of this paper on the subject of banking, in which it was urged that the banking laws of the state should be so amended as to provide for more frequent inspection of banks, and states that the Journal's proposed remedy is inadquate. What the people want, declares the Duluth editor, is a system of postoffice savings banks.

The Journal was looking to an immediate relief. The postal savings bank system might be a good thing, but there is no hope of inaugurating it during the present session of the Illinois legislature, and added safeguards against dishonest and incapable bankers are needed now. * * * The postal savings bank, however, is a feasible thing, and many believe would be highly beneficial. Its advocates point to its good results in European countries and urge that it be adopted here. They urge that postoffice banks conducted by the postal department would give absolute security for small savings. Wanamaker, while postmaster general, estimated that there were 12,000 large depositors in this country that would be glad to avail themselves of postal banks, and that deposits would soon reach the enormous total of $500,000,000.

There is certainly much to be said for such a system. What the people want is security. They want to know that when they put by their savings they won't go to pay for the expensive pleasure of some rascal masquerading as a banker. Security is more attractive than interest. The government could well afford to pay interest, however, at some such rate as 2 per cent for the use of the money, and because the frugality and economy that would be developed would be of inestimable value to society. The props would have a large "stake" in the government. Anarchists would find it hard work to incite people to attack a bank in which their savings were. Postoffice banks would attract small deposits, such as the large institutions don't care to bother with. Every man in reach of a postoffice would be in reach of a bank, no matter how remote the locality in which he lived. Myriads of small sums now scattered through the country, hiding in pocket corners, doing no productive work as money, and acting only as temptations to small extravagances, would be brought together into aggregations large enough to be productive in various ways. The rate of interest would be lowered. A checking system of great convenience could be made a feature, as has been done in Austria, with checks payable anywhere in the country. The wildcat bank that loans to wildcat speculators, who live by juggling the prices of the necessities of life, would probably have to quit business, and a reform in commerce would be effected.

All these benefits would probably follow from postoffice savings banks, but the people of Illinois can't wait for them. They want protection for the money they have in bank now and a measurably safe place to put what they expect to make for the next few years. The first thing to do is to reform the existing banking laws.

Interesting Admission From Thomas Bardon of Ashland.

Thomas Bardon, of Ashland, one of the principal stockholders of the Pioneer mine at Ely, arrived in Duluth today. To a reporter for The Evening Herald he said that he hoped the work of mining would be resumed at the Pioneer within a short time. Just as soon as a sale of ore is effected he said the men would again be set to work and ore loaded direct on the cars instead of taking it from the stockpiles. This will be done to save a second handling of the ore.

Mr. Bardon was asked if his company had been granted any reduction in freight rates as had been rumored in iron ore circles, and he replied that he had every assurance that it would receive fair treatment. When asked if he considered $1 a ton from Ely fair treatment he replied that he did not care to go into details. Continuing, however, he said that a reduction of freight rates was inevitable. Great cuts had been made on the other ranges and they must eventually come down on the Minnesota ranges. Originally rates on the Michigan ranges were 90 cents a ton and now they were down to 45.

Mr. Bardon admitted that it might yet be necessary for the independent mine owners to construct a railroad of their own, and said that it had been seriously talked of, although plans had not yet assumed definite shape.

"Who will construct this line?" said Mr. Bardon. "Why, Franklin Rockefeller, A. M. Miller and ourselves have talked about it, and may soon find it necessary to do it. The road would make enough to pay for its building in two or three years, and then we could get as low rates as any one could wish."

The three parties mentioned by Mr. Bardon own mining properties at Ely, that are looked upon as among the very best properties on the range. Franklin Rockefeller's mine is now, like the Pioneer, closed down, but A. M. Miller's property is being developed, he evidently not feeling the least bit discouraged because of the demoralized condition of the iron ore market. Mr. Bardon said that a road that would give the ore mined on these properties an outlet could be built at a remarkably low cost. It has been estimated by experienced railroad contractors that a road can be constructed that would answer every purpose at a cost of not to exceed $60,000, which sum could be raised among the three parties mentioned by Mr. Bardon without making it necessary to borrow a dollar. Enough ore is in sight in the Pioneer mine alone to pay for the road ten times over on a basis of 50 cents a ton, one half the present freight rate.

VERDICT RETURNED.

An Award For Personal Injuries Given Today.

The first personal injury verdict of the term was returned in Judge Cant's room this morning, when the jury in the case of Nels Hall, as administrator for the testate of Oscar C. Hagan against the Duluth Street Railway company returned a verdict of $400 for the plaintiff. The suit was to recover $5000 for the death of the intestate, a 2-year-old child, who was killed by a street car. The case was given to the jury last night.

This morning Judge Cant took up the case of Isaac Hill against Winston Bros. for a second trial. The plaintiff was working as a laborer for the defendants on the stripping of the Auburn mine, near Virginia, a year ago last November. He was working in a cut shoveling dirt into a car, when he was caught by a cave-in and his leg broken. Subsequently the limb was amputated and its place is now occupied by a peg. For the loss of the member Hill only asks $30,000. The case was tried at the January term by a struck jury. The trial took six days and the jury, after hanging out a day and two nights, agreed to disagree. The defense is contributory negligence.

Yesterday afternoon Judge Ensign granted the defendants' motion to direct a verdict in its favor in the case of Charles F. Wentz against the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. The next case taken up was that of the Duluth Title Insurance company against A. L. Ordean, to annul the foreclosure of a chattel mortgage upon the plaintiff's abstract records on the ground that the amount of interest due was tendered before the foreclosure took place. The case was still on trial today, and at noon the attorneys were arguing a motion to direct a verdict for the defendant.

In the appeals from the awards of commissioners in condemnation of lands used by the city for a pumphouse and reservoir site at Thirty-sixth avenue east the jury yesterday afternoon returned verdicts for the appellants amounting to $440. This morning Judge Moer was hearing the case of Edward Nannes against Christ Schoenleber, to decide the ownership of a pop plant alleged to be worth $225.

SHE KNEW.

San Francisco Post: "Now, children," said the school teacher, "you have just read the story about the little bird that fell in a spring and was drowned. Who can tell me what a spring is?"

Several bright little boys and girls held up their hands, and one was asked for her answer.

"It comes before the Fourth of July," she said.

"Oh, no, I do not mean the season," explained the teacher. "I mean the spring that the little bird was drowned in."

A little girl waved her hand frantically.

"Well, you may answer," said the teacher.

"A spring is water coming up out of the ground with a health resort built up around it."

THE TARIFF BILL.

Sioux City Tribune (Dem.): The proposed tax on beer is less than the tax levied upon tea. The senators who have proposed this beer tax were not so afraid of the beer habit as of the tea habit. Beer drinkers differ from tea drinkers in that they can vote.

St. Louis Republic (Rep.): If the shifting of some of the burdens to beer and tobacco means anything, it merely means that the Republicans have learned from experience that protective tariffs cannot be depended upon to raise revenue. Their purpose is prohibitive. The Republican plan now is to levy import duties for protection and increase the revenue with internal taxes.

Indianapolis Journal (Rep.): Senators Allison and Aldrich, than whom there is no better authority in congress on the tariff question, say the bill as it stands will raise enough revenue, and the presumption is it will afford adequate protection to American industries. This means, of course, as the bill stands, but it remains to be seen what changes it will undergo in the senate.

Chicago Record (Ind.): It is said that Senator Jones of Nevada will support the bill, he having secured some concessions that are regarded as of special value to the Pacific coast. But what he has secured that will compensate for an increase of duty on coal and the placing of Hawaiian sugar on the dutiable list is not clear from a casual glance at the bill. Possibly the duties on wool and lumber will be of some advantage to Montana, Washington, Oregon and California, but such benefits will inure rather to the advantage of certain classes than to that of the entire people on the Pacific slope.

Chicago Post (Rep.): There are, of course defects in the bill, and the senate will doubtless insist upon suitable amendments. The reciprocity provisions should be reinserted and the sugar schedule should be made somewhat more satisfactory to the consumers. The tax on tea is of doubtful expediency, while, on the other hand, the increased tax on beer is not open to serious criticism. The rejection of the retroactive clause is commendable, as is also the removal of the tax on works of art. In a word, the committee's bill does not seem to err gravely on either side, and there is no reason why the house should not accept it with good grace.

Kansas City Star (Ind.): As was anticipated the measure has been greatly altered from its original form. The provision for a discriminating duty on sugars imported from bounty-paying countries, the retroactive clause and the hoped-for reciprocity feature have been stricken out. The tax on beer and other fermented liquors is wisely increased to $1.41 a barrel of thirty-one gallons. The present rate is $1. A duty of 1½ cents a pound is placed on hides, and 10 cents a pound on tea, the beer and tea tax to expire by limitation on Jan. 1, 1900. Coal is put on the dutiable list and the tax on lead is increased to 1½ cents per pound. Though the measure is still exorbitant in its rates and odious in its provisions, it is nevertheless, an improvement on the Dingley bill as it passed the house.

SPONGES TO BE RAISED.

Oyster, sponge and lobster raising will be begun at Provincetown, Mass., in a few days by persons who have bought a large tract of land for the purpose. The company has been formed by well-known capitalists of this state, who await with interest the first crop. If satisfactory results are obtained more money will be invested in the enterprise, says the New York Sun.

The business of breeding oysters and lobsters differs here from that at most other breeding spots, as the local generating and propagating places will be entirely landlocked. At the eastern limit of this township is East Harbor, a wide and shallow pond, one mile and three-quarters long and about half a mile wide, which will become the principal breeding spot. The pond waters have become almost fresh since the separation of sea and harbor, and it is the purpose of the breeders to let in sea water only as occasion demands.

The leading man of the company is William Hatch, a young Englishman, who has made the subject of fishes, mollusks, sea plants and fish food his life study. Not only native or domestic, but imported oysters will be propagated at the hatchery. Each kind will be kept in its special quarters. An electrical plant will be used in connection with the other machinery. One hundred men are expected to be employed on the grounds before next autumn, and this number will probably be increased largely in 1898. The work of building the first breeding house and a cottage for the superintendent and assistants has begun.

BARLEY-RAISING A SIN.

The brewing of malt and distillation of alcohol are and long have been regarded as very wicked by many people in Maine.

But down in the big Aroostook country the farmers, or a portion of them, are actually up in arms against a proposition to increase their prosperity by the cultivation of barley as a crop, says the Hartford Times. Frank Jones, of Portsmouth, N. H., who uses a vast amount of barley in his breweries, and who is also very largely interested in Maine, conceived the idea that it would be a good plan to have enough barley for his use produced on the fertile plains of Aroostook instead of sending to Canada for most of what he uses, as he has to do now. The secretary of the state board of agriculture and the state land agent thought the idea a most admirable one. An arrangement was made whereby Mr. Jones, at his own expense, sent several carloads of barley into the Aroostook region, and Land Agent Oak undertook to supervise its distribution among the farmers.

One would have supposed that the tillers of the soil would have been grateful for such aid and opportunity as were thus gratuitously offered to them. But they were not. Far from it. Instead of meeting with gratitude and commendation, the state's agent has had to face what is described as "a storm of opposition." The Aroostook grangers are up in arms against barley and barley-raising. The members of the Houlton Grange have formally condemned barley-raising for beer-making purposes, and as no farmer can be absolutely certain that, if he raises barley and sells it, it will not be used for the manufacture of malt, it is obvious that they have practically pledged themselves not to raise any barley, except for their own use. It is asserted that the grangers in every town in the county have joined the county temperance league in "a crusade" against what was intended to be a beneficent project. The clergymen have joined in the hue and cry against the grain.

GAMBLING ON THE AVENUE.

New York World: Midnight on Eighth avenue. The roar of the Saturday night traffic had ceased and only here and there a fakir lingered with the hope of catching some belated customer.

In a spacious and brilliantly lighted room, shaded by a cigar store in front, sat two men absorbed in cards. The elder of the two had the hard inscrutable features that belonged to the professional gambler, and a heavy shain and Alaskan diamond pin proved him a successful one.

The other was two or three years younger—almost a youth in years—and showed by his delicately moulded face and nervous manner that the scene was strange to him.

"What do you do?" said the elder in hard tones, as he saw the younger hesitate.

"I'll open it for ten," said the youth, with the nervous excitement of one who held two pair.

"Ten better," said the elder, with the air of one who is running a bluff.

The youth's face grew deathly pale as he slid in five whites and a red, and his hand trembled when he saw the elder take two cards. The youth took but one.

"Do your betting," said the elder in the same hard tones as before.

"One chip," faltered the youth.

"Raise you ten," said the elder.

Again the youth grew pale as he saw the bet and called.

"What have you got?" asked the elder, fending upon his antagonist a pair of piercing eyes.

"A queen full."

"Four deuces here," said the elder, as he laid down his hand, with the jack of hearts carefully covering the center spot in the tray of diamonds.

"Ruined! Ruined!" moaned the youth, as he rose from the table and staggered through the door.

"How much are you ahead, Sharkey?" asked the proprietor when the youth had gone.

"One dollar and seventeen cents," said Sharkey, for it was indeed he, the most desperate and daring gambler on the avenue.

FRENCH & BASSETT.

SPANKING AN ELEPHANT.

Did you ever see an elephant spanked? Scarcely, for they don't do such things in this country, but they do in India, says the New York Journal. Capt. Martin of the British army, stationed at Campbellpore, vouches for this story. Elephant Abdul (No. 15) was on trial for killing his keeper, Syce Ramboucles, by picking him up by the legs and crushing his skull against a tree.

The president of the court-martial was Maj. Cameron of the Thirty-fourth Hagras native infantry. He read the charge, and then witnesses proved that Abdul was guilty as charged. The president then sentenced the culprit to fifty lashes and to two years' imprisonment.

Two elephants led Abdul to an open space and, in the presence of the whole battery, the punishment began. The culprit trumpeted in fear and made an unearthly noise.

There were fourteen elephants on one side and the officers and men of the battery on the other three. In the center of this hollow square stood Lalla (No. 1), the begger, and the prisoner. The latter was chained by the four legs to as many heavy iron pegs, and could not move.

Fastened to Lalla's trunk was an immense cable chain. When all was ready, the major gave the word, and down came the chain with a resounding whack. Abdul roared for all he was worth. Fifty times was the operation repeated, and then Abdul was taken to a compound, where he remained a prisoner for two years.

CURIOUS PLANTS.

Cannibal Tree, Grapple Plant, and Vegetable Python.

Three of the most dangerous of vegetative plants in the world are the "cannibal tree" of Australia, the "death" or "grapple plant" of South Africa, and the "vegetable python" of New Zealand, says the Los Angeles Herald.

The "cannibal tree" grows up in the shape of a huge pineapple, and attains a height of eleven feet. It has a series of broad, board-like leaves, growing in a fringe at the apex, which forcibly brings to mind a gigantic Central American agave; and these board-like leaves, from ten to twelve feet in the smaller specimens and from fifteen to twenty feet in the larger, hang to the ground and are easily strong enough to bear the weight of a man of 140 pounds or more. In the ancient times this tree was worshipped by the native savages under the name of the "devil tree," a part of the interesting ceremony being the sacrifice of one of their number to it's all too-ready embrace. The victim to be sacrificed was driven up the the leaves of the tree to the apex, and the instant the so-called "pistils" of the monster were touched the leaves would fly together like a trap, crushing the life out of the intruder. In this way the tree would hold its victim until every particle of flesh would disappear from his bones.

The "grapple plant" is a prostrate herb, growing in South Africa. Its flowers are purple and shaped like the English foxglove. Its fruit has formidable hooks, which, by clinging to any passer-by, is conveyed to situations where its seed may find suitable conditions for growth. Sir John Lubbock says it has been known to kill lions.

The "vegetable python," which is known to the naturalist as the clusia or fig, is the strangler of trees. The seeds of the clusia, being provided with a pulp and very pleasant to the tropical birds which feed thereon, are carried from tree to tree and deposited on the branches. Here germination begins. The leafy stem slowly rises upward, while the roots flow, as it were, down the trunk until the soil is reached. Here and there they branch, changing their course according to the direction of any obstructions met with. Meanwhile from these rootlets leafy branches have been developed, which, pushing themselves through the canopy above, get into the light, and erroneously accelerate their growth. Now a metamorphosis takes place! For the hitherto soft aerial roots begin to harden and spread wider and wider, throwing out side branches, which flow into and amalgamate with each other until the whole tree trunk is bound in a series of irregular living hoops. From this time on it is a struggle of life and death between the forest giant and the entwining clusia. Like an athlete the tree tries to expand and burst its fetters, causing the bark to bulge between every interlacing; but success and freedom are not for the captive tree, for the monster clusia has made its bands very numerous and wide. Not allowed expansion, the tree soon withers and dies, and the strangler is soon expanded into a great bush, almost as large as the mass of branches and foliage it has effaced. It is truly a tragedy in the world of vegetation.

The evening paper is always carefully read, especially in the home circle, and is therefore the best advertising medium.

DIFFERENT NOW.

Washington Star: Oh, love! Oh, rapture! Two years ago he came out of the West to Washington, as many do, with his bonnie, bonnie bride, and there was nothing on earth too good for her.

He watched her as an eagle watches its young, and he stood up between her and every blast that blew.

He got up early in the morning to ransack the dictionary for new adjectives descriptive of his joy, and he was unsparing in his condemnation of lexicographers who were so poor in language.

He came to Washington in the glorious time of spring, and he reveled in all the luxuries of the most beautiful capital city in the world.

He paid as much as $30 a day at the hotel where he stopped with the dearest object on earth.

And he stayed there a whole week at those rates, not to mention incidentals.

Last week at the same hotel, a man arrived and registered "H. J. Blank & w." It was not even "& W."

When the clerk took a second look at the arrival recognized him as the gentleman of two years ago.

"Ah," he said, with the hospitable effusiveness of all well-regulated hotel clerks, "how do you do? Haven't seen you for some time. You had a great time when you were here last. I presume you will want the same quarters you had before? Kind of a souvenir, don't you know."

He didn't seem to be particularly pleased by the manner of the clerk.

"What's the price of room and board?" he said crisply.

"Three dollars a day and up," and the clerk spoke in a disconsolate tone.

"Nothing lower than that?"

"That's the lowest."

"Give us that," said the guest, reaching for his satchel. "It's no siem," he added as he moved away with the bell boy, "that because a man's a fool once he's a fool all the time.

Subscribers to The Evening Herald who do not get their paper regularly will please promptly report the matter at once to this office. It is the intention to have The Herald delivered promptly and regularly.

DURRANT

A Sailor Convict's Confession May Save Him From the Gallows.

John Rosenberg Swears He and Not Durrant Killed Blanche Lamont.

Claims He Was Paid $700 By a Stranger For the Murder.

San Francisco, Cal., May 14.—Theodore Durrant, through his attorneys, will ask Governor Budd today to pardon him on the ground that the real murderer of Blanche Lamont has at last confessed his crime.

The lawyers declare that they have not been hoaxed, nor is it their purpose to impose upon the executive. They insist that in the person of John Rosenberg, a convict at San Quentin prison, they have discovered the man who is guilty of the horrors of Emmanuel church.

John Rosenberg has made a sworn confession, before a notary public and in the presence of several witnesses, that he killed Blanche Lamont at the instigation of a stranger, and in consideration of the payment of $700 for his bloody work.

It is with this sensation that the attorneys will strengthen their case at Sacramento today. The story and its details is one of the most remarkable that has developed in the long case.

Rosenberg is a Russian sailor, and arrived in this city on a sailing vessel from Hamburg, Germany, during the last week of March, 1895, or on the first day of April. He is now serving a term for horse stealing, and appears to be sane.

KENTUCKY'S SENATE.

Red Hot Time With a Prospect of Bloodshed.

Frankfort, May 14.—A wild scene occurred in the senate today. It was over an attempt of the fused gold Democrats and Republicans to force through a bill providing for putting one name, under two different devices, on the state election ballots. The silver Democrats though in the minority outgeneralled the opposition, got one of their number, Senator Goebel, in the chair, pending an appeal, and adjourned the senate. The appeal was from the ruling of the regular Republican president, who counted a quorum present although not voting.

The majority refused to stand adjourned on the announcement of the speaker pro tem. President Worthington was urged back into the chair. "Falsehood" and "indecency" were the words hurled between Stephenson and Goebel, who seemed about to draw weapons. Men had to get between the president and Bronson, but the president finally declared the senate adjourned because the Democratic clerks, who left on the first announcement of adjournment, "would not do their duty" as he expressed it. The fight gfrom this on will be against any quorum till the end of the session, and if the president main counts a quorum trouble is expested.

INDIA'S RELIEF CORN.

Tied Up in New York For Want of a Vessel.

New York, May 14.—No arrangements have as yet been made for forwarding the 15,000 tons of corn stored in Brooklyn warehouses to the plague-stricken districts of India. It is a mistake to suppose that this is a matter which rests with the custom house authorities. Six weeks ago congress authorized the secreary of the navy to charter a steamship of American registry to convey the contributions of foodstuffs to India. The contributions comprised chiefly wheat, buckwheat, barley and rye, which were sold and with the proceeds corn was bought. When congressional authority to hire a vessel was granted the contributions amounted to about 4000 tons.

Daniel W. Hawthorne, the deputy collector, in charge of the main civil custom house, reported to the secretary of the navy that a vessel could be procured to carry the grain for $10 a ton. A rapid accumulation of grain made it necessary for a larger vessel, but one could not be found. There is no American vessel available that will hold 15,000 tons. The only vessel that will hold so large a cargo is the Hamburg-American line steamship Pennsylvania. The thing to be done, apparently, as the secretary of the navy is not empowered to engage more than one vessel, is to see if the British authorities will not provide a vessel to take the larger part of the corn, while an American vessel takes the remainder.

EARTHQUAKES IN AUSTRALIA.

London, May 14.—A dispatch from Melbourne, Victoria, says no fewer than ninety earthquake shocks have been felt in South Australia during the last three days. The subterranean disturbances were particularly severe at Kingston, where buildings were damaged, and the inhabitants are living in tents for safety.

OLD BANKERS SENTENCED.

Marion, Ill., May 14.—After being out eighteen hours the jury in the case of Col. William S. Brown and W. P. Bruner, indicted for the embezzlement of money deposited in their bank at Metropolis, prior to its failure two years ago, brought in a verdict of guilty, and fixed the penalty at one year in the penitentiary and a fine of $400 each. Great sympathy is expressed for the defendants on account of their old age, 70 and 82 years. A motion for a new trial was made.

TO RAISE THE NORMAN.

Capt. Carlos D. Myers, of Cleveland, who owns a diving box of his own design, is preparing an expedition to recover the wreck of the steamer Norman, which was sunk with a cargo of coal in collision with the Canadian steamer Jack, now the Bothnia. The accident occurred during the month of August, 1895. The wreck is thought to lie in 140 or 145 feet of water, but with the aid of modern facilities Capt. Myers expects that he will find no difficulty in recovering the vessel. Capt. Myers will hire a small steamer, and if nothing prevents, he will be on his way to Presque Isle by June 1. Capt. Myers' apparatus can be sunk to a depth of 200 feet.

A MENACE TO VESSELS.

While passing through the new American Sault lock last week the steel steamer Mesaba took a sheer and suffered damage by coming in contact with an oak fender which has been placed on the face of the north wall at the entrance to the lock. These timbers are placed longitudinally a short distance above the water line, and vesselmen say they are a source of constant danger. In their present position the timbers prevent the use of a boat's fenders in case of a sudden sheer, as the fenders catch on the ends of the timbers, tip up and ride on top of them instead of remaining between the boat's side and the timber and thus serving as a protection. Vesselmen claim that the timbers should have been placed as follows: |—|. This would enable the fender strakes of the boats to serve as a protection to the hull when coming in contact with the timbers, and also facilitate the use if the fenders.

CHEAP COAL.

Causes a Reduction Among Colorado Miners.

Leadville, Col., May 14.—Four hundred coal miners marched over to the Rex mine today, took Superintendent Hutchinson out of the office and gave him a severe beating. After this a number of hot heads proposed to wreck the mine, but better counsel prevailed and the men were persuaded to go away. The trouble arose over a contract that was let by the Rex people to twenty-five miners to handle the output of the mines. These men agreed to sell coal to Denver wholesalers at $1 per ton. This is cheaper than the coal can be put in cars by any other mine in the district. When the other miners heard of this they became very much excited, and a mob gathered on hills near the town. Then the assault was made on Mr. Hutchinson.

BOAR AGAINST TIGER.

A gentleman recently traveling in India describes a fight he witnessed while there between a wild boar and a savage tiger, says the St. Louis Post Dispatch. The fight was pulled off in a pit ten yards in diameter, with a sanded floor and sixteen-foot walls. Several trap doors served as entrances through which to introduce the animals. A trail of grain through one of these doors served to decoy a 2-year-old boar into the arena. A tiger, nearly full grown, that for a year had lived an inoffensive existence in a cage, was forced down a plane from another door and the two beasts were together.

The tiger wanted to get away. His head hung down like a whipped dog's and his tail drooped. The fight was apparently going to be a fizzle, when the natives began to throw things at the tiger. Then the beast began to growl. Suddenly the boar dived at him. The tiger leaped into the air and the boar rushed underneath and went half a dozen feet beyond. It puzzled the boar immediately to have the tiger get away from him in that way, but he turned and made for his antagonist again. Three times the tiger leaped above the boar, but the fourth time the boar threw up his head and the tiger got a rip with the tusks that drew blood. Then the cat turned on the pig, grabbed him by the nape of the neck and shook him as a schoolmaster shakes a small boy. This done, the tiger dropped the boar and walked away. The tiger had merely intended to punish the little beast.

The boar got his breath and recovered somewhat from his dizziness and, facing the tiger again, made for him just as if the tiger wasn't several times bigger. The tiger eluded the charge easily. Then a trap door was opened and the tiger bolted through it at full speed, leaving the boar wild for a fight.

F. T. GATES

President of the Rockefeller Road and Mines Arrived Here Today.

Accompanying Him Was President Harper of the Chicago University.

Left Immediately For the Range to Spend a Few Days.

Attached to the Northern Pacific train from Ashland, that arrived in Duluth this morning at 11:15, was the private car of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railroad company. It had as passengers F. T. Gates, president of the Rockefeller company; E. M. Harper, president of the university of Chicago, and W. W. Huntington, a once mysterious Rockefeller agent in Duluth, and now bearing the title of general auditor of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railroad company. The train had no sooner come to a stop in the Union depot shed than a Missabe road engine and coach hooked onto the car and, in a few minutes, pulled out with it. Mr. Huntington left the party here, and it was joined by John T. McBride, general manager of the Missabe road, and William J. Olcott, superintendent of the Consolidated mines.

The party will spend two or three days in looking over the mines on the range, when it will return to Duluth, where Mr. Gates and Mr. Harper will remain a few days before returning East. Mr. Gates' visit to Duluth has been looked forward to with much interest for some time, as it is expected that it may be the forerunner of steps of great importance to the iron industry and railroad development of this section. A number of plans of the companies, of which he is the executive head, that have been under consideration for several months, have been held in abeyance, waiting his final judgment, and it is probable that before he leaves Duluth his decision will be reached. His object in visiting the range is to learn by personal observation the necessity for certain suggested improvements, changes and policies connected with the operation of the road and the mines, and to determine finally as to the course to be pursued.

President Harper's trip is one of recreation, and has no business significance. He is more or less closely associated with John D. Rockefeller, whose liberal contributions of $7,500,000 to the university of Chicago, have naturally given him an interest in his patron's great enterprises in St. Louis county.

THE INMAN TUG CASES.

All Questions But One Were Settled Yesterday.

All of the contested points in the Inman tug cases were cleared up yesterday before United States court adjourned, except one in the matter of the steamer Belle P. Cross. In this case a question somewhat different from those in any of the other cases arose. F. W. Sullivan, on behalf of the largest claimant, had filed an intervening libel after the time had expired, an order allowing him to do so being obtained from the court. In the meantime the machinery in the Cross had been transferred to the tug Tomlinson, an appraisal had been made and the mortgagees filed a bond for $2000, the amount of the appraisal. Mr. Sullivan asked the court to issue a monition for the rearrest of the machinery. The clerk refused and was ordered to show cause why he should not issue it. The question was argued yesterday. Judge Lochren decided to hold the matter in abeyance for the attorneys to ascertain whether or not the libelant represented by Mr. Sullivan is entitled to participate in the distribution of the $2000. If it is found that he is not then the court will order the issue of the monition as requested. Judge Lochren's position was that the claim is a legal one and ought to have a chance to participate in the distribution.

Shannon Near the Top.

The examination of the applicants for the cadetship at West Point, which began at St. Cloud on Wednesday, was concluded at noon yesterday. The result will not be announced until Saturday. The St. Cloud Times last evening had the following:

"There is a rumor that James A. Shannon, of Duluth, is well up towards the top notch. At least that is the way the candidates are figuring it out. They say that he stood 99 in two points out of the six. Whether this surmise is correct will not be known until Saturday, as the examiners will not give out any statement until that day. They have not even completed looking over the papers."

James A. Shannon is a son of Alderman C. E. Shannon.

Municipal Court Jurors.

The next term of the municipal court will begin Monday. The following have been drawn as jurors: C. J. Dewey, J. A. Waugh, M. Norris, C. Melby, F. A. Ball, C. E. Willoughby, Ole Olson, W. A. Hicken, A. G. Osman, A. J. Miller, J. W. Fee, W. Lynn, C. T. Clement, J. W. Rowley, Q. J. Bunting, A. C. Volk, F. Z. Cullen, M. O'Donnell, J. W. Miller, G. J. Mallory, Scott Cash, A. Ferguson, C. C. Wieland, John Harris.

Burial Without Permit.

It has come to the ears of the health department that among the poorer and more ignorant classes burials are sometimes made without a permit. The last case to come to light is that of the interment of two children of the family of John Anderson, residing at 1012½ East Seventh street, both of whom died of diphtheria recently. The department is after the undertaker and sexton.

OLD RESIDENT DEAD.

John C. Hunter Died Last Evening of Heart Disease.

John C. Hunter, one of Duluth's oldest residents, died at 7:30 o'clock last evening, at his residence, at Superior street and Nineteenth avenue east. The immediate cause of death was heart disease, from which he had been suffering for some time. For the past six months he had been battling constantly with the disease. During a part of the winter he had been in California, in the hope that a change of air would prove beneficial. He came home about two weeks ago.

Mr. Hunter was 67 years old. He came to Duluth from Waseca, Minn., in 1869, and engaged in trade on Superior street, just east of the Masonic Temple, his being the first general store in town. A few years later he organized the Duluth Savings bank, which was afterwards reorganized as the American Exchange bank. This was the only bank here that weathered the panic of 1873. Mr. Hunter was very public spirited, and took an active interest in politics at one time. He served on the state board of prison managers, to which he was appointed by Governor Merriam, and was a member of the common council. He was the first Republican candidate for mayor in 1870, but was beaten by a combination. He was a life-long member of the Presbyterian church.

Two sons and four daughters survive Mr. Hunter. They are Mrs. A. R. Macfarlane, Mrs. D. A. Petre, James C. Hunter, cashier of the American Exchange bank; Ronald M. Hunter, who is in the real estate business; Miss Margaret Hunter and Miss Bessie Hunter. Mrs. E. P. Towne, another daughter, died last fall.

Mr. Hunter's circle of friends was very wide, and he was of a fine business capacity and genial qualities. His death will bring great sorrow to his friends.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence, 905 East Superior street.

Will Get After Them.

The mayor has heard that there is a good deal of business in the pawnbrokerage line being done on the side these hard times by those who are engaged in other lines of business, the irregular brokers paying no license fee. Upon receiving the intelligence, he at once took the warpath. He had the officials of the police department on the carpet this morning, and the latter were instructed to rout out the unlicensed dealers, if any were found, and make an example of them.
